Although America at times has faltered and made mistakes, Gen. Westmoreland says that "when one weighs the good and the bad, there can only be one conclusion: The vision of our Founding Fathers has become a reality. We should think about that. We should think about it when cynical, petty people mock our ideals and sneer at our sacrifices; when they seek to diminish the bedrock values of our society by calling them cliches.

"Patriotism demands commitment—commitment to the principle that for every right there is a duty. Without the practice of that precept by our citizens and institutions our democracy simply cannot survive."

Veteran's Day provides time for a salute from a grateful nation, yet we can not forget George Washington's alert that eternal vigilance is the price of liberty.

Dominic DiFrancesco, outgoing national commander of the American Legion, warns that "We can not start short-changing our armed forces just because statues of Lenin have been melted down.... The so-called 'peace dividend' is peace, not a weakened U.S. military that can't keep it. And we must keep our national commitment to the men and women who carry the ultimate burden of war and peace."

What The "New Vikings" Miss Is A Touch Of Class

Resurgence of the Minnesota Vikings football team under new coach Dennis Green is heartening to the Vikings' fans who have long contended that the personnel did not perform up to its abilities. Green seems to have put the word "team" back in the players' vocabulary and it shows in the swarming defense and successful offense. These are all encouraging signs.

As the season rolls along the comfort factor among the players seems to be building. Receivers and running backs are actually attempting to make—and sometimes even making—blocks on defensive players. Solo tackles are a rarity. Players are gaining respect the old-fashioned way—they are earning it. Success breeds success and the confidence level is growing.

The predictable offense is no longer predictable but plays that work are repeated with good effect. Runners seem aware of the direction in which yardage is gained and finish their runs in that direction. This is a pretty good team with a pretty good system that has the potential to continue to improve.

What the Vikings of today lack that was a hallmark of the fabled "Purple People Eaters" is a touch of class—an ability to simply do great things on the field and let the acts speak for themselves. We can't imagine Carl Eller, Alan Page, Gary Larsen or Jim Marshall doing a little super dude waddle of self-exultation after sacking an opposing quarterback or stuffing a third down and short yardage run—and they had an ample number of opportunities to do so. They didn't have to call attention to their greatness by showboating.

Perhaps Coach Bud Grant had an influence on that behavior. He didn't seem to be much of a believer in grandstanding as a motivational tool. Coach Green may look at it differently, or maybe he is biding his time before clamping down on the silly in-your-face spikes, endzone choreography, ceremonial dances around fallen quarterbacks, etc., etc.

We like the way the present Vikings play hard and perform well. They are gifted athletes with outstanding physical ability. We can understand them responding spontaneously to the glory of the moment. But the "how great I art" struts and swaggers cheapen and detract from the performance. Today's Vikings could learn from the greats of Vikings teams in the past how to play well and win with dignity. They are learning how to win. Now they need to develop a bit of restraint that translates into a touch of class.

Letters To The Editor and Corrections

Letters To The Editor: The Times encourages written responses to editorial comment or letters with original thoughts or ideas of general interest. Letters should be intended for publication in The Times exclusively; letters sent to multiple publications will generally not be accepted. Right is reserved to edit letters for length and clarity and to reject letters deemed to be promotional in nature or in poor taste.

Letters Must Be Signed: All letters must be signed and contain an address or phone number of the writer so authenticity can be verified. Signatures must appear on letters published. The Times believes that there is greater credibility in letters signed in print and will no longer withhold names of writers from publication.

Responses Invited: Letters critical of individuals or other entities may be shown to those individuals or representatives of those entities in advance of publication with an invitation by The Times for response in the same issue as the original letter.

Corrections: If an error is made in news or advertising publication, The Times encourages readers to call it to our immediate attention at 881-4460. We will attempt to correct the error or clarify the misunderstanding in the next issue.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

I am a concerned citizen of the United States of America. As our country gets older every day, it seems we are going backward in our social development. I'm a student at the University of North Dakota where a petition is going around to sign if you want the Sioux nickname changed.

This brings a lot of questions to mind. What is freedom? How far can we go in what we say or do without offending someone? Do traditions matter any more? Were our ancestors wrong in the things they did?

We have courts, school boards and councils all over this great country deciding on items that have been around for ages. These items consist of banning Bibles from schools, changing nicknames, who found America first, abortion and the rights of people.

My purpose for this letter isn't to tell anyone what to do, but to inform you of the things that are going on in the world today. As a young person who is living in this world, I can tell you that it's scary to look into the future. Before you sign a petition or vote on an issue, stop and think of the future. These things have been around for over 200 years, and what gives us the profound knowledge to change these things? The price of our freedom is going to affect the price of another person's freedom.

Sincerely,
Todd R. Peterson

The People's Party

"The electoral vote of five states and the balance of power in the United States senate is glory enough for any new party that makes its initial bow to the American people. The People's party is bound to become the party of the toilers and its supremacy is assured. It will grow and thrive and the reign of gold will die."

IN MEMORIAM
In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Truman Hemmestvedt, who passed away November 9, 1989.
Deep in our hearts you are today remembered,
Sweet, happy memories cling 'round your name,
True hearts that loved you with deepest affection
Always will love you in death just the same.
We often sit and think of you, when we are alone,
For memory is the only friend, that grief can call its own.
Sadly missed by wife, son and daughters

PUBLIC NOTICE

The CITY OF THIEF RIVER FALLS Water Department announces that the maximum limit for Turbidity in drinking water was exceeded during the month of October 1992.

Turbidity is caused by the presence of finely suspended particles such as clay, sand, or organic matter in the water. Turbidity can be a problem if it interferes with chloramine disinfection. However, the high turbidity level did not create a health hazard because the Water Department is able to maintain effective levels of chloramine in disinfection.

The Thief River Falls Water Purification Plant is currently in the construction stage of a 6.7 million dollar expansion and remodeling project. This project will enable compliance with the water quality requirements of the 1986 Amendments to the Safe Drinking Water Act.

Please be assured that the water is safe to drink. Any citizen seeking additional information should contact Allen J. Lanna at the Water Purification Plant, phone number 681-3809.

IN MEMORY OF HANNAH KISCH
We wish to thank our many friends and relatives, who by their acts of kindness and sympathy helped to lighten our burden of sorrow.
Dear Mother, you are not forgotten
Though on earth you are no more
Still in memory you are with us,
As you always were before.
Lovingly remembered by her four children and their spouses

CARD OF THANKS
I would like to thank Doctor Patel and all the nurses on 2nd floor, also thanks to the cooks and cleaning ladies for the wonderful care I received while a patient at Northwest Medical Center. Also thanks to Pastor Smerek and Ada and all my family and friends for visiting me and all the phone calls and cards and flowers I received. Thanks again.
God Bless you all

In Re: Estate of Arthur E. Lull, Deceased.

ORDER AND NOTICE OF HEARING ON PETITION FOR PROBATE OF WILL AND APPOINTMENT OF PERSONAL REPRESENTATIVE IN SUPERVISED ADMINISTRATION AND NOTICE TO CREDITORS

TO ALL INTERESTED PERSONS AND CREDITORS

It is Ordered and Notice is hereby given that on the 30th day of November, 1992, at 10:30 o'clock A.M., a hearing will be held in the above named Court at Thief River Falls, Minnesota, for the formal probate of an instrument purporting to be the will of the above named decedent, dated March [illegible], and for appointment of Myrtle [illegible], whose address is Apt. [illegible], 2nd Avenue E., Duluth, MN [illegible], as personal representative of the estate of the above named decedent in supervised administration, and that any objections thereto must be filed with the Court. That, if proper, and no objections are filed, said personal representative will be appointed to administer the estate, to collect all assets, pay all legal debts, claims, taxes and expenses, and sell real and personal property, and do all necessary acts for the estate. Upon completion of the administration, the representative shall file a final account for the allowance and shall distribute the estate to the persons thereunto entitled as ordered by the Court, and close the estate.

Notice is further given that ALL CREDITORS having claims against said estate are required to present the same to said personal representative or to the Court Administrator within four months after the date of this notice or said claims will be barred.

In Re: Estate of Lester J. Roos, Deceased.

ORDER AND NOTICE OF HEARING ON PETITION FOR APPOINTMENT OF PERSONAL REPRESENTATIVE IN SUPERVISED ADMINISTRATION AND NOTICE TO CREDITORS

TO ALL INTERESTED PERSONS AND CREDITORS

It is Ordered and Notice is hereby given that on the 30th day of November, 1992, at 10:30 o'clock A.M., a hearing will be held in the above named Court at Thief River Falls, Minnesota, for appointment of Palmer G. Roos, whose address is 725 North Sixth Street, Grand Forks, ND 58203, as personal representative of the estate of the above named decedent in supervised administration, and that any objections thereto must be filed with the Court. That, if proper, and no objections are filed, said personal representative will be appointed to administer the estate, to collect all assets, pay all legal debts, claims, taxes and expenses and sell real and personal property, and do all necessary acts for the estate. Upon completion of the administration, the representative shall file a final account for the allowance and shall distribute the estate to the persons thereunto entitled as ordered by the Court, and close the estate.

Notice is further given that ALL CREDITORS having claims against said estate are required to present the same to said personal representative or to the Court Administrator within four months after the date of this notice or said claims will be barred.

Dated: November 4, 1992

PUBLIC NOTIFICATION OF FmHA's FINDING OF NO SIGNIFICANT ENVIRONMENTAL IMPACT

The Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) has received preapplications for financial assistance from Briarwood Limited Partnership and Pioneer Court Limited Partnership. The specific elements of these proposed actions are to construct a 24-unit general occupancy rental housing project and a 24-unit elderly rental housing project. These projects will be located on a site in the southeastern part of the City of Thief River Falls. The sites are located on part of Government Lot 1, Section 2 and on part of Government Lot 1, Section 3, Township 153 N. Range 43 W. of the 5th Principal Meridian.

FmHA has assessed the potential environmental impacts of this proposed action and has determined that it will not significantly affect the quality of the human environment. Therefore, FmHA will not prepare an environmental impact statement for this proposed action.

Any written comments regarding this determination should be provided within fifteen (15) days of this publication to Jerome K. Carlson, District Director, Box 25, Crookston, MN 56716. FmHA will make no further decisions regarding this proposed action during this fifteen-day period. Requests to review the FmHA environmental assessment upon which this determination is based or to receive a copy of it should be directed to Farmers Home Administration, Box 25, Crookston, MN 56716.

SUMMONS

THE STATE OF MINNESOTA TO THE ABOVE-NAMED DEFENDANTS:

You are hereby summoned and required to serve upon the plaintiffs' attorney an Answer to the Complaint which is on file in the office of the Court Administrator of the above named Court, within twenty (20) days after the service of this Summons upon you, exclusive of the day of service. If you fail to do so, judgment by default will be taken against you for the relief demanded in the Complaint.

This action involves, affects or brings in question real property situated in the County of Pennington, State of Minnesota, described as follows, to-wit:

A parcel of land consisting of all that portion of the Northwest Quarter of the Southwest Quarter (NW1/4SW1/4), Section Twenty-two (22), Township One Hundred Fifty-three (153) North, of Range Forty-three (43) West of the Fifth Principal Meridian, Pennington County, Minnesota lying southwest of the following described line:

The NW1/4SW1/4, Sec. 22, Twp. 153, Rge. 43; which lies southwesterly of a line run parallel with the distant 1,250 feet southwesterly of Line 1 described below:

Line 1: Beginning at an iron monument on the south line of said Sec. 22, distant 1,463.80 feet west of the southeast corner thereof; thence run northwesterly at an angle of 42 degrees, 35 minutes, 00 seconds from said south section line (measured from west to north) to an iron monument on the easterly right of way line of Trunk Highway No. 32 as now located and established distant 639.15 feet southerly of its intersection with the centerline of County State Aid Highway No. 7 and there terminating.

The object of this action is to obtain a judgment that plaintiffs are the owners in fee simple, as joint tenants, of the above described real property, and that none of the said defendants have any estate or interest therein or lien thereon.

NOTICE OF HEARING
PLANNING COMMISSION
CITY OF THIEF RIVER FALLS

Notice is hereby given, pursuant to Chapter 11 of the Thief River Falls City Code, that the Planning Commission of the City of Thief River Falls is proposing to amend the "Future Land Use Plan" of the City's Comprehensive Plan. The property proposed to be amended is legally described as all of Blocks One, Two, and Three in Noper's Third Addition to the City of Thief River Falls. The property is located on the north side of First Street West and lies west of Barzen Avenue North.

The City's Comprehensive Plan is a document which represents an ongoing attempt to guide the future development and redevelopment of the City of Thief River Falls in order to create and maintain a desirable environment and to promote the public health, safety, welfare and convenience. The Comprehensive Plan contains, among other things, a Land Use Plan which provides objectives, policies, and growth management plans for different classifications of land uses within the City. This guide is summarized in the form of a map which is entitled "Future Land Use Plan". The policies contained and embodied in the City's Comprehensive Plan are implemented and administered through enforcement of the Zoning Ordinance (Chapter 11 – Land Use Regulation).

The "Future Land Use Plan" presently indicates that Noper's Third Addition be developed for a mixture of single-family residential uses, located in the southerly portion of the Addition, and multi-family residential uses, located at the north ends of the platted cul-de-sacs (streets). Properties to the [illegible] and east of Noper's Third Addition have been developed for commercial uses. The property to the south has been developed as a mobile home park. The property to the west is undeveloped and presently under cultivation.

The Planning Commission will hear testimony concerning the amendment of the "Future Land Use Plan" to indicate that the future land use of Noper's Third Addition be for multi-family residential uses.

Notice is further given, that the Planning Commission will conduct a Hearing on the proposed amendment of the Comprehensive Plan's "Future Land Use Plan" at 7:00 P.M. on Monday, November 23, 1992 in the City Council Chambers, City Auditorium. All persons wishing to comment on the Proposed Amendment will have the option to be heard at this time. Persons who wish to submit written comments prior to the Hearing or who have questions should address them to the Office of the Community Development Director, City Auditorium, P.O. Box 528, Thief River Falls, MN 56701 or telephone 218-681-2500.

NOTICE OF HEARING
PLANNING COMMISSION
CITY OF THIEF RIVER FALLS

Notice is hereby given, pursuant to Chapter 11 of the Thief River Falls City Code, that the Planning Commission of the City of Thief River Falls is proposing to amend the "Future Land Use Plan" of the City's Comprehensive Plan. The property proposed to be amended is legally described as all of Blocks One and Two, and Lots 1 - 6 in Block Six of Riverside Addition to the City of Thief River Falls.

Blocks One and Two of Riverside Addition are located on the northside of Eighth Street East lying between Dewey Avenue and the Thief River. Block Six of Riverside Addition abuts the west side of Dewey Avenue lying between Seventh Street East and Eighth Street East.

The City's Comprehensive Plan is a document which represents an ongoing attempt to guide the future development and redevelopment of the City of Thief River Falls in order to create and maintain a desirable environment and to promote the public health, safety, welfare and convenience. The Comprehensive Plan contains among other things, a Land Use Plan which provides objectives, policies and growth management plans for different classifications of land uses within the City. This guide is summarized in the form of a map which is entitled "Future Land Use Plan". The policies contained and embodied in the City's Comprehensive Plan are implemented and administered through enforcement of the Zoning Ordinance (Chapter 11 – Land Use Regulation).

The "Future Land Use Plan" presently indicates that the above described properties be developed in the future for commercial uses. The original intent of the Planning Commission was that development of these properties for lighter, commercial uses would provide an appropriate transition between the industrial area to the west and the mobile home park to the north and to the single-family residential area lying south of Eighth Street and east of Dewey Avenue.

The Planning Commission will hear testimony concerning the amendment of the "Future Land Use Plan" to indicate that the future land use of Blocks One and Two and Lots 1 - 6 in Block Six of Riverside Addition be for medium to high density residential uses.

Notice is further given, that the Planning Commission will conduct a Hearing on the proposed amendment of the Comprehensive Plan's "Future Land Use Plan" at approximately 7:15 P.M. on Monday, November 23, 1992, in the City Council Chambers, City Auditorium. All persons wishing to comment on the Proposed Amendment will have the option to be heard at this time. Persons who wish to submit written comments prior to the Hearing or who have questions should address them to the Office of the Community Development Director, City Auditorium, P.O. Gary Rux receives new heart Sunday

Gary Rux of Thief River Falls is doing well in recovery at a Minneapolis hospital following receipt of a heart transplant late Sunday evening and early Monday morning.

His wife Shirley told the Times at about 11 a.m. Tuesday, November 17, that he has been "in and out" of consciousness and writes notes on a board. He is eager to have a ventilator tube removed from his throat so he can talk, she said, and that could be done early this afternoon if his oxygen level stays up and other indicators are positive.

She said plans are to have him up in a chair today in his isolation ward where he is expected to remain until about Friday. He could then be moved to another intensive care area of the hospital for approximately two weeks of recovery before returning to his apartment in the Twin Cities.

Rux has been awaiting a heart transplant for about two years. All that is known of the donor organ is that it was from a male donor.

Rux received notice that a heart was available about 5:45 p.m. Sunday. He went to the hospital where preparation for surgery was started about 7 p.m. and he went into surgery at about 9 p.m. He received his new heart about 10:15 p.m. and was back in his isolation ward bed by 2 a.m.

Shirley, who had just returned Saturday from Minneapolis, was informed by the hospital that she should take her time in getting there because Gary would not be expected out of surgery until about 3 or 4 a.m. She left Thief River Falls with her daughter Taryn and son TJ and with her sister Carol Clark driving. Carol's daughter Kelly also made the trip.

Gary was back in the isolation ward after surgery when they arrived about 3 a.m. While all early indications were that all had gone well with the surgery, some bleeding was detected late Monday morning. He was taken back into surgery for about two hours for repair of a pinhole leak in the aorta and suction removal of blood from the chest cavity.

Since the procedure all has been going well, Shirley Rux said. She noted that Gary's mother Lillian Rux and brother Allen were also at the hospital.

"As of right now everything seems to be going great," Shirley said. "We want to say thank-you, thank-you, thank-you to everyone and ask that they continue their prayers for Gary's recovery."

Jill Tunberg and Alana Stratton of Thief River Falls were among the many craft vendors participating in the 2nd Annual Country Style Bazaar, which was held at the Thief River Falls National Guard Armory last weekend. Jill and Alana had been preparing for this event since last August. The 16th Annual Holiday Fair craft show at the city auditorium and the Mid-November Craft Show at the Eagles will be held this weekend in Thief River Falls.

Hartz Foods to close downtown store Nov. 28

In keeping with its plan to divest itself of corporately-owned retail operations, Hartz Foods in Thief River Falls will close its Ken's Hartz operation in downtown Thief River Falls Falls effective Saturday, November 28. Last day of operation will be Friday, November 27.

"While the downtown store closing will end a nearly 50-year era of a Hartz store in the Horace Avenue and Second Street location," states Hartz Foods president Everett Kompelien, "the company maintains its role as supplier to a number of local independent Hartz store operations. They include Northland Foods, Erl's Market, Amoco 24, Pennington Square and the Arnold Avenue Store.

The Hartz retail grocery operation at Second Street and Horace avenue began with construction of the store building in 1943. It was started by James H. Winjum and Arthur B. Christianson who operated it in partnership from 1949 to 1955 or early 1956. Christianson was injured in an accident in 1955 and sold his interest to his partner a short time later. The store was in turn sold by Winjum to his son James Winjum III.

Dwight Tangquist, who began work in the store as a stock boy, bought the store in 1971 and operated it until 1990 when it was purchased by Hartz Foods. Ev Ault acquired it from Hartz Foods and operated it until earlier this year when it was sold back to the wholesale company. It has been operated as a corporate store since early this fall with Ken Garceau as manager.

Kompelien said that Hartz Foods will now have only two corporately-owned stores remaining—at Ada and Karlstad. The downtown Hartz building will be for sale or rent. The company continues to own Northland Plaza complex at the present time. The Northland Foods store is independently owned. New owner Greg Larson and manager Chad Larson are planning some extensive changes to be announced soon.

Hartz Foods officials said that efforts are being made to assist employees of the Ken's Hartz store to find employment. A number are long-time employees of the business.

Mike Jorstad and Nicole Colbort, first grade students in Jessie Comstock's class at Northrop elementary school received hand-held flags from the 40 et 8 Voyageur 737. All First graders in Pennington county, the Catholic schools in Red Lake Falls and Thief River Falls, and public schools in Plummer and Red Lake Falls received the flags. Jerry Odegaard, Americanism chairman for the organization, said the flags were given to the students so that they might learn to respect and honor the American flag.

NWRDC hosts seminar on downtown

For communities interested in downtown development, the Minnesota Department of Trade and Economic Development (DTED) will hold a seminar on Thursday, November 19, from 1 to 2 p.m. at the Northwest Regional Development Commission offices, 525 Brooks Avenue South in Thief River Falls.

The seminar will feature the Minnesota Main Street program, which has been considered successful in helping communities develop and implement strategies that stimulate local economic development activities.

It will also introduce other programs offered by DTED that focus on downtown development, including the Picture-It-Painted program the Downtowners Network and Minnesota Business Connections.

The seminar is for business owners, representatives of civic organizations and chambers of commerce, youth and seniors, elected officials and other citizens or groups that want to help revitalize their community, particularly the downtown area.

It combines the technical expertise of professionals and consultants with extensive resources of the Department of Trade and Economic Development and the determination and active participation of local citizens to help strengthen the existing assets of the central business district and create a positive environment for existing and potential businesses.

Among other things, the Main Street program helps communities develop strategies to co-exist with large discount stores (located in the community or the surrounding area), identify and take advantage of local assets and develop strategies to attract new businesses and fill vacant buildings.

In addition to the Thief River Falls presentation Thursday from 1 to 2 p.m., the seminar will be offered the same day at the city hall in Warroad from 4 to 5 p.m. and at the First State Bank in Ada from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m.

For more information call Minnesota Main Street at 1-800-657-3858.

Thief River Falls Education Foundation was the recipient of two checks from former Lincoln high school graduating classes at its monthly meeting Thursday, November 12, at the School District 564 service center. In the top photo, foundation executive director Frank Hemerlinck (left) accepts a check from Dick Bjorkman, a director on the foundation board and member of the Class of 1952. In the bottom photo, foundation secretary-treasurer Tom Kays (left) accepts a check from Roger Tunberg, president of the foundation and member of the Class of 1946. Both classes donated funds remaining from class reunions and will become founding members of the organization. Any group or individual can become a founding member of the Thief River Falls Education Foundation and be included on a plaque listing founders by donating $500 or more prior to December 31. At Thursday's meeting the foundation voted to donate $400 in support of local students participating in the Washington Close-Up program, $400 to the Climb Theatre reading training program to be presented locally and $350 to the local Junior Great Books program.

Arctic Lites find gold in Minneapolis

Fifty-one gymnasts, coaches and parents from the Arctic Lites gymnastics club in Thief River Falls traveled to Minneapolis recently to see Olympic gold, silver and bronze medal-winning gymnasts from the 1992 summer Olympic Games in Barcelona and other Olympic and world champion gymnasts perform at the Target Center.

The largest line-up of international champion gymnasts ever to tour this extensively, the group will appear in 30 American cities.

The medal-winning athletes of the '92 Games who performed included American Shannon Miller, winner of five Olympic medals and Vitali Sherbo of the Unified Team, winner of six Olympic gold medals including the all-around. They were the most honored of any athletes at the 1992 Barcelona games.

Norwest bank mortgages up significantly

In Thief River Falls, Norwest Banks originated $4,006,000 for 89 homeowners, according to Roger Reuter, president of the Thief River Falls office. This is 201 per cent greater than the same period in 1991. This allowed many homeowners to purchase homes, reduce their payments and/or the mortgage term consequently saving them thousands of dollars in interest.

The three offices in northwestern Minnesota originated 334 loans, totaling $19,225,000.

The local offices originate loans for Norwest Mortgage which operates in 49 states. Through September, the entire organization closed more than $14 billion in loans.

Michael Strege, regional mortgage manager, reported "While most borrowers are interested in fixed rate terms, interest in adjustable rate mortgages has grown. As of October 13, adjustable rate mortgages were quoted as low as 4-5/8 per cent with no points."

He is a graduate of Iron Dale high school, attended Denver junior college in Colorado and is currently enrolled in the Auto Body department at the North West technical college in Thief River Falls. he is currently employed by Modern Auto Body in Grand Forks, ND.

A February 13 wedding will be held at 7 p.m. at the Calvary Lutheran church in Grand Forks. A reception will follow at the Townhouse Motor Inn in Grand Forks.

Concordia offers parish nurse course

A four-part course to prepare professional nurses for the role of parish nurse will be offered by the Parish Nurse Center of Concordia College, Moorhead.

All sessions of the course will take place on Concordia's campus. Congregations are encouraged to send nurses to this course to begin a parish nurse ministry. A parish nurse is a registered nurse prepared in wholistic ministry to work with a congregation member physically, emotionally and spiritually.

The first session, "The Parish Nurse Role: Integrating Faith and Health Issues," will be February 5 to 6.

Additional session topics and dates are "Wholistic Health and Wellness Concepts for the Parish Nurse," March 5 to 6; The Parish Nurse as a Personal Health Counselor and Advocate," April 2 to 3; and "The Parish Nurse Working with People Across the Life Span," May 21 to 22.

Each class begins on a Friday at 6 p.m. and ends Saturday at 3 p.m. The program is designed to meet the Minnesota Nursing board requirements for 30 contact hours.

The cost of the program is $400 ($250 for each additional nurse from the same congregation). This fee includes text, study materials, lunch and refreshments. Hotel accommodations are available near Concordia Campus.

For more information, contact Cynthia Gustafson, The Parish Nurse Center, Concordia College, 901 S. Eighth St., Moorhead, MN 56562, (218) 299-3976.

... Going to the Dentist

I have to go to the dentist again. I just know it. One of my teeth hurts.

I hate going to the dentist.

I don't hate the dentist, himself, however (especially in case he reads this column).

Really, our dentist is a very nice man. Our dentist smiles a lot and cracks jokes, even when I cannot laugh at his jokes because my mouth is full of instruments and I am quite senseless from nitrous oxide and I cannot feel my tongue any more from the novocaine. I don't think he expects me to laugh at his jokes right at that time, anyway. Maybe he figures he is making me laugh inside and that is enough.

I really hate all of those dental instruments our dentist has in his office. They are so unusual looking and really quite sinister when you look at them closely. There they sit, all shiny and sharp, with strange protuberances and protrusions that appear very menacing to an apprehensive patient with a tender mouth.

Then there is the drill, ah, the drill. Just the thought of it makes my teeth hurt and my head vibrate. I try not to look at it, so I close my eyes, but the vision of it is imprinted on the inner part of my eyelids—forever.

I hate the dentist's chair, too. There is something very intimidating about that chair, what with all the trays and tubes attached to and around it, and the little sink right there at hand—for what purpose, I hate to think. Besides that, I don't like not having my feet firmly planted on the floor, especially when I receive nitrous oxide.

The nitrous oxide is necessary for me, of course. I definitely want to have it. It is called "laughing gas," but it doesn't make me laugh. I feel very strange from it. At first, it makes me rather happy and very relaxed, as if my bones were melting. I think I sometimes take a nap while I am waiting for the dentist to come back to work on me.

After a while, though, it begins to affect me differently. I seem to get a little crabby, sitting there in the dentist's chair with my mouth propped open and full of dentist's fingers, and I start to say strange things, whatever pops into my head, whenever he gets his fingers out of my mouth. Sometimes I am downright rude. I hope he doesn't take offense.

I don't much care for the little bib, either. I feel as though I were somewhat restrained by that little thing strapped around my neck. And, after all, whatever is it there for? What things is he going to do to me that will be so messy that I need a bib?

The dentist even used words that are foreign and horrible-sounding. Normal people simply don't understand all of those fancy dental words, and I suppose, since I am a normal people, that is why most of them sound awful to me. But there are some specific things our dentist can say to me that will really make my blood curdle, like "root canal," "Cavities," "extraction," "gingivitis," "pyorrhea," "periodontal disease." I certainly hope he doesn't say any of those words to me this time.

I notice that while I am writing this column all of my teeth have begun to hurt and my head is aching. I'm really sorry if I have made your teeth hurt and head ache with this column, too. Would you like to join me in taking an aspirin and getting some fresh air?

Dear Friends,

Sometimes we are unable to recover from the loss of a loved one. If, after several months, you feel depression is deepening, you continue to have difficulty sleeping, you are dependent on prescription drugs, or you are tormented by frequent thoughts of suicide - these may be signals that professional help is needed. Consult your clergy, a psychiatrist or psychologist. Never feel that seeking professional help is a sign of weakness. It is a demonstration of inner strength, courage, and determination.

Respectfully,

Belmont Funeral Home

Larry Belmont

Farming changed by revolution in conservation

Environmental Benefits

Richards sees crop residue management as an environmentally friendly [illegible]. Keeping soil in place means less sediment finds its way to rivers, streams and lakes. Nutrients and other important inputs are kept in the fields. And less fuel is burned because tractors make fewer trips over the fields.

The need for conservation is nothing new. SCS was created in 1935 when the Great Plains, America's breadbasket, turned into the Dust Bowl because of drought and erosive farming practices. Legend has it that dust blowing into Washington helped convince Congress to pass the legislation that established SCS.

Until recently, the agency's role [illegible] strictly a "demand" basis, Richards said. "When farmers asked for technical assistance, we were there to provide it."

Now, SCS is responsible for working with the farmers and helping them achieve their compliance plans.

"In our new role, we've helped protect the most highly erodible cropland. That's worked. Now our job is to get back to working toward total resource management on all agricultural land," Richards says. "We're getting conservation on the land at a faster rate than at any other time in our history."

American gold medalist Trent Dimas, gold medalist Tatiana Gutsu of the Unified Team and Grigori Misutin of the Unified Team, winner of four silver medals including the all around, also performed their competitive routines.

Also featured were gold and bronze medalist Lavinia Milosovici of Romania, Svetlana Boquinskaia of the Unified Team, bronze medalist Christina Bontas of Romania, 1988 Olympic and world champion Vladimir Artemov, 1988 Olympic gold and silver medalist Valerie Lukin and American Olympian, two-time world champion and three-time U.S. champion Kurt Thomas.

According to Cay Donlin of the Arctic Lites club, the program included the most daring and complicated routines currently being performed in international competition. Women's gymnastics disciplines included the floor exercise, uneven parallel bars and the balance beam. Men's disciplines included the high bar, parallel bars, still rings, floor exercise and the pommel horse.

Donlin said that Arctic Lites gymnasts are working toward their goal of soon becoming a United States Gymnastics Federation Competitor, bringing high quality gymnastics competition to Thief River Falls. In an effort to purchase the one final piece of equipment necessary to complete the Arctic Lites gym for competition (a $15,000 floor), gymnasts and their families will be selling raffle tickets throughout Thief River Falls Saturday morning, November 21. First prize will be a Kitty Cat snowmobile from Arctco, second prize a child's size snowmobile suit from Arctco and third prize $100 in cash.

Predicted farm income will be low to stable in 2000

Income for U.S. farmers will be in the stable to lower range by the year 2000. But per farm income will not decline for efficient producers, said Mike Boehlje, economist with the University of Minnesota's Extension Service.

"The farm income 'pie' will be about the same size by the year 2000, but there will be larger slices for larger, efficient producers and smaller slices for less efficient producers," he said.

Farm income will not decline for larger producers who increase productivity, control costs and are better managers. "These are our best guesses as to what will happen. And we don't necessarily like all the trends we see coming," Boehlje said.

Boehlje recently worked with Purdue University economists on a project to help farm families and agricultural businesses plan for the year 2000 and beyond. Their report said government commodity program benefits probably will continue to decline in the late 1990s due to budget constraints.

"Expansion of the flexibility provisions in the current farm bill provides a convenient way for the government to implement cost savings for the farm program," they wrote in the report.

Farm producers will need to develop political coalitions with supporters of subsidized food programs and with environmentalists to get the kinds of programs they want, the report said.

Newfolden holds town meeting

A Newfolden community town meeting will be held at the community center Thursday, November 19 at 7:30 p.m.

The meeting will discuss Project Future, a Minnesota Extension Service Program.

The meeting's objective is to encourage the community to think strategically about utilizing Newfolden's strengths and weaknesses and allow community youth to present their ideas about community needs.

The meeting will also provide a setting for brainstorming about the community's future and collect suggestions and ideas. These suggestions will be used to prepare a community vision statement.

Scott Beckman, area extension agent for community resource development and Ray Thompson, Marshall county extension agent, will facilitate the discussions.

Brian Rokke will begin the town meeting and Wally Sparby, District 1B congressman, will give the keynote address.

All Newfolden area community residents are urged to attend the meeting. Refreshments will be served.

Northland C.C. offers off-campus college courses

Northland Community College is offering a number of off-campus courses during winter quarter.

In Red Lake Falls the following course offering will be made: Human Services 112 — "Family Dynamics and Crisis Counseling". This is a three credit course designed to provide students with an overview of family therapy and to aid students in the development of basic counseling skills and the role of the therapist aide in directing family crisis discussion. This course will meet Wednesday evenings from 6 to 9 p.m. at the Red Lake high school. The instructor for the course will be announced at a later date. The first day of class is December 2.

In Roseau the following course will be offered: CSCI 135 — "Spreadsheet". This two-credit course is an introductory course directed at students who need an understanding of the electronic spreadsheet as implemented on the microcomputer. Graphics, macros, data base functions, importing, and exporting will be included. Business, education, and scientific applications will be demonstrated to and developed by the participant. The class will meet on Thursday evenings from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. in the Roseau high school computer lab. Instructor for this course will be Nola Brandt. The first day of class is December 3.

The following course will be offered in Warroad: CSCI 126 — "Intro to Computers". This four-credit course is an introductory course directed at the student who needs an elementary understanding of information processing, as well as those who plan a career in the computer field. Emphasis will be placed on personnel, procedures, software, and hardware. Laboratory time will be spent on application software and simple programming using the BASIC language. This course will meet Monday evenings from 6 to 10 p.m. at the Warroad high school in room 90. Dick Orvis will be the instructor for the course. The first day of class will be November 30.

MinnesotaCare is name adopted for health plan

MinnesotaCare has been adopted as the formal name of the state's health care reform plan, according to the Minnesota Department of Health. The original name of HealthRight ran into conflict with a previously registered name.

Consideration had been given to the name MnCare, selected in a competitive process sponsored by the Legislative Oversight Commission, but is similar to the registered name of a disinfectant product applied in industrial and medical lab situations to reverse osmosis membranes manufactured and distributed by Minntech Corporation.

Despite strong legal assurance that there would be no trademark infringement on the MnCare name, Gov. Arne Carlson said he was not interested in spending state revenues over legal rights to the MnCare name.

"There is no other registered use of the name MinnesotaCare, so it can be used with confidence as the state implements our program," the governor said.

Program offered to cancer patients

The "Look Good...Feel Better" program is available to cancer patients.

The program was developed by the cosmetic, toiletry and fragrance association foundation in cooperation with the American Cancer Society and the National Cosmetology Association.

The program is designed for people undergoing cancer treatment to develop skills improving their appearance and, as a result, their self image. The program focuses on beauty techniques that can help people cope with the body changes resulting from cancer treatment.

Cosmetics are donated by the cosmetic association and a trained cosmetologist demonstrates their use. The cosmetologist also works with wigs and techniques with scarfs and hats.

A reimbursement from the cancer association is made when a wig is purchased and the cosmetologist gives information on this program. A cancer association video is also shown featuring people commenting on how this program helped them.

Program times are scheduled with Diane Freeman at 681-[illegible]. Gayle Dahlen is the cosmetologist involved with the program and she can be reached at 681-[illegible]. Call either volunteer for more information.

Guest speaker Tuesday evening at an international dinner held at Our Saviour's Academy in Thief River Falls was Nathan Mikkelsen, missionary to Japan for the past 17 years. He is show with his wife Ingebjorg and their children Naomi (left), 12; Paul, 9; and Ruth, 13. Once a resident of Thief River Falls where his mother lived for 25 years, Nathan and his family are living at Fertile during their four-month leave of absence from work in the Kojo church in Yonezawa, Japan. The children are commuting from Fertile to Our Saviour's Academy during their stay to improve their English, since they have all been born and raised in Japan and speak Japanese as their daily language in school and with friends.

Flu vaccine recommended

Millions of people each year could avoid becoming sick, missing work and possibly even death if they would just get shot—with the flu vaccine. The American Lung Association of Minnesota recommends getting a flu shot between October 15 and November 15, for maximum protection against flu this year.

"The real danger from flu often lies in the complications that can develop, such as pneumonia," says Diane Peterson, section chief of Acute Disease Programs from the Minnesota Department of Health. Conditions that make a person at high risk to flu-related complications, and who should get a flu shot, include:

- Being age 65 or older;
- Anyone with a chronic lung disease;
- Anyone with heart disease, diabetes, or anemia;
- Treatments or diseases that suppress the immune system;
- Those in contact with "high risk" people.

Normally, the flu comes on strong in Minnesota right after the holiday season. Getting a flu shot in October or November allows time to build the antibodies in your system needed to fight the flu virus. Contact your physician or local health department for information on where to obtain the vaccine; or for more information on the flu, call the American Lung Association of Minnesota, 1-800-642-5864.

INSURANCE Update
by Carol Nelson
UNDERSTANDING UNINSURED AND UNDERINSURED MOTORISTS COVERAGE
Q. WHAT IS UNINSURED MOTORIST (UM) COVERAGE?
A. This coverage pays you for damages which you are entitled to, but cannot collect because the at fault person does not have sufficient coverage to meet the Minnesota minimum of $30,000/$60,000. Bodily Injury liability limits.
Q. WHAT IS UNDERINSURED MOTORIST (UIM) COVERAGE?
A. This coverage applies when the at-fault driver has a liability policy in affect at the time of an accident, but its limit for bodily injury is not enough to pay the full amount that you are legally entitled to recover as damages.
Q. WHAT ARE THE UM AND UIM LIMITS REQUIRED BY LAW?
A. $25,000/$50,000
Q. CAN I COLLECT THE COMBINED LIMITS OF UM AND UIM?
A. Yes. UM and UIM are separate coverages and in multiple-vehicle accident cases, you can pursue both UM and UIM, if available.

Say What?!

By Karmen Lee Ortloff

I live with a hunter. How annoying.

My younger brother believes, along with millions of others across this nation, that hunting is a sport. I beg to differ.

First of all, is it fair to go out into the woods with guns that can shoot several rounds a second? I don't think so.

Secondly, is it fair to play a game where your opponent doesn't even know it is playing? Again, I don't think so.

Perhaps if hunters really wanted to make hunting a sport, they would go out into the woods, sit still in the bushes, wait for a deer to come by, and then try to catch it with their bare hands. That would be a sport. Heck, I'd pay for admission.

Of course, I know all the arguments for hunting. "If we didn't kill them now, they would starve this winter." I don't buy it.

Don't get me wrong. I'm not some huge animal rights activist. After all, I eat meat. But somehow, eating a cow seems more humane than eating Bambi. A cow has never really been free, it relies on humans for food and shelter—sort of like a child. (Children, however, are forced to endure a fate worse than slaughter: school. Cows have it easy.)

Another excuse the almighty hunters use is, "It's meat! We're going out and killing supper just like our ancestors did. Besides, we're saving money on the hamburger we would have bought."

To shoot holes into the ancestor theory, I must say they didn't use toilet tissue or take baths regularly either. I sincerely hope that people don't think they are getting back to their roots by going hunting. After all, how many of our ancestors came home to a nice central air heated cabin that had running water and electricity? Not too many.

The saving money bit is a bunch of bologna (which, I might add, is a cow by-product). If I was to add up the money spent on a one weekend hunting trip, I'm quite confident that I would be able to stay well stocked on hamburger, as well as on potatoes, on milk (another cow product!), on eggs...

Furthermore, in order to go hunting, one needs those lovely fluorescent orange outfits. Let's pause here for a moment, shall we? Without the bright clothing, hunters (who are trigger happy beyond my wildest nightmares) would shoot at any movement—be it animal or otherwise. These beautiful clothes don't come for free you know. Plus you have all the food hunters take with them. (I wonder how many of our ancestors sat in a tree with a Milky Way in one hand and a Mountain Dew in the other?) Add in the gas to get out into the boonies, all the ammo needed for the twenty point bucks that always get away and all the other incidentals. Yes, hunters are right, it does save money. (By the way, I'm being cynical now.)

One last argument hunters use, particularly male hunters, is "It's a bonding thing, between men, and between father and son." Taking young impressionable children out into the wilderness to kill defenseless animals and people wonder why our nation is in trouble? Besides, if men are allowed to take their sons out into the woods to bond and get excused passes from school to do so, why shouldn't mothers be allowed to take their daughters down to the Mega Mall to bond and be excused from school. Don't women deserve the save rights men do? Besides, it would undoubtedly be cheaper than a hunting weekend!

State Chamber of Commerce officials Bill Blazer and Dave Olson were seated next to Dalray Sparby at the "Grass Roots, Policy and Legislation" meeting held at Lon's in Thief River Falls Thursday. Topics at the meeting included the state chamber's policy position on local government aid, health care cost containment and several other issues.

Silverton 4-H club assisted Dale Narlock of the utilities department in preparing the city's Christmas decorations for the Holiday season. The lights and decorations are scheduled to be put up the Wednesday before Thanksgiving. As part of its community pride project, the club members unraveled the decorations and checked light bulbs and replaced burned out bulbs. Club leaders include Virginia Swanson, Amy Kirkelde, and Marge Lavalier. Club members pictured at the event include the following: (from left) Alisse Helbert, Jennifer Swanson, Kim Ruprecht, Derren Nelson, Heather Shefland, Vicki Bitzegaio, Ingrid Hanson, Bridgette Stock, Toni LeMoine and Kimberly Kirkelde.

To The Editor:

Pastor Forsberg made several interesting statements regarding abortion and adoption in last week's "Letter to the Editor." I feel compelled to respond.

I am the mother of three children and I love them dearly. I am also pro-choice. Pastor Forsberg is no pro-choice, and so I'm assuming that he believes there are no unwanted children. Yet Pastor Forsberg clearly had some requirements when he chose to adopt. He wanted a healthy child and a Caucasian. In desperation he would adopt "…..a pair of Korean children."

I'm not criticizing Pastor Forsberg for wanting a healthy child. Were I adopting, I too would want a healthy child, although its race would be of no consequence to me. I am, however, trying to make a point.

Pro-life believers say there are no unwanted children. Yet there are thousands of "crack babies," physically and/or mentally impaired babies, and older children who need homes. And I'm sure that the thousands of horribly abused children in our country could tell us just how wanted they feel.

Perhaps when Pastor Forsberg said, "Why should good, hard-working parents who are unable medically to have children of their own be deprived of the 'blessed benefits' that others are aborting?" he should have added, "unless they're not healthy or Caucasian."

There are wonderful people willing to give any child a home, but the vast majority want healthy children. That, of course, is the wish of every parent. But in real life that isn't always the case. Why then, should a woman be forced to give birth to a physically or mentally impaired child, put it up for adoption, only to find that it isn't wanted because it's not healthy or maybe it's not the right race?

I wish pro-life people would, as the saying goes, "put their money where their mouth is" and give homes to some of these fetuses they're always trying to save. I'm sure they would have no problem adopting one and their energies would be put to much better use.

And please, pro-life people, don't counter with "you say you're a mother and you love your children, but would you have aborted them if they were not perfect?" The answer is, I don't know and the point is moot. The same goes for "what if your mother had aborted you?" Obviously, I wouldn't know, would I?

I do not believe abortion is a "wonderful" idea. I prefer that females of all ages are educated in the methods of birth control and that it is made readily available to them.

And yes, I do want grandchildren, but I believe that my daughters have the right to make that decision in whatever manner they choose. After all, it is their bodies and their lives.

Sincerely,
Geri Sollom

To The Editor:

It was a pleasure to see the article in your paper on the Richard Parnow family being selected as the 'Conservation Farmers of the Year' by the Pennington County Soil and Water Conservation District.

It has become extremely frustrating lately to read about the diminishing wildlife habitat throughout the United States.

The Richard Parnow family more than deserves this important award. They have demonstrated that it is possible to maintain a farm, yet be concerned about the environment and actually improve their agricultural land to be suitable for wildlife.

Because of concerned, caring families such as the Parnows, Minnesotans can enjoy a future of clean air, water and an abundance of wildlife.

It is not just sportsmen who benefit from these conservation practices, but anyone who enjoys tyhe out-of-doors. My sincere thank-you to the Parnows, and keep up the good work!

Sincerely,
Dan Reed

To The Editor:

I have to disagree with the Times editorial entitled "What The New Vikings Miss Is a Touch of Class" (Nov. 10, 1992 issue). Sorry, but I just don't see it the same way as you do.

The struts, the swaggers, the in-your-face spikes and endzone antics are part of what professional football in the 1990's is all about—the excitement, the thrill of victory ond the roar of the crowd. Perhaps the editor should face the fact that his beloved Vikings of yesteryear, as great as they were, played the game a little differently than the Vikings of today. Today's Vikings are younger, bigger, stronger and, in all honesty, a lot more exciting than the old Vikings.

A little celebration after a touchdown, a sack or an interception does not cheapen and detract from the performance. If anything, it helps get the fans into the game even more, and in a stadium like the H.H.H. Metrodome, 50,000 screaming fans can very easily have a hand in the outcome of a game.

I like today's Vikings. I like their on-field celebrations and I take great joy in joining them at the Metrodome or from my living room. More than once I've done a victory dance right in front of the Lazy Boy and high-fived my fellow fans watching the game with me. I say let the Vikings go crazy when they make the big plays and I hope to see the "new and improved" Vikings do their endzone dance in the Super Bowl. Go Vikes!

Sincerely,
Jon E. Flatland

Free turkeys given away

Free Turkeys in Thief River Falls is the name of a new promotion in Thief River Falls. The promotion was introduced in the Northern Watch on Saturday, November 14. Coupons to be filled out and deposited at the participating locations were published in that edition of the Northern Watch.

Encouraging the public to shop Thief River Falls for the Holidays, the promotion offers registration for free turkeys at more than 50 participating business and professional locations in the community.

Contest rules are as follows:

- Persons must be 16 years of age or older to register.
- Fill out the coupons with your name, address and telephone number.
- Cut out the coupons and deposit them at the business locations listed on those coupons.
- Employees of a participating business are not eligible to register at that business.
- Drawing will be held in each business place on Monday, November 23.
- Each participating business place will notify its winner where he or she can pick up the free turkey.
- Turkeys must be picked up by Saturday, December 12.

Fire guts car

Fire gutted an 88 Oldsmobile Cutlass Calais Thursday morning.

A 6:23 a.m. phone call alerted the Thief River Falls fire department of the car fire at the Floyd Fredrickson residence in Rockshury township.

Fire Chief Dave Bjorkman said the fire started in the car and caused extensive smoke and heat damage to the contents of the Fredrickson garage where the car was housed. Fire destroyed the car.

The cause of the fire is not yet known.

Program features winter birds

A bird program entitled, "Enjoying Winter Birds," will be shown on Tuesday, November 17 at 7:30 p.m. at the Fertile Community Center.

The program will discuss which birds live in northern Minnesota in the winter and facts about their behavior. Various bird calls will be imitated to enhance bird identification. The program will provide designs of various types of birdfeeders.

The Agassiz Environmental Learning Center and the Agassiz Audubon Society sponsor the program.

Joe Gartner of the Agassiz Audubon Society will present the program with assistance from Wayne Gocken. The program will also provide information about the Christmas Bird Count scheduled for December 18 in the Fertile area.

For more information call Wayne Gocken or Betty Berhow at the Agassiz Environmental Learning Center (218) 945-3129.

Society solicits bird surveys

The Home Habitat Society is asking Pennington county residents to participate in a national survey of backyard birds.

Those who participate in the Annual Bird List will be asked to complete a questionnaire concerning the habitat surrounding their home.

Participants will be provided with a checklist of birds, on which they will record which species visit their yard each season and the relative frequency of sightings.

Property size can vary from a yard to a farm. Participants will be sent 1993 forms, to be returned at the end of the year. They will receive a summary for the survey, including recognition of those who have the greatest number of species for various size yards in each state.

The survey results are also printed in the Society's journal, "Home Ground." To take part in the Annual Bird List send a $3 registration fee to The Home Habitat Society, PO Box 412, Taneytown, MD 21787.

IMPRESSIONS

BY BETH JOHNSON

My dictionary defines education as "the development of knowledge, skill, ability or character by teaching, training, study or experience." My dictionary also defines teaching as "to help to learn; show how to; make understand."

Education is the development of knowledge. We can all agree with that. As far back as we can remember we have been flooded with all kinds of knowledge which somehow or other we were supposed to learn. Remember feeling so learned when you could recite your sums—one plus one equals two, two plus two equals four! Remember how old you felt when you finally were old enough to learn the multiplication tables! Remember reading "Run, Jane run. See Jane run."? Remember how fun it was to graduate to progressively harder Dick and Jane books?

Today as we adults struggle to learn the basics of metric mathematics and computer languages we can only remember fondly those early days of our education when knowledge was so sweet to learn.

Education is the development of a skill. Today's young person is taught a myriad of skills from the basic skills of reading and elementary mathematics to the more complicated mechanical, computer and scientific skills needed for the jobs in this modern society. The skills we adults were taught served us well as we found our places in society. Some of the skills our children and grandchildren are being taught were not even a part of the imaginations of the most learned when we adults were in school. Could any of us adults have imagined that computers would be such an intregal part of our society? Would any of us have thought that we would be needing to learn computer skills?

Education is the development of ability. How many of us during our schooling years played some kind of musical instrument? Those of us who still use our musical talents are thankful for the development of that special ability we had. We all have our own special abilities. We have all been uniquely made. As we challenge ourselves, as we educate ourselves, we find that these special abilities of ours are nurtured into being.

Education is the development of character. Remember those tests which you studied for a bit too little! Remember the times when you had to defend yourself on the playground? Remember the times when you were the best or worst student in the class? Remember the friends you had in school? All of these were a part of creating the person you are today. Character is developed in each of us as we daily live. The events of each day—significant or not—help to form our character.

Education of a person does not simply happen. Certainly each of a person's life experiences educates him or her, but to be educated one must be taught. Teachers are the persons who teach us. From teachers we learn facts. From teachers we learn skills. Teachers help us to develop our abilities. Teachers help us to become worthwhile human beings even as they teach us character.

Teachers are not limited to those persons who stand before a classroom of students and teach. Teachers are all those from whom we learn.

Parents are the most persuasive teachers. A child who feels his parents' love and concern for him will be aided in his education. Love and concern by a child's parents surrounds the bad days with encouragement. With encouragement a child can be educated.

Daily we are educated. Daily we teach. As you encourage the children in your care be assured that your encouragement and your love will be the best teaching aid to your child's education.

SHOP AND SAVE IN THIEF RIVER FALLS

MDA collects 31,000 pounds of waste

Thirty-one thousand pounds of waste pesticides were collected by the Minnesota Department of Agriculture in the Red River Valley during four days in October.

Nearly 3,000 individuals participated in the Red River Valley collection project, which included the largest single day total for the program conducted by the MDA.

The pesticide collection program collected old and unusable pesticides from farmers and other pesticide users throughout the state. Fifty-thousand pounds of pesticides were collected during 1992, raising the programs total to 115,000 pounds.

Collections, authorized by the Ground Water Protection Act of 1989, are made to rid Minnesota of an estimated 3.5 million pounds of waste pesticides currently stored in the state. Products containing DDT and arsenic, some fifty years old, are commonly collected pesticides and account for nearly 20 per cent of weight collected.

Sealed windows save energy

Sealing up certain windows in houses or apartments is one of the most practical, effective and economical energy saving measures that can be done indoors, according to the Minnesota Department of Public Service.

Problem windows are often noticeably drafty and will have chronic frost build up in the winter. They are often on the side of the house away from the wind or on the upper level of a two story house.

DPS energy specialists suggest the following window strategies:

- Make sure all windows are closed tightly and locked. Even a small crack can let in a lot of cold air.
- Seal gaps around window frames (where the frame meets the wall) with caulk. Latex based caulk is the most popular because it is easy to apply, quick to cure, paintable and moderately priced. Paintable silicone caulk is harder to apply but is more durable.
- Seal leaky window sashes with weather stripping. Foam or rubber adhesive are the easiest to install, while metal V-strips and neoprene are the most durable.
- Apply plastic film or shrink wrap plastic over the entire inside window unit, making sure to seal the plastic tightly around the window with two-sided tape.
- As a more permanent measure, install custom-made interior storms made of flexible or rigid lightweight clear plastic. This method allows for a clearer view than plastic sheeting, but will still only be effective if the edges are tightly sealed. Some glazings are fixed to frames that seal to a companion piece attached to the window, making the addition look like part of the window.

When properly installed, both plastic sheeting and interior storms will reduce damaging moisture condensation, which is especially worthwhile for more expensive windows. Also, the DPS recommends not to seal all windows with plastic or interior storms, especially in rooms where quick ventilation may be needed, such as in kitchens and bathrooms.

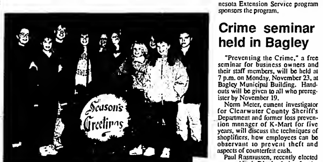
Ruth Eag of Greenbush said she spends all year preparing crafts for craft shows. She displayed many of her tree skirts at the 2nd Annual Country-Style Bazaar held at the Thief River Falls National Guard Armory in Thief River Falls Saturday. Two more craft shows, the Mid-November craft show at the Eagles and the 16th annual Holiday Fair craft show at the city auditorium in Thief River Falls will be held this coming weekend.

Joshua Gregory, a first grade students in Jen Peterson's class at Northrop elementary school in Thief River Falls, was one of many first grade students in Pennington county and Red Lake county to receive the American flag. The flag was donated by the 40 et 8 Voyageur 737 in Thief River Falls, and presented to all public schools in Pennington county, Red Lake Falls and Plummer and the Catholic schools in Red Lake Falls and Thief River Falls.



Season's Greetings. Silverton 4-H club assisted the city in testing bulbs and replacing lights in the Christmas decorations. Their efforts were a part of their community pride project. Decorations will be up on light poles the Wednesday before Thanksgiving. Club members participating in the project included, from left: Heather Shefland, Toni LeMoine, Derren Nelson, Kim Rupprecht, Alissa Halbert, Janny Swanson, Kimberly Kirkeldo, Vicki Bitzegalo, Bridgette Stock and Ingrid Henson.

Extension offers dairy program

A dairy workshop and farm tour series will be offered on Tuesdays in the Roseau library meeting room and Wednesdays in the Thief River Falls courthouse meeting room.

The program will be offered beginning November 17 and 18 from 1 to 3 p.m. for 4 weeks.

The objective of the program is to present up-to-date research and information to enable dairy farmers to make knowledgeable decisions on several topics.

Program topics include: Mastitis and Milk Quality — Diagnosing and correcting mastitis problems and equipment maintenance; Nutrition and Forages — Analyzing rations, feed costs, alternative proteins and forage production; Herd Health — Reproductive problems along with vaccination and body scoring of cattle; and Farm Business Management — Cost analysis and financial planning. Actual farm case studies will be used throughout the program to give a farm prospective to the materials.

Current dairy producers and those interested in dairy production are encouraged to attend the series of workshops.

For more information contact the local county extension office or Dale Carter at the Roseau County Extension office at 453-1052. The Northern Lites Cluster of the Minnesota Extension Service program sponsors the program.

Crime seminar held in Bagley

"Preventing the Crime," a free seminar for business owners and their staff members, will be held at 7 p.m. on Monday, November 23, at Bagley Municipal Building. Handouts will be given to all who preregister by November 19.

Norm Meier, current investigator for Clearwater County Sheriff's Department and former loss prevention manager of K-Mart for five years, will discuss the techniques of shoplifters, how employees can be observant to prevent theft and aspects of counterfeit cash.

Paul Rasmussen, recently elected as new Ninth District Judge for the Clearwater county seat, will overview the rights and responsibilities of business owners regarding bad checks.

"Shoplifting: Preventing the Crime," a 23-minute video, will also be featured at the beginning of the session.

The event is cosponsored by Bagley Economic Development and Bagley Area Chamber of Commerce. To preregister, participants should call 218-694-3270 and leave their business name and the number attending their firm. Walk-ins are also welcome.

IRS sends out letters about improper claims

Over the next few months, people who may have failed to report various kinds of income or properly claim mortgage interest deductions on their 1990 federal income tax returns will be receiving letters from the Internal Revenue Service.

The letters are part of a computer program that matches financial information sent to the IRS by banks and other businesses with amounts reported on 1990 tax returns. For example, the IRS says when your bank sends you a form or statement showing interest earned on a savings account or interest paid on a home mortgage, they send the same information, usually on computer tape or diskette, to the IRS. If the information reported to the tax agency by the bank doesn't match the figures on your return, you will receive one of these letters.

You must reply within 30 days, the IRS emphasizes. The letter lists the items the IRS believes were omitted or improperly reported. In most cases, the letter will also propose an increase in your 1990 tax, plus interest, and in some cases, a penalty.

The IRS urges you to check your return and see if you agree with the changes listed. If you do, sign the statement on the last page of the letter and return it to the IRS. To avoid further interest charges, also send a check for the amount due. If you disagree, the IRS says, send a letter within 30 days explaining which items are wrong and giving the correct information.

Businesses reminded of deductible

Some small-business owners in Minnesota may have yet to take advantage of a new way to save money on their workers' compensation costs, according to the National Federation of Independent Businesses.

"The new workers' compensation deductible provision went into effect on October 1, but it is not an automatic savings for businesses" said Mike Hickey, state director of the 21,000-member National Federation of Independent Business/Minnesota.

"All that employers need to do is contact their workers' compensation insurance carrier to request the deductible," Hickey said. "The deductible is not extended automatically, but if an employer requests it, it must be offered."

To date, most of Minnesota's 250 workers' compensation insurance carriers have filed deductible plans with the state, Hickey said.

The premium reductions per amount of deductible are left to the discretion of each insurance company since Minnesota has a competitive rating law.

"However," Hickey said, "one guide to potential savings is the experience with the assigned risk plan, which has 41,000 insureds and is Minnesota's largest workers' compensation plan."

The plan is more good news for employer workers' comp costs. "The deductible comes on top of a 16 per cent rollback, so both taken together will bring some much-needed relief for Minnesota employers this year," Hickey said.

American Education Week November 16-20 will be emphasized for approximately 400 shoppers at Northland Foods in Thief River Falls. Students in third, fourth and fifth grades at Knox elementary school decorated paper grocery sacks provided by the store in their art classes, then returned the bags for distribution to customers this week. Pictured with store manager Chad Larson are (left to right), Reid Breitenfaldt, fifth grade; Kali Waterworth, fifth grade; Aaron Erickson, fourth grade; and Ashley Hanson, third grade. Messages on the bags include the theme: "Be Cool—Stay in School."

Saving of energy also saves money

In tight economic times, it doesn't make sense to throw away money on something that you have control over, notes Martha Marquardt of the Agassiz Environmental Education Committee in Thief River Falls.

"Energy is an expense that we can control and make a difference," she said. "October is National Energy Awareness Month and a time in our northern climates when we start seeing our heating bills warm up. Now is the time to winterize our homes to keep our energy expenses down."

One of the first places to start is by treating your windows, she said. You can cut heat loss from any window by 80 per cent (compared to no window covering), by installing quilted or insulated draperies. Window coverings of plastic and other materials also help.

"More energy is lost through windows in the U.S. than we get from the Alaska pipeline. Caulking and weatherstripping any cracks in a house's foundation or exterior limits air movement through a house and yields savings."

Inside the house, the water heater is one of our most costly energy users. Turning down the thermostat on your water heater from 140 to 120 degrees Fahrenheit can save about 10 per cent or about $15 per year. Putting an insulation covering over your water heater will also save you money. Also, fix any leaky hot water faucet—a faucet that leaks 1/2 a tank of hot water per day can cost $5 a month if you have an electric water heater.

For cost-effective lighting in your house, even though the initial purchase price of fluorescent bulbs is more than incandescents, you will clearly come out ahead by going to fluorescent light. An 18-watt fluorescent bulb produces the same amount of light as a 75-watt incandescent bulb. The fluorescent bulb will last 10 times longer and over its lifetime will save about twice as much as it costs.

By the way, no more energy is used to turn on an incandescent light than to operate it, so shut them off when you leave a room. However, a fluorescent light requires an initial pulse of energy equal to about 15 minutes of operation, so shut them off if you will be out of the room for over 15 minutes.

Transportation is one of our major energy costs. Minnesotans use two billion gallons of gasoline each year—enough to fill the Metrodome four and a half times. We can save on gas and money by getting our cars tuned up for efficient operation.

For highway cruising, keep your speed constant—varying your speed by only five miles per hour can reduce your gas mileage by as much as 1.3 times per gallon. Also, today's high-compression engines do not require idling before driving on sub-zero days. An engine will warm faster and lubricate more efficiently under road conditions than one that is idling.

These are just a few tips on saving energy that also will help save your pocketbook and the environment. The above information was gathered from the Minnesota Earth Day Network and prepared by the Agassiz Environmental Education Committee which serves the eight counties of northwest Minnesota.

The AEEC encourages everyone to become more aware of their energy habits and to conserve on energy. "It just makes cents," Marquardt said.

"Narnia" is Lincoln's fall drama production

by Connie Stock
Director

What do four children, a magic wardrobe, a witch and a lion have in common? They are your passport into the enchanting world of "Narnia," the Lincoln High School fall dramatic production to be presented Friday, November 20, and Saturday November 21 at 7 p.m. in the Lincoln High School auditorium.

"Narnia" is the musical version of the book, "The Lion, The Witch, and The Wardrobe" by C.S. Lewis. This adaption has been writteo by Jales Tasca, lyrics by Ted Drachman, and music by Thomas Tierney.

It is a delightful fairy tale for children of all ages complete with a mysterious White Stag, played by Jeny Stumpf, who dances in and out of Narnia; four children, played by Mitch Scramstad, Keith Baune, Beth Natvik and Jennifer Strang, who learn that doors and windows open new worlds to explore; a faun with a kind heart played by Danae Dekkers; and two bickering beavers, played by Kelly Gould and Ryan Dupree, who lead the children safely through the forest, accompanied by other winsome Narnian creatures.

According to an ancient prophecy, four children would sit on the thrones in Cair Paravel and free Narnia from the cold and evil reign of the White Witch, portrayed by Rachael Marshall.

The children's journey to Cair Paravel is filled with excitement and enlightenment. As with many of us, the children need help fulfilling their destinies, and that help comes in the form of the lion Aslan, played by Dan Lavalier, the true and rightful King of Narnia.

This classic tale of good versus evil creates many thrilling and suspenseful happenings as Edmund seems to become beguiled by the Witch, her promises and her hags (Jennifer Duncan and Jessica Hoffman).

Other events include Fenris Ulf, head of the Narnia secret police, played by Rodney Joppru, trying to capture the children; and Aslan being led to the sacrificial stone table, surrounded by jeering cruelies and the power-crazed White Witch.

However, there are also lighter moments as we are entertained by the ever-scratching dwarf, played by Heather Thornton and when Father Christmas (Jeremy Hulteen) arrives for the first time in hundreds of years our spirits are filled with the joy of Christmas.

When spring finally arrives, the trees turn green, flowers bloom, and even the bickering beavers see what a bit of spring can do.

This enchanting play is filled with songs and dances which tell a story, heighten our awareness of the battle between good and evil, make us see our weaknesses, and fill our hearts with hope and faith.

Soloists and chorus members include Danae Dekkers, Laura Toren, Lori Golightly, Karl Krankkala, Lisa Swanson, Chris Tsukichi, Ben Schmitz and Carlos Diaz on the side of good, and Rachael Marshall, Jessica Hoffman, Jennifer Duncan, Angelique Goulet, Dawn Gilbertson and Marie Lubitz on the side of evil.

Dancing trees and nymphs include Alecia Bernier, Alyssa Johnson, Karen Halsa, Becky Gaffaney, Sally Hagen, Angie Hasnedl, Jenny Nelson, Toni Chiodo and Kristen Boughton.

Other Narnian creatures are Amber Peoples, Joni Larson, Jenny Saustad, Stacy Jensen, Kiki Goddard, Becky Mattson, Jenny Flynn, Brad Kostrzowski and Jeremy Swanson.

Members of the Witch's entourage, in addition to the singers, are wolves Jeff Issendorf and Jeremy Hulteen; reindeer Ryan Browning and Guy Drevlow, and other cruelies, phantoms and ghouls played by Josh Beich, Josh Conway, Jackie Flynn, Danielle Grandbois, and Andrea Campbell who doubles as Mrs. MacCready, the housekeeper in Marbelton Manor.

Connie Stock is the director and designer of the show. Darcy Reese is the vocal and instrumental director and Michelle Duffy is the choreographor. Cathy Hagen is the accompanist with Jill Dekkers playing the synthesizer.

If you have never been to "Narnia," take the journey to this magical world. Tickets will be available at the door. Tickets cost $2 for students and $4.50 for adults.

"Narnia," the musical version of the book, "The Lion, The Witch and The Wardrobe," by C.S. Lewis, will be presented at Lincoln high school Friday and Saturday, at 7 p.m. in the Lincoln high school auditorium. Pictured left to right are Danae Dekkers, Ryan Dupree, Kelly Gould, Kiki Godderd, Laura Toran, Lisa Swanson, Beth Natvik, Jeremy Swanson, Mitch Scramstad, Becky Mattson, Dan Lavallar, Jenny Flynn, Stacy Jensen, Keith Baune, Jennifer Strang, Chris Tsukichi, Ben Schmitz, Carlos Diaz, Amber Peoples and Joni Larson.

Peter (Keith Baune) prepares to defend his sister Lucy (Beth Natvik) from the wolf (Jeremy Hulteen) in the musical play "Narnia." Lincoln high school presents the play Friday and Saturday at 7 p.m. in the Lincoln high school auditorium.

Hospital receives grant from Dept. of Public Service

Northwest Medical Center In Thief River Falls has received a $10,350 grant from the Minnesota Department of Public Service (DPS) to evaluate energy use and ways to improve energy efficiency.

The cost-share grant pays up to 80 per cent of the cost of a "maxi-audit", a comprehensive engineering study of a building and its energy-using systems.

"These audits are the first part of a two-step process that leads to lower energy costs," said Kris Sanda, commissioner of the DPS. "They find areas of waste, point out ways to save, and figure the potential costs and benefits of conservation measures."

Cities, counties, schools, towns, and hospitals are all eligible to apply for maxi-audit grants. The maxi-audits can then be used to apply for low-interest loans, available through the DPS, to implement energy-saving measures.

"Conservation measures implemented with the help of these loans save Minnesota schools, hospitals, and local government $4.5 million annually," said Sanda. "The savings are not in dollars alone; lower energy use also means fewer harmful emissions into the environment."

Applications for cost-share maxi-audit grants continue to be accepted. To receive this one-page application, write or call the Minnesota Department of Public Service, Suite 200, 121- 7th Place east, St. Paul MN 55101-2145. Phone: (612) 297-2103.

Strandquist News

F. Myrtle Vagle

Mike and Betty Johnson of Warroad spent time this weekend with Betty's mother, Elphie Adlis. Their son, Richard Johnson of Minneapolis, and his friend Greg Meyor were up here hunting deer. Corey and Lori Wikstrom and sons Kyle and Jordan visited Grandma on Sunday.

Claudia and Jessie Berggren and June Kasprowicz visited Frank and Judy Kleinvachter on Wednesday. Bobby Berggren of Mason City, IA, Buddy, Cindy, Anthony and Salina Berggren of Tower and Jerome Berggren visited Frank and Judy on Saturday evening.

We fly our Strandquist American Legion flag this month of November in honor of all veterans, but especially for those who are no longer with us. Bless the memory of those dear people, whether they be family or friends. God bless our free America and may they rest in peace.

The Strandquist senior citizens met at the center on Thursday with 15 members and ten guests present. They worked on a quilt and started another one. Leonard Torkelson was the host and Gloria Renstrom won the door-prize.

Douglas Holmstrom of West St. Paul stopped by to say "hi" to his grandmother, Elsie Lelrooth, on Sunday on his way home. He spent a week at his father and mother's home, the Dean Holmstroms, relaxing as well as having a good time pheasant and deer hunting.

Frank and Judy Kleinvechter brought belated birthday cake and wishes to Brad Kasprowicz Sunday afternoon. Ellen Stromberg, Frank Grochowski and Russell Larson were also there.

Earl and Ebba Sihlberg have had a very busy week with hunting starting and at that time Ebba's good cooking and hospitality really shows up. From the St. Paul area were Tracy Tunheim, Bob and Tom Shanley, Jerry Voller, Jimmie Gudmanson, Angie Shenley, Tom's wife, and Kelly's mother Clera Shanley. Wally Rud from Strandquist also joined the hunters. Other visitors this week were Dolores Erickson and Philiys Larson of Hoyt Lakes and Donavan and Donna Donarski and family. They all left for home on Monday but some more are due this Friday.

One of the largest cross country snowmobile races in the country will be held in Thief River Falls. Jerry Erickson and Brian Espeseth show off some of the trophies that will be awarded to winners at the Pabst 200 in Thief River Falls on January 9 and 10. The purse for this race is expected to exceed $40,000, which will draw top riders from across the country. This year, the race is a showcase of the International Series of Champions. The event will combine 200 miles of cross-country competition with two days of oval sprint racing. Elapsed time in the cross-country plus points accumulated in the oval events will determine the winners and the overall champion. The race will be hosted by the Thief River Falls Sno-Drifters, the Plummer Snowmobile club and the Red Lake Falls Pathfinders. Erickson said he is excited about the race coming to Thief River Falls again. Making the job of preparing for the influx of racers and spectators easier, Erickson said the clubs have received a great deal of assistance from Sami Haj of the Best Western and Arctco and many other sponsors in the community.

Very few reports filed with LEC last week

The Law Enforcement Center in Thief River Falls received very few incident reports during the past week.

Consumption under age. On November 11 at 1:45 a.m. police received a report of a loud party at a residence in Riverview Trailer park. Upon investigation, the following were cited for consumption under age: Jamie Bliefie, 19, Grand Forks; Jason Knutson, 20, Osseo; Carter Narum, Michigan, ND, 18; Jarod Holt, 20, East Grand Forks; Jennifer Pebworth, 20, Dickenson, ND; Karla Weeding, 20, Fargo, ND; and Jody Martineau, Zimmerman, 19.

On November 11 at 11:45 p.m. police received a report of a disturbance at a residence on Pennington avenue south. The following were cited for consumption under age: Karl Hellem, 19, Jasper; Timothy Biby, 19, Wales, ND; Greggory Wileck, 19, Little Falls; Steven Raveling, 19, Farmington; Douglas Honkomp, 19, Starbuck; Jeffrey Swing, 19, Bloomington; and Michael Jarrett, 20, Alfred.

Vandalism. On November 14 at 5:43 p.m. Rodney Knutson, 315 Oriole, reported that while his son was driving on North Atlantic after turning from Eighth street, something struck the vehicle. He pulled over and found about $200 damage to the window. Police received at least three other reports of snowballs thrown at vehicles in that neighborhood.

On November 11 at 1:08 p.m. Elliot Baker, Thief River Falls, reported that on the 10th while at the Lantern Restuarant and Lounge, someone damaged the inside duals on his vehicle. A damage loss was unavailable.

On November 13 at 8:24 a.m. police responded to a report of a distrubance at a local apartment building. A window had been broken during the disturbance. Derrick Lee Carter, 19, Thief River Falls, was cited for criminal damage to property.

Assault. On November 10 at 11:30 p.m. Northwest Medical Center reported that a person was being treated at the hospital for injuries he received in an assault. Police learned that a fight had occurred at the Lantern Restaurant and Lounge. The person being treated had been allegedly struck a number of times, had a bloody nose and swollen eyes. Elliot Baker, 25, route 1, St. Hilaire, was cited for fifth degree assault.

Thefts. On October 20 the police received a report of a theft from a garage. Two super soakers and a remote control monster truck all valued at $130 were reported missing. A local youth was contacted and the super soakers were returned. Action is pending against the 8-year-old youth for possession of stolen property as the monster truck was not returned.

On November 5 the sheriff's department received a report of a burglary at the Darwin Boutain farm in Reiner township. Tools valued at $2,700 were taken in the burglary.

Accidents. On November 14 at 7:50 a.m. police received a report that someone had struck a light pole in the South Tindolph area and then left the scene. Damage to the light pole was estimated at $1,500. The incident is under investigation.

On November 15 at 10:45 a.m police recieved a report of an accident at Swede's Place, a local tavern. According to the report, a pickup driven by Nicholas Kerzman of Bluffton, was going south in the alley between LaBree and Horace and struck the building known as Swede's Place. Damage to the pickup was estimated at $1,000. Damage to the building was estimated at $300. Kerzman, age 19, was charged with driving while intoxicated.

Shooting. As a result of an investigation into a complaint of gunshots being fired in the area of Westside Motors, Michael Ray Nelson, 22, Thief River Falls, was cited for discharging a firearm within the city limits.

State Chamber drafts policy position paper

Local government officials and representatives of the State Chamber of Commerce met at Lon's Restaurant in Thief River Falls Thursday to discuss the chamber's proposed changes to the state's property tax system.

Rumors that the chamber's proposal called for the elimination of local government aid served to encourage local representatives to quiz Minnesota Chamber president Dave Olson and Bill Blazer in person.

The meeting, which was called "Grass Roots, Policy and Legislation Meeting", was sponsored by the legislative committee of the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce. But, it was also a continuation of the state's new policy of seeking responses from local chamber boards and members to important policy decisions.

Local government aid was an important topic at the meeting. Olson and Blazer assured the local government officials that local government aid would not be phased out under their proposal. The plan does call for the entire system to be reviewed.

"They've got to work on the whole system," said Blazer in referring to the state legislature.

Blazer divided the system into three parts, classification rates, state aids, and property tax relief. Blazer explained that if the legislature or governor fools with any one piece it will make it worse for the rest. For example, if Governor Carlson cuts local government aid the resulting tax increases would hit businesses especially hard because they provide a disproportionate share of the taxes.

According to the position paper presented by the state chamber, "More so than almost every other state, Minnesota discounts homestead property taxes and makes up for it with business property taxes that are among the nation's highest. Minnesota's tax on the first $72,000 of homestead value ranks 39th in the nation. By contrast, our commercial and industrial property taxes rank second and seventh respectively. The average effective tax rate for business is three and one-half times greater than that for homesteads."

Thief River Falls Mayor Robert Reeve said he was glad to hear that their proposal would not eliminate local government aid. "It's a critical issue to Thief River Falls," said Mayor Reeve. "We're down to the bare bones already."

Olson and Blazer also pointed out that there is no reason Minnesota has to have the most complex property tax system in the United States. Their plan would try to simplify the system and get it more like tax systems in other states.

Those attending the meeting discussed a number of other issues. The draft policy position paper distributed by the Minnesota Chamber of Commerce was almost 40 pages long and touched on issues such as property tax reform, state spending and budget process, health care cost control, health care funding, education, family leave, air pollution control, and recycling and packaging legislation.

Hasby, Walsh finish Marine recruit course

Recently completing recruit training and promoted to the present rank of Marine Pfc. were Lance E. Hasby, son of Loulla M. Hagl of Red Lake Falls and Brendan O. Walsh, son of William and Mary Walsh of Red Lake Falls.

Both recruits are 1992 graduates of Lafayette high school in Red Lake Falls and joined the marine corps in August.

During the training cycle at the Marine Corps recruit depot at San Diego, CA, recruits are taught the basics of battlefield survival, introduced to typical military daily routine and personal and professional standards.

All recruits participate in an active physical conditioning program and gain proficiency in a variety of military skills, including first aid, rifle marksmanship and close-order drill. Teamwork and self discipline are emphasized throughout the cycle.

Black powder shooting will be discussed.

Balmer with Cobbers

Pete Balmer, a 1991 Lincoln High School graduate, is a member of the Concordia College men's basketball team in Moorhead.

The Cobbers return three starters from last year's 14-11 team. The 6-7 Balmer is one of four sophomore front line performers who shared playing time as a freshmen, providing Concordia with depth on the inside.

Concordia plays a 4 p.m. exhibition game against the University of Winnipeg Saturday before opening regular season play Monday at home against St. Senario.

Fisher/Climax, Moorhead win volleyball titles

Moorhead and Fisher/Climax won titles over the weekend in Section 8AA and Section 8A high school volleyball tournament play.

North Sub-Section 8AA champion Moorhead swept South Sub-Section 8AA winner Sauk Rapids 15-6, 15-10, 15-10 in the 8AA finals at Fergus Falls Saturday.

In Section 8A at the University of Minnesota-Crookston, Friday semifinals found Cass Lake-Bena beating Win-E-Mac 15-4, 15-7, 8-15, 15-10, while Fisher/Climax swept Roseau 15-8, 15-6, 15-6.

Fisher/Climax then stopped Cass Lake-Bena 15-13, 16-14, 15-5 in Saturday's Section 8A finals, with Win-E-Mac outlasting Roseau 15-11, 9-15, 15-13, 8-15, 15-6 in the third place match.

State volleyball tournament matches get underway Friday at the Met Center in Bloomington.

The Class A quarterfinals feature United South Central vs. St. Michael-Albertville and Cook vs. Fisher/Climax at 9:30 a.m., while Stewartville goes against Wadena-Deer Creek and Tracy Area draws Concordia Academy at 11:15.

In AA quarterfinals, Moorhead takes on Apple Valley and Blaine meets Columbia Heights at 1 p.m., while Woodbury plays Bloomington Jefferson and Marshall is matched against Hibbing at 2:45.

Semifinal later that same day include Class A matches at 7 p.m. and Class AA at 8:45.

Saturday finals include third place matches for both classes at 10 a.m., the Class A title match at 11:30 a.m. and the Class AA championship at 1:45 p.m.

Area teams are in state football semifinal round

Three area teams won first quarter quarterfinal games Friday in the 1992 Minnesota state high school football playoffs and are headed to the Metrodome in Minneapolis for semifinal match-ups this week.

Detroit Lakes advanced in Class A with a 21-0 win over Totino Grace, Mahnomen moved on in Class C with a 20-7 victory over Cook County and Stephen extended

Section 8 girls high school swim meet results...

Amy Adams wins third title

Thief River Falls girls turned in strong performances, but still fell short of their goals at the Section 8 high school swimming and diving championships held Friday and Saturday at the University of North Dakota in Grand Forks.

"We had some spectacular times," pointed out Thief River Falls coach Ryan Lokken, "but it was still not enough."

The Prowlers' 15-member delegation had a top-three finish as a team goal, and had hoped to move several competitors on to the state meet.

However, they wound up seventh in the 13-team field, and only one individual – senior Amy Adams – will advance to the state meet.

Adams turned in a 25.86 in Saturday's finals to win the sectional 50-yard freestyle for the third straight year. The state meet, scheduled to be held at the University of Minnesota Aquatic Center in Minneapolis, will begin with 3 p.m. Friday preliminaries. Saturday finals start at 1:30 p.m.

Top two finishers in each Section 8 swimming event, along with the top five divers, earned state meet berths.

Sophomore Theresa Giauque just missed two state meet spots with third place finishes in both the 100 and 200 freestyle.

The Prowlers set a Section 8 record with a 1:44.37 in the 200 freestyle relay prelims, but still failed to advance since a 1:45.08 in the finals put Adams, Giauque, senior Ingrid Morken, and junior Lisa Ulrich third behind a 1:44.55 turned in by Alexandria/Morris Area and a 1:44.63 by Bemidji.

Adams, senior Sanna Torgerson, Giauque, and Ulrich also set a school record in the 400 freestyle relay, but had to settle for another third place finish.

Thief River Falls freshman Jennifer Olin placed sixth in the one-meter diving competition, again one spot away from a state meet trip.

"Our times were outstanding, but we still got beat," said Lokken. "It was very disappointing. "The times in our section sky-rocketed. In one year's time our section caught up with the rest of the state."

Adams, who was 15th in the state as a sophomore and 17th last year, will be shooting for a top-16 (consolation finals) state meet finish, with a top-8 (championship finals) as a possibility, according to Lokken.

Area teams in football semis

its season with a 43-22 Nine-Man win over Chokio-Alberta.

Two area teams lost state quarterfinal decisions as Warroad fell to Esko 16-0 in Class B, and Clearbrook/Gonvick dropped a down-to-the-wire 21-20 contest to Hills-Beaver Creek in Nine-Man play.

In Friday state semifinal match-ups at the Metrodome, Stephen (11-0) plays AlBrook (10-1) at 9:30 a.m.; Mahnomen (12-0) draws Browerville (11-1) at 12-noon; and Detroit Lakes (12-0) is paired against Waconia (12-0) at 5 p.m.

Waconia advanced with a 21-2 win over International Falls, Browerville beat Hawley 26-8 and AlBrook knocked off Underwood 14-6.

Prep Bowl championship games will be played Friday, Nov. 27, at the Metrodome.

ALLISS GRANTS AVAILABLE AT NORTHLAND COMMUNITY COLLEGE

Alliss grants are available for the 1992-93 winter quarter at Northland Community College. The Alliss grant was created in 1985 by the Alliss Education Foundation and has helped thousands of people (from age 25 to 60) start on their dream of a college education. Alliss grants cover first course costs of tuition and books. You qualify for an Alliss grant and the chance to begin your college education if:

1) You do not have a college degree;
2) You are a Minnesota resident;
3) You have been out of high school for at least seven years;
4) You enroll at NCC for the first time and have not enrolled in a post-secondary institution for the past seven years.

Contact the Northland Community College Financial Aid Office for the simple Alliss grant application and start earning college credits today.

For more information Contact: Kelsy Richards or Tiffanie Bieganek, Northland Community College, (218) 681-2181.

Piano students participate in Detroit Lakes piano festival

Thirty-nine piano students of Marcia M. Knuttila participated in the MMTA Piano Ensemble Festival on November 7 held at First Baptist church in Detroit Lakes. Each of the performing ensembles received a "superior" rating. A "superior" rating is the higest rating possible. This is also the largest number of piano students from Thief River Falls to participate in the MMTA Festival.

The students participating and their ensemble duets or duos included:

Tevia Reese and Jayne Buzzell with "Such a Funny Man" by Noona; Kathryn Knuttila and Jillian Larson with "Skip To My Lou", a folksong arranged by James Bastien; Christine Anderson and Chris Mickelson with "Promenade" by Jane Smisor Bastien; Matthew Dimich and John Mickelson with "Little Tin Trumpet" by David Carr Glover; Adam Knott and John Mickelson with "Greensleeves" arranged by David Carr Glover; Brittany Larson and Heidi Young with "Fiesta in Chihuahua" by Walter and Crol Noon; Karen and Kelsey Christensen with "Climb Ev'ry Mountain" arranged by Glover;

Also, Richelle Fitzloff and Katie Field with "The Sound of Music" aranged by David Carr Glover; Michael Langland and Jim Langland with "A Down-Home Dance" by Walter and Carol Noona; Paul Dehnert and Eeva Young with "Partita in P Major, Allegro" by Joseph Haydn; Kari and Kim Knuttila with "Remember When" by Robert D. Vandall; Janese Thatcher-Buzzell and Shelly Robb-Aubey with "A Song of India" and "Rondo Alla Turca" by N. Rimsky-Korsakov and Wolfgang A. Mozart; Steve Young and Jim Langland with "The Hallelujah Chorus" by Handel, arranged by Roy Rob Perry; Matthew Johnson and Peter Johnson with "Come Celebrate Jesus" arranged by Bruce Greer; Jessica Kranakkala and Charity Wicks with "Eine Kleine Nachtmusik, Allegro" by Wolfgang A. Mozart and "Undivided" by Tunney, arranged by Bruce Greer;

Also, Jacob Jacobson and Matthew Johnson with "Was it a Morning Like This" arranged by Dino Kartsonakis; Jami Dehnert and Amy Dahle with "Shine Down" arranged by Bruce Greer; Melissa Lampe and Jami Dehnert with "Let There Be Praise" arranged by Bruce Greer; Kari Krankkala and Kathryn Engen with "Assurance Medley" arranged by D. Clydesdale; Kari Krankkala and Jennifer Duncan with "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" arranged by D. Clydesdale, B. George and D. Kartsonakis; Heidi Johnson and Kendra Dimich with "Holy Ground" by Geron Davis, arranged by Dino Kartsonakis; Younna Eiden and Kristine Field with "Friends" by Smith, arranged by Bruce Greer and "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" arranged by Clydesdale, George and Kartsonakis.

Minnesota plans strategy of renovating timber bridges

Renovation, rather than replacement, is a new strategy being looked at to deal with aging timber bridges.

In Minnesota alone, this could mean that more than 1,000 rural bridges could be renovated for only one fourth the cost of replacing them.

University of Minnesota forest products researcher Robert Seavey said, "We may also be able to improve the load rating at the same time, which would be helpful since many bridges were not made for today's loads."

The renovation concept originated with Gene Isakson, director of public works for Sibley County. He sought an alternative to replacing structurally sound bridges whose only faults were being slightly narrow and underrated. He came up with an idea that has been tested on a 1950-vintage bridge south of Winthrop.

The bridge's asphalt surface was removed to expose the original planks, which run the same direction as traffic. An additional layer of treated planks was added on top of and crossing the original layer at right angles. Then, grout was pumped into the voids between the old and new planks, and a new asphalt surface was applied.

"After we added new rails, it looked like a whole new bridge to the traveling public," Isakson said.

The bridge was originally 24 feet wide. "Now it's 28 feet with new, safer bridge rails. Plus we think we're increasing the strength and load carrying capacity by 30 to 40 per cent."

Roberto Leon, a structural engineer in the University of Minnesota's Institute of Technology, is testing the performance of the overhauled structure. The Minnesota Department of Transportation must approve any increase in weight limit.

In the tests that were run, two fully loaded dump trucks were driven side by side across the new bridge at 60 miles an hour. The first time over, the drivers of the trucks noted a slight ripple or bounce in the bridge. "There were voids between the old and new layers," Seavey said, "so grout (cement) was pumped in between."

In the follow-up test, the drivers said they hardly knew when they were on the bridge. "We're seeing a stiffer bridge and a better distribution of the load, less deflection," Leon observed.

"Since the new layer goes across the roadway and at a right angle to the bottom layer, it spreads the stress in a transverse direction," Seavey said. The new planks are slightly wider than the original deck, which is how they were able to widen the bridge.

Replacing the 48-foot-long bridge would have cost more than $100,000. "We did this for 25 per cent," Isakson said. "And, the amount of time we had the road closed was minimal, days versus weeks."

"If you can upgrade while keeping the road open, it's a big advantage. On secondary roads, there are thousands of these bridges, built in the '40s, '50s and '60s. Just think of the savings in time and money."

Tech college union holds first election

Karee Sollom, practical nursing instructor at the Bemidji campus of the Northwest Technical college, was elected the first president of the Northwest chapter of the Federation of Minnesota Technical Colleges, a Minnesota Federation of Teachers affiliate.

Northwest Technical College was formed by consolidating the six technical colleges at Bemidji, East Grand Porka, Detroit Lakea, Moorhead, Thief River Palls and Wadena. Instructors in this system voted in the Federation of Minnesota Technical Colleges as their exclusive representative last spring.

Election of the first officers of the union was conducted among all members by mail ballot. Other officers elected were Dave Gunwall, vice chair; Donna Miller, secretary; and Gary Fischer, treasurer. All are instructors at Wadena technical college.

WHOLE WHEAT BIBLE STUDY

How to do God's Will with your mouth

After you read through this Bible study, go back and look up the Scriptures and highlight them in your Bible.

You may recall seeing the three monkeys which depict "hear no evil, see no evil and speak no evil." It is true that what we see with our eyes and hear with our ears affects how we think, and has a direct bearing on what we say.

If we train our ears and eyes not to listen to or look upon violence, we will have a better attitude mentally. Watching television shows or movies that depict violence, sexual promiscuity or perversion does have a lasting harmful effect on the human brain.

God hates those who love violence (Psalm 11:5). He also hates the perverted mouth (Prov. 8:13). God hates evil. He hates people who are arrogant and full of pride. He loves righteousness (Psalm 11:7). God wants us to keep our tongues from speaking evil, lying, speaking smuttily and from using naughty talk which includes telling dirty jokes (Psalm 34:11-13). He wants us to depart from the evil way by doing good (Psalm 34:14-15; 37:27).

When all our words are good, God will satisfy us with good. Just as the deeds of a man's hands return to him, so also, do the words of his mouth.

God watches everything we do (Prov. 12:14; 15:3). Fools mock when they are told to stop sinning so God can bless them (Prov. 14:9). God says we are fools if our mouths are perverted (Prov. 19:1). Christ, our example, did not swear and neither should we (1 Peter 2:22, 4:11). We should not quarrel with our mouths (Prov. 20:1-3). It is by our deeds—mouth as well as body—that we distinguish ourselves as righteous or wicked (Prov. 20:11).

We are to put our lives in order, in a right and pleasing Way, before God. This is how we show God we are thankful to know Him and have His protection and blessings (Psalm 18:47). Sure, it's a sacrifice—a sacrifice of righteousness and thanksgiving (Psalm 50:22-23; Heb. 13:16).

Let's live our lives so we will see good days (1 Peter 3:10-13). Let us not be numbered with those who turned against righteousness (2 Peter 2:21; 1 John 1: 6). How can we, who told God we would die to sin, keep on sinning (Rom. 6:2, 23)? Let's abhor what is evil and not disqualify ourselves from eternal life (Rom. 12:9; 1 Cor. 9:27).

Let's seek our neighbor's good and not our own first when we talk (1 Cor. 10:24). Let all that we say be said in love because this pleases God in heaven (2 Cor. 16:14; 5:9). Let us not continue to be "sons of disobedience," getting drunk and using our mouths for evil, but please Him in all respects (Eph. 2:1-3; 5:18, Col. 1:10, 12).

Consider the members of your body as dead to sin (Col. 3:5-17). Clean up your mouth, put on the new self and do all that you do for God (Col. 3:23-25; Mark 7:20, 23).

Jeramy Anderson, a 12th grade student at Lincoln high school, was among the 68 people who donated blood at the school's first ever blood drive Wednesday. Robert Michalicek said the blood drive was very successful and enjoyed the support of the administration, faculty, students and community.

Terry Solne, principal at Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls, gave blood Wednesday at the high school. The school held its first ever blood drive and had 68 people donate blood. The blood drive conducted by United Blood Services was sponsored by the Lincoln high school Honor Society, the Key Club, and HOSA club. Robert Michalicek, advisor to the Key Club said the blood drive went well. He wished to thank the administration, students, faculty and community. Michalicek said they even had 10 walk in off the street to donate blood. It went so well Michalicek said he might consider setting up another blood drive.

Property tax reform in Minnesota is necessary

by David Hill
Associate Editor

Every fall the hue and cry before the legislative session is for property tax reform. Each year the battle is taken up and more often than not, the battle is lost.

Perhaps the fear of looking at one of the most complicated property tax systems in the nation is too much. Then again, maybe private interests block change.

One of the reasons the property tax system in Minnesota is so complicated is the tax classification rates. These rates are set by the legislature. They distribute property tax burden among about one dozen different classes of property. Homesteads and farms have the lowest classification rates, while business property, vacant land and utilities have the highest. Homeowners and farmers represent two thirds of the market value of taxable property, but they only pay about 40 per cent of the property tax bill. Meanwhile, business property is 16 per cent of market value, but pays 35 per cent of the property tax bill.

Taking a page from the Minnesota Chamber of Commerce policy position, "There are also disparities within property classes. For example, higher valued homesteads have higher classification rates and pay more than lower valued ones. Apartments have higher rates than duplexes. Some lower valued business property has lower rates than higher valued property.

"The consequences of these disparities are severe for both individual taxpayers and businesses. Both pay more because of them. Individuals do so through high sales and personal income tax rates which are necessary to finance our large and growing property tax relief programs. Businesses do so because they pay a disproportionate share of every property tax dollar levied."

Minnesota's tax on the first $72,000 of homestead value ranks 39th in the nation. By contrast, commercial and industrial property taxes rank second and seventh respectively.

Total elimination of the classification system could cause severe tax consequences. And, as stated by state chamber of commerce officials who visited Thief River Falls last week, fooling around with just one part of the system could cause severe consequences for someone else. Legislators need to look at reforming the entire property tax system.

When property tax notices are issued in the next two weeks, hopefully the hue and cry for property tax reform will be listened to and acted upon.

Census Profile Dispels Myths About Elderly

Some people's belief that "most elderly people are poor and sick" should be put to rest by a recent report issued by the U.S. Commerce Department's Census Bureau.

The report shows that only 26 per cent of non-institutionalized persons aged 65 to 74 consider their health to be fair or poor, while that rises to only 32 per cent among the same group 75 years of age and older. It isn't until people reach their mid-80s that a significant proportion of the elderly need help with everyday activities.

For example, more than one in five persons 85 years of age and older live in a nursing home and 45 per cent need help with everyday activities. It is those 85 and over, however, who are expected to be the fastest growing part of the elderly population into the next century.

Because of the growth of the 85 and over population, the four-generation family will become more common. More of the young-old will have very old, frail relatives who need care.

Income picture for the elderly is also mixed. According to Cynthia Taeuber, author of "Sixty-Five Plus in America," the elderly in general have more assets than the non-elderly. Some 35 per cent of the elderly were poor in 1959, but by 1990 that had dropped to 12 per cent for all persons 65 years of age and older. For white elderly in 1990 the poverty rate was 10 per cent, while it was 23 per cent for Hispanics and 34 per cent for blacks.

"Social Security makes a big difference," Taeuber says. "Without it, 47 per cent of today's elderly would be poor."

Lengthening lifespans are also a factor. The population of people 65 years of age and older in the United States is now 10 times the number it was in 1900. It is expected to more than double between 1990 and 2030 as the baby boom generation (persons born between 1946 and 1964) reach age 65 beginning in the year 2011.

While the elderly population is not necessarily sickly or poor, it is certainly increasing. "The aging of the population is changing American society in fundamental ways," states Dr. Richard Suzman, head of the National Institute on Aging, a component of the National Institutes of Health. "Researchers must make every effort to understand these demographic changes in order to help plan for the future, especially for rapidly growing numbers of very old individuals."

Grygla Senior Citizens

The November meeting was opened by President Thelma Thomas. Altha Benson read the secretary's report and Donna Jelle gave both the senior meals and senior citizen's club treasurer's reports. They were approved as read.

Fall is the time of year when our Liability insurance is due. This is for coverage in case someone gets hurt. Since there are many more people at the dinners than in the afternoon, it was suggested that a different means of dividing insurance costs be considered.

A motion was made, seconded and approved, that the club buy stamps for use on cards that will be sent to people in hospitals, etc. Harriet Nelsen volunteered to mail the cards.

It was decided to have the senior citizen Christmas party on December 11. As in other years, those who wish may bring a gift (of up to $3 in value) for the gift exchange.

A letter was received from the Marshall County Council for the Aging which consisted of a review of their meeting in Middle River. Thelma Thomas sent it around to be read.

A $2 membership fee for the upcoming year is now due. Harriet Nelsen volunteered to collect dues. Please try to get the dues to her now, in the early part of November.

Meeting adjourned.

THIEF RIVER FALLS TIMES

Thief River Falls, Pennington Co. Minnesota November 19, 1942

From The Times Files of Fifty Years Ago

Six Local Women Qualify as First Aid Instructors

"Following completion of a recent course for Red Cross first aid instructors, Chairman Herman A. Kjos of the Pennington county chapter announced that certificates have been received at his office for six local women qualified to serve as instructors in first aid. Included in the group are Mrs. Harry W. Miller, Mrs. Jeanette Wright, Mrs. Carl I. Hovie, Mrs. Jake O'Hara, Miss Alice M. Carter and Miss Anna H. Gunderson."

Victory Aides to Hold Meeting

"To hear a discussion of several important projects, Victory Aides and women leaders of agricultural extension work in Pennington county will meet in the municipal auditorium Friday afternoon, it was announced today by Mrs. E. C. Karwand, vice chairman of the county civilian defense council. Chief among the topics to be brought up for consideration are food rationing, particularly in respect to meat, and new phases of the salvage campaign. Also to be formulated are plans for the organization of new classes in first aid, home nursing and nurses' aides. Mrs. Karwand requested a full attendance of all women concerned."

2,357 Cars Listed For Gas Rations

"In preparation for gasoline rationing, scheduled to go into effect December 1 in Minnesota and other states of the nation, a total of 2,357 Pennington county motorists were registered in the schools for basic 'A' ration books last Thursday and Friday.

"Of the estimated 3,000 automobiles in the county, a considerable number have been put in storage for the winter, and their owners were not required to register at this time. Those who should have registered, but failed to do so last week, will be given an opportunity later on.

"Supt. Morris Bye announced this week that 1,138 cars were registered at the three Thief River Falls grade schools, the work being handled efficiently by the grade teachers with the assistance of twelve members of the high school faculty. Of the total, 383 were listed at Northrop school, 361 at Knox and 394 at Washington. Two motorcycles also were registered in the city."

Surgical Dressings Lag Behind In County Quota

"The Pennington county quota of 29,000 surgical dressings scheduled for completion Monday in the Red Cross workroom in the council chamber was 5,000 short of being fulfilled, it was announced today by Mrs. L. W. Rulian and Mrs. George W. Werstlein, in charge of the project. The principal reason for failure to achieve the goal, it was pointed out, was a lack of the necessary number of volunteer workers. Any women willing to donate some of their time to this war project are asked to report to the workroom any afternoon or evening during the week from Monday through Friday."

Total of 2,122,595 lbs. of Scrap Collected Here

"A total of 2,122,595 pounds of scrap metal has been assembled in or shipped out of Pennington county to date since the salvage campaign got under way in August, it was reported today by F. E. Hageman, chairman of the implement dealers' scrap committee cooperating with the county salvage committee. This compares with the county quota of 2,200,000 pounds set by the state salvage committee, and there is every likelihood that this figure will be attained at an early date."

Thanksgiving

"Tomorrow is Thanksgiving and although the year has not been as prosperous as it might have been, nor free from disaster, still when we eat our Thanksgiving dinner tomorrow we will have many things to be thankful for. Thankful first, that the majority of us are enjoying good health. Thankful again, that although the crops are not good there is enough in the country to keep all from actual want. Let us be thankful for the good things we have and hope for continued good health and prosperous times."

Weather Forecast

"Weather prophets are of the opinion that we are going to have a long cold winter with plenty of snow. Some give the goose bone and the others the muskrat houses as corroborative evidence of their predictions.

NOTICE OF HEARING

You and each of you will please take notice that the Marshall County Highway Engineer has indicated that it would be advantageous and desirable to make minor alterations in the following ditch systems located in Marshall County, Minnesota. These minor alterations are deemed to not affect the functioning or impair the efficiency of said County Ditches.

You will further take notice that said public hearing will be held in the Commissioners Meeting Room of the County Courthouse in Warren, Minnesota on the 17th day of November, 1992 at 2:00 PM at which time all persons interested in these ditch systems may be heard and present arguments for or against the proposed highway improvement projects listed below.

PUBLIC NOTICE
Annual Notification of Rights
Protection and Privacy of Student Records

Pursuant to the requirements of School District #564 regarding the requirements of federal law, the following constitutes the School District's Annual Notification to parents and students regarding data privacy practices of the school district.

The school district has adopted a Student Record Data Privacy Policy incorporating state and federal requirements as to data privacy rights in student educational records. In summary the policy provides:

1. Privacy Rights

Educational records which identify or could be used to identify a student other than directory information, may not be released to members of the public or to another agency without the written permission of the student's parent or guardian, or if the student is 18 or attends a post-secondary institution, the student may give permission. This general rule is subject to specific and limited exceptions which cannot be set out here due to limitations of space but which are set out in the complete policy on file in the District Office, 230 S. LaBree, Thief River Falls. Written objections should be submitted to the principal in each building.

2. Directory information includes the following:

Student's name, Student's address, Student's telephone number, Date and place of birth, Names of the student's parents, Participation in officially recognized activities, Grade levels complete, Weight and height of members of athletic teams, Dates of attendance, Degrees and awards received, The most previous educational institution attended, Photo of student if available.

Directory information may be released to the public without prior parent or student consent unless the parent or student, if the student is 18 or older, has objected in writing to the release of one or more category of such information.

3. Inspection of Records

Parents of a student or a student who is 18 or older may request to inspect and review any of the student's educational records except those which are by state and federal law made confidential. The school district will comply with the request immediately if possible and, if not, within five working days. In certain special circumstances an additional five working days may be required in order to comply. Copies of records may be obtained at a reasonable fee as established by the school district.

4. Right to Hearing

If parents wish to challenge the accuracy of a student's records, the building principal and other school personnel, as appropriate, shall meet to decide whether or not to change the record. Course grades or marks may not be challenged except as to the accuracy of recording. If it is decided that a record should not be changed, the parents should be informed of their right to a hearing.

The hearing shall be conducted with appropriate district staff member(s). Such a hearing must allow the presentation of evidence, representation by an attorney if desired, and the eventual issuance of a decision in writing (including a summary of the findings and the reasons for the decision). If the request to change the record is denied by the district, the parents must be afforded the opportunity to place a statement in the records setting forth their reasons for disagreement with the decision of the school district, or any other commentary they may have concerning the record. If the challenged record is released or forwarded, a copy of the parent's statement of disagreement must also be sent with it. A reasonable attempt must be made to notify all other parties who have previously received copies of the disputed record.

5. Transfer of Records to Other Schools

The school district forwards educational records of students to other schools and school districts in which a student seeks or intends to enroll upon request of that school or school district. A parent or student who is 18 years of age may request and receive a copy of the records which are transferred and may, pursuant to this policy, challenge the accuracy of the records. The district does not, however, notify parents or students of age 18 or older prior to such a transfer.

6. Complaints for Non-Compliance

Parents or students of 18 years of age or older who feel there has been a violation of the rights accorded them may submit written complaints to the Family Education Rights and Privacy Act Office, U.S. Department of Education, Washington, D.C. 20201.

7. Non-Custodial Parents

Non-custodial parents (a parent who does not have custody of a given child after a divorce action but who does have the right of visitation) does have the right to full and complete information about his or her child unless specified otherwise by court order.

8. Records Subpeona

When student records have been subpoensed by a court of law, the district is required to make a reasonable attempt to notify the parent prior to releasing the records. A brief letter will be sent to the parents informing them that the school district is required by law to produce the school records in court. Records delivered under subpeona will be copies and not the original records.

9. Emergency Release

In emergency situations, relevant information may be released without authorization. If circumstances permit, the Building Principal and/or Superintendent will be contacted prior to that release. If not, all parties will be notified as soon as possible after the release of information.

This review of the data privacy rights of students and parents in the educational records maintained by School District #564 is intended only to be a summary of the provisions of the "Protection and Privacy of Pupil Records" and applicable state and federal law.

Requests for copies of the policy and questions should be addressed to the Superintendent of Schools, School District #564, 230 S. LaBree, Thief River Falls, MN 56701.

School District 564 meeting

(October 26, 1992)

■ Darcy Reese, choir director, reported that instead of going to Europe, the choir will perform at Carnegie Hall on Easter Sunday.

■ Dr. Duncan reported that more soil testing will take place at the facilities project site for the elementary school.

■ The board approved a motion to accept the purchase agreement with abundant Life church as presented in the amount of $80,850 for 53.90 acres.

REGULAR BOARD MEETING
October 26, 1992
7:00 p.m.
S.O.S.C. Conference Room

A Regular Board Meeting of Independent School District #564 was held on Monday, October 26, 1992, at 7:00 p.m. in Conference Room A of the School District Service Center.

The following Board members were present: Maryel Anderson, Larry Belmont, Carl Clark, Hand Hellstrom, Dennis Kiesow, Harry Sjulson and Darla Twomey.

Chair Larry Belmont called the meeting to order and Clerk Carl Clark established that a quorum was present.

A motion was made by M. Anderson and seconded by C. Clark to approve the agenda as presented. Motion carried unanimously.

A thank you letter from Trinity Lutheran Church for use of the Lincoln Auditorium was distributed as well as information concerning the MSBA's collective bargaining position statement.

The Lions Club was recognized for their donation of $250 to the Little Brother/Little Sister Program.

On behalf of the entire Franklin Middle School staff John Erickson, John Anderson, Deb Telken, Leslie Nordheim and Mary Almquist presented information about their attendance at the Middle School Regional Conference. They all felt it was an excellent conference and a good investment for all staff to attend.

Darcy Reese, Lincoln Choir Director, reported that choir trip plans have changed and instead of a European trip, the choir will be participating at Carnegie Hall on Easter Sunday with 200 other singers. They will be leaving Thursday, April 8, and returning Tuesday, April 13.

Marcia Sandahl, Executive Assistant, updated the Board on the Minnesota Quick Link electronic communications system.

Reports were given by Harry Sjulson concerning the Region I-ESV Executive Board. Carl Clark and Larry Belmont reported on the MSBA Management Services Seminar on the negotiations process that was attended in Detroit Lakes. Darla Twomey and Larry Belmont reported on the FFA Committee and Darla Twomey reported on the Technology Committee indicating she will be attending a technology conference in November. Carl Clark and Dennis Kiesow reported on the Community Ed Advisory Council.

Business Manager Harry Nelson reported on the McNeil Environmental Health and Safety Program which will be custom tailored for our district. He also indicated OSHA was in the district on October 19-21 and made a number of safety recommendations. Harry explained the recommendation to transfer funds from Reserved for Unemployment to Transportation Unreserved to General Unreserved and updated the Board on the bond sale.

Superintendent Robert Duncan distributed the enrollment report for October 1 which indicates enrollment is down from projections. Dr. Duncan updated the Board on the facilities project indicating further soil testing is being done this week and preliminary surveying is done. The Elementary Project Team is doing site visits this week and the architect will be here Thursday, October 29 to meet with focus groups. A survey from the MREA was distributed and Board members were asked to return their completed forms by Thursday of this week. Maryel Anderson and Dennis Kiesow volunteered to assist in putting together an inservice for the Board to be held in January.

A motion was made by D. Kiesow and seconded by D. Twomey to approve the Minutes of the October 12, 1992, Regular Board Meeting as presented. Motion carried unanimously.

PRAIRIE RAMBLING

by Gretchen Beito

The arrival of winter is always the most dramatic of the seasons' changes. No other season changes the landscape as completely. Often, it seems, winter comes in a sudden onslaught after many mild cobalt-blue sky days. The change to winter can surprise wild creatures too, as shown by the strange event fifty-seven years ago when ducks rained on Thief River Falls.

On October 31, 1935, a Thief River Falls Forum headline announced, "No Need to Go Hunting, Citizens Pick Up Ducks in the Streets."

"With the coming of the snow, the hundreds of ducks that have been flying south for some time increased to thousands. The birds, in their haste to quit this north country, continued flying during the night.

"When they were caught in the storm, hundreds of them descended into Thief River Falls during the early hours of the morning, being attracted by the lights.

"The reservoir above the city's municipal power dam was literally covered with the birds."

Although later the Minnesota Sportsman called them "suicide ducks," severe weather actually caused this tragedy for a massive flight of south-bound waterfowl.

When birds leave their Canadian nesting and feeding grounds, the weather often features a bluebird sky and high pressure system. As the birds move southward, low pressure systems sometimes also move in, producing good tailwinds for migrating waterfowl. This weather pattern touches off what many call the Northern Flight, but it also causes storms.

The weather of October 1935 in the Thief River Falls area had been balmy, with temperatures in the 50s and 60s. Then, on October 30, the wind switched to the northwest and rain and sleet started. The storm that felled the ducks dropped only two inches of snow, but temperatures dropped precipitously to sub-zero readings.

Later the Minnesota Sportsman interviewed Morris Owen, who was on duty at the power plant that night. Owen said, "You just hated to see it. What happened was we got this freezing rain and with the lights on, the ice made the ground look like a pool of water. The ducks were wet, their wings frozen, and they came down on this sheet of ice thinking it was water."

Many people started to pick up the ducks. The Thief River Falls Times of November 7, 1935, reported that "Many hunters got full bags at the city's reservoirs of the municipal power plant, which is not included in the adjoining game reserve."

"However," the Times said, "Many of the ducks remained to be frozen in. These ducks fell easy prey to children, who on the following Saturday obtained boats, and, breaking their way through the thin ice, killed many of them with clubs, later taking them home to be prepared for duck dinners."

Kenneth Halldin told the Minnesota Sportsman that by daylight, the banks of the river by the Eighth Street Bridge were lined with people shooting the ducks that had fallen into the river and were frozen into thin ice. Halldin said he saw people rowing up and down the river plucking up boat loads of ducks.

Al Christafferson and George Mostue say ducks were all over town. Police put ducks in their squad cars to clear city streets. Glen Carlson, the Star and Tribune distributor, had his pickup full of ducks.

Halldin went to work at the Highway Department that morning and picked up 8 or 10 ducks in about 12 blocks. He reported that ducks' wings had iced up so that birds forced to land broke their legs or wings. Some had been killed. "By the time I got downtown where we kept the trucks in a commercial garage, the drivers for a local bakery were driving around the streets picking up ducks. There in the middle of that garage floor was the biggest pile of ducks that I have ever seen in my life."

Owen said it didn't take long for the game warden to get here. "He loaded ducks into his car and took them some place warm and thawed them out and then let them go."

Halldin said no one was charged or prosecuted for shooting or gathering ducks, even though some of the shooting occurred within the city limits.

The country was in the depth of the Depression, and Halldin said, "A lot of people had duck dinners who otherwise would have been living on salt pork."

The next year a tire company ran an ad saying when ducks could not get going on Thief River Fall's icy streets, their company's tires could hold the road.

Northland stresses cultural diversity

December features Spanish, Mexican programs

Introducing this year's cultural diversity program at Northland Community College in Thief River Falls will be "Celebramos!" This is the title for December observances which will include a literary speaker, movie, video program and a "Taste of Mexico." All events are open to the public.

Award-winning novelist Sandra Benitez will be the guest speaker Wednesday, December 2, at 11 a.m. in Rooms D61 and D62 at the college. Her writing reflects her Puerto Rico-American heritage as well as the 21 years she lived in Mexico and El Salvador.

Benitez has lived in Minnesota for 18 years and written numerous articles, recently publishing a novel entitled "A Place Where the Sea Remembers." Her awards and distinctions include the Loft-McKnight Award for Fiction and the 1992 Minnesota Hispanic Heritage Month Award. She received her MA degree in Comparative Literature from Missouri State University.

In addition to her appearance December 2 at Northland, she will be speaking to the Northern Expressions literary arts class at Lincoln high school. Her topic at both schools will be her background and her profession as a writer.

On December 3 the Spanish movie "El Espiritu de la Colmena" will be shown in Room D61 at 7 p.m. Presented in Spanish with English subtitles, the movie centers around two small girls who become fascinated with the movie "Frankenstein." Refreshment will be served.

On December 9 in Room D61 at 7 p.m. the video "Diego Rivera" will be shown. This video features the influence of Mexico's volatile history on the art work of muralist Diego Rivera. Area art students are especially invited to this event, according to Kathryn Henke, director of college relations.

The annual "Taste of Mexico" will take place Thursday, December 17, from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. in Room D61. Authentic Latin American dishes will be prepared and served by Northland Spanish language students.

For additional information contact Yolanda Martinez or Mury Dyrud at Northland Community College, phone 681-2181 or 1-800-628-9918.

Community tree lighting Nov. 29

Annual lighting of the Thief River Falls community Christmas tree at Elks Park will take place Sunday, November 29, with the program beginning at 5 p.m.

Musical selections will be presented by the brass ensemble from Lincoln high school and Christmas caroling will be conducted by the Lincoln high school Swingsations under the direction of Mrs. Darcy Reese.

Jane Mattson, president of the Thief River Falls chamber of commerce, will serve as master of ceremonies and the welcome will be given by Thief River Falls Mayor Bob Reeve.

Mrs. Heidi Hoks will read the Christmas story and the Lincoln high school Swingsations will sing before the lighting of the tree is performed by Russell Lilcks, a resident at Hanson's Boarding Home in Thief River Falls.

Closing prayer will be given by Rev. Curtis Anderson, pastor of the Evangelical Free Church in Thief River Falls.

Public attendance and participation in this community event is encouraged by the sponsoring organizations.

Mayor proclaims Manufacturer's Week in TR Falls

Thief River Falls Mayor Robert Reeve has signed a proclamation declaring the week of November 30 through December 4 as Manufacturer's Week. In doing so, the city joins other cities across the nation in recognizing the contribution of manufacturers.

The mayor's proclamation lists five reasons why manufacturing is important:

- Manufacturing employs one out of five every five off-farm workers in Minnesota;
- Manufacturing has the largest total payroll of any sector in Minnesota, and the second highest wage;
- Manufacturing produces $19.8 billion for Minnesota's economy (It is the largest single share of the state's gross state product);
- Manufacturing exports brought nearly $5.9 billion into the state in 1990, far outstripping any of Minnesota's other sectors;
- In just state corporate income taxes alone, manufacturing contributed nearly $68 million more than any other sector — that's enough to pay for all the judges, clerks, and operating costs for the entire state judicial system last year.

In Pennington county, the 22 manufacturers in the county hire 1,015 employees, and pays $18,734,776 in wages.

In Marshall county, the 20 manufacturers in that county employ 154 people and pay out $2,482,979 in wages.

In Kittson county, the 7 manufacturers in that county employ 19 people and pay out $267,622 in wages.

To show and discuss their wares with users of the products, some manufacturers came a long way to the first Team Arctic Racing Seminar Monday at the National Guard Armory in Thief River Falls. Phil Kribs (left), a member of the engineering department for Fox Racing Shocks in Jan Jose, CA, demonstrates shock absorbers for a couple of racing enthusiasts attending the event.

Woodcrafters make toys for needy children

Members of Northland Woodcrafters of Thief River Falls will bring hand-made toys and games for needy children when they meet Monday, November 30, at 7 p.m. at the Occupational Development Center on highway 32 south, Thief River Falls.

Club members have each been asked to make one or more items to be donated to area youngsters at Christmas time. Receiving and distributing the toys again this year will be the local Violence Intervention Program. Prior to distribution shortly before Christmas, the items will be on display at the Thief River Falls public library.

Anyone interested in making items with wood is invited to become a member of the Northland Woodcrafters.

Posing with examples of her rosemaling during the Holiday Fair craft show and sale at the Thief River Falls city auditorium Saturday is JoAnn Copeland of Starkweather, ND. Mrs. Copeland and her husband, Roger, had an extensive display of ornate items at the show and drew appreciative comments from many people attending the 16th annual event. JoAnn began rosemaling as a hobby in 1979 and enjoyed it so much it has grown into a separate business. Her husband makes many of the wood items on which she does her painting.

Mr and Mrs. James Edward Schulz (Diana Kay Troska) are at home in Eden Prairie following their June 20 wedding at the Our Lady of Grace Catholic church in Edina. The bride is the daughter of Harvey and Betty Troska of Goodridge. Parents of the groom are Gerald and Janice Schulz of Granville, OH.

Cerise Idel Lee was born Aug. 23, 1899 in Amery, WI, the daughter of Frank and Carrie (Schock) Lee. She was baptized in Amery and, at the age of six, she moved with her family to Montana. In 1921 she moved to Grygla and lived there until 1925, when she moved to Hibbing. On Feb. 26, 1926 she was married to Oscar O. Knutson in Hibbing. They returned to Grygla where they operated the Knutson Hotel and farmed. They retired from farming in 1941 and she began work as a saleslady for the Grygla Co-op. Following her retirement in 1956 they moved to Thief River Falls. Her husband died on Jan. 31, 1973.

She is survived by one brother, Harland P. Lee of Grygla.

She was preceded in death by her husband; an infant son; and two brothers: John and Frank.

Dear Readers,
Ministers encourage their parishoners to call them as soon as death occurs. If you do not have a religious affiliation, and feel the need to have a minister present, we will be happy to contact someone for you. Clergy possess great faith, and they realize what a powerful aid faith can be at time of death. They will be a source of strength to you and your family, not only for the first few days, but also during the long and difficult period of adjustment that follows.

Respectfully,
Belmont Funeral Home
Larry Belmont

She had worked for Strander Abstract Inc. in Crookston for over 25 years. She married Armand N. Benoit on Aug. 3, 1963 in Crookston and they lived in Red Lake Falls. She had been a resident of Hillcrest Nursing Home since Mar. 28, 1985. She was a member of the St. Joseph Catholic church.

She is survived by her husband and her stepchildren.

She was preceded in death by her parents, one brother and one sister.

George Larson, 85

Oklee — George W. Larson, 85, died November 17 at the Northwest Medical center in Thief River Falls.

Funeral services were held November 21 at the Salem Lutheran church, rural Oklee, with Rev. Kirsten Frantsvog officiating. Special music was provided by Vernon Iverson, soloist. Honorary casketbearers were Abner Maattala, Don Stenberg, Eddie Larson, Alton Torske, Ellsworth Milligan and George Ollie. Active casketbearers were Ray Rosten, David Johnson, Charlie Johnson, Jeff Stenberg, Tom Kolstoe and Orrin Linder. Interment was in the church cemetery. The Petterson Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

George W. Larson was born Mar. 7, 1907 in Garnes township, Red Lake county, the son of John and Mary (Johnson) Larson. He grew up, lived and farmed on the home farm all of his life. With his brothers, Bill and Carl, he was known for breeding, raising and showing their famous Belgian horses. He was a lifetime member of the Belgian Draft Horse corporation.

He is survived by two brothers: Bill and Carl Larson, both of rural Oklee.

He was preceded in death by his parents and one brother, Roswall Larson on July 20, 1975.

Pauline Spilde, 81

Halma — Pauline Spilde, 81, died November 18 at the Karlstad Memorial hospital in Karlstad.

Funeral services were held November 23 at the Eidsvold Lutheran church in Halma with Rev. Gary Halverson officiating. Special music was provided by Jill Moughamian, Pam Carlson, Leanne Eylands and Lori Spilde, vocalists, and Margaret Sandberg, organist. Casketbearers were grandsons Gary Spilde, Scott Spilde, Tim Spilde, Alan Spilde, Todd Spilde, Troy Spilde, Karl Spilde and Douglas Spilde. Interment was in the Eidsvold church cemetery. The Collins Funeral Home of Karlstad was in charge of arrangements.

Pauline Josephine Oien was born July 15, 1911 in Norway township, Kittson county, near Halma, the daughter of Peder and Gina (Holm) Oien. She was baptized and confirmed at the Eidsvold Lutheran church in Halma and had been a lifelong member there. She grew up at Halma and, on Aug. 25, 1929, was united in marriage to Theodore Spilde there. The couple made their home at Halma for many years. Her husband died on Oct. 30, 1971. She was a member of the Halma Homemakers group, the senior citizens group and was active in the Eidsvold ladies aid.

She is survived by four sons: Tilmen of Kennedy, Arlo of Karlstad, Keith of Covington, TN, and Paul of Solway; 16 grandchildren; and 21 great-grandchildren.

She was preceded in death by her husband; one son in infancy; her parents; four brothers: Sig, Nels, John and Olaf; and one sister, Helen.

Willo Sedlacek, 80

Warren — Willo Sedlacek, 80, died November 16 at the Good Samaritan center in Warren.

Funeral services were held November 19 at the Our Savior's Lutheran church in Warren with Rev. Richard Luedtke officiating. Special music was provided by Mark Swanson, soloist, and Sylvia Thompson, organist. Honorary casketbearers were members of the Gloomchasers Homemakers. Active casketbearers were Harvey Sedlacek, Lowell Sedlacek, Franklin Knoll, Loren Engelstad, Jerry Sedlacek, Bill Bossman, Milo Monroe and Edward Turn. Interment was in the Greenwood cemetery in Warren. The Quanrud Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Willo Engelstad was born Dec. 21, 1911 in Warren, the daughter of Gilbert and Elizabeth Engelstad. She was baptized on Apr. 11, 1912 by Rev. Knudsen, confirmed at McCrea Lutheran church and attended Warren high school. On June 9, 1933 she was united in marriage to John H. Sedlacek at Thief River Falls. They made their home at Radium where they farmed. In 1984 they moved to Warren. Her husband died on Feb. 6, 1988. She was a lifelong member of Our Savior's Lutheran church and was active in church activites, including past president of the ladies aid and Sunday school teacher for many years. She was also a charter member of the Gloomchasers Homemakers.

She is survived by one son, John R. (Delores) Sedlacek of Warren; one daughter, Mrs. Alden (Orianne) Hylland of Apple Valley; six grandchildren; three great-grandchildren; one brother, Wells "Bunty" (Lorene) Engelstad.

She was preceded in death by her husband; her parents; two brothers: Clifford and Curtis; and one sister, Ebba.

Kenneth Wilson, 22

St. Cloud — Kenneth J. Wilson, 22, died November 19 at his home in St. Cloud.

Funeral services were held November 21 at the Faith Lutheran church in St. Cloud with Rev. Donald Kirsch officiating. Interment was in the Trinity Lutheran cemetery in Sauk Rapids. The Benson Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Kenneth Wilson was born Feb. 13, 1970 in St. Paul, the son of Weldon and Corinne (Gruenhagen) Wilson. He was a 1988 graduate of technical high school where he was active in football and a member of [illegible] National [illegible]

He is survived by his parents, [illegible] Kay Wilson and [illegible] Wilson, both of St. Cloud and grandparents Hazel Gruenhagen of St. Paul, [illegible] Wellen of Roseau and William Wilson of Greenbush.

He was preceded in death by his grandfather, Ferdinand Gruenhagen.

Gov. proclaims Winter Storm Awareness Week

November 29 through December 5 has been proclaimed "Winter Storm Awareness Week" in Minnesota by Gov. Arnie Carlson.

"This is the time we set aside to ask Minnesotans to prepare themselves and their families for winter emergency conditions," said Department of Public Safety Commissioner Tom Frost. "A little preparation now could enhance your chances of surviving under extreme winter conditions."

In support of the Governor's proclamation, the Division of Emergency Management offers these basic safety tips:

- Keep ahead of the winter storm by watching and listening to the latest weather warnings.
- Check battery powered equipment, including flashlights, radios and cooking facilities.
- Check your supply of heating fuel. Fuel carriers may not be able to deliver during or following a major storm.
- Check your food supply and stock up if needed. You may not be able to get to the store for several days following a major storm.
- Prevent fire hazards due to overheated coal, oil or woodburning stoves, fireplaces, heaters or furnaces. Have your furnace cleaned and inspected.
- Stay indoors during storms and extreme cold weather. If you absolutely must go out, dress warmly and avoid overexertions.
- Use caution shoveling snow. Shoveling snow is hard work and can lead to a heart attack, which is a major cause of death during and following a winter storm.
- Dress according to the weather. Loose-fitting, lightweight, warm clothing worn in layers is recommended.
- Get you vehicle winterized before the storm season begins.
- Carry a winter survival kit in your care. If you become stranded, stay with your vehicle until help arrives.

Additional information about winter storm survival is available in a brochure from the Department of Public Safety. To obtain copy, write to the Department of Public Safety, Division of Emergency Management, B-5 State Capitol, 75 Constitution Ave., St. Paul, MN, 55155.

71.9 per cent of Minnesota voters vote

A total of 2,355,796 Minnesotans voted on November 3, which is 71.9 per cent of those who were eligible to vote, according to Secretary of State Joan Growe. It was the highest voter turnout in the state since the 71.9 per cent also recorded in the 1980 presidential election.

The turnout was 230,000 more than in the 1988 presidential election. Cook county had the highest turnout percentage with 91 per cent and 28 counties had turnouts exceeding 75 per cent. All Minnesota counties had voter turnouts exceeding the estimated national turnout of 55 per cent.

This year 131,649 people or 5.6 per cent of the voters voted by absentee ballot, up from 109,673 or 5.2 per cent of the total voters casting absentee ballots in 1988. In the five counties that authorized absentee voting without restriction this year, 6.4 per cent of the total voters cast absentee ballots compared with 5.0 per cent in the balance of the state.

Several close races are being determined by the canvassing board, Growe said. The board declared David Minge had been elected to Congress by 569 votes over Cal Ludeman and that Don Ostrom was the winner by 39 votes over Marcel Frederick following a recount in legislative district 24A.

The canvassing board will meet December 3 to canvass the returns of recounts being conducted by the secretary of state in legislative districts 8A, 14A and 20A.

Koop, Price, Johnson are recognized

Quin County Community Health Services recognized the contributions of board members Albert Koop of Pennington county, Kenneth Price of Marshall county and Carol Johnson of Kittson county at an appreciation night Monday, November 16, at the board meeting.

Price has served with the community health service since the original committee was formed to organize for the area in 1978. Koop served for 10 years and Johnson for four years.

New Quin County board members will be appointed by their respective county boards and will assume responsibilities in January of 1993. They will join remaining board members Art Seibel, Red Lake county and Richard Jackson, Roseau county.

Also honored at the meeting were members of the advisory committee. Receiving certificates for advisory committee service were Kathleen Clark and Claudia Nyegaard, Kittson, Delray Larson and Eunice Waterworth, Marshall, Sam Honebrink and LaRue Johnson, Pennington, Susan Olson and Karen Schirrick, Red Lake, Shirley Langaas and MaryAnna Pelowski, Roseau, and F.N. LeBlanc, MD, medical consultant.

Also attending the meeting were staff members Margo Peterson, Judy Lokstad and Carol Borchert.

Northland Community Hospice received a check for $800 as the result of a fund-raiser conducted by Black River and Redeemer Lutheran churches and matching funds from Aid Association for Lutherans. Linda Ronchetti of the Hospice accepts the check from Rev. Neil Gladen, pastor at Redeemer and Black River churches, and Colleen Holen (right), district representative for AAL.

Impressions . . .

Do you ever find it difficult to feel thankful? If you are at all like me, you have days when being thankful is far removed from your way of thinking.

When you consider your life and when you consider this world, it's easy to feel worried or scared or confused. It's not always easy to feel thankful.

I look at this past year in the life of my family. A great deal has occurred in our lives. If I want, I can spend many hours feeling ungrateful for the major changes that have happened in our family.

How good it is that we are definitely reminded at this, another Thanksgiving time, that we should look around us and count our blessings, not our worries.

I am truly blessed by my family. To have a husband who loves and cares for me is a blessing I too often take for granted. Thanksgiving causes me to take account of the times I take him for granted and instead to be thankful for him.

My family also consists of two wonderful young men without whom I would truly be bereft. As a parent, I worry for them. As a parent I am scared for them. As a parent I love them and am eternally thankful for them.

My family consists, too, of parents and siblings and aunts and uncles and cousins and in-laws of all ages. The concern that both sides of our family show for each other—even though removed from each other by a couple thousand miles—is truly a cause for thanksgiving.

My life would not be complete without friends. Friends are those persons who last through the tests that the times of our lives bring to us and still like us in spite of our flaws. I'm thankful for the friends I have made throughout my life. I'm thankful for the friendships I am just now beginning to find.

This world is a frightening place in which to live and in which to raise a family. But, Thanksgiving causes us to look at the larger world around us and find the reasons to be thankful.

The recent effort by our community to add to our local food pantry is one visible reason to feel thankfulness this Thanksgiving. People will be fed because of other's generous donations.

The elections our nation just held leave me in awe of our nation and in particular, her people. Other peoples in other nations live in fear when a change in leadership occurs in their nation. We, in America, cooperate. People of different political persuasions and different leadership concerns turn aside their differences for the betterment of our nation. Truly we are blessed. We need to remember to be thankful this Thanksgiving for our nation and her people.

Our nation would not be great without the freedoms it has so diligently cherished. One of these freedoms is the freedom of religion. I am truly grateful for my faith in God. Without this faith my life would be bereft. This faith exceeds the demands of organized religion. This faith is instead an integral part of my daily life. Thanksgiving reminds me to reflect on my faith and the God in whom I believe. In my reflecting, I am reminded of how blessed I have been.

This Thanksgiving, look around you. See if you, too, like me can leave behind the worries for a while and instead reflect on the blessings of your life. Your blessings will be solely yours. Remember that blessings are not simply the thanks for all of the possessions you may own. Blessings are more than possessions. Blessings are all around you. Look closely so that you don't miss a reason for giving thanks this Thanksgiving.

Concert Ass'n. concert a musical treat for listener

by Boonie C. Knapp
Dist. 564 Orchestra director

Tuesday evening's Thief River Falls Concert Association concert by the ensemble Cafe Noir was truly a musical treat for the listener. The ensemble consists of five musicians, with instrumentation including violin, viola, string bass, guitar, accordion, clarinet and voice. The musical expertise of the ensemble was demonstrated in a variety of styles including jazz, gypsy and classical. The group performed a number of original works by members of tho ensemble including a slow jazz styled piece for voice, bass and guitar entitled "One More Waltz, Mary Rose" which was composed by the group's vocalist, Randy Erwin in honor of his grandmother.

The group bases itself in Texas, although the musicians are originally from many different areas including Europe. They have amassed many awards as musicians such as the National Public Radio's Album of the Year award (1988). After the holidays the group will be performing frequently in schools throughout Texas as one of the state's accredited performing ensembles in its Young Audiences Inc. program. It is easy to see why this ensemble was chosen to perform in the Young Audience program as the group has a wonderful ability to share not only the music, but information about the music and its origin. This helps the listening experience to be more fulfilling and personal.

My thanks to the Concert Association for bringing us such a quality program.

Speaking Of . . .

Sharon LaCoursiere

. . . Cooking Quandaries, Just in Time for the Holidays

Just because I write the recipe column, Soupcon, for The Times doesn't mean I'm a good cook. Sometimes I am a very bad cook; sometimes what I cook is hardly edible.

Sometimes things I cook just don't turn out very well and I try to disguise them. I've been known to tell little white lies about my cooking failures, like telling the children that the fallen cake was a new kind of bar cookie, or cutting the burned bottom off of the cake and turning it upside down before frosting it. I don't think my children trust my cooking any more.

My bad cooking doesn't happen just once in a while. It runs in cycles, so that almost everything I cook for a period of time turns out wrong.

Sometimes my bad cooking cycle lasts for a few hours, sometimes a few days, and sometimes there are entire weeks when everything I make turns out wrong. I'm really worried about it now with Thanksgiving right around the corner. What if I am having a bad cooking cycle on Thanksgiving day?

When I am having a spell of bad cooking, I never know what is going to go wrong. Often the most simple dish, like a casserole, plain old meat and potatoes or ordinary hamburgers, can turn out to be a disaster.

When I am having a bad cooking day, I can make a casserole that is dry and crusty, or I can make one that is undercooked and tasteless. I can never make one that is golden brown and bubbling with flavor. I try to avoid casseroles on bad cooking days.

On bad cooking days meats turn out dry and impossible to cut or chew. Gravy is never brown and smooth, instead, it is grey and lumpy. On bad cooking days, potatoes, one of those fairly easy-to-cook foods, will turn out uncooked in some spots and overcooked in others, all in the same pan. So much for good old meat and potatoes.

Hamburgers are impossible. If I try to fry hamburger patties, they will inevitably turn out rock hard and dry as a bone. Hamburgers are not supposed to crunch when they are bitten into, but mine will on a bad cooking day. We are always out of ketchup on bad cooking days, too, so there is nothing to douse the solid patty with to make it more palatable.

Trying to bake something on bad cooking days is a very bad idea. Cakes will fall, cookies will crumble, and nearly anything I put into the oven is apt to burn to a crisp. I have made pies on bad days that have cardboard crusts and fillings that looked and tasted like wallpaper paste. I am careful not to try to bake anything on bad cooking days.

As well as having bad cooking cycles, there are specific dishes that I have trouble cooking, too, almost all of the time.

Some people can't seem to make gravy without lumps, but I have trouble with lumps in my mashed potatoes. It is so bad that my children think that mashed potatoes are supposed to have lumps in them and they think that there is something wrong when mashed potatoes are served lump-less. They suspect that they came out of a box if they do not have lumps.

I have a lot of trouble with pork chops, too. I remember pork chops at home that were tender and juicy with crispy fat around the edge. Yum. You should taste mine! They are always dry and hard, and usually tough as can be, as well. I don't know if I am choosing the wrong chops or just cooking the daylights out of them. The only way I can make halfway decent pork chops is to bake them in soup, and this is the way I serve them almost all of the time. It is very boring.

I am also very bad at cooking fish. I think I cook the daylights out of that, too. Perhaps I am trying to cook the bones out of it. It doesn't matter, though, because I am the one who always gets the mouthful of bones when we eat it. Lucky thing it is usually served in pieces, very small pieces, after I get through cooking it, so I can see the bones sticking out at me.

I'm fairly good at cooking vegetables. In fact, I think I do very well at cooking fresh vegetables like broccoli and cabbage and cauliflower. Too bad my children dislike these vegetables because they are missing something good. They prefer the vegetables that come in a can and take no more cooking talent than dumping and heating.

I have always had trouble baking chocolate chip cookies. My chocolate chip cookies do not taste like other people's. Not only do they not taste very good, but they look funny, too. They are usually flat as pancakes; so flat, in fact, that you can see the little chips sticking up out of them like bumps. I often buy the packaged cookies in the dairy case and bake them, pretending that they are home made. My children like them better.

I am not very good at cooking steak, either. Perhaps the reason for this is that we can rarely afford such a delicacy and then I am not buying the more expensive steak cuts.

It may also have something to do with the fact that some of my family like their steak well-done, while others like it medium rare, and I like mine rare. It is hard to cook steak all those different ways. I cook rare steak best—just pop it into a hot pan, sear a bit, flip it and sear a bit more, and eat it. I often serve my family steak baked with soup, too.

Did I ever tell you about the time I tried to get my family to eat liver? Like most youngsters, my children did not, and probably still do not, thanks to me, like fried liver, or any other kind of liver, for that matter. (I used to try to sneak it into the stuffing at holidays, but they would notice it, even if I ground it very fine and called it a new stuffing spice.)

Anyway, I read all of the reports saying what a healthy food liver was and how good it was for people and I decided I would get my family to eat it. I figured if they tried it once, they would like it and then I could continue to prepare it for them every so often.

So—I bought some lovely-looking liver, dredged it in flour and fried it in butter. When the children asked what I was cooking, I lied. I told them it was chicken-fried steak.

It looked delicious there on a serving plate in the middle of the table, all brown and crusty. We all helped ourselves to a generous portion and bit right in.

I was the only one who ate the "chicken fried steak."

My children have never forgiven me for trying to trick them. They knew it wasn't steak right away. I will never hear the end of my liver lie, and I don't think they quite trust my cooking to this day.

Food Stamps help purchase necessary items and ease hard times

It is often difficult to stretch income dollars to cover necessary items during a period of recession. One way of getting help is to apply for food stamps. Nationally, many persons who would be eligible for help do not apply because either they do not know about food stamps to because they feel embarrassed.

Most users of food stamps do so for a short period of time and when in the middle of a crisis. The food that these coupons provide can help prevent serious illness and malnutrition in the elderly and in young children. Also, money that would otherwise be used for food can be used to cover other emergencies such as to help stop an eviction or to prevent a mortgage foreclosure. A person does not have to be on welfare to get food stamps. Minimum-wage workers or Social Security recipients or people in large families may not realize that they might also qualify for food stamps.

Food stamps are coupons given directly to the household without cost. They can be used just like money to buy food and cannot be used to buy alcoholic beverages, tobacco, pet food or non food items. The amount of food stamps given to a household is based on the amount of income and size of the household. For example, a family of four with earned monthly income of $912 and unearned income of $150, plus child care, housing and work expense deductions, could receive $296 in food stamps each month.

Certain costs are deducted from gross income. They are: a 20 per cent work deduction, a standard $127 deduction from all income per household, a dependent child or adult care deduction of up to $160 per dependent, and a shelter deduction (up to $200) for housing costs which are more than 50 per cent of household income. There is a different income test for households which include elderly, blind or disabled persons.

Households must also pass an asset test. Most households are allowed $2,000 in assets, $3,000 for households with elderly people. One motor vehicle with an equity value of less than $4,500 is also allowed. The homestead and other income producing land and buildings are not counted as assets. Other special rules may apply to specific situations.

To apply for food stamps contact the local food stamp office. In an emergency, when a household is in immediate need for food and has little or no income or resources, food stamps must be provided within one day of the application date.

The Food Stamp Program was developed to help feed people, not to cause embarrassment. If you know anyone who is facing an economic crisis, urge him or her to get help through the food stamp program. To find out where to apply, call (612) 296-1835.

Ose completes basic training

Navy Seaman Recruit Cindy M. Ose, daughter of Gregory T. Ose and Rose M. Anderson, both of Thief River Falls, recently completed basic training at the recruit training command in Orlando, FL.

During the cycle, recruits are taught general military subjects designed to prepare them for further academic and on-the-job training in one of the navy's 85 occupational fields. Studies include seamanship, close-order drill, naval history and first aid.

Demonstrating her woodburning skills as well as selling items she had previously made, Jean Zayic of Ogema participated in the 16th annual Holiday Fair craft show and sale Saturday at the Thief River Falls city auditorium. Many of the people attending the show commented on the high quality of hand work on display and most exhibitors said sales were good.

A mouse and three geese stood guard over other items made by Dan and Pat Erickson of Crookston at the 16th annual Holiday Fair Saturday at the Thief River Falls city auditorium. The Ericksons had their craftwork on the stage of the auditorium.

Drive receives 5,400 lbs. of food

A recent food drive for the Thief River Falls Food Shelf received 5,400 pounds of food and raised $474.

Volunteers in the drive were Al and Holly Steinhauer, Dan Klug, Dominic Solberg, Tara Andol, Steve and JoyAnn Dahl, Don and Lydia Bolmer, Rufus and Vi Olson, Kendra Dimich, Scott Erickson, and Mama and Snooky Klug.

Our Saviour's Lutheran Church and KTRF sponsored the drive, which lasted Thursday, Friday and Saturday, November 19, 20 and 21.

Ace Rental provided the truck where the donations were made. The drive was held in Hugo's parking lot.

Dairy price squeeze will get tighter

Demand for dairy products will be soft and milk prices are likely to be under pressure. That's the situation Minnesota and Wisconsin dairy producers are apt to see in the year 2000, according to a report by Mike Boehlje, an economist formerly with the University of Minnesota's extension service, and William Schick and Will Dillon, agricultural economists at Purdue University.

"The high milk prices of the early and late 1980s are not going to return," they say in their report. "Every possible way to reduce costs must be exploited because milk prices could move lower in the future.

"Upper Midwest dairy producers must increase their productivity in order to compete with large dairy operations in other parts of the country," Boehlje says. Many producers must get larger to take advantage of scale economies and remain competitive with dairy farmers in other regions.

Upper Midwest dairy producers must adopt new technologies. Margins will be thin in the years ahead and producers must take advantage of technologies like total mixed rations, bypass proteins and amino acids. Benefits of new technologies will go to those who adopt early.

As dairy farms become larger and more specialized, different people will need to manage operations such as forage production and milk production, Boehlje says. Dairying is a difficult business to manage. Dairy farms with multiple livestock and crop enterprises will end to devote additional time and management to dairying to be successful.

"Quality forage is critical to profits in the dairy industry," Boehlje says.

A celebration of family.

During the holidays, our thoughts are close to home. Most of all, close to our families. For farmers, the contributions a close family makes to a farm's success cannot be overvalued.

We draw from our families the help we need to meet the next challenge. They are at once the source of our strength and the purpose in our lives.

At Farm Credit Services, we understand the importance of families. They won't show up on a balance sheet, but they are the most valuable asset of every farm. From our family to yours, the best this holiday season.

Judge Jorgenson appointed to MN juvenile task force

Ninth District Judge Larry G. Jorgenson has been appointed to an Advisory Task Force on the Juvenile Justice System. The purpose of the 20 member task force is to review certain aspects of the juvenile law and report back to the legislature by December 1, 1993.

In a letter to area newspapers, Judge Jorgenson has asked that anyone who has any thoughts or feelings on the items covered by the committee to send their thoughts to him in writing. Judge Jorgenson noted that the committee is weighted with representatives from the more highly populated areas so the thoughts and feelings of residents of northern Minnesota are important to him.

According to the order establishing the advisory committee, the task force is to conduct a study of the juvenile justice system and make recommendations concerning the following:

- the juvenile certification process;
- the retention of juvenile delinquency adjudication records and their use in subsequent adult proceedings;
- the feasibility of a system of statewide juvenile guidelines;
- the effectiveness of various juvenile justice system approaches, including behavior modification and treatment; and
- the extension to juveniles of a non-waivable right to counsel and a right to a jury trial.

Judge Jorgenson said he intends to meet with school and law enforcement officials to get their input, but he also needs the input from the general public. At this time he does not know how many general meetings he will be able to have with the public; therefore, he is requesting anyone with thoughts on the items listed to send their thoughts in writing to him at the Marshall County Courthouse, 208 East Calvin, Warren, MN 56762.

The following have been appointed to serve on the task force with Judge Jorgenson: Justice Sandra S. Gardebring, Judge Philip D. Bush, Judge Leslie M. Metzen, Sen. Randy C. Kelly, Rep. Ann H. Rest, Sen. Patrick D. McGowan, Rep. Bill Macklin, Barry C. Feld, professor of Law at the University of Minnesota law school, Angela McCaffrey, director of the general practice clinic at Hamlin University School of Law, Karel Moesfelder, assistant Hennepin county attorney, Rosanne Bartsh, director of court services, Wabasha county, and James Hayes, juvenile division director at Ramsey county community corrections department, Dee Wayne Rognstad, deputy sheriff of Beltrami county, Forrest Wipperling, Goodhue county sheriff, James Beard of Edina, Meg Jones of Columbia Heights, John Stuart, state public defender, Natalie Haas Steffen, commissioner of the department of human services, and Orville Pung, commissioner of the department of corrections.

Ag, economic censuses to start in Dec.

The 1992 Census of Agriculture and the eight Economic Censuses will kick off in December when the Census Bureau begins mailing questionnaires to over two million farmers and ranchers plus about 3.5 million businesses.

Taken every five years, these censuses provide the most comprehensive source of data about the nation's economy. Census results will become the benchmarks for current industry and business conditions, market trends, the Gross Domestic Product (GDP) and economic projections.

The economic censuses include separate surveys of:

- Retail Trade;
- Construction Industries;
- Service Industries;
- Transportation, Communications and Utilities;
- Manufacturers;
- Wholesale Trade;
- Mineral Industries; and
- Financial, Insurance and Real Estate Industries.

The due date for returning completed agriculture census forms is February 1 and February 15 for the economic.

See Red this holiday and think sober. Red Ribbons on car antannas should serve as a reminder to drivers to have a safe and happy holiday. The Red Ribbon campaign in Thief River Falls is sponsored by many organizations and businesses in Thief River Falls. Red Ribbons are available at those businesses and organizations. Lincoln school takes part in Citizen Bee

High school students from across Minnesota will have the opportunity to participate in a unique social studies program which could lead to prizes and scholarships and a study trip to Washington, D.C., in June 1993. The schools have registered to participate in the Close UP Foundation Citizen Bee. Participating schools in this area include Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls, Badger high school and Oklee high school.

The Citizen Bee is an academic program which focuses on US history, economics, government, geography and current events. Students progress through school, regional and state competitions and three participants from a school will advance to regional competition. Top finalists there will advance to the state final later this spring.

State winners earn a trip to Washington to participate in the Foundation's government studies program and the national competition. Winners of the national event receive college scholarships totaling $48,000 presented by the American Honda Foundation. The national Citizen Bee has been funded by KPMG Peat Marwick, and Kraft General Foods. On the state level, sponsors have included the St. Paul Pioneer Press and US West.

More than 130,000 students, representing 4,000 schools across the country, will participate in the Citizen Bee this year.

Three dogs and one cat are being held at the animal pound in Thief River Falls. The animals have been abandoned or lost and can be adopted free of charge or claimed by their owner.

Animals being held include: one orange male cat impounded November 17 from the Cottonwood apartments; a black Springer/Cocker impounded November 17 from Northland Village, a female basset hound impounded November 22 from 321 South St. Paul; a black and white puppy impounded November 24 from Country Estates. Each animal will be kept for a minimum of five days from the date of impoundment. Animals may be claimed by proving ownership. Pound fees, license fees and any other expense incurred by the department will be assessed prior to release.

For more information contact the police department at 681-6161.

City begins tree pruning and trimming

City of Thief River Falls has begun its tree trimming and pruning program, beginning with collector streets and then proceeding to the city's wards, according to Mike Mongoven, park and recreation director.

The collector streets include Third Street (highway 59 islands), First Street and Eighth Street. Any residents with questions or comments may contact Mongoven at 803 South Barzen Avenue or by calling 681-2519.

Tim Berg, owner of Black Magic company in Thief River Falls, discusses some of his firm's services with a snowmobile enthusiast Monday afternoon during the first Team Arctic Racing Seminar at the National Guard armory in Thief River Falls. Black Magic is a Thief River Falls company which is an official supplier for Arctco, Inc., and provides snowmobile owners with after market high performance and racing parts.

Three snowmobile accidents in news

[illegible] slippery roads and snowmobile accidents. Law enforcement officials investigated at least three snowmobile accidents last week along with several other accidents due to slippery roads.

Thefts. On November 17 [illegible] reported catching a 15-year-old boy from route 1, Newfolden, taking two magazines from the store without paying for them. He faces charges in juvenile court.

On November 18 at 2:12 p.m. Kmart reported catching a 16-year-old girl of rural Thief River Falls, taking a cassette tape and CD from the store without paying for them. She faces charges of theft by shoplifting.

On November 17 at 3:37 p.m. Lincoln high school reported that a number of items had been taken from a girl's locker room. Kara Boughton reported that jeans, shoes, a sweater and coin purse valued at $111 were taken. Jana Johnson reported that jeans, a watch, shoes, perfume, makeup, and jewelry were taken. The loss was estimated at $162. Jenny Drury reported that some hair spray had been taken.

At 8:40 p.m. that evening some of the items belonging to Kara and Jana were found in a yard on South Maple. The theft is under investigation.

On November 19 at 3:45 p.m. Kmart reported that a 19-year-old male from route 2, Halma, had taken a cassette tape and other items from the store without paying for them. He faces charges of theft under $200.

On November 22 at 1:29 p.m. Chris Wheeler of Thief River Falls reported that while his pickup was parked at Northland Village someone took from the pickup his tachometer, Sony stereo, black book bag with aviation books, computer disks and calculator. The theft loss was estimated at $1,425.

On November 22 at 5:56 p.m. a local resident reported that a rifle had been taken from his home sometime since the 21st. A 30.06 rifle with power scope, leather sling, gun case, magazine clip and ammunition, was taken. The theft loss was estimated at $500.

Accidents. On November 17 at 9 p.m. the Pennington county sheriff's department received a report of a car-deer accident one mile south of St. Hilaire on Highway 32. According to the report, a 1977 Chevrolet Suburban driven by Ruy Jerome Appel, St. Hilaire was going north when a deer jumped from the east ditch and struck the passenger side door. Damage loss was estimated at $750.

On November 19 at 3:14 p.m. police received a report of an accident on Eighth street. According to the report, a pickup driven by Mark Philip Hanson, route 4, Thief River Falls, was going east on Eighth street and stopped in traffic when the vehicle was struck in the rear by a car driven by Joey Luksik, route 2, Mahnomen. Damage loss was estimated at $200 to the Hanson vehicle and $500 to the Luksik vehicle. Hanson complained of a sore neck.

On November 19 at 4:01 p.m. police received a report of an accident at Fourth and Davis. According to the report, a car driven by Mary Jane Knutson, Thief River Falls, was going west on Fourth and making a left turn to go south on Davis when a car driven by Katheryn Christianson, Thief River Falls, was going south on Davis. The vehicles collided. Damage was estimated at $600 to the Knutson vehicle and $300 to the Christianson vehicle.

On November 21 at 10 p.m. the sheriff's department received a report of a snowmobile accident two miles south of Thief River Falls on Highway 32. Paul John Peterick, 30, Thief River Falls, was driving a 1990 Arctic Cat, hit an approach and was thrown from the machine. In the process he broke a finger on his hand. There was no damage to the snowmobile.

On November 21 at 2:01 a.m. a city snowplow and a vehicle driven by Anthony Greene of Thief River Falls collided. Blair Gustafson of St. Hilaire was the driver of the snowplow, which was traveling on the north side of the 200 block of East Third street and was facing car. He was not injured and there was no damage to the snowplow. The driver of the car, Anthony Greene of Thief River Falls, was traveling west on the road and was blinded by the lights of the snowplow. Damage to the car was estimated at $800. In the collision he received a bump on the forehead.

On November 20 at 3:03 p.m. the sheriff's department received a report of an accident at the intersection of County road 12 and S.A. 3. According to the report, a 1986 Ford driven by Dena Gayle Presteba k, Goodridge, was going east on S.A. 3, lost control and the vehicle did a 180 degree turn in the road and was struck on the passenger side by a 1989 Freightliner semi driven by Larry Duane Pittman of Thief River Falls. Both vehicles were traveling about 40 miles per hour on slippery road when the accident happened. Both drivers were cited for traveling too fast for conditions. Prestebak's vehicle was considered a total loss. Damage to the semi was estimated at $300. Michael Halsa complained of a bruise. He did not require hospitalization.

On November 24 at 12:52 a.m. police received a report of a snowmobile accident in LaFave park. According to the report, a snowmobile owned by Phillip Bergland was being driven by Candace Tennermann, 24, Thief River Falls. Tennermann had driven the snowmobile off the river and into the park where she lost control when the snowmobile hit a bump and the machine hit a power pole. Tennermann flew through the snowmobile windshield. She complained of pain in her left leg and was taken to Northwest Medical Center by ambulance. Damage to the snowmobile was estimated at $350.

Alcohol. On November 19 at 2:30 a.m. police on routine patrol stopped a vehicle and found an open can of beer in the vehicle. The also discovered containers with liquor in it. Vincent Ojard, 20, Proctor, was cited for possession of alcohol by a minor. Autumn Kinkead, 18, Hallock, was cited for possession of alcohol by a minor. Vicki Holmquist, 18, Hallock was cited for allowing open bottle.

On November 22 at 1:50 a.m. police stopped a vehicle driven by Darrell Eric Peterson of route 1, Thief River Falls, for speeding and the officer discovered an open bottle of alcohol in the car. Peterson, 20, was cited for possession of alcohol by a minor adult.

On November 21 at 1:40 a.m. the sheriff's department received a report of a vehicle stuck in the snow near the intersection of Second street and Kinney. David Benoit, 29, Thief River Falls, was charged with aggravated and gross driving while intoxicated.

Vandalism. On November 19 at 2:50 p.m. Heather Wolbeck reported that sometime on November 15 someone scratched her car door causing about $100 damage.

Assault. On November 20 at 11:25 p.m. police received a report of a domestic incident. A man claimed he had been scratched on the side of his face and hit over the head with a phone. A woman also claimed she had been hit and had a cut on her top lip. Marion Clark of Thief River Falls, age 19, Thief River Falls, was cited for fifth degree assault, and Derrick Carter of Thief River Falls was also charged with fifth degree assault.

On November 21 at 2:09 p.m. police received a report of a domestic incident. A woman claimed she had been hit on the nose. Her nose was bleeding. Charges are pending against Derrick Carter, 19, Thief River Falls, for fifth degree assault.

Vandalism. On November 23 at 8:52 a.m. police received a report of a possible burglary at Gary's Army and Navy store. A window on the south side of the building was broken. The cost to repair the window was estimated at $50. There was no apparent entry to the building.

Budke at Stout U.

Tricia Budke, a 1988 graduate of Lincoln high school, is enrolled this fall as an undergraduate student at the University of Wisconsin — Stout in Menomonie, WI. She is majoring in hospitality and tourism management.

Photos of previous projects were on display along with a variety of current items at the booth prepared by Jan Schauring, Maria Hogen and Laura Larson of Harwood, ND, at the 16th annual Holiday Fair in Thief River Falls Saturday. A large crowd again attended the event held in the Thief River Falls city auditorium.

Say What?!

By Karmen Lee Ortloff

A friend recently told me all the people in Arkansas were going to be eating peanut butter sandwiches for Thanksgiving this year.

She started to laugh. I didn't get it; I was not laughing.

She explained that Arkansas was sending their turkey to Washington. I got it; I was not laughing.

Ever since sixth grade, I have been going to turkey bingo religiously in a feeble attempt to win myself a turkey. Often times, as I'm sitting among turkey crazed gamblers, I start to think about Charlie Brown. Charlie sits in a pumpkin patch every Halloween waiting for the Great Pumpkin to appear. I, instead, sit and try to get hold of the Great Gobbler and suddenly realize how utterly pathetic my life can sometimes be.

I spent twelve dollars this year and got nothing in return. I tried hard, too. First, I held on to my first card for ten games under the silly notion that it would soon become lucky—it never did.

Next, I looked for a card with my lucky number, eleven, on it. Still no luck.

I had a five-year-old play the bingo card for me, I tried to play the bingo card upside down, and I even resorted to stealing a card from the person sitting next to me. Nothing worked.

I don't think it was my fault that I didn't win. Allow me to rephrase that—I KNOW it was not my fault that I did not win. It was the person calling the balls' fault. I won't mention any names, but Greg, you know who you are!

You see, I went up to him (Greg) on several occasions throughout the night to kindly tell him (Greg) that he (Greg) wasn't calling the correct numbers, but he (Greg) didn't seem to care. (Note the fact that I refused to name names.) Such is the life of a lowly bingo player.

I am unable to figure out my strange obsession with the game. Normally I do not enjoy engaging in activities with people who make the joke, "...before what?" every time B-4 is called. Yet, for some strange reason, I feel drawn towards them. I enjoy being a G-46 away from a turkey and then feeling depressed as someone yells "BINGO" after an I-23 is called. Go figure.

I firmly believe, however, that I bring luck to those around me. Not only did the family sitting next to me win two turkeys, but a lady sitting on my other side won one as well. As if all this winning wasn't annoying as it is, the door prize of a gigantic basket full of groceries went to yet another lady sitting at my table. (I must confess—I'm still Catholic, remember—that I had nothing to do with the basket of food.

A young girls picked her mom's name out of a bag—coincidence? I don't think so. I feel a conspiracy of some son brewing and I am almost compelled to call in Oliver Stone to shed light on the situation.)

Furthermore, I now realize why everyone came and so rudely took extra bingo cards off my table and won soon afterwards. My luck had just started to wear off on a bingo card and before I could use it, someone would steal it.

I now know why Charlie Brown has so little hair. It is quite distressing to sit and wait and hope and wish for something that never comes. Upon brushing my hair later in the evening, I noticed that I loo seemed to be losing my hair. It is a curse.

The sad part about the whole thing is the fact that I will be going far, far away to college and will not be able to win myself and my family a turkey next year. I feel so void.

The only comfon I have now is the fact that the people in Texas and Indiana will be eating well this Thanksgiving. I would explain that to you...but then I would laugh.

Mayor proclaims Manufacturer's Week in TR Falls

In Roseau county, the 22 manufacturers in that county employ 4,181 workers and pay out $92,333,640 in wages.

In Polk county the 40 manufacturers in that county hire 1,154 workers and pay out $24,566,438 in wages.

Statistics show that U.S. manufacturing exports doubled in the five years from 1986 to 1991, which is twice the rate of import growth. As a result of the growth in exports, the U.S. trade deficit dropped from $152 billion in 1987 to $66 billion in 1991. One expert, Peter Druckers, has called the growth "Unprecedented in American history and indeed in economic history altogether."

U.S. manufacturing exports have been the single main source of strength in the current economy - contributing 30 to 40 per cent of the nation's economic growth in the past five years. Manufactured exports, which account for 82 per cent of all merchandise exports, are three times greater than services exports and 10 times greater than agricultural export sales.

Despite its contributions to the economy, improvements in productivity and growth, the manufacturing industry faces major obstacles. Those obstacles include legislation that limits the ability of manufacturers to compete in global markets, a lack of basic education and skills among workers, declining profits, increasing regulation, and declining growth in the investment in research and development.

The Manufacturing Institute, which prepared much of the information presented, is interested in making the facts known about how manufacturing helps America, and spreading the word about the importance of manufacturing.

incidents of shooting swans. One individual has been charged with swan poaching this year.

The opening weekend of small game season, an individual from Eagan was charged with shooting about 11 woodpeckers near Fourtown.

"He thought they were wood ducks or something. He didn't know what the devil he was shooting. So once in a while you run into some nimrod like that."

Overall, Schwartz said, hunters should be complemented on the way they conducted themselves this year.

ACTIVITIES

Thanksgiving Thankful Pictures

Thanksgiving is a time for everyone to stop and be thankful for what we have. This is important for children as well as adults. An activity that you can do with your child is to draw pictures of the things that you are thankful for. This may be parents, grandparents and brothers and sisters. Children usually also include pets, homes, toys and significant people in their lives. Saving these pictures and displaying them makes everyone more thankful.

SCAVENGER HUNT

For next week's Activities feature, you will need your time.

BOOK OF THE WEEK

More actors and actresses are writing books these days. The Thief River Falls public library has two new additions to its children's collection which were written by movie stars:

Goldberg, Whoopi. Alice. Whoopi Goldberg is known for her innovative and off-the-wall brand of humor. Her unique gift of humor is well evident in her book Alice, a take-off on the Alice in Wonderland series which features a black Alice in a very modern, hip setting. Whoopi Goldberg fans will be delighted.

DeLuise, Dom. Charlie the Caterpillar. Best known for his supporting roles in Burt Reynolds movies, Dom DeLuise shows his creativity is not limited to acting in Charlie the Caterpillar. Charlie tries to befriend various animals but is rejected because he's "too ugly." Suddenly Charlie feels the urge to make a cocoon and when he emerges from it, he is a beautiful butterfly. Now everyone wishes to be his friend. But Charlie finds true friendship with someone when he looks beyond her physical appearance. A great book for a parent and child to read together.

VIDEO VARIETY

Madeline. Narrated by Christopher Plummer, this Ludwig Bemelmans classic brought to life is a wonderful retelling of the tale of that delightful little girl at boarding school called Madeline, when she has her appendix taken out.

PARENTING TIPS

Visiting with Relatives

Thanksgiving is usually a time when families get together. We go to this family gathering thinking we will have a great time visiting with family and our children will have a great time too with their relatives. Unfortunately it doesn't always end up that way. Sometimes problems with the children develop. Usually the cause is that each family has a different set of rules. So the question is: when you go to visit the grandparents or other relatives, who will do the discipling and whose rules will apply?

Most of the time it makes sense for the house rules to apply. You can decide with your children that some behavior may be all right in Grandma's house, but not all right when you get home.

However, grandparents shouldn't undercut the authority of the parents, and it is also important for grown-ups not to use questions of control of the children to fight out their fights with each other.

As parents you are the protectors of your children, even against the grandparents or other relatives. You also have to protect your children from the unrealistic expectations or standards that relatives may have for them.

So plan ahead, talk to your children about the behavior that is expected at the house where you are going. If the rules are stricter than your children are used to, try to bring activities with that will satisfy the house rules and your children. If the rules are looser than yours either enforce yours or tell your children the rules are different and yours will apply when you get home again.

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

Talk about how each family is different and can have different rules. Talk about how you have set rules that you believe are best for your family.

Your Times

Allows readers to speak out on a variety of issues

by Sen. Roger Moe

Whether we see it in the voters' rejection of a second term for the Bush Administration, the sweeping electoral college victory of Bill Clinton, or the significant percentage of the vote for Ross Perot, the voters sent a clear message in the recent election. They said government should put its own house in order so it is better prepared to solve the problems facing our state and our nation.

Even though Minnesota has not suffered the same degree of gridlock that has plagued Washington, legislative leaders have heeded this message from voters. In the weeks since the election, a committee of 10 senators has been working on one of the most dramatic restructurings of the legislative process in many years.

First, we have streamlined the process with fewer committees while creating several new committees in areas that voters said should have a higher priority: Health Care, Crime Prevention, Campaign Reform, and Family Services, for example. These changes will also better balance the workload of the various committees and allow legislation to move more smoothly through the process.

Another important goal of the restructuring is to bring policy decisions and funding decisions closer together. Too often in the past, the senators responsible for funding a particular program were not part of the public testimony or the committee debate about the merits of the program. Now, the senators who gain an understanding of the policy arguments in a particular area will also be responsible for setting the priorities for funding programs in that area.

This broader authority for budget decisions means all 67 senators, DFLers and Republicans, will be part of the budget process. A handful of individual senators in key positions will no longer be solely responsible for standing up to interest groups clamoring for more funding. It will now be the responsibility of every member of the senate to say no when state resources cannot be stretched any further. Our restructuring should also help us to focus more of our attention on the outcomes we want to achieve, rather than on a particular process, program or state agency.

This is the first session of the legislature following redistricting after the 1990 Census, and we have tried to balance the interests of urban, suburban and rural areas on most of our committees to reflect the voting strength of these areas in the legislature. Because northwestern Minnesota has several senior legislators, our area will continue to be well represented in policy and funding debates, even though our numbers are not as great.

Northland football...

Campbell, Lambert All-Region 13 picks

Runningback Shawn Campbell and punter Brian Lambert represented Northland Community College on the 1992 National Junior College Athletic Association All-Region 13 football team, it was announced by Pioneers coach Gene Klinke.

Both Campbell (Arcadia) and Lambert (Fort Myers), are Florida products. Campbell was a two year member of the Pioneers squad. Lambert joined the team as a transfer student this fall.

Campbell, a 5-8, 198 pounder, led Region 13 in rushing this year with 1,083 yards, averaging 5.1 yards on 211 carries.

Lambert, a 6-4, 222-pounder who was also used as a receiver and defensive back, led Region 13 with a 44.3-yard average on 31 punts.

Another Florida native, Vermilion quarterback Tony DeLeon, a 5-11, 190 pound sophomore from Zolfo Springs, was named Region 13 Player of the Year. He passed for 3,218 yards in eight games, completing 192 of 340 attempts.

Jack Gebauer of Vermilion was named Region 13 Coach of the Year. His Ironmen beat Fergus Falls 57-17 in the Minnesota Community College Conference state championship game.

St. Bernard's wins state award

St. Bernard's School was notified recently that it had earned state championship honors in the Presidential Physical Fitness Award program for the 1991-92 school year. Established in 1972, the state champion program recognizes outstanding school achievement in physical fitness. Presented annually to three schools in each state, the award goes to the schools that qualify the highest percentage of eligible students for the President Physical Fitness Award in each of three enrollment categories. Each winning school receives a certificate, and every student who earns the Presidential Physical Fitness Awards while helping the school become a state champion receives a special embroidered state champion emblem. St. Bernard's students on hand for The Times camera this week who were part of last year's state champion effort included, left to right, Stacy Herbott, Matt Lutovsky, Heather Henson, Brian Welseth, and Brienne Dyer. Tom Fogerty, Becky Mooney and Emily Tuve, who were also part of last year's state champion team, have since graduated from St. Bernard's. Sue Wolbeck was the phy-ed instructor for the state champion program.

Adams takes part in '92 state swim meet

Amy Adams, a Thief River Falls senior making her third consecutive appearance at the state girls high school swim meet, did not advance past Friday's prelims in the 50 yard freestyle.

Adams won her heat in 25.54, but fell short of the times turned in by the other heats that advanced swimmers into Saturday's races. The top eight Friday prelim times made up the field for the Saturday championship finals, while places 9 through 16 in Friday's competition made up Saturday's consolation finals.

"That was a solid time for Amy," pointed out Thief River Falls coach Ryan Lokken. "It's not her career best, but it's not that far off it, either. The 50 is a throw of the dice — down and back with one turn. Amy did a nice job."

Adams was Thief River Falls' only state meet qualifier. The event drew about 500 competitors to the University of Minnesota Aquatic Center in Minneapolis.

Section 8 Jamboree scheduled Saturday

Annual Section 8 high school hockey jamboree will be played Saturday at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center in Thief River Falls.

The nine scrimmage sessions will again feature two 11-minute periods for each match-up.

Jamboree schedule includes: 11 a.m. - Thief River Falls junior varsity vs. Bagley; 12:10 p.m. - Kittson Central vs. Wadena-Deer Creek; 1:20 p.m. - Detroit Lakes vs. Lake of the Woods; 2:30 p.m. - Park Rapids Area vs. Crosby-Ironton/Aitkin/Pequot Lakes; 3:40 p.m. - Alexandria vs. East Grand Forks; 4:50 p.m. - Crookston vs. Fergus Falls; 6 p.m. - Brainerd vs. Moorhead; 7:10 p.m. - Bemidji vs. Warroad; 8:20 p.m. - Thief River Falls vs. Roseau.

Section 8 members Red Lake Falls and Indus will not be on hand for the event, but Park Rapids Area will be making its hockey debut here. Kittson Central is the new moniker for the Hallock-Kennedy combination.

Admission is $3 for adults and $2 for students. Admission price is good for the entire day.

Thief River Falls will open its 1992-93 regular season schedule Thursday, Dec. 3, at Grand Forks Central.

Prowlers end first week of drills with Saturday jamboree ...

TRF boys have seven lettermen

Thief River Falls boys, who opened their 1992-93 high school basketball practice drills Monday, will be part of the Six Star Conference Jay Sorenson Jamboree Saturday at Warren.

The six scrimmages include: 5:30 p.m. - Clearbrook/Gonvick vs. Valley North; 6:15 p.m. - East Grand Forks vs. Kittson Central; 7 p.m. Thief River Falls vs. Tri-County; 7:45 p.m., Crookston vs. Badger/Greenbush-Middle River; 8:30 p.m. - Marshall County Central vs. Argyle; 9:15 p.m. - Warren vs. Fisher/Climax.

Each jamboree session will consist of two eight-minute quarters. Admission is $3 for adults and $2 for students.

The jamboree will include three-point shooting contests for both players and coaches.

Thief River Falls will also participate in a jamboree at Kennedy Monday, but times and match-ups for those scrimmages have not been announced.

Seven senior lettermen were on hand for the start of practice, including Tony Greene, Shane Zutz, Wade Evenson, Jason Lambert, John Gunstad, Josh Balmer, and Corey Thorson.

Six seniors were lost to graduation off last year's 2-21 team, including Tom Upham, their leading scorer with a 14.1 average.

The Prowlers will open their 1992-93 season Thursday, Dec. 10, at Crookston.

Deer hunting violations down

by Mark Olson
Staff Writer

Deer hunting violations dropped this year, but other area poaching incidents slightly increased according to Chuck Schwartz, Minnesota Department of Natural Resources Region 1 area supervisor.

Schwartz said 60 to 75 deer hunting violations were reported the opening weekend of deer season as compared with 120 to 130 reports last year. Schwartz said the rest of the season was comparable to opening weekend.

Good weather kept hunters in the woods and discouraged them from hunting from their car or the roadside, Schwartz said. Hunters' success was up this season and therefor, Schwartz said, frustration was down, resulting in fewer hunting violations.

Opening weekend there were about 12 trespassing incidents, 30 incidents of hunters shooting from the road, and about 6 individuals hunting with no license or an invalid license, Schwartz said.

Out of season deer poaching is experiencing a slight increase. "I don't know whether it's attributable to the fact that there's more activity or the fact that people are more aware of what's going on and keeping their eyes open and reporting illegal activities," Schwartz said.

Last year the Minnesota DNR referred 1,006 calls to conservation officers as part of the Minnesota DNR "Turn In Poachers" program. This year, to date, the DNR referred 706 calls to officers.

"I had a couple of guys call me this year and say 'I've known so and so has been doing this or that for years' and all of a sudden it's the straw that breaks the camel's back."

Deer poaching

Regional Supervisor Butch Dyrland said that the number of deer shining reports are up this year, probably due to increased deer population. "Shining" is finding an animal after 10 p.m. using a light.

Schwartz said each of the ten Area 1 DNR officials receive about one daily deer shining report. Area 1 stretches from Lake of the Woods County to Clay County and east to Beltrami County.

The poaching complaints seem to be concentrated in the northern half of Area 1, from Highway 2 and north, Schwartz said.

The reports resulted in eight Area 1 gross misdemeanor (with open gun case) deer shining arrests this year. Last year the DNR arrested five deer shiners.

It is hard to get a handle on deer shining, Schwartz said. It usually occurs between 2 and 4 a.m. in the morning when there are no witnesses.

"There appears to be more (deer shining) on weekends, Friday and Saturday evenings after bar closings. That seems to be a real popular time," Schwartz said.

Dyrland also said many deer shining incidents are attributable to drinking and driving.

Schwartz said alcohol makes deer shiners dangerous. "You never know how someone's going to act when you put people and booze and guns together and all of a sudden they're under stress." Schwartz said a poacher assaulted one officer this fall in Roseau County.

Another increasing poach activity is the killing of bucks for their head, rack and cape, or just their antlers. The poachers leave the rest of the carcass.

The DNR recently found the remains of two buck carcasses in this area.

"People might drive until they find a field with a big buck on it. We put so much status on taking a deer with a big rack that some people don't care how they acquire it. They're willing to do anything."

The DNR monitors deer shining and other poaching incidents with the help of one aircraft, which in turn reports to a number of ground patrol.

They also monitor poaching with the citizen complaints and utilizing deer and grouse decoys. The DNR usually utilizes the decoys after receiving landowner complaints of roadside hunting.

Waterfowl poaching

Waterfowl poaching is down considerably, due to increased hunting fees and smaller limits, Dyrland said. "There are no novice hunters out there," Dyrland said.

Dyrland also said decreased waterfowl poaching could be attributable to increased DNR surveillance and small grouse populations.

Due to the decrease in waterfowl hunting and poaching, Dyrland said the DNR is able to concentrate on big game poaching.

Although there have been no really big waterfowl overlimits, Schwartz said, a number of people have been a few birds over their limit, often due to misidentification. "It's not necessarily intentional," Schwartz said, "but it doesn't make them any more right."

The shooting of endangered birds resulted in three Area 1 arrests last year. The three birds were swans. This year the DNR discovered four Tracy-Milroy was a 14-16, 4-15, 15-13, 15-4, 15-8 winner over Tracy-Milroy in the Class A finals.

Annual operations budget for the Minnesota state park system is $19 million.

Wetlands meetings announced for TRF

Thief River Falls will be one of the statewide sites used for information meetings and public hearings on how Minnesota's new Wetland Conservation Act will be carried out.

"We want to make sure that people feel that they've been adequately represented and have had the opportunity to voice their opinions," said Ron Harback, executive director of the Minnesota Board of Water and Soil Resources, the state agency responsible for implementing the act.

Basically, the act requires anyone draining or filling a wetland to replace it, with certain exemptions. The law also contains new incentive programs to compensate landowners for preserving wetlands.

The law is administered locally by a variety of local governments, including counties, soil and water conservation districts, cities, watershed management organizations, and others.

The focus of the information meetings and public hearings will be a discussion of the proposed "rules" detailing the specifics of how the act will work. The information meetings will be in November and early December are are intended to answer questions about the rules. The public hearings will be in early and mid-December and will focus on receiving input and comments on the proposed rules.

In Thief River Falls, the information meeting will be held Thursday, Dec. 3, from 7 to 10 p.m., and the public hearings will be held Monday, Dec. 7, at both 1 and 7 p.m. The Thief River Falls meetings will be held at the Northwest Technical College Aviation Center on Pennington Avenue (Airport Road).

Officials have specifically asked for input during the public hearings on the following five controversial issues addressed in the rules:

1) The definition of agricultural land. The definition is important because it is linked to whether the land is regulated or exempt under the act and to the replacement ratio for draining or filling wetlands.

2) Wetland banking. Wetland banking allows landowners to restore wetlands and then "bank" them. These banked acres can be sold to another landowner who wants to drain or fill a wetland and needs replacement acres. The controversy revolves around whether only previously drained and restored wetlands can be banked, or if wetlands created where no wetland ever existed can be banked.

3) the role of a technical evaluation panel. Each local government administering the law must have a technical evaluation panel to make scientific evaluations of wetland replacement. The question involves the extent of the panel's role.

4) Recording of agricultural exemptions. Certain exemptions apply only to agricultural land and only continue to apply if the land remains agricultural for at least 10 years. The controversy is whether this information should be recorded on the property deed.

5) The timing of using exempted drained or filled wetlands as replacement wetlands. If a wetland is exempt from the act, and the landowner drains it, at what point should the landowner be able to restore the wetland and count it as replacement acres?

The Board of Water and Soil Resources is scheduled to give final approval to the rules in Feb. 1993 and send them to the Minnesota Legislature for review. If approved, the rules will be effective July 1, 1993.

Figures are released for area deer harvest

A total of 3,406 deer were taken in northwestern Minnesota killblock areas located in Zone 2 and Zone 4 administered by Gordon Forester, area game manager for the Department of Natural Resources, it was reported this week by Forester.

The number represented a 21 percent increase over the 1991 harvest figures for the area.

Harvest registration figures for the area over the previous 10 years include: 1982 - 1,608; 1983 - 2,372; 1984 - 2,944; 1985 - 3,453; 1986 - 2,660; 1987 - 2,939; 1988 - 2,748; 1989 - 2,111; 1990 - 2,603; 1991 - 2,822.

Killblock figures for areas in Zone 2 and Zone 4, and the percentage of deer harvested compared to 1991 figures:

Forest Zone

Area 211 - 57 (+54 %), Area 212 - 609 (+1 %), Area 213 - 15 (+350 %)

Agricultural Zone

Area 401 - 107 (-1 %), Area 403 - 1 (-50 %), Area 404 - 582 (+15 %), Area 405 - 386 (+10 %), Area 406 - 62 (+72 %)

Transition Zone

Area 201 - 3 (percentage of increase decrease not available), Area 202 - 135 (+14 %), Area 203 - 614 (+45 %), Area 204 - 13 (-28 %), Area 205 - 4 (percentage of increase/decrease not available), Area 206 - 77 (+4 %), Area 207 - 99 (+15 %), Area 208 - 477 (+59 %), Area 209 - 164 (+1 %)

The Mustangs went 6-4 this fall.

Willett, Melby RLCC MVP

Shannon Willett and Jacob Melby earned Red Lake County Central most valuable player awards for the 1992 high school football season, it was announced by Mustangs head coach Gary Brantl.

Willett, a 5-9, 165-pound senior, was named Red Lake County Central MVP on offense and was selected as the Mustangs' top back.

Melby, a 6-0, 175-pound senior, was tabbed as the MVP on defense for the Oklee/Plummer cooperative.

Senior Gus Vettleson was named the team's top lineman and senior Jonathan Sundrud was selected the most improved player, while senior Jared Hofstad and assistant coach Lawrence Vettleson shared the Mustang Award.

Willett, Adam Lundeen, Darrin Hofstad, and Chad Pahlen were named captains of the 1993 Mustangs.

Red Lake County Central went 6-4 this fall, beating Ulen-Hitterdahl 30-8 in the Section 6 Nine-Man playoffs before losing to Clearbrook/Gonvick 36-8.

The Mustangs started the year 3-0 with wins over Laporte 40-14, Win-E-Mac 8-0 and Fisher/Climax 14-0. But then came successive losses to Ulen-Hitterdal 28-18, Kelliher/Northome 51-26 and Clearbrook/Gonvick 32-26. They rebounded to finish the regular season with wins over Norman County West 40-20 and Red Lake 38-30.

"I think, overall, we probably exceeded expectations a little," acknowledged Red Lake County Central coach Gary Brantl. "We had lost a lot of kids to graduation, but we come out and played some good football at the beginning of the year."

The strong start was followed by the mid-season slump. "We maybe got a little too overconfident," admitted Brantl. "But we got back on track and played well again at the end of the season. We thought we would be closer to Clearbrook/Gonvick than we were in the final game, but overall, our kids gave us a good effort all year long."

Willett led the team in rushing with 690 yards on 85 carries, an 8.1-yard average. Sophomore quarterback Scott Lorenson passed for 1,004 yards, with junior Paul Melby catching 17 passes for 252 yards, Jacob Melby 16 for 148 and Willett 15 for 290.

Jacob Melby led the Mustangs' defensive charts with 87 tackles and 65 assisted stops. Lundeen wound up No. 2 on the defensive list with 77 tackles and 48 assists.

Many of this year's top performers were underclassmen. With six starters coming back on both offense and defense, the Mustangs are looking forward to challenging for North Tri-County and Section 6 honors in 1993.

"We've a number of starters coming back, and we've got some good juniors and sophomores coming up who got some playing time in this year," noted Brantl. "We'll have good numbers and good depth next year."

NORTHLAND COMMUNITY COLLEGE

"OUR BEST RECRUITERS ARE OUR STUDENTS!"

"LISTEN TO THE MANY REASONS OUR STUDENTS GIVE FOR ATTENDING OUR CAMPUS."

Steve Janousek
Age: 22
Major:

Hometown: Brainerd

Quitting my job and deciding to go back to school was a major decision in my life. It was not only scary for me but for my family as well.

I decided to attend Northland because it was well known for its Law Enforcement program. My family and I enjoy living in this community and it has been very easy to become involved. I will be graduating this spring and have already received job notices from several places. I would recommend Northland to anyone.

I had heard about NCC from a friend who had gone there. I wanted to go through a two year program and get back into the work force.

The teachers at NCC give you the confidence and support you need to keep going. The Learning Center has been a great asset to me. Tutors are available free of charge, to anyone who would like one. I couldn't have found a more friendlier or helpful college. Muchos gracias, Northland!

After I graduated, I went away to Moorhead State University. I really had a tough time because I didn't know what I was doing or where I was going. So I decided to drop out, come back and attend Northland. It was probably the smartest thing I did. I was able to figure out what I wanted to do with my future.

The close, personal attention from admissions personnel and the counselor was what I needed. The smaller class size is definitely a plus and I would strongly recommend Northland to anyone feeling lost at a bigger college.

At first, I really didn't want to go to Northland. All my friends were going away to school and I wanted to go away to school too. My parents wanted me to stay close to hame for one more year and save some money. The University Of North Dakota admissions person advised me to go to Northland for one year, too. I am sure glad I listened to them. I really enjoy Northland. I like the small class atmosphere because you get more personal attention. I'm glad I made the decision to stay and attend Northland Community College.

I knew I wanted to come to Northland after my first visit to the campus. I was looking for a college that was isoloted and would be a nice place to study. My main goal is to study hard and bring up my GPA. I'm a firm believer that the education I receive will better me for life. I also enjoy being active in Student Senate, football and basketball. I made the right choice by coming to Northland.

My sister talked me into going to Northland. Everyone is so friendly and it's just the right size.

I can save money by living at home for these first two years.

It's easy to meet people at Northland and I have made many friends. I'm really enjoying my freshman year!

I always wanted to be a teacher. Now is the time for me to go back to school. My children are grown and I can devote the time to school. Northland is the perfect place for someone like me who has been out of school a long time and wants to return. I will graduate from NCC this spring and I plan on transfering to Bemidji State University to complete my major.

Thank you Northland for making my life long ambition possible.

I wanted to communicate better with our hispanic students. So, I decided to brush up on my Spanish. I had taken Spanish years ago but I realized I needed to review and learn more about the language.

I have had lots of fun and enjoy being a student. My greatest pleasure is seeing the smiles that come across the faces of our hispanic students when I greet them in the hallways in their native language.

Beef Cattle Day scheduled Dec. 8 at experiment station

Twenty-fifth annual Beef Cattle Day will be held Tuesday, December 8, at the Northwest Experiment Station at Crookston. Registration will begin at 9:30 a.m. in the auditorium of the agricultural research center at the University of Minnesota campus. The meeting will run from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Registration charge of $8 per person will include refreshments, handouts and the beef cattle research report. Lunch will be available at the conference center at 12:30 p.m. for $5.

Dr. Robbie Pritchard, ruminant nutritionist at South Dakota State University, will discuss "Implant Strategies for Feedlot Cattle." Dr. Brian Buhr, livestock marketing specialist at the University of Minnesota in St. Paul, will cover the "Market Outlook." Dr. Michael Schmitt, extension soil scientist at the U of M in St. Paul, will talk on "Manure Management."

Dr. Brent Woodward, extension animal scientist in beef cattle production systems from the U of M in St. Paul will discuss "Genetic Influences on Feedlot Performance." Gary Purath, Red Lake Falls beef producer, will talk about the importance of "Beef Quality Assurance" to the beef industry.

Dr. Harvey Windels will talk on the "Effect of Finaplix-S (TBA) and Synovex-S on Large Frame Crossbred Steer Calves Fed Corn or Barley Diets" and also cover U of M. beef cattle research highlights.

Beef Cattle Day is an opportunity for beef producers, vo ag instructors, county extension agents, supporting industries and businesses and others interested in beef to get an update on research and trends in the beef industry.

Maple syrup production survey held

First maple syrup production survey in Minnesota since 1968 was held in 1992 and revealed production of 12,000 gallons, valued at [illegible]. The 1968 crop of 7,000 gallons has been valued at only $35,000, according to Minnesota Agricultural Statistics Service figures.

Average price per gallon equivalent in 1992 was $27.30, compared with $4.95 in 1968. Eighteen per cent of the 1992 crop was kept for home use. Of the remainder, 36 per cent was sold at retail, 28 per cent at wholesale and 36 per cent in bulk.

Small enrollment doesn't dampen arts enthusiasm

In its first year as one of seven magnet arts programs in Minnesota, the Seventh Congressional District program at the Thief River Falls public schools has attracted 16 students from four communities. While program coordinator Marie Hvidsten could have handled more, the relatively small enrollment has not dampened her enthusiasm nor that of instructors in the program.

"The immediate goal is providing the opportunity for students to express themselves in the arts," Hvidsten said. "But we feel that longevity in our program is important and that we will continue to offer students with a special love for the arts more options in education in rural Minnesota."

Students and staff at the Northern Expressions School of the Arts—the name given to the program here—say opportunity in the arts is the driving force behind the young educational venture.

Opening this fall, the school is one of seven magnet arts programs funded by a grant from the Minnesota Center for Arts in Education located in Golden Valley.

The goals outlined by Hvidsten of providing opportunity and working for longevity are echoed by literary arts teacher Loiell Dyrud.

"The life blood of every writer is sharing his or her work. Rural areas tend toward 'closet writers' who feel self conscious about sharing their work, hesitant to show others what they have done," he said. "A metropolitan center could provide many more opportunities, but our goal is to provide more opportunities for writers here in Thief River Falls."

Hvidsten says the same philosophy applies to the other areas of arts study. This year the school is offering literary arts, dance, theater arts and music including vocal, orchestra and band, with plans to add visual and media arts in 1993.

"Our program is integrated within the Thief River Falls high school curriculum," Hvidsten said. "Students attend Lincoln high school, with the same requirements for graduation as all other students in the traditional program. However, magnet arts students concentrate on their area of study in special two-hour blocks, and are also required to take an integrated arts class which combines the six arts areas."

Students are accepted for the magnet arts program from any community in the Seventh Congressional District, which stretches from the Canadian border to the St. Cloud area. In addition to a number of Thief River Falls students taking advantage of the program, high school juniors and seniors from Fosston, Crookston and Perham are attending while finding a home away from home with several host families in the Thief River Falls school district.

Arts students say their goal is to give fine arts a larger place in the community. With that objective, four literary arts students are preparing for their first public reading later this month.

Karmen Ortloff, a senior in the arts program from Thief River Falls, says they plan to take it slow. The first performance is by invitation only, with an open forum after Jan. 1, 1993.

"I enjoy writing and I think reading what I wrote, out loud, builds self-confidence," states Ortloff, who writes the "Say What" column in each issue of the Thief River Falls Times. "The first time around, though," she adds, "I'm glad it's only for friends and family."

Northern Expressions School of the Arts is a tuition-free school for Seventh District students going into the 11th or 12th grade. The learning process is designed around outcomes rather than class time.

Swantek helps build projects

Ed Swantek of Thief River Falls was among 58 North Dakota Air National Guardsmen who participated in a humanitarian deployment this summer at St. Christopher and Nevis in the Caribbean Sea, about 140 miles east of Puerto Rico.

Members of the 119th Civil Engineering Squadron participated in the construction of a hospital orderly room and Red Cross community center, refurbishing a clinic and day care center and painting village primary schools.

The deployment gave the engineering members an opportunity to develop general construction skills including laying concrete block, carpentry, plumbing, wiring and painting. They also observed different techniques and practices used by the islands' carpenters for construction of buildings that must withstand the strong winds and rains from tropical storms and hurricanes.

St. Christopher is an island of about 65 square miles with terrain ranging from fertile valleys and tropical rain forests to rugged mountains and the Mount Liamuiga volcano. Nevis covers a 36-square-mile area with long sandy beaches and palm trees.

The North Dakota engineer group was the second of four Air National Guard units to participate in the deployment. They were preceded by the Minnesota Air National Guard and followed by units from Missouri and New York. Each deployment was for two weeks.

This graup of men fram tha 119th Civil Engineering Squadron, North Dakata Air Natianal Guard, served a twa-waak deplaymant this summer at St. Christapher and Nevis Islands in tha Caribbean Sea. Whole Wheat BIBLE STUDY

How to do God's Will with your mind

After you read through this Bible study, go back and look up the Scriptures and highlight them in your Bible.

The word of God says, "This is the day the Lord has made, let us rejoice" and enjoy it. Now, if you're going to have a good day and enjoy it, you must stop complaining about the weather. The weather is God's business and none of yours.

Some other ingredients for having a good day include: Go to work to cheer up people. Help people. Console people. Be friendly and understand people. That's serving your brother and sister and that's being like Jesus Christ.

Practice being positive. Unrestrained human nature practices being negative. It's counterproductive and degenerative. When your life is lived positively, then positive things begin to happen to you. If you are living negatively—which is normal, but evil—sometimes you won't even recognize good things happening to you. Negativism, inwardness, selfishness, indifference, hate and murder are all brothers of destruction. This is why Christ said if you hate your brother, you are the same as a murderer (1 John 3:15).

By practicing attitudes that are destructive, you cannot expect to live a constructive life. But when you're practicing attitudes that are constructive—such as love, joy, peace, patience, kindness, goodness, faithfulness, gentleness and self control—you are, in fact, practicing godliness, or imitating God (Gal. 5:24-25; Col. 1:10; Eph. 5:1).

If we practice things that are not good in our daily lives, we will become increasingly evil, by nature. By continually practicing evil behavior, we become more like Satan, our earthly father (John 8:41, 44). But if we practice daily what is right, good, honorable, uplifting and pleasing in the sight of our heavenly Father, we will become more like our Father in heaven (1 John 3:7-10). We will be living holy lives instead of unholy lives. We become what we are practicing to become—perfect (Matt. 5:48; 1 Peter 5:10).

We are, by nature, sinners. God wants us to allow Him to change our nature to one of a saint. In order to do that, we must practice living saintly lives by changing our thoughts to godly thoughts.

How many of us would want to see violence done to our children? Yet, we watch violence being done to other people's children on television and vicariously enjoy it. If we didn't enjoy it, we wouldn't continue to watch it day after day. Don't be fooled. What you see with your eyes and hear with your ears affects how you think with your mind (Prov. 24:12, 29; 12:14). We are not to look at what is evil—violence, murder, rape, etc. (Psalm 34:13-14; 1 Peter 3:10-11). That includes any sport that is violent or anticipates violence. Anyone who loves violence is hated by God (Psalm 11:5).

So let's clean up what goes into our minds and guard those doors carefully, for what is in our minds has a lot to do with the condition of our hearts and what comes out our mouths. "Whatever is true, whatever is honorable, whatever is right, whatever is pure, whatever is lovely, whatever is of good repute, think on these things" (Phil. 4:8).

Thanks A Lot— For What?

Setting aside a day of thanks for the blessings we have received seems to be a somewhat unique observance. Most other nations do not have a similar holiday with this type of purpose—and maybe that in itself should tell us something about our nation and its people.

There are and always will be the skeptics who fail to see any good in America and the lives that can be led here. This Thanksgiving season we would like to share an editorial from U.S. News and World Report, way back on Dec. 3, 1973. It was written by Howard Flieger and it tells, better than we can, why Americans can be thankful. His editorial follows.

Once again Americans have taken time out to observe the oldest of our national traditions—a day of thanksgiving.

For millions it probably meant no more than a welcome day off, a big meal and football.

Those who thought at all about its origins must have asked themselves what in the world to be thankful for this year, what with scandals, rising prices, gasoline worries, the frenzy of Christmas shopping, and taxes, taxes, taxes—thanks for nothing!

Well, change signals and think a minute.

There is so much Americans should be thankful for it is easy to lose track. Dozens of the everyday things we take for granted—"It's my right, isn't it?"—still are unattainable dreams to millions of people on earth.

Who do you know who can't read and write? We have a literacy rate of 99 per cent among all Americans over 14 years old.

In fact, it is against the law not to send your children to school if they are physically able. If they aren't, there are myriad services, often free, to bring school to them.

We have 12,500 public libraries in the U.S.

There are more than 300,000 churches. All Americans can worship as they want in the faith of their choice—or in none.

You can say what you please, so long as you don't slander others or debase them maliciously. Even if you do, it won't land you in jail—although you might be sued.

We all have the right to dissent. If you don't like the government or your landlord or the quality of life, you can say so—loud, clear and often. Nobody can make you be quiet.

Your neighbors may not like what you say, but most will defend your right to say it. Want to cuss the President? Your privilege. Want to defend him? OK. Want to argue about it? No law against that.

Try it in some other countries and you'll wind up in jail—or worse, in an insane asylum. Disagree with the powers that be in such places and you'll be branded as crazy, a menace to society—their society, that is.

False arrest is almost unheard of in the United States. False imprisonment is even more rare. If you are accused of a crime and can't afford a lawyer, the court will provide you with one.

If you don't like your job, you can always quit and take another.

If you want to leave the country, go ahead. Nobody in authority will stop you. If you want to come back, you may—although you might be in trouble if you've broken a law.

If you don't like where you live, you are free to move to a new neighborhood.

More than any other people, we are a nation of landowners. It may be a condominium apartment, a country estate or a lot with nothing on it but a mortgage—but it's yours.

American families, by and large, are the best housed, the best fed, the best cared for on earth. There is poverty—but poverty by our definition would be sheer luxury to others. The latest advances in care for the ailing are readily available, often through help from complete strangers.

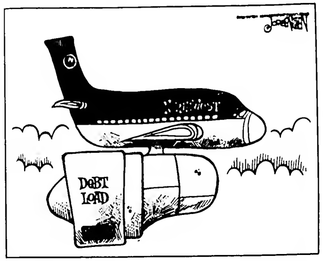
It is easy to forget that Americans are the most "giving" people in history. Private donations to charity here exceed the total national budget of many countries.

We have a government of law. And the law, like the dew, falls equally on everything and everybody.

Of course, you can't befoul the public water supply. You can't shoot ducks out of season. You can't be a reckless driver, endangering bystanders, and always get away with it.

If you're a nuisance, your neighbor can call the police. You can't disturb the peace. Others have their rights, too, you know.

This is a free country—and come to think of it, every day is Thanksgiving Day.



LETTERS

To The Editor:

As I lay awake this morning before it was time to get up I was thinking about all the precious lonely old people in the nursing homes. I know whereof I am speaking, as I have a dear sister-in-law who has been in a nursing home and the hospital since April 18. How she enjoyed and appreciated the many visits that we have made during this time.

The thought came to me: If people have time on their hands to go to the Shooting Star or any other casino, why don't they take those hours spent for their own enjoyment and go to visit with and read to some poor lonely shut-in?

It doesn't have to be a relative. After all our visits I have found out how many are longing to have someone stop to visit, even just a few minutes with them. It won't cost you money like the casino or other entertainments.

Think about it; none of us knows which one of us may someday be in that position. Some of the money you save could be used to get a flower or something enjoyable for a shut-in, and I know you will get a great satisfaction out of knowing what it has meant in someone else's life.

Also look what an example it would be to the young people—a challenge for them to do good for someone else and not always think of ourselves first.

Thank-you.

Gasoline Stations to Register Dec. 1 & 2

"Gasoline dealers of Pennington county will be required to register next Tuesday and Wednesday, December 1 and 2, at the gas ration office in the lobby of the C. Gustafson & Son on Main av. at Fourth st., A. J. Rau, chairman of the gas ration panel, announced today. Dealers will be required to take an inventory of gasoline on hand as of midnight Monday, November 30. They may obtain the proper form, No. 544, at the office of the war, second floor of the Northern State Bank block."

Test Blackout in City Ordered for Wednesday

"If Thief River Falls citizens respond as expected, the city will be in complete darkness next Wednesday night, December 2, from 10 o'clock to 10:30, a test blackout having been requested for that time by Lieutenant Colonel R. A. Oberlander of the Minnesota state guard, it was announced today by Major G. Schilbred, chairman of the Pennington county civilian defense council. The test will be in preparation for a blackout of the entire state of Minnesota and eight other states scheduled for Monday night, December 14, starting at 10 o'clock. Major Schilbred requested the full cooperation of local citizens in making the blackouts a success."

Attack on Pearl Harbor Recalled By PTA

"Coming, as it does, on the anniversary of the attack on Pearl Harbor, the next meeting of the Parent-Teacher association Monday evening, December 7, will be devoted to activities in the local schools designed to provide an answer to the attack, Lloyd Bennes, president, announced today. The program will include several demonstrations to show the training being given in the schools for physical fitness. At the same time a huge service flag, six by 15 feet, will be dedicated, bearing a star for each Lincoln high school graduate in the armed services. The flag will be hung permanently in the school auditorium."

—The Gallup poll is getting a lot of razzing for failing to forecast the Republican upsurge in Congress.

—The government is buying a lot of rotary snowplows from county highway departments in Minnesota. Better pray for an open winter.

—A falling off is to be anticipated in the number of coffee parties this winter.

—From here on to the end of gasoline and tire rationing, the owner of a good pair of legs will appreciate his luck.

—With the successful big game hunters back from the wars, a lot of local families are on a venison diet.

—We agree with Wes Meyers of the Detroit Lakes Tribune that we have had our fill of that cheerful little washday song over WDAY.

—Cheerful thought: The soldier boys in the army camps are getting their fill of Thanksgiving turkey and all the trimmings.

—In view of traffic congestion, there won't be any advertising by the railroads this season appealing to holiday travelers.

—If Santa Claus intends to cover the world this Christmas, he had better wear a bullet-proof vest.

—The most appropriate Christmas gift this year will consist of war bonds and stamps.

—Personally, we don't expect to suffer much from the rationing programs until they limit our supply of pipe tobacco to one can a month.

—It won't work out so good if folks cash in their war bonds when the time comes to pay their 1943 income taxes.

N. A. H.

Coffee Rationing In Brief

STARTING DATE: Sunday, November 29.
WHY: Shortage of shipping facilities to bring coffee in.
WHO MAY BUY IT: Persons over 15 years of age, whose age is proved by War Ration Book No. 1, the "sugar book."
HOW CAN IT BE BOUGHT: With ration stamps out of Book No. 1. Stamps numbered from the top down to 20 are to be coffee stamps.
THE RATION: One pound of coffee for each stamp.
FIRST RATION STAMP: Number 27.
FIRST RATION PERIOD: The five weeks between November 29 and January 3, 1943.
NEXT RATION PERIOD: To be announced later by OPA.
IF YOU HAVE NO WAR RATION BOOK NO. 1: Apply at your local war ration board if you haven't applied before. If you didn't get a book last spring because you had too much sugar on hand, go to your board before December 15 and ask for a book. Your board will give you a Book No. 1, with stamps torn out to cover the sugar you have on hand now.
COFFEE PRICES: Coffee prices are under the OPA ceiling. Don't pay any more than the merchant's ceiling price for it.
BUYING ADVICE: Buy coffee as you need it, a pound at a time. A pound will be allowed each adult in your family during the first five-week period, but to get coffee as fresh as possible, don't get the second pound you're entitled to until your first pound is about to be used up.

School District #561 Proceedings

SCHOOL DISTRICT #561
GOODRIDGE, MN

The following minutes are not official until approved by the Board at the Next regularly scheduled meeting.

Proceedings: November 17, 1992, 8:00 p.m.

Members Present: Norma Hanson, Marlin Kotrba, Tom Scheel, Aldon Hyland, Joe Philipp, John Gallagher.

Members Absent: None.

Also Present: Superintendent Hoffert, Principal Winge.

The meeting was called to order at 8:00 p.m. by Chairperson Hanson in the Home Economics room. Pledge of Allegiance was given.

Gallagher moved, Philipp seconded, to approve the November meeting agenda as amended. Motion carried.

Hyland moved, Kotrba seconded, to approve the minutes of the October 28, 1992, regular meeting and the October 26, 1992, Special Joint meeting as mailed. Motion carried.

The audit report of monthly bills was given by Kotrba and Sheel. Kotrba moved, Scheel seconded, to approve for payment the November computer checks $53,032.98, October handpayables $20,321.41, and October extra payroll $8,710.99 for a total of $82,065.38. Motion carried. (see reports #11.1 #11.3 attached to the official board minutes.)

Superintendent Hoffert reviewed the revenue and expenditure budget and cash flow reports. The district showed an investment of $111,508.54 on October 31, 1992.

Three students from the Junior Class gave a report on the plans the class has made for the prom and banquet in the spring.

Patti Johnson, representing the G.E.A., gave a report on faculty activities and workshops.

No classified staff or instructional reports were given.

Larry Vigen, chairman of the District Steering Committee, reported on their first meeting. The committee requested the board consider having the State Department of Education do an additional management assistance study. Gallagher moved, Scheel second, to direct the administration to contact the State Department of Education to request a management assistance study for the Goodridge school. Motion carried. Vigen reported that the committee plans to tour the building during their next meeting.

Gallagher moved, Hyland seconded, to resolve the contract grievance filed by John Rahn, by separating from continuing contract the head coaches contract, which would eliminate the head coaching position from any continuing contract rights and place head coaches under M.S. 125.121. Motion carried.

Lee Nelson expressed his concern with the current criteria used to set bus routes. Scheel and Gallagher reported on the committee meeting they had with the administration to review criteria used to set bus routes. The consensus of the committee was to recommend the board leave this policy intact.

Hyland moved, Kotrba seconded, to approve the behavioral intervention policies and procedures as recommended by the Northwest Regional Inter-District Council. Motion carried. (see report #8.1 attached to the official board minutes.)

The board briefly discussed the M.S.B.A. collective bargaining position.

Gallagher moved, Hyland seconded, to nominate Norma Hanson as candidate for Minnesota School Boards Association Outstanding School Board Member. Motion carried.

Hanson recommended that a number of community education classes be listed in the next school newsletter for community consideration.

Gallagher moved, Philipp seconded, to approve a contract with Elden Winge as Principal beginning November 2, 1992, to replace Interim Principal John Elsbrener. Motion carried.

Superintendent Hoffert reported that there is still an opening for boys C-Team Basketball Coach.

Kotrba moved, Philipp seconded, to hire John Gallagher and Tom Scheel as Elementary Basketball Coaches for the 1992-1993 basketball season. Motion carried.

Kotrba gave a report on the last pairing committee meeting. (see report #10.11 attached to the official board minutes.)

Hyland gave a report on the N.W. Regional Inter-District Council Shared Cost Comparisons. He also reported on the meeting of the student foundation committee. (see report #10.52 attached to the official board minutes.)

Hanson reported on the method the Board of Directors of the N.W. ECSU will be using to downsize their Board of Directors.

Principal Winge reported that a tentative date for the planning, evaluating and reporting meeting has been set for December 3, 1992. He also reported that approximately 80% of the parents attended conferences this fall.

Superintendent Hoffert reported on upcoming M.S.B.A. workshops; on the Minnesota Rural Education Conference; on the December 5, 1992, school staff Christmas party; and on the December 10, 1992, tentative date for school climate meeting.

The next regular board meeting was set for Tuesday, December 15, 1992, at 3:00 p.m. to be followed by the tax levy hearing at 5:00 p.m.

Hyland moved, Philipp seconded, to adjourn the meeting at 10:10. Motion carried.

County Board Proceedings

November 24, 1992
OFFICIAL PROCEEDINGS
BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS,
PENNINGTON COUNTY
OCTOBER 13TH, 1992 - 10:00 A.M.

Pursuant to adjournment the Pennington County Board of Commissioners met in the Commissioners room in the courthouse in Thief River Falls, on Tuesday, October 13th, 1992 at 10:00 a.m. Present: Koop, Jensen, Murphy, Penning and Swenson. Absent: none.

County Engineer Delton Schulz and Assistant Engineer George Broadwell met with the County Board. The County Engineer indicated to the County Board that he has a copy of the September 18th, 1992 minutes of the meeting on the Lancaster Port of Entry in his office if anyone is interested. The County Engineer then discussed Beaver Dams. He suggested we use the dragline or backhoe whenever possible to remove Beaver Dams in the County's ditch's, using blasting in the cases where they cannot be reached any other way.

George Broadwell then updated the County Board on the status of the construction and maintenance projects for 1992.

It was noted that Ralph Klockman would be retiring from the County Highway Department on October 30th, 1992.

Commissioner Murphy introduced the following resolution and moved its adoption:

WHEREAS, THE COUNTY OF PENNINGTON has applied to the Commissioner of Transportation for a grant from the Minnesota State Transportation Fund for the construction/reconstruction of County Bridge No. 57-598-12 over JUDICIAL DITCH NO. 30 and,

WHEREAS, The application for the grant has been reviewed by the NORTHWEST REGIONAL DEVELOPMENT COMMISSION, AND;

WHEREAS, the amount of the grant has been determined to be $23,302.60 by result of the lowest responsible bid.

NOW THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, that the County of PENNINGTON does hereby affirm that any cost of the bridge in excess of the grant will be appropriated from funds available to the County of PENNINGTON, and that any grant monies appropriated for the bridge but not required, based on the final estimate, shall be returned to the Minnesota State Transportation Fund.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED: that whereas Federal monies are being used to participate in the cost of the bridge, grant monies as matching funds shall be transferred directly to the agency account and that the records of the County of PENNINGTON shall so state.

Commissioner Jensen seconded the foregoing resolution and upon vote was unanimously carried.

Dresser Machinery, Inc. will be holding a demonstration of a Dresser Motor grader at the Pennington County Highway shop on October 30th, 1992 at 9:00 A.M.

Commissioner Koop moved, seconded by Commissioner Jensen to commend Carol Forsberg and Lori Marquis for their help in typing the notes to the 1991 financial statement for the State Auditors office saving Pennington County additional charges. Motion unanimously carried.

Commissioner Jensen moved, seconded by Commissioner Murphy to move Assistant Engineer, George Broadwell to the top step of his salary schedule effective on his employment anniversary date. Motion unanimously carried.

Commissioner Murphy moved, seconded by Commissioner Koop to have County Engineer Delton Schulz contact Gerald Burns to see if a site plan could be obtained for the casino being built on S.S.A.H. 93. Motion unanimously carried.

Richard Nordhagen and Howard Person then met with the County Board concerning the Solid Waste Facility. Howard noted that the public comment period has started October 2, 1992 on the Solid Waste Facility Permit and Composting Facility Permit. The public comment period will end November 2, 1992.

Commissioner Murphy moved, seconded by Commissioner Penning to advertise for bids for construction of the Pennington County Compost Facility to be let on October 29th, 1992 at 2:00 p.m. in the Pennington County Board Room. Motion unanimously carried.

County Board Chairman Swenson appointed Commissioner Jensen and Richard Nordhagen to a committee to negotiate a purchase price with Butler Machinery for the payloader the solid waste facility has been leasing. The Chairman also asked the County Auditor to get the buyout price of the Scarab compost turner. Both items are included in the Compost Facility Grant.

Commissioner Murphy moved, seconded by Commissioner Koop to approve payment of $1,983.00 as start up costs of the Northwest Household Hazardous Waste program from SCORE funds. Motion unanimously carried.

Commissioner Jensen moved, seconded by Commissioner Koop to authorize the Solid Waste Officer Howard Person to continue discussions with the Solid Waste Officers of Kittson and Marshall County's concerning their landfill. Motion unanimously carried.

County Sheriff, Robert Wold then met with the County Board requesting a change in the Conflict of Interest policy. Commissioner Koop moved, seconded by Commissioner Jensen to change the wording of the Policy on Code of Ethics for Employees under Section 5, Subd. 1A to include the words "except for transports by the Pennington County Sheriff's Office". Motion unanimously carried.

Jerry Jensen met with the County Board to request assistance from the County Engineer's Office in designing Johnson's Drive. Commissioner Murphy moved, seconded by Commissioner Koop that the County Engineer's Office be authorized to do work on designing Johnson Drive for a blacktop surface on a fee basis. Motion unanimously carried.

Commissioner Jensen moved, seconded by Commissioner Koop to cast Pennington County's vote for Edward Larson to serve on the Region One Coordinating Board created under the Health Right Act of 1992. Motion unanimously carried.

Commissioner Jensen moved, seconded by Commissioner Murphy to pay the Commissioners warrants as presented. Motion unanimously carried.

OFFICIAL PROCEEDINGS
BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS
PENNINGTON COUNTY
OCTOBER 27th, 1992 - 5:00 P.M.

Pursuant to adjournment the Pennington County Board of Commissioners met in the Commissioners room in the courthouse in Thief River Falls on Tuesday October 27th, 1992 at 5:00 p.m. Members present: Koop, Jensen, Penning, Murphy and Swenson. Members absent: none.

Meeting with the County Board was the Court Administrator and staff to discuss comparable worth and how it affects the salaries of the Deputy Court Administrators. Discussion on how the pay equity points were established and whether they are still correct. It was explained that job descriptions and how they matched to the State Job match system was the basis for the rating being as they are. If jobs have changed it is possible that the rating should also be changed.

Yvonne M. Johnson representing DCA, Inc. a consulting Administration and Management service company discussed expanding the County's current flex benefit plan into a full cafeteria plan. Optional levels of Health Insurance would be offered to the employees with the County contributing a fixed amount toward the employee benefit package. No action was taken.

Gerry DeHaan, Pennington County Assessor met with the County Board first to discuss an abatement of 1992 taxes on a Mobile Home owned by Douglas Amiot that was in Lot #1 Countryside Trailer Court. The Mobile Home was destroyed by fire on 3-26-92. Commissioner Penning moved, seconded by Commissioner Koop to approve the abatement of $114.40 of Mobile Home Tax and penalty on parcel #25.91.181.00 described as a 1969 Buddy Mobile Home Serial #BE1991C owned by Douglas Amiot. Motion unanimously carried.

The following resolution was introduced by Commissioner Penning, seconded by Commissioner Jensen and upon vote was unanimously carried.

BE IT RESOLVED That Gerry DeHaan is hereby re-appointed to serve as County Assessor for the County of Pennington, State of Minnesota, for a four year term beginning January 1, 1992, appointment being made pursuant to Minnesota Statutes 273.061.

County Assessor DeHaan then discussed his resignation he has stated will be effective January 11, 1993. Commissioner Jensen moved, seconded by Commissioner Koop to accept the resignation of Gerry DeHaan from the position of County Assessor affective January 11th, 1993. Motion unanimously carried.

Mr. DeHaan then urged the County Board to start advertising to fill the position of County Assessor as soon as possible. Commissioner Murphy moved, seconded by Commissioner Koop to direct the County Auditor to start advertising to fill the County Assessor position with applications to be accepted until December 7th, 1992. Motion unanimously carried.

Commissioner Penning moved, seconded by Commissioner Koop that the Pennington County Board of Commissioners thank Gerry DeHaan for his many years of service as the Pennington County Assessor and wish him well in the future. Motion unanimously carried.

Richard Nordhagen met with the County Board concerning Solid Waste Issues. Mr. Nordhagen stated that the plant is running better than ever. Mr. Nordhagen reviewed the amount Butler Machinery quoted to buy out the payloader that is currently leased to the Solid Waste Facility using funds from the Compost Facility Grant and bonds. The amount was much more than anticipated and the County Board requested the specs be drawn up to request bids on both a new or used payloader for the Compost Facility.

The County Auditor reviewed the buyout figures for the SCARAB compost turner. Commissioner Koop moved, seconded by Commissioner Jensen to authorize the County Auditor to pay-off the least purchase contract for the SCARAB compost Turner on January 22, 1993 in the amount of $55,799.89 using funds from the compost facility grant and bond funds from the compost facility grant and bond funds. Motion unanimously carried.

Chairman Swanson left the meeting at this time turning the meeting over to Vice-Chairman Ken Murphy.

Michael Burns representing Michael J. Burns Architects met with the County Board to discuss the Americans with Disabilities Act and the requirement to do a transition plan. Mr. Burns would like to do a transition plan for the City of Thief River Falls and Pennington County on a joint basis due to the close proximity of the Courthouse and the City Auditorium. The County Board approved getting a quote for these services from Mr. Burns and requested the County Auditor to work with him to see that he gets the necessary information.

Wally Dornfeld discussed the sale of bonds to fund the Compost Facility project and to refund the 1994-2002 maturities of the General Obligations Solid Waste Revenue Bonds of 1985.

The following resolution was presented by Commissioner Jensen who moved its adoption:

RESOLUTION PROVIDING FOR THE ISSUANCE AND SALE OF $855,000 GENERAL OBLIGATION SOLID WASTE REVENUE BONDS, SERIES 1993A

Chairman Swanson then returned to the meeting and assumed the Chair from Vice-Chairman Ken Murphy.

George Broadwell, Assistant County Engineer joined the meeting to discuss County Highway Department matters. The Board discussed a proposal from the Bureau of Indian Affairs for construction and or reconstruction of a roadway extending from the Red Lake Indian Reservation located in Clearwater and Beltrami Counties which would join Pennington County at the NE Corner of Section 1 Township 152 North, Range 39 West, Hickory Township. No action was taken on this item.

Mr. Broadwell then discussed the progress on the County Highway Projects and also the need for two walkie-talkies for the survey crew. Two quotas were given for walkie-talkies. Commissioner Jensen moved, seconded by Commissioner Koop to authorize the purchase of two walkie talkies from Stones Mobile Radio for the amount of $993.41. Motion unanimously carried.

Other items discussed included Bridge inspection, 5 year plan, getting site plan for Falls Casino and Midwest Contracting's progress on Bridge on County Road #65 which should be done by the next meeting.

Commissioner Koop moved, seconded by Commissioner Penning to approve the minutes of October 13th, 1992 as written. Motion carried.

Commissioner Murphy moved, seconded by Commissioner Penning to set the County Canvassing Board for Thursday November 5th, 1992 at 2:00 p.m. in the County Board Room. Motion carried.

The following resolution was introduced by Commissioner Murphy, seconded by Commissioner Koop and upon vote was unanimously carried.

BE IT RESOLVED That the parcels of land forfeited to the State of Minnesota for nonpayment of taxes, appearing on the list filed with the County Auditor, which have been classified and appraised as provided by Minnesota Laws, 1935 Chapter 386, as amended, shall be offered for sale by the Pennington County Auditor at a time and date to be determined by the County Auditor.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the terms of the sale shall be as cash only.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the parcel described as the North 50' of Lot 1 Block 7 Riverside Addition be withheld from the said and sold to the City of Thief River Falls per their request.

Commissioner Koop moved, seconded by Commissioner Murphy to issue a duplicate check for a lost warrant issued to Chester Swenson in the amount of $18.90 warrant #100546 dated May 27th, 1992 without furnishing an indemnifying bond. Motion unanimously carried.

Commissioner Penning moved, seconded by Commissioner Jensen to approve the County Software Protection Agreement as written and authorize the Chairman to sign the agreement on behalf of Pennington County. Motion unanimously carried.

Commissioner Murphy moved, seconded by Commissioner Koop to adjourn to October 29th, 1992 at 2:00 p.m. Motion carried.

DANGER
Not talking to your children about drugs can be hazardous to their health.
Parent Power can prevent drug abuse if you will:
1) Care enough to inform yourself about the effects of drug abuse and make the drug situation an open topic of conversation.
2) State clearly in ongoing, non-accusatory discussions with your children that drug abuse will not be tolerated.
3) Be a strong parent by establishing and enforcing clear and consistent "no drug" behavioral rules.
PLEASE TAKE THE TIME TO TALK TO YOUR CHILDREN ABOUT DRUGS

Sam's club promotion angers local merchants

by David Hill
Associate Editor

At a time when charity is close to the heart and pocketbook, several local business leader's didn't think it was very charitable for the county to distribute Sam's Club temporary membership cards with paychecks.

Last week, employees of the county received temporary memberships to the club along with their pay checks. Ron Nelson, a local businessman in Thief River Falls, angrily questioned whether such a distribution was even legal. Nelson said he doesn't have anything against competition, but he believes there's a limit to how you compete, and he believes Sam's Club, a division of Wal-Mart, has overstepped that boundary. Further, Nelson firmly believes shopping in another community has a negative impact on the economy of Thief River Falls. If people don't shop in Thief River Falls, merchants won't be able to support employees, he said. The number of people in the community and the taxes they pay on goods has a direct affect on the community and Nelson believes it was improper for the county to encourage their employees to shop in Grand Forks.

Pennington county commissioners appeared unaware that the temporary memberships were distributed with pay checks until they were informed by several businessmen.

According to employees with the county auditor's office, the county was approached about using a room to distribute the temporary memberships to its employees. That request was denied. The temporary membership card and flyer, however, were distributed with paychecks.

The county board was later contacted by several businessmen in the community and it has taken out an advertisement in The Times. The advertisement states, "The Pennington County board of Commissioners did not authorize the recent solicitation or distribution of promotional materials to Pennington county employees."

Further it states that, "Throughout the years, local business has supported and continues to support local government, donating money for many school, charitable and recreational activities. All of us have benefited from this support. Your local businesses deserve your support." The advertisement is

Lincoln bands in concert on Friday

Lincoln high school bands under the direction of Bruce Felt will present a concert Friday, December 4, at 7:30 p.m. in the Lincoln high school auditorium. Tickets are $2 for adults and $1 for students.

Opening the concert will be the Lincoln jazz band which will present three songs. Students featured with the band will be Liza Hoaas on flugelhorn, Leslie Ammerman on trumpet and Reed Braaten on guitar.

Following the jazz band performance will be the freshman band with its performance highlighted by a selection entitled "Canto" and written for a Japanese band festival.

Next on stage will be the concert band which will perform a song written by Barry Kopetz, a former University of Minnesota band director; a medley of music from recent movies; and an arrangement of a band standard, "Procession of the Nobles."

Concluding the concert will be the wind ensemble playing three songs with British connections. The first number, "Spitfire," was inspired by the Battle of Britain. The second and third were written by British composers. Final number by the wind ensemble to conclude the concert will be LeRoy Anderson's "Christmas Festival," which is played to conclude each of the Lincon band department's December concerts.

Following the concert a reception will be served by the Band Boosters organization in the Lincoln cafeteria. Members of the bands involved in the concert include the following:

Program review group visits NCC

To review five instructional programs and make recommendations on program modifications and future hiring, a program review group visited Northland Community College in Thief River Falls recently.

The eight members of the review group are scheduled to make written reports in two weeks to the curriculum committee at Northland. They were supplied with background information on NCC's programs and spent one day meeting with faculty members in their program areas and with administration.

Program areas studied were mathematics, physics, biology, business and art. Among the reasons for the study were the retirements within the past year of longtime faculty members James Dalager and Charles Samuelson in the areas of physics, mathematics and biology. Their positions are being filled at the present time by temporary instructors.

Northland Provost Dr. James Haviland said that "the time is right for us to take the opportunity to stop and look at our curriculum....to assess the interaction of all the variables involved in these programs as they relate to the total college system."

Other variables listed by Dr. Haviland include the accreditation review to be conducted this spring by the North Central Association; intersystem transfers; coaching vacancies; expansion in computer technology and student services; affect on off-campus programs by a new contractual mandate with the college faculty association that 60 per cent of instruction must come from permanent faculty; and courses available and offered through the telecommunications system.

Comprising the review team were faculty members from other community colleges in Minnesota. They included the following:

Mathematics—Don Goode and George Bedard, Brainerd Community College; Peggy Rejto and Chris Ennis, Normandale Community College;

Physics—George Bedard, Brainerd Community College and Donald Rebertus, Normandale Community College;

Biology—Dennis O'Melia, Inver Hills Community College;

Business—Anita Olson, North Hennepin Community College; and Art—Rosemary Smith.

Program raviaw group visitod Northland Community College in Thiaf River Falls last week to review progrems and make recommondations on program modifications and future hirings by tha colloga. Picturad (left to right) aro Don Goode, Breinerd Community Collage, mathamatics; Georgo Bodard, Brainerd CC, mathematics and physics; Peggy Rejto, Normandale CC, mathematics; Chris Ennis, Normandale CC, mothematics; LeRoy Stumpf, State Senetor, Thief River Falls; Anita Olson, North Hennepin CC, business; Donald G. Perspectives from back home given on World War II

by Donno Myhrer
Times Community Editor

November 1942: ...Allied landing in North Africa; Allied capture of Tuoesio; Bottle of Tassoforongo. As Americo celebrated Armistice Day in November 1942, those who had served in The World War (better known today as World War I) had a special prospective on the world affairs of the 1940's. Leander Anderson had been drafted, but not for service in World War II. He was drafted in August of 1918 during World War I and served in Illinois and Texas. He tells that he was in Illinois during the infamous flu epidemic and, although he didn't get very sick, he did spend several days in the hospital. He was transferred to Waco, TX two weeks before the war was over and spent a short time in training for the infantry, on the drill field and rifle range. When peace was declared, however, he was assigned as a waiter to the officers' mess and remained in Texas for several months, while many of the other men were sent home. He finally got out in April after a rainy cold winter and returned to his family's home farm near Stephen. He was involved in 1919 in constructing the American Legion building in Stephen. He spent the next several years working as a truck driver and during World War II, Leander was keeping busy with driving a truck to make fuel deliveries to farms in the Stephen area. He recalls that many of the farmers had a hard time during the war because of the difficulty with tire rationing. He also recalls that there was a 35 mph speed limit on passenger cars, but "we truck drivers didn't have that restriction." He drove a truck with a thousand-gallon tank and Leander says that the drivers had to collect five-gallon ration tickets from the farmers and bring them to the train depot to pick up the fuel from the train. He adds that it took up to two days a month just to do

U.S. Chamber calls for product liability reform

Calling product liability reform one of the most important legislative initiatives of the year, the U.S. Chamber of Commerce Federatoin has announced that it is expanding its grassroots effort to urge congressional action. Product liability reform has been a Chamber priority for several years. The Chamber is a charter member of the Product Liability Coordinating committee.

The Chamber said a hodgepodge of 51 state-level product liability laws is hindering many of its member companies — especially the small businesses that comprise 92 per cent of Chamber membership.

"Not only do manufacturers and retailers suffer, but so do workers and consumers," said Tyler Wilson, regulatory affairs manager for the Chamber.

"The Chamber Federation is committed to enacting product liability reform this year," Wilson continued. "The first step is the U.S. Senate in September. Then we'll go from there." The Senate is scheduled to debate the issue beginning Sept. 8.

The Chamber will devote additional resources to the product liability effort, create a product liability task force to tackle the issue and mobilize its grassroots network of business leaders from across the nation.

At this point, a bipartisan group of 40 senators has cosponsored S. 640, the Product Liability Fairness Act.

"Never has the time been better for enacting reform," Wilson said.

Lincoln high school Swingsations, under the direction of Mrs. Darcy Reese, performed at the community Christmas tree lighting ceremony in Thief River Falls Sunday evening. Jane Mattson, president of the Thief River Falls chamber of commerce served as master of ceremonies and the welcome was given by Thief River Falls Mayor Bob Reeve. A brass ensemble also performed at the ceremony. Rev. Curtis Anderson, pastor of Evangelical Free Church in Thief River Falls gave the closing prayer. Mrs. Heidi Hoks read the Christmas story. Russell Lilcks, a resident at Hanson's Boarding Home in Thief River Falls, performed the lighting of the tree.

Brittany Hanson Celebrates 5th Birthday!

Brittany Hanson, daughter of Dale and Dawn Hanson of Goodridge, celebrated her fifth birthday on November 19. Brittany, along with her parents and brothers, Benjamin, Clifton, and Andrew, sisters, Tiffany and Rachael, and Janelle Kveton enjoyed birthday supper in Thief River Falls.

On Sunday Dale and Dawn Hanson hosted a dinner in Brittany's honor. Guests for dinner included Brittany's grandparents, Orlin and Marcella Hanson, and Clifford and Gunda Hegge, Brittany's godparents, Ron and Ellen Hegge, Bradley, Ross and Lindsay, Lynn and Lori Vad, Jeremiah and Jennifer, and Dean Hanson, and great uncle, Don Larson of rural Oklee. Marie Dahlen enjoyed Beauty and The Beast cake with the above mentioned in the afternoon. Brittany received many nice cards and gifts for her birthday. Others who sent birthday greetings to Brittany were Kay Wedul of Thief River Falls, Big Bird and the Sesame Street Gang and Linda and Bob Ventura of Swan River, Manitoba Canada.

Saturday Dawn Hanson attended the baby shower for Linda Bergsson and twins, Skyler and Lisa, held at the Rick Bergeson home of rural Trail.

Saturday Andrew and Brittany Hanson visited with their cousin Lindsay Hegge at the Ron Hegge home, of rural Oklee. Tiffany and Rachael visited with their grandma, Gunda Hegge, of rural Oklee.

Friday evening Clifton Hanson was an overnight guest of Marshall Tanner at the Ralph Isaak home at rural Goodridge.

Say What?!

By Karmen Lee Ortloff

I remember when I lost my first tooth. It wasn't that big of a deal. I simply went into the bathroom with a wet washcloth and pulled out my tiny hiccupid. It was only later, after talking to that fount of knowledge that is my sister, that I realized that the process was not supposed to be simple or painless (thanks so much, Karla!)

Recently I was reminded of exactly how traumatic removing a body part can be. Especially when you have an older sister to "guide" you along.

I was babysitting. Nothing strange. I made dinner. Nothing strange. Then, the little five-year-old (we'll call her... oh, Tricia) wouldn't eat. Seeing as I am a magnificent cook when it comes to Kraft macaroni and cheese, I was flabbergasted as to why this child would not eat. Enter Tricia's older sister (we'll call her... oh, Jenny).

Jenny informs me that Tricia has a loose tooth. As Tricia opens her mouth and wiggles the loose peg in her mouth, Jenny and I stand around looking into her mouth in complete awe. (There is just something about a loose tooth that draws people to gaze into another's mouth. It's definitely gross, but all of us have done it. Admit it!)

Naturally, the ever helpful older sister offers to pull the thing right out, right there; she even gets a few fingers into Tricia's mouth before Tricia can pull away. (One more thing about human nature: if there is a loose tooth within a five mile radius, you'll offer to help pull it out. Luckily, also as human nature would have it, people refuse such help. Phew!)

Needless to say, as the night wore on, Tricia started to get a little obsessed (to put it mildly) with getting that darn tooth out.

I started to reminisce about how I lost my teeth. I told the story of one tooth that just wouldn't die. I tied a string around it and slammed a door. Nothing happened. I bit into an apple. Nothing happened. I tried to twist it out. Nothing happened.

"What did you do?" Tricia asks me with wide eyes, completely enthralled. "I called in an expert. My aunt came over, put a wet cloth on it and jerked the thing right outta there!"

"What's a cloth?"

"A washcloth." An enlightened look comes over Tricia's face as she scurries off into the bathroom. Jenny and I lay back to watch the ever intellectually stimulating Simpsons.

All of a sudden, from my left comes this blur screaming, "It worked! It worked! You were right Karmen!" (As if there were any doubts.)

Nonetheless, I wanted to survey the goods myself. Yep, it worked all right, in her hand was a little tooth. (Yet another thing about human nature, once the tooth is out, no one but the owner wants to look at it for a prolonged period of time.)

I do not babysit for ordinary children, I babysit for the reincarnations of Albert Einstein. (I like to think it was because of my awesome babysitting ability that these two blossomed into nothing less than prodigies, however, I will share some of the credit with their mother.)

Jenny (remember, that's the "helpful" older sister), reminds Tricia that the tooth fairy will come and make a cash exchange for merchandise (a rarity nowadays).

Ecstatic that she will get money out of the deal, Tricia runs to look at the empty divit in her mouth. Jenny pulls me aside, making sure her sister can't hear. "You know, Karmen, the tooth fairy is really my mom." I take a step back from Jenny, shocked at such news. Jenny merely closes her eyelids and nods her head, reassuring me that this news flash is indeed true.

Back from the bathroom, and practicing the word "pizza," Tricia gushes, "Do you know what this means? I get my name on the big tooth at school!"

After a half hour of talk about losing one's body parts, it's time to head off for bed. Jenny, ever helpful, lets her sister in on one of the greatest money making deals going. "Tricia, if you put some money under your pillow before you go to sleep, you'll get more money from the tooth fairy."

Tricia, clearly interested in this business opportunity, blurts out, "I have a dollar in my room!"

I kindly remind the two that they shouldn't be greedy.

"Ya, Jenny!" (Aren't little sisters great? And I am not biased at all.) But she puts the dollar under her pillow anyway.

It is times like these that I know I have helped raise these girls correctly. (What can I say? I'm a product of the eighties, so sue me!)

Speaking Of . . .

by Sharon LaCoursiere

. . . Trivial Drivel

Writing a weekly column is not easy. It is a little like having a term paper due every single week of the year. No matter if it is Christmas, or the writer's (50th) birthday, or war has been declared, or the writer has lost his or her best friend, the column must be written.

The column must be written no matter how the writer is feeling inside, whether he or she be in a good mood, or angry, or depressed, or jovial, or crabby, or sad.

There is the DEADLINE, staring the writer in the face. No matter (nearly) what, the deadline must be met. In case of special cases or dire circumstances, however, you will notice that the Editor will run a little blurb saying that the columnist is "on vacation" or "indisposed" or some such thing that week so there will be no column. I hope you will notice that most of the Times' columnists have very few dire circumstances in their lives and their columns are there, every week, nearly without fail, no matter what.

You might not realize it, but the Times' columnists do not actually work at the Times. We are ordinary people, just like you, with families and homes and other jobs and other things to do. We are not among those people you see working in the Times' office when you come in to renew your subscription, so don't look for us there.

We are just people who happen to like to write things, and have been lucky enough to have someone want to publish what we write. We have been even more lucky in finding someone who wants to read what we write. (That's you.)

I have been and still am amazed that people actually read some of the trivial drivel that I write. This is not to say that I think everything I write is trivial drivel—just some of it.

However, speaking of trivial drivel and what I think is trivial drivel, we come to the crux of the matter. What I think is trivial drivel may very well not be what you think if trivial drivel. I may write a very heartfelt, serious column, which is very important to me, and you might think it is trivial drivel. That is your right as a reader and more power to you.

The best part of reading a newspaper is that you, the reader, are allowed to be pick-y and choose-y about what you read. You can skip over all of the stuff you find boring or unimportant and read just what you want. You can skip over the trivial drivel and read only what is interesting to you.

What is important to you may not be important to me. You may want to read the Rocksbury Township news every week. I don't think I know anyone in Rocksbury Township, so I usually don't read it.

(Never mind that I used to typeset the Rocksbury Township news, along with many others, and enjoyed reading all of them while I did my typing. That was when I worked at the Times. It just happens that I am no longer a typesetter at the Times and am too busy with my other job now so I just don't have time to read the township news any more. I must admit though, when I have the time I still enjoy skimming through it, but that is beside the point.)

The point is, we all have the wonderful privilege of choosing what we read. The point is—what you can do when you come across what you feel is trivial drivel in this newspaper is—stop reading.

Yes, just shift your eyes to something else. This isn't like a trivial drivel television or radio program, you know. This is newspaper. There are no dials to turn or buttons to push. All you have to do is move on to something you like better. Ah, the wonder of it all.

However, if you do not stop and move on, but continue to read a trivial drivel "Speaking of..." column, or any other column you feel is trivial drivel for that matter, I would ask that you do one thing while reading it that might help. Just carefully place your tongue in your cheek and take a grain of salt while you read it.

I guarantee you the trivial drivel will be much more palatable if read in this manner, because, you know, I think it is usually written to be read in just such a way. Don't you think so too?

Rohl hosts seminar for tax professionals

Regan Rohl, the Thief River Falls representative for the financial-services firm Edward D. Jones & Co., will host a live interactive broadcast for tax and legal professionals Wednesday, December 9. The program is titled "Tax Policy and Priorities: "A Year-end Update from Capitol Hill." The seminar features Sen. Bill Bradley, D-N.J. as the guest speaker for the program. Bradley is a member of the Senate Finance Committee and was also the author of the proposed Fair Tax, which eventually became the Tax Reform Act of 1986.

The program, eligible for two hours of continuing education credit, makes earning required credit convenient for local tax professionals.

For more information on this continuing education broadcast, contact Rohl at (218) 681-8380. The local office is located at 312 North Main in Thief River Falls.

Insurance Update

Dee Schmidtgall

WHAT MAKES A HOME UNTENANTABLE?

Coverage D under a home owners policy provides an additional amount of insurance that is fixed at 20% of the dwelling coverages. It is called Additional Living Expense and is used when a home becomes untenantable due to damage from a covered peril, such as fire or smoke.

A house is not considered untenantable if fire has ruined the floor of one room, but the rest of the home is otherwise habitable. It is untenantable if acrid fumes from a burned out basement workshop make the upstairs unbearable for several days until the services of a deodorizing company can be obtained. It is untenantable, regardless of the extent of other damage, if both bathrooms of a two bathroom house have been destroyed. Common sense governs.

The coverage applies to expenses necessary to maintain your household at the standard of living to which you are accustomed. In most instances, the 20% allowed under the basic premium is adequate coverage. However, higher limits are available if necessary.

Your source of information on the proper insurance coverage is your insurance agent. NORTHERN STATE AGENCY is available to discuss your insurance needs. Our office is located in the Northern State Bank building. Office hours at 8:30-4:30 Mon. - Fri., 8:30-6:00 Thurs.

Thief River Falls — Anna Yonke, 66, died November [illegible] at the Kittson Memorial Nursing Home in Hallock.

Funeral services were held November [illegible] at the Trinity Lutheran church with Rev. Josh Nelson officiating. Special music was provided by Galen Nordin, soloist, and Dorothy Larson, organist. Honorary casketbearers were Roberta Klocy, Dolly Newland, Minnie Bjerke, Lee Carriere, Cecilia Stoltman and Sister Rachel. Active casketbearers were Wade Johnson, John Thorstad, Wesley Rud, Gene Eggerud, Mike Johnson and Chester Yonke. Interment was in the Greenwood cemetery. The Green Funeral Home is in charge of arrangements.

Anna Sylvia Johnson was born Dec. 29, 1925 in Kittson county, the daughter of Ole and Jennie (Williamson) Johnson. She attended Lindquist school, McKinley township, near Lancaster, and grew up in that community. On Mar. 9, 1946 she was united in marriage to Willard Yonke in Thief River Falls. The couple lived in Holt following their marriage. They moved to St. Paul in 1951 and in 1953 moved back to Lancaster. In 1969 they moved to Thief River Falls. She worked as a home health aide and at Valley Home in Thief River Falls. She entered Kittson Memorial Nursing Home in September 1992. She was a member of Trinity Lutheran church, VFW auxiliary, American Legion auxiliary and the DAV of Crookston.

She is survived by her husband, one daughter, Mrs. Arnold (Joyce) Clow of Lancaster, two sons, Bill (Joyce) of Lancaster and Les of Thief River Falls, nine grandchildren, one great granddaughter; one sister, Mrs. Ed (Myrtle) VanDeStreek of Thief River Falls, and four brothers: Theodore Johnson and Ole Johnson, both of Thief River Falls, Raymond Johnson and Marvin Johnson of Astoria, OR.

She was preceded in death by her parents, three brothers: Vance, Ernest and one in infancy; and one sister, Edna Johnson.

Floy Gladys Hanson, 93

Thief River Falls — Floy Gladys Hanson, 93, died November 25 at the Northwest Medical center in Thief River Falls.

Funeral services were held November 27 at the Zion Lutheran church with Rev. Gary Johnson officiating. Special music was provided by Grace Hammer, soloist, and Ida Nordvall, organist. Casketbearers were Guy Kruse, Michael Kruse, Todd Kruse, Mark Sorvig, Scott Sorvig and Steve Sorvig. Interment was in the St. Hilaire Community cemetery. The Green Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Floy Gladys Olsen was born July 7, 1899 in St. Hilaire, the daughter of Henry and Amelia (Sorum) Olsen. She was baptized and confirmed in the Lutheran faith and was a lifetime member of Zion Lutheran church. She grew up in the area and graduated from Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls. She attended teachers training and taught for six years. She was united in marriage to Arthur Hanson on May 23, 1925 in Zion Lutheran church in Thief River Falls. The couple made their home in St. Hilaire, until they moved into Thief River Falls in 1945. Her husband died on Feb. 18, 1986.

She is survived by two sisters: Valerie Kruse of East Grand Forks and Dorothy Peterson of Minneapolis.

She was preceded in death by her husband; an infant son, Arthur Jr.; her parents; one sister, Echo Burkee; and three brothers: Norman Olsen, Harvey Olsen and Stanley Olsen.

Inga Berg, 88

Thief River Falls — Inga Berg, 88, died November 27 at the CNC unit of Northwest Medical center in Thief River Falls.

Arrangements are pending with the Belmont Funeral Home in Thief River Falls.

A complete obituary will be printed in a later edition of the Times.

Dear Readers,
Occasionally, for personal reasons, a family will request that a body be moved from one cemetery to another. Your local funeral director can advise you of the procedures that must be followed. He will handle the arrangements, and will work with the two cemeteries involved. Requirements for disinterment and reinterment vary from state to state. If this is the wish of the family, usually it can be arranged.
Respectfully,
Belmont Funeral Home
Larry Belmont

Mrs. Orlando Chervestad
796-5884

Oliver Holstad was a brunch guest at the Helen Chervestad home on Monday.

Lyle and Murial Mandt went to visit at the Dean and Carol Schneider home and at the Otalia Mandt home in Marshall, WI, Wednesday through Friday. They celebrated Otalias birthday, November 19. Dean Schneider recently had surgery and is recovering well. They also stopped to visit with Vickie Mandt in Brainerd, and were brunch guests Saturday.

Murial Mandt visited recently at the Orville and Gertrude Christianson home.

Lyle and Murial Mandt took Helen Chervestad and Robert Flaten for dinner at Third Base in Brooks last Sunday.

Otalia Mandt was informed from Mrs. Alvina (Gordon) Bakke that Thorman Lunden's wife had passed away. They live in Washington. Their parents, Osmund and Alice Lunden and family, now deceased, lived in Deer Park Township. Sympathy is extended to Thorman and family.

Sam Rustan, son of Errol and Gerri Rustan had surgery Monday at Fargo hospital. We wish Sam a speedy recovery.

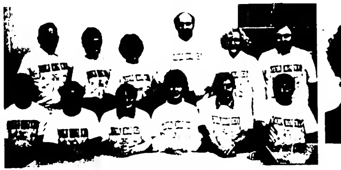
Helen Chervestad was a Sunday luncheon guest at the Bennie Svanjord home of rural Goodridge, along with Bennie's sister, Mr. and Mrs. Engwald Dahle of Thief River Falls. Later that evening she visited at the Ethel Wiseth and Lynn Hansen homes of Goodridge. The next day Helen stopped over to have coffee with Inga Coan. Inga was hospitalized for several days and is doing fine.

Fay Tiegland from the Cities came up to spend the weekend with her parents, Opal and Mac Stucy, who moved Tuesday, to the Valley Home in Thief River Falls.

Sybil Radniecki has moved into the Brainerd Rest Home. Her sons and family, Stan Jr. and Pat, live in the Cities.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Hanson of rural Goodridge have moved into the Erskine Manor and doing fine.

Those who brought birthday greetings to Olaf Stolaas, whose birthday was November 21st, was Beulah Vad on the 20th. On Sunday at the Olaf and Clara Stolaas home were Orlan, Clarice and Joel Stolaas, Lester, Beulah, Gary Vad, Vincent, Oaline, Robbi, Katie Lundeen, Galen, Jody, and Nathan Peters of Goodridge.



Sixth graders at Franklin middle school will be making a Minnesota study trip this spring to a number of points of interest at or enroute to the Twin Cities. Faculty members wore T-shirts to promote the trip at the school last week. Left to right are (front row), Rob Almquist, Ginger Bendickson, Judy Charlebois, Marilyn Adams, Al Krause and Ron Novak; (back row), Pat Klemisch, Bev Dekkers, Juneal Peterson, Tom Hunt, Bonnie Swantek and Bill Hahne. The students will be raising funds for the trip through a variety of fund-raisers.

Swedish Society to hold Santa Lucia festival

Sixth annual Santa Lucia festival of the Agassiz Swedish Heritage Society will be held Saturday, December 12, at 2:30 p.m. at the Evangelical Covenant church located one-half mile east of Roseau. Theme for the service is "The Light Comes."

Portraying Santa Lucia is Paula Johnson of Warroad, attended by Solveig Grafstrom and Kari Lund, Warroad; Tulysia Howell, Badger; Kara Olson, Salol; Ingrid Espe, Danika Johnson, Kellie Nelson, Angela Vaglie, Stephanie Torkelson, Tami Fugleberg, Leah Erickson, Anne Johnson, Rachel Minski, Mia Erickson, Jennifer Dahlgren and Amanda Eaton, all of Roseau. The group will sing several selections.

Verner Anderson of Roseau will read the Christmas story in Swedish and Matt McDonnell of Roseau will read it in English. Rev. Joe Elick will give the meditation. Members of the society are asked to bring baked goods for the Scandinavian Christmas lunch.

Everyone is invited to attend the festival whether of Swedish heritage or not.

BSU course is offered in TRF tech college

"Philosophy of Vocational Education," taught by Dr. Robert Anderson, will be held Fridays from 6 to 10 p.m. and Saturdays from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. January 8-9 and 22-23 in room 133 of the Thief River Falls technical college.

The course is one of 32 offered this winter from Duluth to East Grand Forks and Brainerd to Redlake by Bemidji State University's Center for Extended Learning.

Pre-registration is encouraged to allow for distribution of educational materials. For registration information and course materials contact the Center for Extended Learning, Bemidji State University, 1500 Birchmont Drive NE, Bemidji MN 56601-1699 or call 755-2068.

SDA Christmas concert in TRF December 18-20

Annual Christmas concert at Seventh-day Adventist church in Thief River Falls will be held December 18-20 at 7 p.m. each evening.

The dramatic Christmas musical "The Gift. God Himself is with Us", will be presented by choir, orchestra and actors. The evening of Christmas music will also include congregational singing, handbell choir, a junior orchestra and vocal selections.

TRF student performs in Jamestown

Jon Anderson, son of Cecil and Maryel Anderson of Thief River Falls, will be among the Jamestown College students participating in the college's Christmas concert called "Savior, Mine Forever," December 10-13 in Voorhees chapel on the college campus. Performances begin at 8 p.m. and at 4 p.m. on December 13. Tickets are $3 for adults. An edited version of the concert will air on KXJB.

Former TRF man deployed to Middle East

Navy Chief Petty Officer Richard M. Dahlin, son of Winton L. and Theresa L. Dahlin of Thief River Falls, currently aboard the destroyer USS Fife, forward deployed to Yokosuka, Japan, is deployed to the Middle East in support of Operation Southern Watch.

As this is the USS Fife's second time to the Persian Gulf in two years, the ship's crew is familiar with the area and ports. Fife's goal remains basically the same as it was during the gulf conflict, which is to deter any further aggression in that area.

To increase readiness, the ship has participated in several bilateral exercises with a few of the Gulf nations to exercise combined force capabilities and strengthen relationships in the area. USS Fife also has conducted exercises with NATO forces in that area.

Dahlin has visited Dubai and Jebel Ali, United Arab Emirates; Bahrain; and Muscat, Oman.

He joined the Navy in July 1973.

Mary Voecks

Voecks joins Brady Martz & Associates

Mary Voecks of Thief River Falls, a 1992 Magna Cum Laude graduate of the University of North Dakota in Grand Forks with a Bachelor of Accountancy degree, has joined the Brady Martz & Associates accounting firm in Thief River Falls as an accountant.

Mary and her husband Loren are Thief River Falls residents and have two sons, David, 13 and Matthew, 11. Her mother, Mrs. Clarice Gallher, also lives here.

A graduate of Lincoln high school and Northland Community college, she has been active in the Boy Scouts and school volunteer programs and is a member of Redeemer Lutheran church.

Stale soft drink industry likes source reduction

Less packaging is one of the many ways the soft drink industry has successfully decreased the amount of related wastes generated in the manufacturing of soft drinks, according to Dave Locey, executive director of the Minnesota Soft Drink Association.

For example, the industry has replaced over 80 per cent of the cardboard cartons used for transporting two-liter plastic bottles to reusable plastic shipping cases. "This keeps tons of cardboard out of the landfills and saves thousands of trees each year," Locey said.

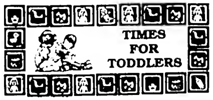
Source reduction can be defined as "any activity that prevents the generation of wastes that would otherwise be recycled, burned or buried." Simply put, source reduction prevents waste from ever occurring. Locey said the soft drink industry has been able to maintain the importance of the package while adhering to sound waste management.

According to a 1992 Environmental Protection Agency update on what's in America's trash, the percentage of soft drink containers in the waste stream has decreased from 1.6 per cent to 1.3 per cent—a 19 per cent reduction from two years ago.

Goodridge . . . . .

Friday evening Ben Hanson was an overnight guest with Dallas Wiseth at the Vance Wiseth home. Jason Kangesa was also a guest at the Wiseth home.

Among the homes available for visiting during the tour of homes Saturday, December 5, in Thief River Falls is the Jim and Sylvia Grindlay home at 1230 Centennial Drive. They purchased the property in 1990 and worked with Hanson Construction to have it expanded and remodeled. Among items of interest in the home are a collection of Navajo indian items and a needlepoint picture which took Sylvia's mother 10 years to complete. Hours for the tour, sponsored by the Friends of the Orchestra, are from 1 to 4:30 p.m. Saturday. Tickets at $5 each are available in advance at Kazer Music and from School District 564 orchestra students and will be available at the homes on the tour Saturday.



TIMES FOR TODDLERS

ACTIVITIES

Christmas Toys

Christmas is just around the corner and many parents are thinking of toys for children. This is an important time to think of the age and developmental age of your child before you purchase those toys. Very young children put things into their mouths frequently, so be aware of small parts that they may swallow or choke on. Older children need to have toys that allow them to use their imaginations to play, instead of toys that do all of the activity for the child. Toys also need to be durable. Nothing is more discouraging to the parent and the child than a new toy that breaks after a very short time.

SCAVENGER HUNT

For next week's Activities feature, you will need colored paper, scissors and glue or tape.

BOOK OF THE WEEK

As the Advent season has just begun, people are interested in checking out Christmas materials. And what more appropriate item than a book on Advent at your Thief River Falls public library:

Greene, Carol. Waiting for Christmas: Stories and Activities for Advent. This book contains a collection of stories, activities, prayers, poems and songs for use during Advent, the time of waiting before the celebration of Christ's birth.

Want to have fun doing Christmas related activities with your children? Then check out these two books at the Thief River Falls public library.

Fowler, Virginie. Christmas Crafts and Customs Around the World. This book present traditional customs, crafts and recipes from various countries around the world.

Conaway, Judith. Easy-to-Make Christmas Crafts. A variety of Christmas decorations and gifts with instructions geared for children are included.

PARENTING TIPS

Children and Holidays

As we enter this busy holiday season with preschool children we need to take time to view the world from our children's point of view. Sometimes we become so caught up with all the things that we have to do that we forget about children and what they need. For instance, schedules may get upset, naps are late or even skipped. Meals may also be off schedule and what about all those extra holiday goodies that may ruin appetites. And then we wonder why our children seem to be misbehaving. If you stop to analyze the situation one could easily see it is not the child's fault but ours, the parents!

If you have preschool children and want to enjoy the holidays, try some of these ideas:

* Keep things simple. Make a list of everything you have to do and then cut it in half and throw half away. (Do you really need to stand in line for an hour to see Santa, someone your two-year-old is probably afraid of?)

* Try to keep routines and schedules as normal as possible.

* If you have to shop with your children try to keep your trip short and try to do it when everyone is rested.

* Take time to enjoy the holiday season through the eyes of your children. Notice and appreciate the lights and the other decorations all around.

* Have a "quiet time" where you just have on the Christmas tree lights and the whole family either listens to music, reads or just visits.

Even though the holidays can be hectic with little ones, remember the season passes quickly and next year they will be a whole year older and into a different stage, so enjoy this one while it is here!

Merchants angered by Sam's Club distribution signed by all of the commissioners.

Ken Olson, Pennington county auditor, called from Bloomington Monday where he is participating in a convention for the Association of Minnesota Counties, to explain that now as he looks back, he should not have done anything with the Sam's Club material. He said he recommended that Sam's Club not be allowed to use a room to enroll county employees when the request was made, and he should not have done anything with the promotional material after that.

Olson said that as far as he knows the memberships were not distributed in envelopes, they were distributed in bundles to the departments.

The Pennington county treasurer was unavailable for comment.

Thief River Falls City Clerk Jerry Wigness said the city was also approached by a representative of Sam's Club. Wigness said he's sensitive to the fact that situations like this need to be handled carefully. The city did not allow a meeting room to be used, and did not put the flyers and temporary membership cards with paychecks. The cards and flyers, however, were available.

Marcia Sandahl with the School District 564 Superintendent's office, said they also were approached by a representative of Sam's club. Sandahl said Dr. Duncan, school superintendent, thought that wasn't something they wanted to get involved in, but because they would have to do it for other companies as well.

Jane Mattson, Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce president, said the chamber doesn't want to upset shoppers by telling them how or where to spend their money. They can spend their money any way they want, but it's wrong to spend taxpayer dollars to distribute promotional material with paychecks.

Mattson said the chamber of commerce plans to schedule a joint meeting with local government. She's not sure who it will involve and when. Discussion will include how to handle situations like this and the impact on the local economy. Mattson said the chamber needs to show how valuable the turn-around dollar is in the community.

This will not be the first time the chamber has sponsored a joint meeting. Mattson said they have had these meetings before and she believes they have been very effective.

Pennington county attorney Dave Olin said he wasn't sure any law had been broken but would have to look more closely at the statutes before he says for sure.

Land rental seminar in Middle River

Area farmers, landowners and interested persons are encouraged to attend a seminar focusing on land rental arrangements for 1993.

The seminar is set for Monday afternoon, December 7, 1:30 p.m. in Middle River at the Community Center.

Program topics include: Cash Rent for 1993; Effects of the Farm Program on Rent; Fair Rent-A computer Decision Aid Program; Flexible and Crop Share Rents; Enterprise Comparisons; and Written Leases — as the farming environment becomes more complex and risky, the need for these increases.

This seminar is sponsored by the Minnesota Extension Service, Marshall County and Conducted by Ray Thompson, Marshall County Extension Educator and Howard Person, Pennington County Extension Educator.

The Christmas Season is once again upon us. In 25 days, our celebrating will be nearly completed. It's hard to imagine that Christmas will so soon be over, for most of us are just barely beginning our preparations for Christmas.

How do you prepare for Christmas? Do you make lists of things to do and gifts to purchase? Do you bake cookies? Do you clean your house from top to bottom? Do you send cards? Do you go carolling? Do you begin listening to Christmas music?

Our preparations for Christmas in our home began this weekend. In spite of the fact that I have had a lot of my shopping finished for the past couple of weeks, our true preparations for Christmas began this past weekend.

This past Sunday was the first Sunday in Advent. Advent is the time before Christmas which includes the four Sundays just before Christmas. Advent is a time in which we can prepare for the celebration of Christmas, Christ's birth.

On the first Sunday in Advent, our family has a tradition of lighting the first Advent candle. Each Sunday before Christmas, a new candle is lit. This Sunday we lit only one of the candles in our Advent candlestick. Next Sunday we will light two candles. On Christmas Day, we will light all four candles, plus the center candle, the Christ candle.

To prepare for this first Sunday in Advent, we first must remember where in the world did we conveniently store the Advent candlestick? We are living in a different house, so I needed to truly think about the whereabouts of this special candlestick this year. I found it in the first closet I looked. Our Advent candlestick is special. We received it as a wedding gift. We have never used it for anything other than our Advent candles. It happens to be made of wood. It's rather large. It has a place for five candles—one in the center surrounded by the other four. The center candle is the one we will light on Christmas.

I not only need to remember to get the candlestick out of storage this first Sunday in Advent, but I also need to remember to buy Advent candles. I have an abundance of white and red candles, but they have almost all been used as Advent candles and so are varying heights because they have been burned for varying lengths of time. Advent candles have a limited life, so every year, I make my trek to a store and purchase my candles. I never buy the purple and pink candles one sees packaged for Advent. Our family's tradition says these candles must be red and white, the traditional Christmas colors.

With the beginning of Advent, our Christmas season truly begins. Every Sunday, for Sunday dinner, as our family gathers around our dining room table, we light the candles for that Sunday. Our boys have always been the candle lighters. After we light the candles, my husband reads a passage of Scripture appropriate to the season. Then, after a prayer we have our dinner. We light our candles only on Sunday. During the week, the candlestick and its candles remain on our dining room table reminding us each time we pass them what this season of Christmas truly celebrates.

This Christmas, as you bake and shop and clean and do all the myraid of important Christmassy things that we all tend to get bogged down in needing to do, take some time to celebrate the reason for Christmas. In the quiet of your own home, spend some time preparing for the celebration of the birthday of the Christ Child. Teach the young ones in your home that Christmas would not be Christmas without that little baby born in Bethlehem. Begin a family tradition that helps all of you to take some time from your busy preparations to remember the gift that was first given to us so many years ago on a night in Bethlehem. Take time for Christ this Christmas.

Warren man arrested after burglary

Warren police department and Marshall county sheriff's department has one man in custody following an investigation into a burglary.

A total of 28 handguns and rifles valued at $3,500 were taken in an early morning burglary in Warren. A Warren police department spokesperson said the police received a report of a burglary on Monday, November 30, at the Coast to Coast store in Warren. The burglary is believed to have occurred in the early morning hours. A total of 28 handguns and rifles valued at $3,500 were taken. Entry to the building was gained by going through the roof and breaking a window in the back door.

Warren police department and Marshall county sheriff's department investigated the burglary and later the investigation led to a suspect in the city of Warren. Javier Guzman, 20, Warren, was taken into custody and is being held at the law-enforcement center in Warren. He faces charges of burglary and theft. He was scheduled to appear in a Ninth District court on December 1 at 1:30 p.m.

All of the guns taken in the burglary were recovered.

TRF squad car involved in accident Mon.

Minnesota state patrol was asked to investigate an accident Monday involving a Thief River Fall police squad car.

According to a spokesperson for the Minnesota state patrol, they received a report of an accident involving a city squad car at 10:48 a.m. at the intersection of First street and Main avenue in Thief River Falls. According to the report, a 1992 Ford four-door squad car driven by James L. Hulteen, Thief River Falls, was traveling east on First street and attempting to pull into a parking spot when the vehicle slid into a parked 1985 Ford pickup owned by Glenn Peterson of Thief River Falls. The streets were icy at the time of the accident. Damages were estimated at $1,000 to the Thief River Falls squad car and $100 to the pickup. No one was injured in the accident and both drivers were wearing seat belts at the time of the accident.

This corner of the LeRoy and Carol Stumpf home at 428 Riverside Avenue South is part of the family room which includes a uniquely shaped window. LeRoy built some of the home's furnishings from furniture kits, including the child's table and chairs at right. The home's decor also features Carol's photography and an ice skating theme since the Stumpf children—Jany, Tom and Christina—are all figure skaters. The Stumpf home is one of four included in the Friends of the Orchestra tour of homes Saturday, December 5, from 1 to 4:30 p.m. Tickets at $5 each will help provide funds for the School District 564 orchestras.

the paperwork. Leander, who is now a resident of Valley Home in Thief River Falls, will have his 100th birthday next year. He is still a member of the American Legion.

During World War II, Anna Waale, who was raised in the Hazel area, southeast of Thief River Falls, was living at home and teaching in a rural school in Mayfield township a couple of miles from her parents' house. She started teaching in 1935 and recalls that in a given year she might have anywhere from 25 to 55 students in her one-room classroom. "It was calm for us, although my parents were trying to prepare themselves for the possibility that my brother, Arnt, would be drafted." His number didn't come up, however, and Anna says her family didn't feel deprived by the war conditions for two reasons. Since they were on a farm, they had dairy items, which were in short supply in town, available to their family, and her brothers kept bees so there was also honey for sweets. She says that the second reason was that "we had been so strictly rationed all our lives, we didn't notice it." She describes her parents as very frugal people who exercised a cautious attitude and hated to waste anything.

Anna walked to the school every day and also worked for The Times, writing short news articles from time to time. She says that periodically the government would announce a practice blackout. "We covered the windows and turned out the lights. The kids thought it was fun: we listened to music on the radio, sang songs and told ghost stories."

Anna Waale

Anna also tells that when the war was over there was a massive rebuilding effort "for everything that had been neglected: gardens, fields and roads." She met her husband, Tom, several years after the war.

Grygla SWCD can help plan tree planting

Personnel at the Marshall-Beltrami Soil and Water Conservation District office at Grygla are available to help plan field windbreaks to reduce soil and moisture loss, farmstead and feedlot windbreaks to cut winter heat loss and energy requirements, wildlife plantings to provide food and shelter for birds and animals or any other tree and shrub plantings to meet special needs.

"This is a good time to start thinking about planting trees, even if they won't go into the ground until next spring," states Kathy Zavoral, district technician. "This way you will have plenty of time to decide which types of trees and what size and shape of planting you want."

Farmers can also find out at the SWCD office if they are eligible for state or federal cost-share assistance which can pay up to 75% of the cost of purchasing and planting trees for conservation purposes. Some assistance may also be available for site preparation, animal control measures, pruning and other maintenance.

Windbreaks can help cut down on heat loss from livestock which reduces feed costs and can lower heating and cooling costs by reducing wind in the winter and creating shade and air flow in the summer.

"Windbreaks can also provide more equal snow coverage over a field and reduce soil loss from wind erosion," Zavoral said, "plus create an oasis for wildlife and increase the aesthetic value of your property."

Call the office at 294-6144 for more information on tree and shrub plantings and other conservation practices.

Sheriff to appoint chief deputy soon

Pennington County Sheriff Bob Wold is expected to appoint a chief deputy. Wold was given permission by the Pennington county board to select a chief deputy at a meeting last week.

Wold said later that the new chief deputy will not assume the duties of a chief investigator. The appointee will fill a vacancy left by the resignation of Chief Investigator/deputy Howard Seim last spring.

Wold is expected to make his decision known this week.

Consultant team helps reach new subscribers

Over 400 people have recently joined the people who subscribe to The Times in Thief River Falls. Those new subscribers were signed up by a management consultant team.

Many have wondered who these hard working people are and have called The Times or stopped by to find out if their offers are legitimate. Yes, but the offers being made can only be accepted from them.

The five people on the multinational company called Unimark, signed up more than 400 new subscribers in one week. In addition the team of Michael Day, Jeffrey Rowe, Kim Weedmark, Kevin Weedmark and Joe Walthert have provided valuable information on how to improve the newspaper.

Why hire Unimark? Michael Day, one of the owners of the company said there are many advantages to hiring a consultant. The primary concern of the publisher is to increase circulation and get the newspaper in as many homes as possible. Contented advertisers is the obvious goal.

Day also explained that because they come from outside the community and are not involved in the day to day production of the newspaper, they can see things from a different perspective. For example, changing the publishing date of the newspaper and the Northern Watch, resulted from their direct door-to-door contact with the public.

Day said the newspaper doesn't want to stay stagnant, it wants to grow with the times. Contact with the public generates feedback and provides the publisher with some direction.

Day said he has found that people new to the community may not even be aware of The Times. Because of their convenient door-to-door service, they have found themselves introducing the newspaper to many people.

The response has been real good, Day said. The newspaper is a value-packed product, he said. Sometimes team members have had to show customers the value of The Times. Day said at one time a cup of coffee and a newspaper could be purchased for about the same price. Nowdays, a cup of coffee generally costs more than a newspaper.

The weekly newspaper is a value-packed product, Day said. Generally, it covers the local community much more extensively than a daily. It provides valuable coupons and information that helps people save.

Day said many people have wondered why dailies cost less than weeklies. Day said they fail to realize that staffs at weeklies and dailies work all week long. A daily may charge 35 to 50 cents per issue, while a weekly charges only one price per week.

Day is one of the owners of Unimark and has been doing this sort of work for many years. Unimark has been in existance for three years, although some of the team members have been doing this sort of work for as many as 20 years, Day said.

It is a stressful and demanding occupation. Most of these people are on the road all year long. Kevin and Kim Weedmark, a brother and sister team, haven't been home except for a couple of times in a year and a half.

Day said they spend most of their money in the community they are working in. It's tough enough being from outside a community and not being able to go home after a hard day of work. They don't want to suffer the wrath of an irate public by taking everything they can out of the community.

They have many stories to tell. In another community, one salesperson helped a lost two year old find his way back home. Day said when he has been working in rural areas he has often come upon someone stuck in a ditch and helping them out. And, of course there are always stories about dogs. Day said fortunately, they have not run across many unfriendly big dogs in Thief River Falls.

In another two to three weeks Unimark should complete its work in Thief River Falls and surrounding area. He said their visit to Thief River Falls has been a good experience for them. As a result there will be many more new subscribers to The Times.

Don and Ruth Goodrich home will be one of four included in the Friends of the Orchestra tour of homes Saturday, December 5, from 1 to 4:30 p.m. The home was built at 1414 Birch Lane Drive in 1989 by their oldest son Mark and Ruth's brother, both from Wisconsin. Ruth finished all the woodwork, wallpapered the rooms and made the window treatments. All of the family's living needs— except for Ruth's sewing room—are on the main floor. In addition to the four homes available to be visited, the Friends of the Orchestra will serve coffee and cookies from 1 to 4:30 p.m. at the Heritage Community Center where orchestra students will perform in solos and groups throughout the afternoon. Tickets for the tour are $5 each and available in advance at Kezar Music or at the homes on tour day.

Health students write on tobacco use

Essay and skit winners selected in Thief River Falls ninth grade health classes

Ninth grade health students of Jeff Mumm and Helen Anderson at Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls participated in the Minnesota D-Day (Don't Smoke Day) essay contest recently with five winners selected to be submitted to state competition.

A contest was also held among students who were assigned to do a skit, newscast, lecture, commercial or other presentation on tobacco use that would effectively communicate the message to their peers.

In the essay contest, students could choose from three topics: "Health Consequences of Tobacco Use," "Rights of a Non-Smoker" and "Benefits of Being Tobacco-Free." The essays had to be original, 350 words or less in length and typewritten. State judging will be on creativity, sticking to the topic and neatness.

Local competition was held within the Lincoln ninth grade health classes with staff members at the school assisting in the judging.

Essays judged as the top five and forwarded to the Minnesota Attorney General's office for judging on the state level were written by the following: Kamie Twomey, first place, winner of a D-Day t-shirt, Chris Tsukichi, second, Vicki Bitzegaio, third, Cory Grochowski, fourth, and Laura Williams, fifth. Each received a D-Day mug. State contest winners will be notified in January.

Honorable mention went to Jennifer Olin, Lisa Hovet, Jeanene Stenseth, ReAnn Dargus and Tom Kochmstedt.

Winners in the skit and other presentation contest were Becky Mattson and Ben Schmitz. They played the role of private investigators inside the lungs of a child whose parents smoked.

Other winners were Kamie Twomey, Brandon Poole and Amy Johnson, second; Jennifer Olin and Chane Keefe, third; ReAnn Dargus and Nick Dee, fourth; and Myndy Olson and Dan Klopp, fifth. All of the reports were videotaped and the top five are being sent to the American Lung Association.

Honorable mention in the report competition were Kyle Sanden and Maren Thorson, Keith Anderson and Andrea Vigen, Ryan Swanson and Kelly Carter, Josh Harris and Beth Solberg, Stacy Tveten and Kari Larson and Cory Grochowski and Nicole Bums.

Essays selected as the top five were as follows:

Rights Of A Non-Smoker
by Kamie Twomey

The choice I made, is the choice for me
The choice I made is to be tobacco free.
Some smokers can try with all their might
But being tobacco free, I have my rights.

I have the right to see clean air
To many smokers, this must be unfair
Because I see them breaking rules everywhere
I guess they forget my rights or just don't care.

I have the right to see the fog
And not be blinded by tons of smog
I have the right to smell fresh air
And not have smoke lurking everywhere.

I have the right to participate in a sport
And not have snuff spit on the court
I have the right to relax and sit back
And not be forced to cough and hack

I have the right to be away from smoke
And not always have to gag on smoke
I have the right to have nice smelling clothes
And not have to worry about cigarette holes

I have the right to have fun with my cash
I don't have to spend it on that kind of trash
My goals in life are not so hard to reach
Because cigarettes aren't sucking
my health like a leech

I shouldn't be punished for doing what's right
I shouldn't have to deal with smoke in sight
I gain these rights through a simple choice
I'm tobacco free, now hear my voice

Benefits Of Being Tobacco-Free
by Chris Tsukichi

I don't pay a smoker's fee
'cause I chose tobacco-free.
I've got even more years in me
I chose to be tobacco-free.
My clothes don't stink and my hair don't smell
Since I don't smoke
my life is swell.

More money, good breath are just part o' the list,
But there are probably more benefits I missed.
I've got freedom, just for me and I'll tell you why
I made the choice: I'm tobacco-free!

Rights Of A Non-Smoker
by Vicki Bitzegaio

Can you imagine sitting in a wonderful, French gourmet restaurant? Soft music plays in the background, the clinking of glass fills the air, and a delightful conversation is in progress. Suddenly a putrid, sooty mist creeps up from the cigarette of the inconsiderate individual across the aisle.

The music and the clinking become disagreeable, the conversation languid, the savory food bland, and eyes and throat irritated. All because the rights of the non-smoker are not respected.

A person who has made the decision not to kill himself, or herself, by smoking should be able to sit in a restaurant and enjoy a decent meal without choking on smoke!

It is his right to keep his lungs, his body, his car, his home and his clothing free from smoke. He or she should be able to breathe in pure fresh air, not tainted air!

Many people are now learning to respect these rights. Restaurants and hotels now have special sections and rooms for non-smokers. Smoking is banned in many public places. People are starting to respect the rights and feelings of those who have chosen their lives without smoking, and with education and research, we may one day be a smoke-free nation!

Kamie Twomey won first place in the Minnesota D-Day essay contest conducted among students in the ninth grade health classes taught by Jeff Mumm and Helen Anderson in the Thief River Falls public schools.

D-Day: Benefits Of Being Tobacco Free
by Cory Grochowski

Tobacco-free—One luxury many people have and enjoy having, but to smokers a cell closing in on them every single day. Being "chained" to the cigarette, or any form of tobacco for that matter, would you want this? Would you literally want to be a slave to flakes of tobacco wrapped in paper?

This is, I think, the most important benefit of being tobacco-free: FREEDOM! After all, do non-smokers have to worry about their money being burned up in smoke? No, non-smokers have a great GREAT financial advantage over smokers; say, $1,175 plus a year! This savings is based on two packs of cigarettes per day. This doesn't include medical bills for smoke related health problems either.

Another great advantage is non-smokers have fewer health problems than smokers, consequently non-smokers feel better more often than smokers. Your appearance is also greatly affected by smoking—. Yellow teeth and fingers, cigarette burns in clothes and on furniture, and also in some cases car upholstery.

Do you honestly want people to see you like this? If you answered yes, I personally don't know who you are, but I wouldn't want to meet you, and I don't think others would want to meet you either.

Non-smokers, on the other hand, generally have better appearances and usually have more friends because the general population respects non-smokers over smokers. This is why smokers are either having less and less public places to smoke or are being "choked" out totally. These two things are being seen more and more especially in restaurants and airlines. Restaurants usually have very small smoking sections, and some airlines have abolished smoking completely.

I feel being tobacco-free is the best thing anyone can do for themselves because with being tobacco-free you are "unchained" and have more freedom to do whatever you want.

First place winners in the ninth grade health class skit competition on the topic of tobacco were Ben Schmitz and Becky Mattson. They created a skit in which they played the roles of private investigators inside the lungs of a child whose parents smoked. All of the presentations were videotaped and tapes of the top five entries are being sent to the American Lung Association.

Health Consequences Of Tobacco Use
by Laura Williams

An attractive lady, dressed in the latest tailored suit from Sax Fifth Avenue, walks out of her downtown office suite. She then gets into her new, shiny, red Mazda MX-6. The image is lovely. But there's one thing not so lovely, the cloud of smoke curling around her.

As she drives down the road, she has to have a cigarette to unwind from her stressful day. But by smoking just one cigarette, it can speed up your heart-rate and increase your blood pressure.

There is no controversy about the damage that smoking can do to your body. Cigarette smoking alone is the major cause of emphysema, lung cancer, coronary heart disease and chronic bronchitis. Why anyone would want to pay money for something that could give them a disease or even possibly kill them, I don't know.

There are many, very damaging chemical substances in cigarette smoke. Three of the most harmful substances are nicotine, tars and carbon monoxide. Nicotine cuts down the flow of oxygen and causes your blood vessels to constrict, which makes your heart pump harder. Tars are very damaging to your delicate lung tissues. Carbon monoxide causes all oxygen to drop out of your red blood cells.

Just reading about all the health problems that a smoker could get would be enough to make me want to quit. I mean, look at the statistics. Every year, 350,000 people in America die prematurely from the effects of smoking. Would you like to be one of them? If you wouldn't, "DON'T SMOKE."

50 at Newfolden air ideas

Approximately 50 Newfolden area residents participated in the Newfolden town meeting/new idea night November 18, according to Roy Thompson, Marshall county extension director.

The meeting was part of Project Future, a self-help community improvement effort developed by the University of Minnesota extension service and aimed at the most extensive use of citizen participation in defining and implementing a future vision of a community.

District 1 State Representative Wally Sparby of Thief River Falls was keynote speaker at the meeting and stressed community self-reliance. He reviewed examples of how economic development has had a positive effect on other communities in northwestern Minnesota and said he was pleased Newfolden was undertaking Project Future.

The project was explained by Thompson and Scott Beckman, area extension educator in community resource development. They then led the group in discussions of Newfolden's strengths, needs and future trends.

Following the discussion a vote was taken by those attending with a unanimous decision to proceed with Project Future and implement the community development project. There were 18 people who expressed a desire to serve on the steering committee and others showed interest in serving on action teams.

An organizational meeting of the steering committee is scheduled for mid-December with total community involvement planned for early January. Lunch was provided by Marshall County State Bank.

Community residents wishing more information may contact Brian Rokke, Sue Skadsem or Joyce Magner at Newfolden or Ray Thompson at the Marshall county extension office in Warren.

State begins drunk driving campaign

As the season for holiday cheer rapidly approaches, so does the season for calling attention to drinking and driving issues.

The Minnesota Department of Public Safety is emphasizing the consequences of impaired driving during December's month-long "Friends Don't Let Friends Drive Drunk" campaign. The campaign is part of National Drunk and Drugged Driving Prevention Month and encourages people not to let others drink and drive, uses sobriety checkpoints to deter drunken driving, and emphasizes important law changes that go into effect January 1.

Those changes include the following:

- Any person refusing to submit to an alcohol test under the implied consent law will be guilty of a crime and will lose their license for one year. Under current law, only repeat DWI offenders were subject to the crime of refusing to submit to the implied consent test.
- The issuance of limited licenses has been restricted. On the first DWI charge, or an implied consent license revocation, a limited license will not be issued for 15 days. Currently, a limited license, which an individual can use to drive to work, is available immediately to a first time offender.
- The legislature gave broader jurisdiction to local authorities by permitting them to impound vehicles of individuals arrested for DWI.

To support the "Friends Don't Let Friends Drive Drunk" campaign the Minnesota State Patrol, in conjunction with local law enforcement agencies, will be conducting sobriety checkpoints across the state through the holiday period.

In addition, the Minnesota Department of Public Safety is distributing educational materials to schools, businesses and community organizations. Mothers Against Drunk Driving (MADD) will be holding a Candlelight Vigil at 6:30 p.m., Sunday, December 6, at the Great Hall of the First Trust Center, Fifth and Jackson, St. Paul to remember those who have died as a result of alcohol-related crashes.

The holiday period is particularly dangerous for people traveling. Last year, 14 people died and 829 were injured over the Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year holidays. During all of 1991 in Minnesota, 212 people died and 5,556 were injured as a result of alcohol-related crashes.

City names 15 candidates for liquor manager

Interviews for the liquor store manager position in Thief River Falls are expected to begin on Wednesday, December 2.

Following the posting of an opening for the position, the city received 89 applications. The liquor committee has gone through the applications and selected 15 to be interviewed.

According to Jerry Wigness, city clerk, the 15 selected to be interviewed include the following: Ron Gilbert, Jovenia Walton, Darlene Jelle, Sue Johnson, Robert Kleinschmidt, Marvin Knapper, Jon Larson, Wayne Liden, Warren Hanestad, David Voelk, Tom Schaefer, Blair Johnson, Richard Nelson, Steven Olson and Richard Reger.

The liquor committee is expected to further reduce the list of candidates to four or five before finally reaching a decision on who will be the next municipal liquor store manager.

Rep. Tunheim chairs House tourism unit

House Speaker Dee Long has appointed Rep. Jim Tunheim of Kennedy to serve as chair for the tourism division of the Commerce Committee for the 1993-1994 Legislative Session of the Minnesota House.

Tunheim, a sixth term legislator, explained that the tourism committee will deal with a variety of issues over the next biennium. "With over $700 million in revenues coming in state tax receipts from the tourism-travel industry, it's clear that this committee is a vital part of state government," Tunheim stated.

Rep Tunheim also mentioned he is looking forward to exploring ways of increasing tourism in as well as examining the boundary issues between Minnesota and Ontario which are affecting resort owners on border lakes.

Majority Leader Alan Welle of Willmar "The tourist-travel industry provides a substantial contribution to Minnesota's economy, and we are fortunate to have Rep. Tunheim's strong voice heading such an important committee," states House Majority Leader Alan Welle of Willmar. Welle also added that he is pleased that the new committee structure provides a balance in power between rural and metropolitan Minnesota.

Rep. Tunheim also announced that his phone number will remain the same (612) 296-9635 and that offices have not been assigned as of yet, but constituents can write to him at the Minnesota House of Representatives, State Office Building, St. Paul, MN 55155 and also at his home address, Box 66, Kennedy, MN 56733 or his home telephone number (218) 674-4469.

City employees were at work Monday putting up snow fence to protect young trees planted at Lion's park. The trees were being damaged when run over by snowmobiles, although snowmobile use in the city's parks is prohibited, according to John Johnson (shown at left in the top photo), city forester. At least one tree had been snapped off at the base and the tree above had been bent to the ground and lost a few branches. The Lion's club had planted a number of trees this spring, hoping to have a shaded area in the park off Nora Street in future years.

Hanson herd leads DHIA

Mark Hanson's dairy herd led the Pennington County Dairy Herd Improvement association for the month of October with average daily production of 72 pounds of milk and 2.47 pounds of butterfat, according to supervisors Mel and Randy Rasmussen. The herd has 54 cows, 91 per cent of which were in milk during October.

Second place herd is owned by Mylo Carlson and averaged 65.6 pounds of milk and 2.28 pounds of butterfat. Eighty-nine per cent of the 65-cow herd was in production.

Third place herd was that of L&R Dairy which averaged 54.1 pounds of milk and 1.97 pounds of butterfat. The herd has 81 cows, 96 per cent of which were in milk in October.

Other herds in the top 10 with number of cows, per cent in milk, average pounds of milk and average pounds of butterfat produced per cow include the following:

Lyle Swanson, 44, 77%, 53.2 and 1.89; Walter Bros. Farm, 142, 84%, 52 and 1.73; Ben Kleinwachter, 40, 78%, 49.3 and 1.68; Dob Schindler, 47, 83%, 47.6 and 1.58; Warren Hamrick & Sons, 38, 84%, 47.3 and 1.67; Pearson Bros., 38, 84%, 41.4 and 1.52; and Orlan and Joel Stolaas, 42, 83%, 41.1 and 1.51.

Averages are determined by using all cows in the herd, not only those in production, to give the dairy farmer a record of the herd's earning power each month. The average is lowered by the number of dry cows in the herd even though those in production are high producers.

Goodridge Christmas tree to shine

Community Christmas tree lighting ceremony sponsored by the Goodridge Area Historical Society will take place Thursday, December 3, at 7:30 p.m. at Tvedt park in Goodridge.

Following the ceremony the society will hold it annual meeting in the senior citizen building. Two people in the area who have contributed to the history of the community will be honored at the meeting.

A Christmas program with Dorothy Svanjord in charge will follow the business meeting. Inga Coan and Hilda Hallman are in charge of serving refreshments at the conclusion of the evening's activities.

Everyone interested is welcome to attend the tree lighting ceremony and the annual meeting of the historical society.

Karate club students gain advancement

Several students of the Thief River Falls Karate club recently received rank promotions advancing them to their next colored belt.

Receiving their orange belts were JoAnna Hawk, Josh Pagnac and Eric Bjornstad. Receiving their ninth degree white belts were Jon Steiger and Travis Draeger.

The Prowlers went 7-4 this fall, reaching the Section 8A playoff finals before losing to eventual state champion Detroit Lakes 48-13.

The Lakers also beat the Prowlers 21-2 in the 1992 season opener. Thief River Falls came back to post wins over Crookston 14-7, Wadena-Deer Creek 55-0, Staples Area 41-13, Park Rapids Area 42-6, and Belcourt 42-16. The five-game win streak was followed by back-to-back regular season-ending losses to Fergus Falls 28-19 and East Grand Forks 14-13.

However, the Prowlers rebounded to beat both the Green Wave (13-7) and the Otters (21-0) in post-season play to reach the Section 8A championship game for the first time. The Prowlers earned a runner-up team trophy and individual silver medals for their efforts.

"We got beat by a very good football team," said Thief River Falls head coach Jeff Mumm in recalling the season-ending loss at Detroit Lakes. "If you're going to get beat by anybody, I guess it's nice to get beat by the state champions. I'm very proud of this trophy. Even though it says runner-up, it's a start. Now we have something to build on."

It was the longest season in the history of the Thief River Falls football program, and the most wins for the Prowlers since an 8-0 finish in 1972 – before the advent of the Minnesota State High School League football playoffs.

"It was a very enjoyable season," Mumm told the banquet audience. "We had great chemistry. As a coach, you look forward to this kind of season."

The Prowlers made several entries into the Thief River Falls football record books this fall, pointed out Mumm.

Individual single game marks included 142 yards in pass receiving yards by Haugen vs. Fergus Falls, and 80 Tom Cat defensive points by Ostby vs. East Grand Forks.

Haugen also tied an individual single-season mark set in 1987 by Chris Nelson when he finished the 1992 campaign with 377 yards in pass receptions, while Svir set single-season passing records this year when he threw for 981 yards and finished with a 63 percent completion figure.

Career standards were set by Haugen with 812 yards in pass receptions and 2,576 yards combined offense (rushing and receiving), while Svir wound up with a career record on defense with 12 pass interceptions.

Team-wise the Prowlers set single-season defensive records by intercepting 13 passes and coming up with 27 turnovers (interceptions and fumble recoveries).

1992-93 high school basketball previews...

Area boys begin seasons

First game in the new Marshall County Central gym and the debut of the first year Badger/Greenbush-Middle River combination will highlight Friday's opening night of the 1992-93 boys high school basketball season.

The Newfolden community lost its school to a fire last November, and the Marshall County Central basketball teams (boys and girls) had to spend the 1991-92 season on the road in search of courts for practices and games. The rebuilt school includes a new facility for the Nordics, who will be playing Red Lake County Central in their first home game in two years.

Friday will also mark the first basketball game for the Gators of Badger/Greenbush-Middle River. The first-year arrangement used the old Badger/Greenbush Bulldogs as its football moniker this fall, but the start of the winter sports season will produce a name change to Gators for both the boys and girls basketball teams. The boys open against Lake of the Woods in Badger.

Goodridge and Grygla-Gatzke will wait until Tuesday to kick off their schedules. The Huskies will be at Fisher/Climax that night, while the Eagles visit Warroad.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River

If the pieces fit together, combining Badger/Greenbush with Middle River could produce a title-contender for head coach Eldon Sparby.

Three starters return from a Sparby-coached Middle River team that won a dozen games last year – John Sparby, David Blazek, David Nelson – and four regulars are back from a Badger/Greenbush team that picked up eight wins – Trent Wahl, Matt Kuznia, Bill Hollum, Ryan Rislov. Jason Simmons and Dan Koehmstedt also saw extended playing time with the Skippers in 1991-92.

"We've got nine kids who have plenty of varsity experience," acknowledged Eldon Sparby. "I don't know if we'll be the favorite, but I think we'll have a shot at the conference."

Balance should be the Gators' strength, said Sparby. Rislov is a good outside shooter, Wahl and Blazek have quickness at the guards, while Kuznia and Nelson, both 6-5, provide the height.

"The big thing is how to get the kids to accept their new roles," said Sparby. "We've got a lot of kids who got a lot of minutes last year. Now they'll have to learn new roles and share playing time. If they can do that, we'll be okay."

Schedule

Friday, Dec. 4 - Lake of the Woods (at Badger). Tuesday, Dec. 15 - Warroad (at Greenbush). Friday, Dec. 18 - Valley North (at Middle River). Monday/Tuesday/Wednesday, Dec. 28/29/30 - Thief River Falls Invitational. Tuesday, Jan. 5 - at Roseau. Friday, Jan. 8 - Grygla-Gatzke (at Greenbush). Tuesday, Jan. 12 - at Goodridge. Saturday, Jan. 16 - at Stephen. Tuesday, Jan. 19 - Marshall County Central (at Greenbush). Friday, Jan. 22 - at Warroad. Tuesday, Jan. 26 - Stephen (at Greenbush). Friday, Jan. 29 - at Lake of the Woods. Tuesday, Feb. 2 - Kittson County North (at Badger). Friday, Feb. 5 - Red Lake Falls (at Middle River). Tuesday, Feb. 9 - Roseau (at Greenbush). Friday, Feb. 12 - at Grygla-Gatzke. Tuesday, Feb. 16 - at Kittson Central (at Hallock). Tuesday, Feb. 23 - at Tri-County. Friday, Feb. 29 - at Argyle.

Goodridge

A major rebuilding project is underway in Goodridge, where head coach John Rahn must replace six seniors who graduated from a 17-5 team, including 1,000-point scorer Donavon Quam, Brandon Blaine, Shane Wilkens, Peter Grosz, Willie Verdeson, and Shane Vettleson.

"We'll certainly miss all of those seniors," admitted Rahn, "but, ironically, we probably have more offensive talent, team-wise, than we've ever had. We've had some outstanding individual offensive talent in the past, but this team has a number of kids who can do the job offensively. The big thing, though, that we're young. Right now we're looking for some kids to provide us with some leadership."

Travis Kotrba, a 6-1 junior, has two years of part-time varsity experience under his belt, but he is also plagued by a back problem that could reduce his court time this winter.

Juniors Eldon Quam, Brad Philipp, and Mike Arveson, along with sophomores Martin Dahlen and Mitch Smsky, could join Kotrba and Quam up front, while junior Jason Kotrba, plus sophomores Brudy Wiseth and Ryan Kriel head the guard candidates.

"We've got some good, young talent," said Rahn. "We've just got to get them to relax and play good, solid basketball."

Schedule

Tuesday, Dec. 8 - at Fisher-Climax (at Climax). Saturday, Dec. 12 - at Roseau. Tuesday, Dec. 15 - Kittson County North. Thursday/Friday/Saturday, Dec. 17/18/19 - Northland Invitational. Tuesday, Jan. 5 - Red Lake County Central. Friday, Jan. 8 - Clearbrook/Gonvick. Tuesday, Jan. 12 - Badger/Greenbush-Middle River. Friday, Jan. 15 - Valley North. Tuesday, Jan. 19 - at Kittson County North (at Lancaster). Thursday, Jan. 21 - at Grygla-Gatzke. Friday, Jan. 22 - at Red Lake Falls. Friday, Jan. 29 - at Valley North (at Oslo). Tuesday, Feb. 2 - at East Grand Forks Sacred Heart. Friday, Feb. 5 - Fisher/Climax. Tuesday, Feb. 9 - at Red Lake County Central (at Plummer). Friday, Feb. 12 - East Grand Forks Sacred Heart. Tuesday, Feb. 16 - Red Lake Falls. Friday, Feb. 19 - Grygla-Gatzke. Friday, Feb. 26 - at Clearbrook/Gonvick (at Clearbrook).

Marshall County Central

There are 13 players currently listed on the Marshall County Central varsity, and they're all capable of providing quality minutes when called upon, according to Nordics coach Ron Ueland, who expects his team to improve upon last year's 12-14 finish.

"We have a lot of depth," pointed out Ueland. "We return two blue-chippers, and a number of other pretty good basketball players."

Top returnees are seniors Tim Olson and Ivan Hirst, a pair of All-North Border Conference selections as juniors when the 6-3 Olson averaged 16.9 points and 8.3 rebounds per game, and the 6-5 Hirst averaged 10.7 points and 8.4 rebounds.

Five other seniors are also on hand, including Shane Borg, Jeremy Tallum, Travis Knutson, Chad Hanson, and Steve Nelson.

Juniors looking for playing time include Dean Engen, Scott Zak, Aaron Skadsem, and point guard Jake Rantanen, a transfer student from Middle River. Sophomores Brandon Borg and Kent Rokke could also see court time.

"We really haven't decided on what style of ball we'll be playing this year, but we can get up and down the court," noted Ueland.

Schedule

Friday, Dec. 4 - Red Lake County Central. Tuesday, Dec. 8 - at Warren. Friday, Dec. 11 - at Lake of the Woods. Friday, Dec. 18 - at Argyle. Monday/Tuesday/Wednesday, Dec. 28/29/30 - Thief River Falls Invitational. Tuesday, Jan. 5 - at Warren. Tuesday, Jan. 12 - Grygla-Gatzke. Friday, Jan. 15 - at Roseau. Tuesday, Jan. 19 - at Badger/Greenbush/Middle River (at Greenbush). Friday, Jan. 22 - at Lake of the Woods. Tuesday, Jan. 26 - Warroad. Friday, Jan. 29 - East Grand Forks. Saturday, Jan. 30 - East Grand Forks Sacred Heart. Friday, Feb. 5 - at Grygla-Gatzke. Tuesday, Feb. 9 - at Tri-County. Friday, Feb. 12 - Roseau. Tuesday, Feb. 16 - Badger/Greenbush-Middle River. Friday, Feb. 19 - at Valley North. Tuesday, Feb. 23 - at Thief River Falls. Friday, Feb. 26 - Stephen.

Red Lake County Central

Seniors Ryan Melby and Jacob Melby are returning starters at Red Lake County Central, where the Mustangs hope athletic ability will help them overcome a lack of height.

"We'll be competitive," promised Red Lake County Central coach Todd Foe. "We've got good quickness and we've got some real good shooters – kids who can hit the their jumpers. But we don't have a lot of size. The talent is there but it's not very big."

Senior Jonathan Sundrud played extensively off the bench last year, junior Paul Melby got some playing time in, and 6-2 freshman Aaron Chaput showed promise when he made his varsity debut as an eighth grader last winter. The Oklee/Plummer cooperative also added 6-2 junior Ryan Selberg, a transfer student from Fertile-Beltrami.

Schedule

Friday, Dec. 4 - at Marshall County Central. Tuesday, Dec. 8 - Fertile-Beltrami (at Plummer). Friday, Dec. 11 - Win-E-Mac (at Oklee). Tuesday, Dec. 15 - at Red Lake Falls. Thursday/Friday/Saturday, Dec. 17/18/19 - Northland Invitational. Jan. 22 - Ada-Borup (at Oklee). Tuesday, Jan. 5 - at Goodridge. Thursday, Jan. 7 - at Fisher-Climax (at Climax). Tuesday, Jan. 12 - at Mahnomen. Friday, Jan. 15 - at Norman County West (at Halstad). Friday, Jan. 22 - at Clearbrook-Gonvick (at Clearbrook). Friday, Jan. 29 - at Win-E-Mac (at McIntosh). Tuesday, Feb. 2 - Red Lake Falls (at Plummer). Tuesday, Feb. 9 - Goodridge (at Plummer). Thursday, Feb. 11 - at Warroad. Friday, Feb. 12 - Clearbrook/Gonvick (at Oklee). Friday, Feb. 19 - Ulen-Hitterdal (at Plummer). Monday, Feb. 22 - Grygla-Gatzke (at Plummer). Tuesday, Feb. 23 - at Fosston. Friday, Feb. 26 - Norman County East (at Oklee).

Grygla-Gatzke

Seniors Jeremy Engelstad, Scott Rindahl and Rick Warne have varsity experience and will be expected to provide the leadership as Grygla-Gatzke tries to overcome the graduation losses of four seniors from a 14-9 team.

A top-notch athlete, the 6-3 Engelstad averaged 13 points and 6 rebounds as a full-time starter last year, while the 6-1 Rindahl averaged 8.7 points per game as the Eagles' sixth man.

Senior Mike Cleven and juniors Rod Holte, Ben Saurdiff, Lonnie Larson, and Mike Jelle are also expected to contribute.

"It's a good group of kids," said Grygla-Gatzke coach Vern Johnson. "They're very coachable."

Graduation losses included all-around talent Mitch Bernstein, who scored 14.4 points per game, Ryan Bakken, who carried an 11.7 average, Jason Warne and Justin Lunsetter.

"The (North Border) conference will be really strong this year, and we have a tough nonconference schedule," pointed out Johnson. "We hope to be competitive. Our goal is to be able to play with every team we face. If we can do that, the wins and losses will take care of themselves."

Schedule

Hockey opener Thursday...

Prowlers skate against Central

Thief River Falls opens its 1992-93 high school hockey season Thursday with a 7:30 p.m. game at Grand Forks Central. Junior varsity contest has a 5:30 p.m. starting time.

The Prowlers have been involved in several scrimmages in preparation for the upcoming season, which includes a Saturday afternoon match-up at Bemidji before a Tuesday, Dec. 8, home opener against Warroad.

"We feel real good about what we've seen in the scrimmages," said Thief River Falls coach Glenn Chiodo. "We've had some real good, solid performances, and we've learned a lot about ourselves."

A season-opening starting line-up is expected to find Rick Ostby centering Jason Svir and Carter Rogalla on an all-senior first line; junior Marc Seaverson skating between senior Ryan Kraemer and junior Jeff Twomey; and senior Jeremy Olson centering a line that includes freshman Kaine Martell on one side while senior Jim Olson and junior Corey Olson alternate on the other wing.

Defensive combinations include seniors Marc Haugen and Nathan Knutson, along with senior Shane Skeim and junior Brent Kleinvachter, with senior Jared Ooldesberry and junior Joby Looker also available on the blue line.

Senior Trevor Haugen and junior Eric Dowers will be rotating in goal from game to game, according to Chiodo.

The Prowlers lost only four seniors to graduation off a 10-10-3 team, but starting goalie Barry Dowers was one of the 1991-92 seniors, and Thief River Falls also lost forward Aaron Broten, who would have been a senior co-captain

New NCC coaches to debut against NDSCS

Northland Community College basketball teams will open their 1992-93 schedules with a double-header tonight (Wednesday) in Wahpeton, where the Pioneers will take on North Dakota State College of Science in a 5:30 p.m. women's game and a 7:30 p.m. men's game.

It'll mark the double debut of two new Northland coaches. Rick Nikunen takes over for Sue Barnd as the women's coach, Mark Dannhoff succeeds Chet Engelman as the men's coach. Barnd coached the Pioneers three years. Engelman had a 22-year coaching reign at Northland.

Northland Men

Northland is coming off its first-ever state championship season, but Dannhoff faces the task of re-stocking a roster that includes just two returning sophomores – Chip Carter and Kurt Leader, who were both used as reserves last year.

Carter, who is 5-10, is expected to start at guard, along with 5-11 Demond Watson, while 6-2 Mike Swanson, 6-3 Parrish Tatum and 6-4 Ryan Walseth fill out the front line. Carter, Watson and Tatum are all Chicago products. Swanson and Walseth are Thief River Falls graduates. Jon Sigerud, a 6-0 guard from Goodridge, could also make his way into the starting line-up, or be used as a top reserve.

"I think we've got some pretty good depth," said Dannhoff. "There's not a lot of difference between our starting five and the next group. We'll be playing a lot of people."

Lack of size is a major concern, admitted Dannhoff, but that probably was partially corrected recently when Dan Hoffard's name was shifted from the Northland coaching staff to the active roster. The 6-8 sophomore from Thief River Falls transferred to Northland after playing as a freshman last year at Jamestown College. He had intended to serve as an assistant coach for the Pioneers this winter, but has now elected to use a year of eligibility here.

"I think we'll be real competitive," offered Dannhoff. "We've come a long way since we began practice. We still have a ways to go, but I think we'll be okay."

Dannhoff hopes to see his motion offense scoring 70-80 points per game, while his defense concentrates on limiting opposition to 35-40 percent shooting. "If we can do those things, we'll be all right," he said.

Schedule

Wednesday, Dec. 2 - at NDSCS. Monday, Dec. 7 - at UND Lake Region. Thursday/Friday/Saturday, Dec. 10/11/12 - Northland Invitational. Thursday/Friday/Saturday, Dec. 17/18/19 - Vermilion Invitational. Tuesday, Dec. 22 - at Minneapolis. Saturday, Jan. 9 - Grand Forks Air Base. Friday, Jan. 15 - at Hibbing. Saturday, Jan. 16 - at Rainy River. Friday, Jan. 22 - Mesabi. Saturday, Jan. 23 - Vermilion. Thursday, Feb. 18 - UMC. Saturday, Feb. 20 - UND Lake Region.

Northland Women

While the Northland men became taller with the addition of Hoffard, the Northland women became shorter with a recent injury to Kelli Kronschabel, a 5-11 forward from Fertile, who suffered a broken ankle that will sideline her for 8-10 weeks.

"That definitely hurts our inside game," said Nikunen. "We were looking for Kelli to do the job on the inside for us."

A three-guard Northland starting line-up is expected to include 5-5 Susie Bengtson (Hallock), 5-6 Jodi Chaplinski (Roseau) and 5-1 Kay Hoselton (Thompson, ND) in the backcourt, along with 5-9 Jill Brantl (Plummer) and 5-8 Holly Gram (Middle River) up front.

Brantl averaged 10.6 points per game and Bengtson had a 3.6 average for the 9-13 Pioneers last winter.

Like the Northland men, the Northland women have a deep bench. "I feel real confident with our depth," said Nikunen. "I wouldn't hesitate at all about using anybody on our roster."

Nikunen would like to play a faster-tempo game, but realizes a fast-break offense is dictated to rebounding strength. "You've got to be able to rebound if you want to run," he said. "If we rebound, we'll go with it."

Defensively the Pioneers will go primarily with man-to-man assignments, although it won't be an all-out press. "We just want to play real solid, fundamentally-strong defense," pointed out Nikunen, who figures the Pioneers should be competitive this winter. "We've got a ways to go," he admitted. "But for this point of the season, I feel real confident with where we're at."

YOUTH HOCKEY

Thief River Falls VFW Bantam A team opened its 1992-93 season with three weekend wins – a one-sided 17-1 victory at Baudette Friday, then back-to-back 5-4 overtime decisions against Fergus Falls Saturday and Sunday at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center.

Keith Anderson scored five goals and had two assists, while Nick Chiodo scored twice and collected five assists to lead the attack at Baudette. Steve Rambeck scored twice and added two assists, Chad Hanson and Sam Adams both finished with a goal and three assists, Aaron Ehrenstrom picked up three assists, while Robbie Stock, Tanner Mertell, Paul Oonsorowski, and Chad Nordhagen all scored once. Thief River Falls goalies Chane Keefe and Shane Duffy combined on 11 saves. The Baudette goalie finished with 38 saves.

Anderson scored four goals, including the game-winner just 17 seconds into overtime, in the Saturday win over Fergus Falls. Bryan Cleven scored a goal, Chiodo had three assists, while Hanson and Andy Furuseth both picked up two assists. Keefe stopped 21 shots; the Fergus Falls goalie made 25 saves.

Chiodo scored the overtime goal in the Sunday match-up with Fergus Falls, finishing the day with two goals and three assists. Hanson also scored twice, while Anderson had three assists to go along with a single goal. Duffy was in the nets as Thief River Falls out-shot Fergus Falls 32-28.

Bantam B Gold

Brod Inglis started with 1992-93 Thief River Falls Legion Bantam B Gold season with a 19-save shutout in a 3-0 Saturday win over Fergus Falls. Nathan LaRoque, Josh Melby and Ryan Poole scored the goals.

Thief River Falls completed the weekend sweep with a 4-1 Sunday win over Fergus Falls. Ryan Poole, Nathan Jordet, Brandon Poole, and Craig Huot were the goal-scorers. Bryan Barry had 19 saves in the Thief River Falls nets.

DNR News

Early Ice Danger

Minnesota Department of Natural Resources is urging parents to warn their children to stay off the ice. Low temperatures have caused a number of small and medium sized ponds and lakes to freeze over, creating a dangerously thin coating of ice, according to Tim Smalley, DNR boat and water safety specialist.

"We already have had reports of children out on some of these frozen ponds and we're extremely worried about them breaking through," Smalley said. "I suspect many parents aren't aware that their children are going out on the ice, and it would scare them silly if they found out," Smalley added.

DNR records indicate that in many years, young children are the first to drown in ice accidents. "It's possible that parents don't think their children need to be told about thin ice hazards, because the conditions are so obviously dangerous," Smalley said. "However, the danger is not as obvious to a curious child. A 6- or 7-year-old doesn't have the experience to understand the risks, so the ice just becomes an extremely attractive playground. Unfortunately, it's a playground that can become a deadly trap," Smalley warned.

Ice experts recommend a minimum of four inches of clear, solid ice before any kind of ice activities on foot. Five inches are recommended for snowmobile and ATVs, and 8 to 12 inches of ice for cars and small pickup trucks. These thicknesses are only rough guidelines, since many factors besides thickness can affect ice strength.

"The weight of snow on top of the ice generally throws those guidelines right out the window," Smalley said.

According to the DNR, it takes at least two weeks of near zero overnight temperatures to form 4-inch-thick ice. Those kinds of temperatures aren't expected for some time.

"Right now we are warning parents to tell their children in the strongest terms to stay off the ice, and to keep close watch of young children who may not understand the dangers," Smalley said. "A moment of carelessness can mean a lifetime of regret, so if your child is near the ice, you should be near your child."

Woodworking for Wildlife

New version of the book, Woodworking for Wildlife, from the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources is off the press.

Author Carrol Henderson said the newly revised second edition "is a dramatic improvement from the first edition published 10 years ago. The length of the book has increased from 48 to 112 pages. The new book also contains 183 color photos of wildlife that use nest boxes and nest platforms."

The new edition includes detailed nest box and nest platform designs for house wrens, bluebirds, wood ducks, owls, kestrels, bats, purple martins, loons and other species. "The unique feature that distinguishes this book from other nest box books on the market is that the designs have been based on the recommendation from wildlife biologists from across the United States, and then reviewed by carpenters for simplicity and ease of construction," Henderson said. Many of the nest box designs can be made from one board. The book includes 26 designs that will accommodate 48 wildlife species.

During the past 10 years, the Minnesota DNR and the Minnesota Bookstore have printed over 85,000 copies of the original edition of Woodworking for Wildlife. The copies have not only been used widely throughout the United States, but have also been requested by people in other countries ranging from Russia to Argentina.

Woodworking for Wildlife is available from the Minnesota Bookstore, 117 University Ave., St. Paul, MN 55155. The toll-free phone number is 1-800-657-3757. The book costs $9.95, plus $2 per order for shipping and handling. Minnesota residents must pay a 6 1/2 percent sales tax (65 cents per book).

Canvasbacks are featured on new waterfowl stamp

Minnesota wildlife artist Bruce Miller of Mound capped off a banner year by winning the 42nd annual Federal Duck Stamp contest with a design featuring a pair of canvasback ducks.

Miller's acrylic painting will be featured on the 1993-1994 Federal Duck Stamp. Money from the sale of the stamp is used to purchase and protect vital wetlands for waterfowl and numerous other wildlife species.

Held November 9 and 10 in Washington, D.C., the annual contest is sponsored by the Interior Department's U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

A professional artist and avid outdoorsman, Miller, 40, has received a number of honors this year, including being named artist of the year by the Michigan Wildlife Habitat Foundation and artist of the year at the Wildlife and Western Art Show in Minneapolis. He also won the 1993 Minnesota Pheasant Habitat Stamp Contest.

Miller's design was one of 629 in the year's contest. The artists who finished in second and third place are previous winners of the contest.

Second place went to Minnesota's David Maass, the 1981 winner David Maass of Long Lake, for his design of a pair of mallards. Neal Anderson of Lincoln, Nebraska, the winner of the 1988 contest, took third place with an oil painting of canvasback ducks.

Since it began in 1934, the Federal Duck Stamp Program has generated $414 million to acquire more than four million wetland acres, primarily for the National Wildlife Refuge System. All waterfowl hunters 16 years of age and older are required to purchase the stamp annually. The current price is $15 and remarkably, 98 cents out of every dollar raised through the sale of Duck Stamps goes directly to purchase vital migratory waterfowl habitat. The stamp has also become a valuable collector's item and is purchased by philatelists and conservationists across the country.

Weather wreaked havoc with 1992 crop season

Cold and wet most responsible for reduction of yields

"Weather worries abounded in the 1992 crop season and it still isn't over," reports crops statistician Jay Larsen with the Minnesota Agricultural Statistics Service. "About 45 per cent of the state's corn crop was still sitting in fields at mid-November. Producers and Mother Nature must have had a falling out this year because weather clearly was a factor in this year's crop season."

(As of November 23 the state corn harvest had reached 73% complete, an 18 per cent gain in the previous week and 34 per cent over a two-week period.)

Larsen's review and analysis of the crop year in the state includes the following, beginning with last spring:

Mild temperatures through March and favorable soil moisture provided an optimistic outlook for an early start to the 1992 season. The first three weeks of April were cool and damp but by the end of the month, most of Minnesota began a seven-week period of mild temperatures and below-normal precipitation. Ideal planting conditions allowed farmers to seed three-fourths of the corn crop and one-fourth of the soybeans by May 10. By the end of the month, most corn and soybeans were in the ground, well ahead of recent years.

While crops went in at a rapid pace in most areas of the state, farmers in the northern half of the Red River Valley were frustrated by persistent rain showers and surplus soil moisture. Statewide, spring wheat was only 66% planted by May 10, 25 percentage points behind normal, and didn't reach 95% planted until May 25. Barley and sunflower seeding was equally slow.

May rainfall in most of the state was limited to widely scattered showers. Good soil moisture supplies kept crop prospects mostly favorable despite nearly 50% of the state reporting short or very short topsoil moisture at mid-May. Areas with dryer subsoils or those which missed scattered thunderstorms had crops that were beginning to show stress from lack of moisture.

A preview of the cool summer occurred during the last week of May. A widespread frost was reported on May 26 and snowfall over the Memorial Day weekend accumulated in several locations. The cooler temperatures eased the effects of the continuing dryness but warmer temperatures over the next two weeks brought back fears of a dry summer. On June 12, short or very short topsoil moisture was reported for 84% of the state.

Widespread rains in mid-June were accompanied by severe weather. Tornadoes and hail caused extensive damage in southwest and central parts of the state. The cold air which funneled in after these storms marked the beginning of one of the coldest summers on record. Frost on June 20 destroyed more than 10,000 acres of corn and soybeans in southeastern Minnesota and caused moderate damage to crops in other areas. Average weekly temperature departures of 4-10 degrees below normal for 13 straight weeks resulted in the coolest average June-August temperature since 1915.

Crops were slow to develop because of the shortage of heat units. Development fell 2-4 weeks behind schedule throughout the summer. Pollination problems were common complaints. Only 10% of the corn was in the dent stage at the end of August, 47 points behind normal. The major concern in all areas of the state centered on an early frost. Frost was reported early in September in central Minnesota but a wide-scale hard freeze in the south was avoided until early October. Although the frost was just slightly earlier than normal, approximately two-thirds of the corn and soybeans were short of maturity but far enough along to avoid large losses.

But Mom Nature did get foiled. Despite the record cool temperatures and immature crops, a record corn crop and a good soybean crop are currently forecast. However, the shortage of heat units contributed to the slow dry-down of grain and low test weights. Corn was just 55 per cent harvested as of mid-November, the lowest harvest since 1965.

The cool summer was ideal for small grains. A bumper crop was in the making throughout the summer but the crop was also slow to mature. Harvest in the west central district got underway two weeks later than normal and farmers in the north were still looking at green fields about the time they normally begin to harvest. By mid August only one-fourth of the barley and 15% of the spring wheat was harvested, compared with a normal completion of 95% for barley and 85% for spring wheat.

Heavy rain during the last week of August brought harvest activity to a halt. Rain and cool temperatures persisted through the first half of September, resulting in the slowest harvest progress of the past 20 years. Most small grains were combined by October 1.

Despite difficult planting and harvesting conditions, barley yields averaged a record 75 bushels per acre and spring wheat production reached 137.5 million bushels, an all-time high. Oat yields tied a record high of 70 bushels per acre. The quality of the grain was lower than in previous years.

Hearing on MN wetland law in TRF December 9

People concerned about wetland regulation in Minnesota might want to consider attending one of the official public hearings on how Minnesota's new Wetland Conservation Act will be carried out. The hearings are scheduled throughout the state during December. One of the hearings will be held in Thief River Falls on December 9 at Northwest Technical College aviation center. Two separate hearing times are scheduled for each site. The hearing times are 1 p.m. and 7 p.m.

Other sites include: Alexandria on December 7; Grand Rapids on December 10; Marshall on December 14; Mankato on December 15; and St. Paul on December 17.

These hearings follow a series of public information meetings that were held around the state in November and early December, according to Ron Harnack, executive director of the Minnesota Board of Water and Soil Resources, the state agency responsible for implementing the act. "Those meetings were intended to inform people about the act; these official public hearings provide the opportunity for people to give their input on how the act should be carried out," Harnack said.

Basically, the act requires anyone draining or filling a wetland to replace it, with certain exemptions. The law also contains new incentive programs to compensate landowners for preserving wetlands.

The law is administered locally by a variety of local governments, including counties, soil and water conservation districts, cities, watershed management organizations and others.

BWSR members have specifically asked for input during the public hearings on a number of controversial issue, including:

1) The definition of agriculture land. The definition is important because it is linked to whether the land is regulated or exempt under the act and to the replacement ratio for draining or filling wetlands.

2) Wetland banking. Wetland banking allows landowners to restore wetlands and then "bank" them. These banked acres can be sold to another landowner who wants to drain or fill a wetland and needs replacement acres. The controversy revolves around whether only previously drained and restored wetlands can be banked, or if wetlands created where no wetland ever existed can be banked.

3) Recording of agricultural exemptions. Certain exemptions apply only to agricultural land and only continue to apply if the land remains agricultural for at least 10 years. The controversy is whether the property deed should indicate that an area was drained under such an exemption and must remain agricultural for 10 years.

The BWSR is scheduled to give final approval to the rules in February 1993 and send them to the Minnesota Legislature for review. If approved, the rules will be effective July 1, 1993.

For more information on the hearings, call the BWSR at (612) 296-3767.

Russell Lileks, a resident at Hanson's Boarding Home in Thief River Falls, turned on the switch which lit the community Christmas tree in Thief River Falls Sunday evening. The Christmas story was read by Mrs. Haidi Hoks. The Lincoln high school Swingsations and a brass ensemble performed music for the event. Jane Mattson, president of the chamber served as master of ceremonies, Mayor Robert Reave gave the welcoming address and Rev. Curtis Anderson said the closing prayer. Following the ceremony, hot chocolate and cookies were served at the Heritage community center.

Cash and drugs taken in burglary

Some cash and an undetermined amount of drugs were taken in a burglary at Center Drug in Red Lake Falls Sunday.

According to Red Lake County Sheriff Al Morkin, a burglary was reported at Center Drug on November 29. The store is located in Park Place mall. Entry was first gained to the mall and then Center Drug. Items taken included some cash and an undetermined amount of drugs. The incident happened between 12:30 a.m. and 5 a.m.

The burglary is still under investigation.

Medical Center gets grant for health study

Northwest Medical Center in Thief River Falls has been awarded a $19,905 grant from the U.S. government to create a geriatric behavioral health program for northwestern Minnesota. The grant was made by the Health Care Financing Administration under its Rural Health Care Transition Grant Program.

The federal grant will be the sole source of funding for the first year of a planned three-year project. During the first year, the medical center will initiate planning and training activities aimed at developing specialized expertise and innovative new approaches for addressing the mental health needs of elderly citizens. Early efforts will focus on meeting the behavioral health needs of area nursing home residents. As a grant recipient, Northwest Medical Center will be eligible to apply for funding for the project's second and third years.

According to Dr. Steve Levinson, director of Northwest Medical Center's Mental Health Division, Dr. Karen Pietras, clinical psychologist, will serve as coordinator of the project. The program's first objectives will be to determine staff training needs, identify the behavioral health needs of area nursing home residents, and form an advisory group to help monitor the program's progress and shape its development.

In congratulating Northwest Medical Center on its grant award, U.S. Senator David Durenberger wrote, "I am proud of the hard work you have put into this program, and I congratulate you and your staff on this impressive achievement."

Storage tank permits streamlined

Minnesota Pollution Control Agency (MPCA) has streamlined its program for issuing aboveground storage tank (AST) permits.

MPCA started issuing a general permit for ASTs on November 16. In order to qualify for this permit, tank owners must register their tanks and must be in compliance with secondary containment requirements. Secondary containment refers to a method of containing all of the largest tank's capacity in the event of a tank failure, such as a leak or spill.

ASTs that do not meet the requirements for registration or containment will not be covered under the permit until they meet both requirements. Previously registered tanks do not need to be registered again.

Owners of registered ASTs have been mailed a copy of the general permit, a printout of their reported site and general tank information. It is up to each owner to decide if their tanks meet the secondary containment requirement.

"This general permit will eliminate the application, review and fee process tank owners faced in the past, while still ensuring the protection of the environment," says Chuck Williams, MPCA commissioner.

Most ASTs, including petroleum and chemical tanks, should already be registered with the MPCA and there is no fee for registering tanks. At this time, there is no penalty for late registration and owners are encouraged to register any unregistered tanks immediately.

The MPCA is also planning to begin random inspections at tank sites. Sites lacking secondary containment will be given a high priority, as will sites which have had releases and unprotected sites which are reported to the MPCA through citizen complaints. Every tank site, however, is subject to inspection and possible enforcement.

For more information, including registration forms and secondary containment guidance, contact: Joan deMeurisse, MPCA Aboveground Tank Program coordinator, at (612) 297-8618; or Tin Tran, MPCA staff engineer, at (612)297-8665. Residents in Greater Minnesota can call the MPCA toll-free number 1-800-657-3864 and ask for deMeurisse or Tran.

Caps, mittens available for elementary students in TRF.

A large supply of caps and mittens has been purchased by Branch 8129 of Lutheran Brotherhood and donated to Thief River Falls elementary schools.

Purchased through the organization's "Care and Share" funding program, the clothing items are available to any elementary school staff member to give to any child observed to be in need of them.

This project has been conducted by Branch 8129 for several years and many articles of warm clothing have been distributed.

Kmart recently provided 21 food baskets to needy families for Thanksgiving. The baskets included a turkey, potatoes, stuffing mix, vegetables, bread, pumpkin pies and other items. Pictured left to right are project volunteers Bev Holmgren, Marilyn Hoglo, Sharon Cameron, Char Swanson, Loraine Steiger, Desiree Verner, director of Crossroads and Lane Sandahl, director of Violence Intervention Project, and Ardelle Kjelberg.

BIBLE STUDY

Honor the Lord with your wealth

After you read through this Bible study, go back and look up the Scriptures and highlight them in your Bible.

We are told to live by every word of God because God wants to teach us how to be zealous for good works (Titus 2:14). He wants to teach us to be giving, loving, sharing, caring and charitable people. He wants to make us into the servants of the most (Mark 10:43-45).

God wants you to be a willing giver, from the heart, not a person who gives only out of a sense of guilt. He wants to bless you in your life until you have no more needs (Mal. 3:10). He wants you to reap bountifully. He wants to give you abundance so you can have abundance for every good deed (2 Cor. 9:8). He wants you to trade in your old life of "getting" for a new life of "giving." He wants you to multiply your substance or money (seed for sowing) so you may increase your righteousness (2 Cor. 9:10-11).

God promises that if you give, He will inspire others to pour blessings into your lap until it is running over. To whatever extent you serve others, God Himself will return blessings to you (Luke 6:38). The Lord is not only telling you to do good with your money, but also to serve others with your time. However, where a man's treasure (money) is, that is where his heart is also (Matt. 6:21).

When you honor the Lord with the first of your substance, you set it apart as God's money and do good with it (Prov. 3:9). Some people set a fruit jar on the dresser to remind them to disburse God's money. As the portion in the jar grows, God wants to teach you how to do more good with it and live a life that's blessed. He wants to train you in righteousness by allowing you to disburse His money to those in need. You will discover all kinds of things you can do with God's money that will glorify Him (Matt. 5:16).

Wouldn't this be quite a world to live in if everyone would honor the Lord out of each paycheck and get involved in doing good with it for God? People would be so busy doing good, they wouldn't have time to get into trouble and do evil. Instead, they would be overcoming evil by doing good (Rom. 12:21; Psalm 34:14; 37:3, 27; 1 Peter 3:10-11).

God says we are considered righteous when we practice righteousness to please Him (1 John 3:7, 10). When we practice righteousness from the heart, we are truly born of God and we are fulfilling the purpose for which we were created (1 John 2:29; 3 John 11; Eph. 2:10). That is why we are reminded not to get weary in well-doing (2 Thess. 3:13; Gal. 6:9; Rom. 2:7).

Yes, sowing seeds of righteousness always results in a life of blessings from God (Eph 6:8). Won't you get involved in disciplining yourself for the purpose of godliness (1 Tim. 4:7)? Imitate God daily until Christ is formed in you (Eph. 5:1; Gal. 4:19). You will be a doer of God's word and live as Jesus said to live (John 8:51; 1 John 2:5-6, 17).

New owners and operators of Northland Foods posed with Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce Ambassadors. The ambassadors, Holly Haugen and Connie Omdahl, presented Chad and Greg Larson with a First Dollar award. They took over the store five weeks ago already. Chad will be the store manager and Greg is the managing owner. Their hometown is Aitkin but they have moved to Thief River Falls from Crookston where they operate another store. Greg and Chad want residents to watch for some big changes coming in January.

Now, US WEST is helping more Minnesotans do big business in small towns.

Who says you have to be in a big city to do big business? With the right communications service, any business can look like a Fortune 500 company.

Thanks to legislation passed in 1989, and regulatory approval in 1990, US WEST will be investing approximately $265 million annually for the next three years to improve communications systems in the state. By expanding and adding fiber optics and microwave transmission, we're providing helpful products and services like US WEST Conference Calling, Call Waiting, Market Expansion Lines and FAX capabilities.

We're also committed to expanding US WEST cellular phone operations and making access to area businesses quick and convenient through our Yellow Pages.

Service improvements like these will not only provide added convenience for individual customers, but they'll also foster growth in Minnesota businesses and communities. No matter how big they are. Or more importantly, how big they want to be.

More PROGRESS in Thief River Falls
Congratulations!

Nanci Reed recently expanded her business, Home Sweet Home, into the second floor of the building. One of the important features of the expansion was the addition of Noritake china and crystal. She also carries Pfaltzgraff stoneware. Upstairs, visitors will also find two Christmas rooms. Reed said Home Sweet Home also offers a very active special order service — satisfaction guaranteed. During the holidays Home Sweet Home will be open Monday through Friday 9:30 a.m. to 9 p.m., Saturday from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. and on Sunday from 12 to 5 p.m. She offers free gift registry, free gift wrapping, layby and gift certificates and accepts major credit cards. Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce Ambassadors Holly Haugen and Dan Baumgartner recently presented Nanci with a More Progress award which recognizes an expansion which allowed her to more than double her inventory.

Economy A Problem... But Who Understands?

"Most voters are economic illiterates who don't have the faintest understanding of what's involved in economic policy, much less what changes are required to address a growing roster of financial problems."

Thus states Steve Buckles, past president of the National Council of Economic Education, who says he and the council have been trying to "fight an uphill battle for more than 40 years to promote economic training in the nation's elementary and secondary schools. He said Minnesota is not included in the 28 states that presently offer such training.

Most voters agreed during the Presidential election campaign that the economy was probably the major issue, yet few voters (and probably fewer writers and TV news anchors) have a very broad understanding as to what is involved—this writer included. Everyone has an idea of the effect of taxation on their income or property and how employment or lack thereof impacts on their lives. Beyond those personal impressions, however, most people are not familiar with the many points of economics.

As an indicator of this general lack of knowledge, a recent Gallup survey of 1,005 adults and 600 high school and college students showed these results:

- Half of the respondents couldn't define a federal budget deficit as spending more money than tax revenues;
- Three-fourths of the survey respondents couldn't cite an example of fiscal policy;
- Eighty per cent of the respondents couldn't offer an example of monetary policy;
- Sixty-five per cent couldn't identify the consumer price index as the most widely used measure of inflation.

Given these figures, which would probably be no better and perhaps worse in Minnesota alone, it is understandable that state legislators and other government officials have difficulty explaining their efforts to improve the economy to their constituents. It is equally understandable that groups which study their own circumstances have difficulty making their case with the legislature.

For instance, Minnesota business leaders point out that for the sixth year in a row, business property taxes in Minnesota rank as the highest among five comparable states which are similar in quality of life, education and the availability of skilled labor. In fact, Minnesota maintained its ranking with the highest commercial-industrial taxes in the nation.

According to the Minnesota chapter of the National Association of Industrial and Office Parks (NAIOP), property taxes on business in Minnesota are more than 600 per cent higher than in South Dakota, 340 per cent higher than those in North Dakota, more than 260 per cent higher than Wisconsin and 203 per cent higher than Iowa—all neighboring states with which Minnesota competes on a daily basis for business expansion and jobs.

Minnesotans do not need to know a lot about the economy to understand that business in this state is in an unfavorable competitive situation with a tax burden that is much greater than in neighboring states. Thriving business fuels the economy, and every effort should be made to fan Minnesota's business coals into full flame.

Gun Lock-up Law Leads To Shop Deaths

Last April Tim Foslien, a longtime advocate of firearms rights, testified before the state Senate Judiciary Committee that a proposed gun lock up law would lead to daytime gun store robberies and inevitably result in violent confrontations between criminals and their intended victims.

But the testimony went unheeded and the law was passed, requiring gunshop owners to lock handguns in safes after business hours. We're sure the legislators felt that by passing the law they were "doing something" to curb the availability of handguns on the streets, or at least giving that impression to voters concerned about firearms violence.

Foslien was right in his assessment of the law. As closing time approached at Lloyd's Sport Shop in north Minneapolis June 23, employees Foslien and Brian Maas began to remove handguns from the store's display cases. Several men entered the store—timing their entry before the lock-up could occur—and caught the employees off-guard. Maas and Foslien were killed and the men fled with more than 90 stolen guns.

Subsequent police work, including use of the National Crime Information Center's computerized stolen gun registry, resulted in recovery of 41 of the stolen guns in Chicago. Other stolen guns were also recovered in the Chicago searches, including those believed to be the murder weapons. Two suspects were arrested and await trial.

Apprehension of suspects and recovery of property through the registry also highlights the folly of the Hennepin county gun buy-back program of about a year ago. There people were permitted to turn in up to three guns each for $50 per gun, no questions asked. No effort was made to check if the guns were stolen. Had that program been in effect in Chicago, the slayers of Foslien and Maas could not only have disposed of their murder weapons without a trace but received $50 each for them from the government.

"Sometimes the only key piece of evidence we have that enables us to solve a crime is the firearm that was used in the crime," states Sgt. David Lindman of the Minneapolis police crime laboratory identification unit. He is one of three qualified firearms forensic experts in the state and objected to the smelting of buy-back guns without a records search.

"To not use the means at our disposal—to send these guns to the furnace without examining them or seeing if they belong to honest citizens—seemed incomprehensible to me then and still does today," Sgt. Lindman stated in a recent article. "It jeopardized every open-case file maintained by any crime lab across the United States and Canada."

We believe both the lock-up law and the buy-back fiasco illustrate how even well-intentioned attempts to relieve a problem can often add to it when knowledgeable advice is ignored in favor of expediency.

Seniors Meet

Plummer Senior Citizen's club met on Wednesday the 18th for their potluck dinner and business meeting. Members M-Z supplied a delicious meal. Birthdays noted were Laura Smith, Jean Men, Molly Ydstie, Lily Lee, Ernie Pederson and Eddy Eskel. Ernie was the only one present. Following the meal the first grade under the direction of Sharon Rosten put on a program of songs and recitations, which was much enjoyed by all. The business meeting was called to order by President Effie Vigstol with the flag pledge and regular reports. There was very little business but Supt. Lorenson came over from school and invited the Seniors to walk in the school halls or gymnasium. We had already discussed the possibility of establishing a walking schedule for exercise. Stay alert for further news of this. Door prizes were won by Frances Schiefert and Esther Walter. The meeting was adjourned and further entertainment consisted of two readings, a quiz on states and capitols. The afternoon ended with the group singing of Thanksgiving songs. The next meeting will be on December 16th, with members A-L serving. Pearl Laniel and Effie Vigstol are the entertainment committee. Please put this on your calendar and reserve the day.

The American Legion Auxiliary served a "Teacher's Tea" in honor of American Education week at the school cafeteria on Wednesday afternoon. Teachers were introduced to the guests, and vice versa. A cake, baked by Karen Fossell was served, along with coffee and hot cider by Karen, Hazel Ollie, Oerda Koskela and Ruth Wilkens.

Harold and Marian Vatthauer spent from Monday to Wednesday in Grand Forks with friend, Cleo Gustafson.

Thief River Falls, Pennington County, Minnesota — December 3, 1942

From The Times Files of Fifty Years Ago

Local Fire Dept. Sponsors Gas & Bomb School Here

"Having in mind the hazards incident to wartime, a gas and incendiary bomb school will be held in Thief River Falls December 17, under the auspices of the Minnesota Insurance division and the local fire department, Harry L. Schuster, secretary, announced today. The school will be conducted by Charles [illegible], deputy state fire marshal, and firemen from neighboring communities will be invited to attend."

$62,595 War Bonds Sold Here in Nov.

"War savings bonds with a maturity value of $62,595 were sold during November through the local postoffice and financial institutions, a survey this week revealed. No quota for the month of November had been announced for Pennington county by the treasury department, but sales were considerably ahead of recent previous months."

Total of 11,419 Enjoyed Roller Skating

"A total of 11,419 children and adults made use of the municipal roller skating rink in the arena during the season that closed November 29, it was announced today by T. M. Thronson, arena manager. The number compares with 14,538 during the 1941 season. Receipts from skaters totaled $1668.30, while expenses aggregated $1411.63, leaving a profit on skating of 256.77."

"Fill 'er up" Was the Cry of Local Motorists

"'Fill 'er up' was the word given by local motorists over the week-end as they swarmed into service stations to have their tanks filled before gasoline rationing went into effect December 1. Every station in the city was a hive of activity Monday, the last day the precious fluid could be purchased freely. From now on holders of basic A ration cards will have to get along with a weekly ration of four gallons."

Santa Claus to Make Pre-Holiday Visit to TRF

"Due to gas rationing and the imposition of a 35 mile per hour speed limit, Santa Claus is starting out earlier than usual to make his round of pre-holiday visits with his young friends. He will arrive in Thief River Falls Saturday, December 5 at 2 p.m., it was announced today by E. B. Benson, chairman of the merchants committee of the Civic and Commerce association, sponsoring Saint Nick's visit. The honored guest will make his headquarters in the municipal auditorium, where he will distribute remembrances to the little folks who assemble to greet him."

No Street Decorations Here for the Holidays

"Following a request received from the War Production board in Washington asking that no electric lights be used in holiday street decorations as a means of conserving power while the war is in progress, the merchants committee of the Civic and Commerce association has canceled plans for decorating the downtown streets in advance of the Christmas holiday season, it was announced today by E. B. Benson, chairman."

—Judging by the crowds in town last week-end, a lot of folks were moving around in their last fling before gas rationing started.

—There is a general impression that it must have been a Philadelphia lawyer who figured out the application forms of supplemental gas rationing.

—A small town is defined as a place where everyone knows whose check is going to be good.

—From reports issued by the postoffice department, we gather that if you don't mail your Christmas parcels and greeting cards within a day or two, they will be delivered about Easter time.

—Thanks to the initiative of Governor Stassen, a lot of Minnesota farmers shortly will get, as they deserve, the equivalent of the Army-Navy "E" award for their achievement in war production.

—The swan song of the smaller communities, it seems, was sung prematurely. Gas rationing, which forces people to stay near home, may be expected to change the picture completely.

—It seems, safe to predict that colds will be more numerous this winter in homes where the temperature is held down to 65 degrees.

—Speaking of the effects of the war, a University of Minnesota authority tells us the high grade iron ore on the Mesabi range will be exhausted in six or eight years if mining is continued at its present accelerated pace.

—We trust you didn't forget to fill your gasoline tank November 30.

—It's getting a bit late to do your Christmas shopping early.

—Folks should be duly appreciative of the fact that the meal they enjoyed last Thursday is probably the last complete Thanksgiving dinner they will enjoy for the duration.

—Figuring in the war news lately have been such places as Bula, Buna, Bone and Oona. If you can distinguish between them, you know your geography.

ST. HILAIRE SPECTATOR

St. Hilaire, Polk County, Minnesota — December 7, 1892

From Newspaper Files Of One Hundred Years Ago

St. Hilaire Literary & Debating Society

"The St. Hilaire Literary and debating society has been organized and held their first meeting last Friday evening. S. S. Buzza was chosen president, F. H. Gambell, vice president, E. H. Stranahan, secretary, Leonard Holmes, treasurer, and W. A. Arthur, sergeant at arms. The society will meet every Friday evening at 7:30 p.m. at the school house and the program will consist of singing, recitations and debating. Next Friday evening the subject for debate will be 'Resolved; that the Indian has been more abused at the hands of the whites then the negro.' All are cordially invited to attend and participate. The society starts out well and should succeed. We will observe however that if the ladies are eligible to membership they failed to get fair treatment when the offices were divided. If the ladies are expected to help the boys, they should have some share in the management."

Notice Of Proposed Property Taxes

* Holiday Breads *

Prepare your holiday baking with breads. Freeze them for holiday treats at home or for gift giving.

This Christmas bread tastes like that old time favorite, Yule Kaka but it is easy to make using the new yeast bread directions.

Christmas Braid

5 to 5 1/2 cups flour
1 package dry yeast
2 cups milk
1/2 cup sugar
6 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 teaspoon salt
1 egg
1 cup raisins
1 cup chopped mixed candied fruit
1/2 cup chopped nuts
1 egg yolk
1 tablespoon water

In large bowl, combine 3 cups flour and yeast.

In saucepan, heat milk, sugar, butter and salt to 120-130 degrees. Add to flour mixture.

Add egg and beat on low speed of mixer for 30 seconds. Increase speed to medium and continue to beat for 3 more minutes.

Stir in raisins, fruit and nuts and enough remaining flour to form a stiff dough.

Knead smooth and elastic on floured surface (8-10 minutes).

Place in greased bowl, turning once to grease top, cover and let rise until doubled, 1 and 1/2 hours.

Divide dough into three parts, then divide each part into three again.

Roll each piece into a 15-inch rope, place 1" apart on greased baking sheet and braid loosely, beginning in the middle of the ropes. Pinch and tuck ends.

Repeat with the other two parts.

Cover and let rise until doubled, 30-40 minutes.

Combine egg yolk and water and brush braids. Bake at 350 degrees for 20-25 minutes, until browned. (Recipe makes 3 breads.)

Here is a tasty Christmas gift your friends will enjoy receiving:

Creamy Chive Rings

1 package dry yeast
1/4 cup warm water
1 cup milk
1/4 cup butter or margarine
1/4 cup instant potato flakes
1/3 cup sugar
1 1/4 teaspoons salt
1 beaten egg
3 3/4 to 4 1/4 cups flour
Sesame or poppy seeds

In small bowl, mix yeast and warm water; set aside.

In saucepan, heat milk, butter, potato flakes, sugar and salt to 110-115 degrees. Cool.

Stir in yeast and egg. Gradually add enough flour to form stiff dough. Turn out on floured surface and knead until smooth and elastic, 6-8 minutes, adding additional flour as needed.

Place dough in greased bowl, turning once to grease top. Cover and let rise until doubled, 1 hour.

Filling

1 beaten egg
3/4 cup whipping cream
1/3 cup chopped fresh or dried chives
1/2 teaspoon salt

Place all ingredients in top of double boiler. Cook and stir until thickened. Cool.

When dough has risen, punch down and divide in half. Roll each half into 12x16 inch rectangle.

Spread half the cream mixture on each rectangle of dough and roll jelly-roll style, starting at narrow end.

Place seam side down on greased cookie sheet and shape into ring. Cut 1-inch slices almost through the roll and lay slices flat.

Soupçon

Brush each ring with melted butter and sprinkle with seeds. Cover rings and let rise in warm place until doubled, 1 hour.

Bake at 350 degrees for 20-25 minutes, until lightly browned.

How about a bread that looks like Christmas, with its tiny olive wreaths? Top with cream cheese for a special treat.

Easy Olive-Cheese Bread

3 cups pancake mix
3 tablespoons sugar
1 1/4 cups buttermilk or sour milk
1/4 cup cooking oil
2 tablespoons steak sauce or Worcestershire
1 egg
1 cup (4 oz.) shredded cheddar cheese
1/2 cup sliced stuffed green olives

Combine all ingredients except cheese and olives. Stir by hand until all ingredients are moistened. Stir in cheese and olives.

Place in greased (bottom and sides) loaf pan and bake at 350 degrees for 50-55 minutes, until golden. Cool 10 minutes before removing from pan.

Anyone can bake elegant breads when they are this easy to make:

Caramel Orange Ring

1 tablespoon softened butter
1/2 cup orange marmalade
2 tablespoons chopped nuts
1 cup packed brown sugar
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1 (10 ounces each) cans refrigerated buttermilk flaky biscuits
1/2 cup melted butter

Grease a (12 cup) bundt pan or ring mold with 1 tablespoon softened butter. Place teaspoonfuls of orange marmalade in bottom of pan and sprinkle with nuts.

In small bowl, combine brown sugar and cinnamon. Mix well and set aside.

Separate biscuits and dip in melted butter, then in sugar mixture. Stand on edge in pan, spacing evenly.

Sprinkle with remaining sugar and drizzle with remaining butter.

Bake near center of oven for 30-40 minutes, until brown. Cool upright in pan for 5 minutes and then invert on serving plate.

I made this bread for gift-giving last year; however, not being too good at making fancy shapes, I just made it into round ball-shaped loaves:

Holiday Stollen

Fruit Mixture

1/2 cup raisins
1/2 cup mixed candied fruit
1/2 cup candied cherries
1/2 cup blanched, slivered almonds
1/4 cup rum

Dough

3 1/2 to 4 cups flour
1/4 cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 package yeast
3/4 cup milk
1/4 cup water
1/4 cup shortening or margarine
1 egg

Frosting

1 cup powdered sugar
1 tablespoon milk

In small bowl, combine fruit mixture ingredients. Let stand at room temperature for at least 1 hour, stirring occasionally.

In large bowl, combine 1 cup flour, sugar, salt and yeast.

In small saucepan, heat 3/4 cup milk, water and shortening to 120-130 degrees (very warm). Add milk mixture and egg to flour mixture.

Beat with electric mixer at low speed until moistened; then 3 minutes at medium speed. By hand, stir in 2 cups flour and fruit mixture until dough pulls away from sides of bowl.

On floured surface, knead in 1/2 to 1 cup flour until dough is elastic, 5 minutes or so. (Dough will be sticky.)

Place in greased bowl, turning to grease top. Cover loosely with plastic and a cloth towel and let rise at 80-85 degrees until doubles, 1 1/2 hours.

Punch down dough several times to remove all air bubbles. Cover, and let rise another 30 minutes, or until almost doubled.

Grease cookie sheet.

Punch down dough and roll, on lightly floured surface, into 12x8 inch oval. Fold in half lengthwise and form a crescent shape.

Press folded edge firmly and pinch open edges together. Place on prepared cookie sheet, cover and let rise until doubled, 35-45 minutes.

Bake at 350 degrees for 25-35 minutes or until golden. Cool on rack.

Combine powdered sugar and milk and drizzle over partially cooled bread. Garnish with almonds and candied cherries.

(1/4 cup water and 1 teaspoon rum flavor can be substituted for the alcoholic rum in this recipe.)

One more yeast bread. Make this one Christmas Eve night and you will have a delicious Christmas morning bread:

Christmas Stollen

3 1/2 cups flour
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 package dry yeast
3/4 cup warm water (120-130 degrees)
1/2 cup softened butter or margarine
3 eggs
1 egg, separated
1/2 cup chopped blanched almonds
1/4 cup chopped citron
1/4 cup chopped candied cherries
1/4 cup raisins
1 tablespoon grated lemon peel
1 tablespoon water
Softened butter or margarine

Mix 1 3/4 cups flour, sugar, salt and yeast in large bowl. Add water, 1/2 cup margarine, eggs and egg yolk.

Beat with mixer on medium speed for 10 minutes, scraping bowl constantly.

Stir in remaining flour, almonds, citron, cherries, raisins and lemon peel. Scrape batter from sides of bowl.

Cover and let rise in warm place for 1 1/2 to 2 hours or until doubled.

Stir down batter by beating about 25 strokes. Cover tightly and refrigerate overnight.

Grease cookie sheet.

Turn dough onto well-floured surface, turning to coat with flour. Divide dough in half and shape each half into an 10x7 inch oval.

Fold lengthwise and press only folded edge firmly. Place on cookie sheet.

Beat egg white and 1 tablespoon water and brush over ovals.

Let rise 45-60 minutes, until doubles.

Bake 20 to 25 minutes at 375 degrees, until golden.

Drizzle with glaze while warm.

Glaze

1 1/2 cups powdered sugar
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
2-3 tablespoons water

Health dept. seeks more authority

The Minnesota Department of Health is seeking legislative action to give the Commissioner of Health more authority.

The legislation would give the commissioner authority to approve non-controversial changes in the geographic areas where licensed ambulance services provide 24-hour coverage (Primary Service Areas).

"Primary Service Areas are an important part of protecting the public health by ensuring state-wide availability of local, licensed ambulance providers that meet acceptable standards. When it comes to pre-hospital emergency services, as in a number of other regulated industries, open competition has not proved to be in the best interest of the public," said Commissioner of Health Marlene E. Marshall.

In 1980, a legislative mandate granted the health commissioner the authority to license ambulance services, and to designate primary service areas within which the provider operates, according to certain maximum distance and travel time criteria.

Although some PSAs overlap, the majority assign large geographic coverage to single providers of ambulance service. In return, the provider must supply 24-hour emergency ambulance coverage, meet minimum personnel and equipment standards, and not discriminate against patients based upon source of payment or ability to pay.

Issues and concerns affecting the Primary Service Areas include instances in which two or more ambulance services have overlapping areas, instances where a community may believe a neighboring service can provide better response times, or instances where communities have concerns over differences in level of care between providers.

In many cases, changes to PSAs are non-controversial arrangements that are agreeable to all concerned parties. Currently, however, state law requires a public hearing process for all changes to a PSA. When a proposed change is non-controversial, the hearing results in considerable expense and burden to both the state and the community.

The suggested legislative action would provide an exception to the required hearing process for non-controversial changes if:

- the change is to improve coverage, coordination with 911 emergency dispatching or the efficiency of operations.
- county boards, community health boards, and directors of 911 public safety answering point areas in the areas of coverage have opportunity to review and comment on the application.
- all licensed EMS providers in the areas of coverage affected approve the application.

Cases that did not meet the non-controversial criteria would continue to utilize the public hearing process currently in statute for ambulance services wishing to expand or change their PSA. For more information concerning Emergency Medical Services in Minnesota, call the Minnesota Department of Health at 1-800-747-2011.

Public Notices

NOTICE

Pennington County Department of Welfare and Human Services has been chosen to receive $9,805 to supplement emergency food and shelter programs in the area.

A local board will determine how the funds awarded to Pennington County are to be distributed among the emergency food and shelter programs run by local service organizations in the area.

Organizations chosen to receive funds must: 1) be non-profit, 2) have an accounting system and conduct an annual audit, 3) practice non-discrimination, 4) have demonstrated the capability to deliver emergency food and/or shelter programs, and 5) if they are a private voluntary organization, they must have a voluntary board. Qualifying organizations are urged to apply. Deadline for application is December 10, 1992.

Further information on the program may be obtained by contacting Phyllis Schmidt, Pennington County Dept. of Welfare and Human Services, P.O. Box 340, Thief River Falls, MN 56701, 681-2680. 1t96c

Wetland hearings at TRF airport Wednesday

Board of Water and Soil Resources to seek input and information from the public on state wetland rule

One of six public hearings to be held in Minnesota to take testimony on the state's Wetland Conservation Act will be held Wednesday, December 9, at the aviation training center building at the Thief River Falls regional airport. The hearing will be held in two sessions beginning at 1 and 7 p.m.

The Minnesota Wetland Conservation Act was passed by the state legislature and is dated Jan. 1, 1991. It is scheduled to officially become law July 1, 1993, and the rules and hearing record are scheduled to be presented to the legislature by March 1, 1993.

The public hearings are being held on the proposed rule for administering the wetlands act. Developed by the Wetland Heritage Advisory Committee (WHAC) and its advisory Rules Working Committee, the rule is 86 pages in length and deals with all aspects of wetland law and regulations.

The RWC submitted its recommended rule to the WHAC in mid-September with most of the issues resolved with no dissent. In areas where no consensus had been reached, the RWC presented the WHAC with a number of alternatives. After discussion and study, the WHAC adopted one of the alternatives in each of the unresolved areas, then recommended the proposed rule to the Minnesota Board of Water and Soil Resources (BWSR).

At a special two-day board meeting September 30 and October 1, BWSR accepted the WHAC proposed rule without making any changes, but members felt further input and clarification was necessary on five issues. During the public hearings, the administrative law judge has been directed by BWSR to especially solicit input on the five issues in question.

According to BWSR, the five issues are: (1) The definition of ag land; (2) wetland banking; (3) the role of the Technical Evaluation Panel (TEP); (4) recording of agricultural exemptions and (5) the timing of using exempted drained or filled wetlands as replacement wetlands.

The explanation provided by BWSR for each of the five questions is as follows:

(1) The definition of ag land

Since the legislation did not provide a definition of ag land, and other existing statutory definitions vary, a definition was required for the Wetland Conservation Act (WCA). The definition is important because two of the six agricultural exemptions in the law are directly linked to whether the land is defined as ag land. Some people favor a narrow definition of ag land (meaning fewer exemptions and more wetlands protected) and some favor a broader definition (meaning more exemptions and fewer wetland protected).

The ag land definition also affects the wetland replacement ratio. The Act specifies that the replacement ratio for non-ag land is 2:1, while the ratio for ag land is 1:1. So a narrower definition of ag land would mean more replacement at a 2:1 ratio, whereas a broader definition would mean more replacement at a 1:1 ratio.

Resolution of the issue involved a split definition. A narrow definition was adopted for purposes of exemptions—meaning fewer wetlands will be exempt from the Act's regulations—and a broader definition was adopted for purposes of replacement—meaning that more wetlands will qualify for the 1:1 replacement ratio.

(2) Wetland banking.

Wetland banking allows landowners, government agencies and private organizations to "bank" wetlands and sell them later as replacement acres to parties who wish to drain or fill a wetland. Under a banking scenario, the draining or filling party does not need to do the replacement work themselves, but rather can pay someone else for wetland "credits" representing these already restored wetland acres. Since buying wetland "credits" is usually easier than replacing a wetland in conjunction with draining or filling activity, banking will probably be a popular option.

The controversy relating to banking revolves around the question of the eligibility of created (i.e. not restored) wetlands. In the proposed rule, only previously impacted wetlands that were later restored are eligible to be counted as wetland "credits", wetlands created in areas where no wetland ever existed are NOT eligible to be counted as wetland "credits."

The rule was drafted to exclude created wetlands because it's difficult to predict their long-term benefits, whereas restored wetlands almost always again provide their pre-draining or filling benefits, said Greg Larson, BWSR staff for the WCA. In addition, since more than half of the original wetlands in some parts of Minnesota have been drained, replacement should focus on restoration, Larson said.

(3) The role of the Technical Evaluation Panel (TEP).

The Act requires the creation of a TEP in each administering local government unit (LGU). The TEP must be composed of a representative of the local soil and water conservation district, an engineer representing the administering LCU and a BWSR staff person. The TEP makes scientific determinations for the administering LOU on issues concerning replacement plans, such as type and size of wetlands. The question is whether a TEP should review every replacement plan or only those plans with unresolved controversial issues. As the rule currently is written, a TEP must review every replacement plan submitted.

(4) Recording of agricultural exemptions.

Six of the exemptions in the Act apply to wetlands on agricultural land and only continue to apply if the land use after draining or filling remains agricultural for at least 10 years. Controversy about this issue revolves around whether the property deed should record the 10 year prohibition on conversion of those wetlands to non-agricultural use. Arguments against the recording requirement include the increased paperwork and administrative costs; arguments in favor of the recording requirement center on protection of the buyer. As the rule is drafted, the 10-year prohibition must be recorded only if the wetland to be drained or filled is located within a city.

(5) The timing of using exempted drained or filled wetlands as replacement wetlands.

The question on this aspect of the rule is whether a wetland drained or filled under an exemption can be immediately restored and used as a replacement wetland for another draining or filling project. Some believe there should be a permanent prohibition preventing these wetlands from being restored for replacement acres; others believe there should be no prohibition. In the proposed rule, there is a 10-year prohibition.

While these five areas will be addressed specifically at the hearings at the direction of BWSR, any part of the proposed rule may be the subject of testimony at the hearing sessions in Thief River Falls and across the state. The public hear-

Heavy cattail growth such as that pictured above makes some wetland areas easy to identify. Other possible wetlands are more subtle, however, and subject to disagreement and controversy. Wetland rules which will affect hundreds of thousands of Minnesota acres and thousands of property owners will be the subject of hearings Wednesday, December 9, at 1 and 7 p.m. at the aviation center at the Thief River Falls regional airport.

Enrollment options used in TRF schools

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

Seven types of enrollment option programs are available through public schools in Minnesota and most of them are in use to at least some degree in School District 564.

Most familiar and most commonly used in Thief River Falls are the Post-Secondary Enrollment Options, Open Enrollment and the Area Learning Center. All involve a number of students.

Other programs described by separate title include the High School Graduation Incentives program, Diploma Opportunities for Adults program, Public and Private Alternative Programs and Education Programs for Minor Parents and Pregnant Minors.

Under the Open Enrollment program, students in kindergarten through 12th grade are permitted to apply to attend a school outside the district in which they live. Applications must be received by the nonresident district before January 15 for enrollment the following fall. Accepted students must agree to attend the new district for one full year.

For District 564, this program results in a net loss of students on a head count basis. The local district has 16 students attending from other districts but has 23 students from District 564 attending school in other districts.

"Almost all of the students from this district attending school in other districts are doing so for geographic reasons," notes Marcia Sandahl, administrative assistant in the office of Dr. Robert Duncan, superintendent of schools.

"All are rural students, mostly on the fringes of our district, and they attend school in Oklee, Goodridge, Plummer, Newfolden and Red Lake Falls. In most cases their addresses are the same as the school they attend and they have a shorter travel distance to those schools."

The 16 students coming to Thief River Falls from other districts come from Oklee, Newfolden, Plummer, Middle River, Red Lake Falls, Crookston, Perham and Detroit Lakes. The latter three communities are represented by students attending the Northern Impressions School of the Arts which is in its first year at Lincoln high school.

Of the 16 students, five are enrolled in kindergarten through fifth grade, one each in sixth and seventh grades and the remainder at Lincoln high school.

Post-Secondary Enrollment Options program allows 11th and 12th graders to attend—full time or part time—a technical college, community college, private liberal arts college or university or any of the state universities for high school credit. Students must meet the requirements of that post-secondary institution.

Whitey Olson, Lincoln high school guidance director, said that this winter quarter there are 47 students from Lincoln attending classes at the Thief River Falls Technical College (down from 52 during the fall quarter) and 30 attending Northland Community College.

"The students at the technical college primarily are attending two hours per day," Olson said, "with four of the students attending four hours per day. They are enrolled in auto body, automotive service technology, welding, electronics, cosmetology or drafting."

One reason for the number of students attending the technical college is the closing of a number of programs at the high school level Northwest Vocational Center which was operated here for a number of years.

Of the 30 students attending Northland Community College, most are taking only one class, although two are nearly full-time students at NCC. Olson said that

Enrollment drop means cutting school budget

School District 564 enrollment of 84 fewer students than expected for the 1992-93 school year has necessitated additional budget cutting, the board of education was advised at its meeting November 30 in the school district service center.

Business manager Harry Nelson mentioned the need for budget cuts in presenting the revised 1992-93 budget. The administration will be preparing suggestions for the board to consider and meetings have been scheduled for the next two weeks to review the budget with the staff.

Nelson also reviewed the changes on the preliminary payable 1994 tax statements that were recently mailed to taxpayers in the district and indicated the administration may be presenting a recommendation at the next meeting to refinance the 1986 bond issue at a saving to the district.

Discussion was also held concerning establishing a process to name the new elementary school complex which is to be under construction in 1993. Recommendations on the process will be presented by the administration at a meeting in the near future.

The board approved a position statement concerning the current collective bargaining law indicating

Bradshaw sentenced to 48 months in prison

Following a plea agreement, in which Larry Dwayne Bradshaw pled guilty to three counts of second degree assault, he was sentenced Monday, December 7, to 48 months in prison. Originally, Bradshaw was charged with two counts of attempted first degree murder, attempted murder in the second degree, assault in the second degree and kidnapping. The charges against Bradshaw stem from a domestic incident on August 23 in which he allegedly held a knife at a woman, and later aimed a rifle at two police officers. Monday he was sentenced to three separate counts of second degree assault, the assaults being on two police officers and a female victim.

The sentence of 48 months represents a deviation up from sentencing guidelines. Prosecutor Al Rogalla supported his recommendation for the deviation by stating that the incident involved alcohol, guns, a knife, all the felonies committed came from one incident and that the prosecution came down from attempted murder. Ninth District Judge L.G. Jorgenson agreed adding that the entire circumstances behind the charges support the deviation.

Assistant Public Defender Don Aandal agreed with the plea agreement, but asked that Bradshaw be given credit for time served since August 23. Judge Jorgenson allowed credit for time served. All other charges against Bradshaw were dismissed.

County to receive funding for maternal / child health program

Pennington and Red Lake counties are two of the 13 counties to receive three-year funding for a rural Minnesota maternal and child health outreach program which has been named Communities Caring For Children. The intent of the program is to work with local providers and enrolled participants to help women keep their prenatal appointments and to remind families when immunizations and well-child exams are due for their children up to the age of five.

Communities Caring For Children is developing poster, radio and television spots and newspaper articles and ads to educate people about the program. Presentations will be made to interested groups and information distributed about how everyone in the community can help to have healthier mothers and children.

Beginning in January, participants will be able to sign up for the program through their own health care providers, by calling an 800 telephone number to be announced, or through LaRue Johnson, RNC, at Inter-County Nursing service at 681-5950.

The program is open to every pregnant woman and her children and will provide periodic letters on the individual child's growth and health needs as well as phone calls when needed to further encourage continuous care.

THE TIMES' WEDDING POLICY

THE TIMES' policy on wedding write-ups is as follows:

- If the wedding took place within one month from date of receipt at THE TIMES office, a detailed write-up will be published from information provided, along with a picture if submitted.
- If the wedding took place from one to three months before receipt at THE TIMES office, there will be brief write-up, including names of participants but no description of decor, gowns, flowers, etc.
- For a wedding that took place from three to six months before submission to THE TIMES, we will run a brief social announcement or a picture with a short caption stating names of the bride and groom, names and addresses of parents, date and place of the wedding, and where the couple is residing.
- There will be no publication of weddings after six months have elapsed.
- Every effort will be made to publish the wedding write up within two issues of receipt.
- Forms are available free of charge at THE TIMES office to help in organizing information about the wedding for publication. Nearly all information can be filled in on the forms prior to the wedding. To request forms by mail, send a self-addressed stamped envelope to THE TIMES, P.O. Box 100, Thief River Falls, MN 56701.
- Photographs may be picked up at THE TIMES office after the wedding write-up has been published. Photographs will only be returned by mail if accompanied by a self-addressed stamped envelope.

TIMES FOR TODDLERS

ACTIVITIES

Paper Chains

Many families are beginning to decorate their homes for Christmas. Allowing children to help makes them feel an important part of the family. Simple decorations that children can help with are the paper chains. You will need red and white paper, scissors and glue or tape. Cut the paper in strips. Make one a circle and link the next circle into it. Alternate colors and make the chain as long as is necessary to decorate the space intended.

SCAVENGER HUNT

For next week's Activities feature, you will need a tub, rice or dry beans, small cups, spoons and toy cars and trucks.

BOOK OF THE WEEK

The Thief River Falls public library has a number of wonderful Christmas stories to share with your children, including the following:

Lewis, Kim. The Shepherd Boy. This book follows James through a full year of life on a sheep farm up to a very special Christmas in which gifts for patient shepherd boys come.

Kennedy, X. J. The Beasts of Bethlehem. This book of poetry contains 19 poems, each in the voice of a creature that was present at the stable at the time of Christ's birth.

VIDEO VARIETY

Share the spirit of Christmas with this video available at your Thief River Falls public library:

Christmas at Plum Creek. Taken from a Christmas show of the "Little House on the Prairie" television series, this video will be a delight for the whole family. The Ingalls family works to make their first Christmas at Plum Creek a memorable one filled with joy, tears and a lot of love.

PARENTING TIPS

Last Minute Gift Ideas

In need of some last minute gifts for children? Remember gifts do not need to be expensive or purchased at a store to be valuable to children. Think about what the child is doing at his/her age when selecting toys and always think of safety. It has been said that no toy is completely safe. Maybe all playthings need adult supervision.

● Infants: Need playthings to hold, look at and listen to. Always remember to check them for safety. The playthings must be too big to swallow and not have sharp edges or other dangerous parts. They may include:

- safe things to chew on
- toys to hold and squeeze
- toys for the bathtub

● One-Year-Olds: Need toys to take apart and put together, parts to screw and unscrew, put on and take off, throw and drop, stack and unstack. They are curious and want to know "why."

- a soft safe ball
- pop beads
- small soft dolls and stuffed animals
- small lightweight blocks
- water toys.

● Two-Year-Olds: Need toys to build their muscles. They need toys that help them learn "in, out, over, under, up and down." Two-year-olds have gone from simple imagination to actual make believe.

- simple puzzles
- riding toys
- a small table and chair set.

● Three, Four and Five-Year-Olds: Can have increasingly more difficult toys to play with. Toys that encourage them to think and figure things out.

- blocks
- construction toys
- crayons, paper, markers
- playdough
- board games
- puppets.

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

As your child plays, talk to him/her about what he/she is doing. Notice how your child used the toy.

Inga Berg, 88

Thief River Falls — Inga Berg, 88, died November 27 at the CNC unit of Northwest Medical center in Thief River Falls.

Funeral services were held December [illegible] at the Zion Lutheran church in Thief River Falls with Rev. [illegible] Rasmond and Rev. [illegible] officiating. Special music was provided by Naomi Rasmond, soloist, and Ida Nordvall, organist. Casketbearers were Richard Stenberg, John Stromberg, Dana Stromberg, Eric Stromberg, Mark Thompson and Jonathan Thompson. Interment was in the Greenwood cemetery. The Belmont Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Inga Stenberg was born Aug. 11, 1904 in St. Hilaire, the daughter of Asbjorn and Marie (Ogreid) Stenberg. She moved with her family as a child to Thief River Falls where she attended school and grew up. In 1935 she was named Miss Thief River Falls. She was married to Elmer B. Berg on Sept. 4, 1937 in Thief River Falls. He died on July 2, 1966. She worked in the 1920s and early 1930s at the Golden Rule Grocery, in the mid-1930s for Montgomery Wards and in the late 1930s for Lein's Apparel. She remained at that store when its ownership changed and it became Larson Style Center. She retired in 1975. Between the years of 1949 and 1971 she designed, built and lived in more than 12 homes. She built these homes on the east side of Thief River Falls on Crocker, Spruce and Kneale avenues, with the final project on Gulf Street in 1971. She was a member of Zion Lutheran church.

She is survived by one son, David (Janet) of Vancouver, British Columbia, Canada, three grandsons, a sister-in-law, Gladys Stenberg, a nephew and two nieces.

She was preceded in death by her husband, her parents, four brothers: Arthur, Alfred, Martin and Otto, and three sisters: Clara, Alice and Susanne.

Bernice Cassavant, 63

Red Lake Falls — Bernice Cassavant, 63, died November 30 at the Hillcrest Nursing Home in Red Lake Falls.

Funeral services were held December 4 at the Bethany Lutheran church in Red Lake Falls with Rev. Gary Graff officiating. Special music was provided by Bruce Arvidson, soloist, and Peggy Miller, organist. Casketbearers were Louis Cassavant, Wayne Hanson, Mark Larson, Erick Nephew, Travis Embretson and Dale Anderson. Interment was in the St. Dorothy Catholic cemtery in Dorothy. The Petterson Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Bernice Alrose Anderson was born Feb. 6, 1929 in Kurehenville township, Polk county, the daughter of Alfred and Hazel (Sollie) Anderson. She grew up in the Fertile-Crookston area and attended school there. She married Roy Nephew and later married Harry A. Cassavant on Jan. 22, 1969 at Webster, SD. They lived in Dorothy where they owned and operated a locker plant. Her husband, Harry, died on July 4, 1980. In 1980 she moved into Red Lake Falls. She had been a resident of the Hillcrest Nursing Home since Nov. 5, 1987. She was a member of the Red Lake Falls American Legion and Bethany Lutheran church.

She is survived by two daughters: Pam Schmidt of Red Lake Falls and Sandy Embretson of Twin Falls, ID, two sons: Danny Nephew of Mandan, ND and Mark Nephew of Bismarck, ND, 20 grandchildren, 10 great-grandchildren; her mother; three step-sons: Ronald Cassavant of Thief River Falls, Alan (Tammy) Cassavant of Red Lake Falls, Orren Cassavant of Red Lake Falls; three step-daughters: Mrs. Joe (Shirley) Hanson of Red Lake Falls, Mrs. Doug (Dee Dee) Poole of Alexandria and Mrs. Wayne (Judy) Violette of Red Lake Falls; two brothers: Donald (Clarice) Anderson of Crookston and Dean (Laurel) Anderson of Arizona; four sisters: Marlene Schultz of Twin Falls, ID, Marie Thorn of Idaho, Mrs. Willie (Marcy) Roberts of Arizona and Leona Humerlik of Idaho; four step-sisters: Geraldine McGregor of Grafton, ND, Wanda Thompson of Grafton, ND, Sue Matcha of Grafton, ND and Cindy McGregor of Indiana; and one step-brother, Warren Bogert of Grafton, ND.

She was preceded in death by her husband; her father and her stepfather, Willis Bogert.

Dear Readers,

Many times distance separates us from a close friend who has suffered a loss. Sending flowers is one way to express your sympathy across the miles. Flowers have a message all their own, and they serve as a beautiful reminder of your love and concern. As the bereaved reads the sentiment expressed on the floral card, he is assured that you share his grief and are with him in thought.

Respectfully,

Belmont Funeral Home

Larry Belmont

Sheep producer meeting slated at tech college

State lamb and wool programs used for years by sheep producers in southern and central Minnesota will be explained at introductory meetings for area sheep producers Tuesday and Wednesday, December 15 and 16, at 7 p.m.

The December 15 meeting will be held in room 131 at the Thief River Falls Technical college and the December 16 meeting at the Solway town hall. Conducting the meetings will be Bill Blaha and Joel Bobb of the Wadena Technical College.

To be discussed at the introductory meetings will be marketing options for northwestern Minnesota sheep producers and increasing baby lamb survival. Those attending will also have an opportunity to ask questions about the new "Norwest" educational package being offered by the Wadena lamb and wool program.

"Marketing is one of the biggest problems facing sheep producers," Blaha and Bobb said. "It is difficult to find a local market with competitive buyers present. Producers in the Wadena area have been using a tele-auction system that allows 10 major lamb packers to bid on every load offered. The discussion on marketing options at Thief River Falls and Solway will explain this system and how a similar system could be implemented in the northwest.

Persons with questions about the meeting may contact Blaha or Bobb at the Wadena Technical College, phone 1-800-247-2007, extension 373.

Oakland Park board meets

Bird watchers invited to count in Fertile area

First official Christmas bird count in the Fertile area will take place Friday, December 18, with all interested area persons regardless of skill level at bird identification invited to participate.

Counting will be done in a 15-mile diameter circle extending from a couple of miles southwest of Fertile northeast toward Erskine. It includes the Fertile Sandhills, prairie chicken areas, wooded areas, wetlands and a mixture of habitat around the Union lake and Maple Lake areas.

During the unofficial count conducted as a trial run in 1991, counters identified [illegible] of 27 different species.

Persons interested in participating are asked to gather at the Fertile community center by 8 a.m. Friday, December 18, and they will be assigned to a party to cover a section of the count area. Maps and tally sheets will be provided to the party leaders and a master list will be compiled at the end of the day from the individual tally sheets.

If possible, participants are asked to call in advance to let the coordinator know of their interest. This will assist in planning route schedules. To sign up or for further information call Wayne Gocken at the Fertile Community Center (945-3129) or at home (574-2622).

The birds are housed in large glass enclosures and have been the subject of intense interest by residents, staff and visitors to the unit. More photos and information about the aviaries and how they came to the unit will be published in a later edition of The Times or Northern Watch.

Young TRF man sentenced Mon.

Eighteen-year-old Vernon Lee Walseth was sentenced Monday, December 7, on six misdemeanor charges and two felonies.

Ninth District Judge L.G. Jorgenson stayed imposition of sentencing Walseth to 15 months on a felony theft charge, and 23 months on a second degree burglary charged on condition he serves 120 days in jail, performs 272 hours of community service work, and makes restitution of $600. He was also placed on five years supervised probation.

Walseth was also convicted for six misdemeanor charges including: three counts of consumption by a minor, contributing to the delinquency of a minor, criminal damage to property and fifth degree assault. For those counts, which represent three separate case files, he was sentenced to 90 days in jail, which was stayed for one year on conditions. One of the conditions being that he makes restitution of $379.54. Walseth was given credit for time served. He was represented in court by Assistant Public Defender Don Aandal. The case was prosecuted by the assistant to the county attorney, Al Rogalla.

State Patrol investigates Sun. accident

Minnesota State Patrol is investigating an accident that happened Sunday near Hallock.

According to a spokesperson for the Minnesota State Patrol in Thief River Falls, 16-year-old Luke Nelson of Lancaster was injured when his vehicle went off the road and rolled. Nelson was taken to Hallock hospital where he was treated and released.

According to the accident report, the accident happened on Highway 171, one-third of one mile west of Highway 75. Nelson's vehicle, a 1984 Dodge, four door, was traveling east on 171, went off the road and rolled. The accident is still under investigation.

Four from area receive UND scholarships

Four Thief River Falls area students have been selected to receive J.F.T. O'Connor scholarships at the University of North Dakota in Grand Forks. The scholarships are awarded to students chosen for high academic ability and leadership.

The students are Jennifer Kotrba, daughter of Marlin and Cindi Kotrba of Goodridge; Brian Kading, son of Marvin and Delores Kading of St. Hilaire; Gretchen Hanson, daughter of Tim and Jean Hanson of Thief River Falls; and Jan Gustafson, daughter of John and Leona Gustafson of Viking.

Gretchen Hanson plans to major in accounting, Brian Kading in aviation, Jennifer Kotrba in medicine and Jan Gustafson in occupational therapy.

The scholarships are for the 1992-93 academic year.

Bill and Malba Penning served fruit soup last week as Heritage Community Center guest cooks. The recipe for 25 servings of fruit soup is 1.25 cups of sago or tapioca and 3 1/8 pints of water: cook until done; add 2.5 cups sugar; 2.5 cups each of chopped apples, currants, raisins, and pitted prunes; 2.5 sticks of cinnamon; 2.5 tablespoons of vinegar; 40 oz. of grape juice: Add grape juice when fruit is cooked — natural with no extra sugar. Add water to get the right consistency. A dollop of vanilla ice cream — about .5 gallons for 25 servings.

Impressions . . .

by Beth Johnson

Twenty years ago, my husband and I made our first annual trek to the local Christmas tree vendor to purchase our first Christmas tree. At that time we lived in Chicago. We were both finishing up our schooling. We were living in Seminary housing—an experience in itself! We had little, if any, money. But it was Christmas and Christmas just isn't Christmas without a Christmas tree.

I remember how fresh and beautiful those Christmas trees looked to me at that sidewalk vendor's stand. In actuality, I supposed that those Christmas trees were probably cut during the summer and placed in cold storage until the time to sell them drew near. We picked out what seemed to us to be the most beautiful tree. We brought it home to our apartment. It was the most beautifully shaped three we had ever seen. It seemed to be perfect.

Our tree lacked nothing except decorations. We had some tree lights, so we put them on the tree, but we had no decorations. So, we decided to be creative and make our tree decorations. I popped popcorn. And then, with a needle and thread, we threaded popcorn chains. We had some cranberries. So, once again, with needle and thread, we threaded some cranberry chains. Now our tree had lights and chains of popcorn, and cranberries. It still lacked the kind of decorations you hang from the branches.

To rectify that, I found some ribbon—the kind you used to be able to buy that needed only to be moistened to stick to itself. With that ribbon I made intertwining circles which we hung on our tree. Our tree was complete and it was beautiful. If we disregarded the fact that it shed needles every time we breathed near it, it was perfect.

The cranberry and popcorn chains have long ago disappeared. The old large lights have been replaced with tiny lights. But, still in my box of decorations, I have one of those green ribbon decorations. It is no longer pretty—it is simply squashed in the box—but it reminds me of that first Christmas my husband and I celebrated together.

This past weekend we once again made a trek to the local vendor to pick out the most beautiful tree we could find. Our tree is tall—it reaches to our high ceiling. It is not terribly wide. It looks just perfect to me. In fact, it truly is not very perfect as it was not grown on a tree farm, but it grew in the wild. But, the wild look—not quite perfect—seems most beautiful to me.

As we strung the lights on our tree and placed the decorations on the tree I was hit by a bit of nostalgia. Every decoration reminds me of people and places that have touched the lives of each of us. Some of the decorations are intricate. Some are childish in their design. Each year, as the box of decorations is once again opened, we remember. We talk about the places and people of which we are reminded. We talk about other Christmases.

After we talk, we simply sit and look at the tree. We turn off the lights in the house and simply let the Christmas tree lights light our room. Each of us becomes lost in our own thoughts. This Christmas I was reminded of other tree decorating times which found our children falling asleep under the newly decorated tree. This Christmas, one of those little children has grown to adulthood and was not with us as we decorated the tree. But in the stories and in the reflecting he, too, was a part of this special time. For the memories of good times past and the promise of good times to come I am thankful.

Group baking class offered in Newfolden

Speaking Of . . .

by Sharon LaCoursiere

. . . Oh, Christmas Tree

Oh, the trimming of the magnificent, majestic Christmas tree, the time when the family gathers together to perform the traditional ritual of decorating the traditional symbol of Christmas. This is a time of peace and tranquility as the happy family works in harmony to create the centerpiece for their holiday festivities.

Not!

Trimming the Christmas tree may be one of the most difficult, trying tasks a family can face during the holiday season. It can cause grown men to burst into tears, not to mention Mom and the kids, and even the family pets.

Sometimes just getting the tree into its holder can be a major problem. Too often the holder is much smaller than the bottom of the tree, and then someone has to cut and trim the bottom of the tree to fit the holder. This person who must do the cutting and trimming is often Dad.

Cutting and trimming a tree that leaks sap all over everything and everyone nearby and getting stabbed on face and hands with prickly branches does not get Dad into a good mood for the rest of the tree trimming task.

Very often, Dad will get the tree into the stand and disappear, supposedly to wash his hands and treat his prickles, but he will not reappear the rest of the evening and the remainder of the tree trimming tasks will fall on Mom and the children. I have even heard of fathers disappearing after getting the tree into the stand and not reappearing for YEARS!

Putting lights on the tree is another task that sometimes falls upon Dad, if he is still sticking around (he probably has to stick around, what with all that sap). First of all, each strand of lights (and there are HUNDREDS, or so it seems) must be tested, because, as you know, if one little bulb is out of place it will throw the whole strand out of whack and the strand will not light.

The bulb testing, along with accompanying expletives by the tester and unwanted "helpful" suggestions by those watching, goes on for quite some time.

Sooner or later, however, in spite of it all, the strands of lights are lit, albeit scattered across the entire living room floor. Sooner or later, they are placed gently, oh, so gently, on the tree, in hopes that they will remain lighted, at least for an hour or so.

Then comes the hanging of colored balls. This is the time when children can help, but watch out. Naturally, they will only be hanging the colored balls as high as they can reach, and if they are very short, the top of the tree will be barren. Be sure you remember to put colored balls on the top part of the tree, because it looks very funny if it is bald on the top.

The same goes for the glittering tinsel and garland. Some children (some of whom I could name for you) like to take handfuls of tinsel and toss it at the tree.

This tossed tinsel looks like tossed tinsel and does not hang down and shimmer beautifully, the way it is supposed to. Keep an eye on your children, especially those of adolescent ages, to make sure that they do not toss the tinsel.

Besides, the tossed tinsel tends to fall to the floor easily, where the pets can get at it and eat whole mouthfuls of it. Then the tinsel once more gets tossed up by the pets, and it is not in very good condition then, either, I can tell you from experience. And those pets always toss up the tinsel in the worst possible places in the house, such as my bed, or on my coat, or in the middle of the dining room floor in the middle of Christmas dinner.

Come to think of it, whoever came up with the idea of dragging a once live piece of the forest into our home at Christmas anyway? When you think about it, it is a pretty strange thing to do.

Nonetheless, we do it. Year after year we spend hard-earned money to buy, of all things, a tree, something which grows (often) in our own back yards. Then we expend time and effort dragging the tree into our homes, pruning and cutting it and cramming it into a holder and placing it just perfectly so it looks its very best, and then draping it with all sorts of colored lights and gee-gaws.

During the holidays, we care for that tree as if it were a member of our family. After we hang the branches with every sort of decoration imaginable, we peek and peer at it, change the decorations from one place to another several times, make sure every single light is lighted, and make sure every piece of tinsel and garland loop is just so perfect.

Then we carefully water the tree each day, sometimes giving the poor thing an aspirin or two, check its little lights daily to make sure nothing is getting overheated, and, each day, tug gently on the needles to make sure they are not getting loose.

Do you ever wonder why we do it? I do.

But then again, as I take a moment to sit in the peaceful quiet of the dark living room and gaze at the dazzling Christmas tree, I think I can understand the wonder and magic of it all. The room not only looks like Christmas, but smells like it, too. Or is it the sap I still have on my hands?

* Holiday Cookies *
Bar Cookies

Today's cookie recipes are made in bar shapes. Cut them into smaller squares than usual so that your guests can taste every single delectable one.

Easy to make, these almond flavored bars will be a hit.

Almond Squares

1 cup butter
3/4 cup sugar
1 egg, separated
1/2 cup almond paste
1 teaspoon almond extract
2 cups flour
2 1/2 ounce package sliced almonds

Cream butter in large mixing bowl. Gradually add sugar, beating light and fluffy.

Add egg yolk, almond paste and flavoring and beat well. Stir in flour. Spread mixture in 9x13 pan.

Beat egg white (room temperature) until foamy. Brush over entire surface of dough and then sprinkle with almonds.

Bake at 350 degrees for 35 minutes, until light brown. Cool thoroughly before cutting. Store in airtight container.

These pretty bars are perfect for Christmas:

Cherry Cream Bars

3/4 cup softened butter or margarine
1/4 cup packed light brown sugar
1/4 cup packed dark brown sugar
1 1/2 cups flour
16 ounce carton sour cream
1 tablespoon plus 1 1/2 teaspoons granulated sugar
1 1/2 teaspoons vanilla
Red maraschino cherries, halved or quartered

Cream butter. Add brown sugar, beating light and fluffy. Add flour and mix well. Press into ungreased 9x13 inch pan and bake at 350 degrees for 25 minutes.

Combine sour cream, granulated sugar and vanilla, beating well. Spread over baked mixture and bake another 10 minutes at 350 degrees. Cool in pan.

Cut into squares, remove from pan and place a cherry half in center of each bar.

Cut these cookies into oblong bar shapes. Dip one end in chocolate and chopped almonds to make them special:

Soupçon
For The Holidays

Almond Mocha Bars

1 cup butter, margarine or shortening
1 cup packed brown sugar
1 teaspoon almond extract
2 1/4 cups flour
1 teaspoon instant coffee granules
1/2 teaspoon baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
6 ounce package semi-sweet chocolate chips
1/2 cup chopped almonds

Cream butter in large mixing bowl. Gradually add brown sugar, mixing well, and then add almond extract.

Combine flour, coffee, baking powder and salt. Add to creamed mixture, stirring until thoroughly blended.

Add chocolate chips and almonds, blending well.

Press into greased 10x15 inch pan and bake at 375 degrees for 25-30 minutes. Cut while warm.

Cool completely and then store in airtight container.

Figs make these bars something special:

Fig-Nut Squares

2 eggs
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 cup flour
1/2 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 cups finely chopped dried figs
1 cup chopped pecans

Beat eggs until foamy; gradually add sugar and vanilla, beating well.

Combine flour, baking powder and salt and add to egg mixture, stirring well. Stir in figs and pecans.

Spread in greased 9 inch square pan and bake at 350 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes. Cut into squares as soon as possible and cool on racks.

(If you don't want to use figs, 2 cups finely cut dates may be substituted.)

These fruitcake-type bars can be mellowed in airtight containers for 2 to 3 weeks before the holidays:

Rum Fruit Bars

4 1/2 cups chopped pecans, divided
1 cup softened butter or margarine
2 1/4 cups packed brown sugar
4 eggs
2 tablespoons vanilla
2 1/4 cups flour
2 cups chopped candied red cherries
1 1/2 cups chopped candied pineapple
1/2 cup chopped candied citron
Light rum

Sprinkle 3 cups of the pecans evenly over greased 10x15 inch pan. Set aside.

Cream butter in large mixing bowl. Gradually add sugar, beating well. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each, and then add vanilla.

Gradually add flour, stirring well. Spoon batter over nuts in pan.

Combine cherries, pineapple, citron and remaining pecans in large mixing bowl. Mix well.

Gently press mixture onto batter in pan.

Bake at 350 degrees for 1 hour and 15 minutes or until light brown. Cool slightly and then cut into bars. Remove to racks to cool completely. Sprinkle rum over each bar before storing in airtight container.

These chewy orange bars are made with orange slice candies. They look even more festive coated with powdered sugar.

Orange Slice Squares

1/2 cup butter or margarine, melted
2 cups packed brown sugar
4 beaten eggs
2 cups flour
1 pound candied orange slices, chopped fine
1 cup chopped pecans
1 cup sifted powdered sugar

Combine butter and brown sugar in large mixing bowl. Stir in eggs, mixing well, and then add flour, orange slices and pecans. Blend.

Spread batter in well-greased 15x10 inch pan and bake at 350 degrees for 25 minutes. Cool in pan for 15 minutes and then cut into squares. (Squares may be cut in half, diagonally, if desired.)

Cool completely in pan and then remove from pan and sprinkle top in powdered sugar or roll in powdered sugar.

These little delicacies taste delicious and look that way, too.

Cream Cheese Horns

1/2 cup butter, softened
3 ounce package cream cheese, softened
1 1/2 cups sifted cake flour
2 tablespoons sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon whipping cream
1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract
Pineapple or raspberry jelly
1/2 cup finely chopped pecans
2 egg whites, lightly beaten
Finely chopped pistachio nuts

Cream butter and cream cheese, beating well.

Combine flour, sugar and salt in bowl. Add to creamed mixture, stirring well. Stir in whipping cream and vanilla, mixing well. Cover and refrigerate overnight.

Roll dough to 1/8 inch thickness on lightly floured surface. Cut with 2-inch round cutter.

Place 1/4 teaspoon jelly in center of each cookie. Sprinkle with pecans.

Fold opposite edges over filling and pinch together, forming a cornucopia. Brush open end of cornucopia with egg whites and sprinkle with pistachio nuts.

Place cookies 2 inches apart on lightly greased cookie sheets.

Bake at 325 degrees for 15 minutes. Cool on racks.

Awards plan intended to reward good grades

Brian Walter

Jared Guldesberry

Students in Thief River Falls and Plummer will soon acquire more incentive to excel in school.

Two students, Brian Walter, a senior at Pershing high school in Plummer, and Jared Goldesberry, a senior at Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls are spearheading a plan to award academics with discounts at area businesses.

At a Minnesota Governors Scholar conference Walter and Goldesberry learned about a program in Fridley which awards students in relation to their academic achievements.

The Pershing and Lincoln high school programs are based closely on the Fridley program. The awards range from free use of bowling lanes to discounted tanning booth sessions.

Pershing Principal and Superintendent Richard Lorenson said the program has had a positive response in Plummer. "All students can be involved (in the program) if they choose to be," Lorenson said.

Lincoln Principal Terry Soine said the academic boosters group has given the program a strong endorsement. The Lincoln administration and the TRF school board also endorse the program.

The awards expire at the end of the quarter. Walter and Goldesberry said businesses were very receptive and Goldesberry received only one rejection from the businesses he approached. Some businesses said they will participate in the program next quarter.

Goldesberry said a selling point for the businesses was that the discounts would keep money in the community.

Goldesberry said he was unaware of the work involved in implementing the program with the school district, but that he hasn't been stopped. "People have added (to the program)," Goldesberry said.

Walter said he could forgo much of the red tape because of Pershing's small size. "It was easier to get the word out, and I could talk to the students on the A and B honor roll," Walter said.

Students are required to apply for the award after they receive their report card. Fall quarter was the program's first quarter. 160 students participated at Lincoln and 30 students participated at Pershing.

Students can achieve three academic levels. Each academic level carries a different award. The first level, the Gold Award, is for the "down-right perfect kid," Goldesberry said.

Gold Award Students must be on the "A" honor roll, acquire no unexcused absences. Award students can have no unexcused absences. "Kids will say 'I want to get to class on time,'" Goldesberry said.

Gold Award Students must participate in a school sponsored extracurricular activity or volunteer service and have no administrative detention or suspensions during the quarter.

Blue Award students must achieve the "B" honor roll, participate in school sponsored extracurricular activities or a volunteer service.

White Award students must improve the their quarter GPA .6 over their cumulative GPA. "Quite a jump," Goldesberry said. Goldesberry and Walter hope to lower the requirement to .3 so more students are involved.

Goldesberry said the program is an incentive program rather than an award program. Walter said the program currently works as an award, but when more people learn about it, the program will become an incentive to excel in school.

Walter and Goldesberry expressed hope that more students would apply for the program next quarter after they find out what it was about.

So far Goldesberry and Walter have worked 86 hours on the project. Both students plan to pass leadership roles of the program to other school groups after they graduate. "It's a great idea, but it has to have a future," Soine said.

Currently, both students are working on the project alone. "It feels good to start something and see people like it," Goldesberry said.

Troskey and Thompson in honors program

Paul Troskey of Middle River, a junior business administration major, and Nicole Thompson of Red Lake Falls, a freshman undecided on a major field of study, are participants in Bemidji State University's honors program.

Entering high school seniors with superior academic records or college students who have accumulated a grade point average of 3.25 or above are invited to apply for the program. Students are then appointed on a competitive basis by the honors council, the faculty advisers to the honors program.

Honors scholars have greater freedom in planning a program of study and are required to fulfill certain class requirements and complete a rigorous honor thesis or project in collaboration with a faculty member and under supervision of the honors council.

Second grade Brownie Scout troops from Northrop, Mark Twain, Washington and St. Barnard's elementary schools entertained residents of the convalescent and nursing care unit of Northwest Medical Center last Tuesday afternoon. The youngsters sang Christmas carols and presented favors they had made for the residents.

Home moisture problems can damage house

Return of colder weather often creates moisture problems that can cause serious damage to our homes, says the Minnesota Department of Public Service (DPS), but there are measures homeowners can take to solve the problem before permanent damage occurs.

"Condensation occurs wherever humidity is high and surface temperature is low," said DPS Commissioner Kris Sanda. "The most common sense response is to either reduce humidity or warm the surface." For instance, in the case of condensation on windows, recommended treatments include tightening the prime window on the inside with caulk or weatherstripping, or applying shrink plastic over the inside of the window.

In kitchen and bath areas, a good ventilation fan will pull moisture out quickly. However, make sure that fans exhaust directly outdoors, not into soffit or attic areas where insulation or building materials might be damaged by the moisture. Sanda also stressed the importance of venting clothes dryers to the outside. "Dryer exhaust not only adds excessive, unwanted moisture to indoor air, it also contains numerous pollutants that can be harmful to your family's health," she said.

Another problem area is along outside walls or ceiling corners where there is air leakage or gaps in the insulation. Condensation in these areas will lead to mold growth, which appears as dark streaks on the wall. Remedies include improving insulation and stopping air leakage.

Basements are often another source of moisture problems. As a test, apply a one-square-foot sheet of polyethylene film to the basement floor, taping all seams to form an airtight seal. Tape an additional sheet of film over a section of the basement wall, again sealing all seams. After a few days, look for signs of condensation on the underside of the film or for any color change in the slab or block wall that would indicate a change in moisture content.

If there are signs of basement moisture problems, the most effective remedies focus on keeping water away from the foundation. Strategies include repairing gutters and downspouts, or making landscaping adjustments or drain tile improvements.

Finally, excessive, unexplained moisture can indicate a venting or heat exchanger problem within your furnace, water heater or fireplace, which can have serious health repercussions. If you suspect combustion problems, call a professional heating contractor immediately.

For more information or a free brochure on treating home moisture problems, call the Department of Public Service Energy Information Center toll-free 1-800-652-9747 and ask for "energy."

Johnston Farms has top DHIA cow

Johnston Farms had the top producing cow in dollar value of product during October in the Red Lake County Dairy Herd Improvement association, according to information provided by the Red Lake county extension office.

Forty-six cows in the association completed 305-day or less lactations during October with production of at least 22,000 pounds of milk, 750 pounds of butterfat or 700 pounds of protein.

Johnston Farms top animal produced 25,441 pounds of milk, 1,026 pounds of butterfat and 812 pounds of protein. The same farm also had the second place animal which produced 26,772 pounds of milk, 900 pounds of butterfat and 857 pounds of protein.

Third place cow came from the John and Warren Mulwitz herd and produced 26,352 pounds of milk, 874 pounds of butterfat and 853 pounds of protein. Other cows in the top 10 came from the following herds with milk, butterfat and protein tests listed respectively:

Conrad Zak and Sons, 28,869, 840 and 779; Wawrzyniak Dairy, 24,078, 970 and 740 and 26,854, 895 and 703; Johnston Farms, 21,014, 977 and 802; Wayne Nelson, 24,431, 887 and 777; Wawrzyniak Dairy, 26,348, 632 and 926; and Don and Karen Konickson, 23,627, 906 and 780.

Other dairymen who had cows which qualified as meeting the minimum requirements for listing included the following:

Gerald Visser, 2; Donald Taus; Wayne Nelson, 3; Conrad Zak and Sons, 2; Northwest Agricultural Experiment Station, 3; Roger Odegaard; Don and Karen Konickson, 3; Leiser Brothers, 3; John and Warren Malwitz, 2; Wawrzyniak Dairy; Kevin and Beth Roppe, 2; Randy and Jo Gast, 2; Greg Kilen, 5; Johnston Farms, 3; Gary and Grant Gullekson, 2; and Tom and Diane Kolstoe.

students pay $[illegible] per credit at the technical college and $37.50 per credit at NCC, the school district pays $77.54 per credit. Books are included in the tuition fee paid by the district and become the property of the district. The tuition fee is not lowered, however, if subsequent students use those books.

Olson said the school districts are permitted to negotiate rates with the colleges and are in the process of doing so with the technical college at the present time, retroactive to the start of the school year.

"The intent of the law," Olson added, "was and is to offer enrichment programs through courses not available on the high school level and to provide more challenging programs in interest or skills areas."

Transportation costs will be reimbursed for qualifying low-income families whose children are participating in Open Enrollment and Post-Secondary Enrollment Options.

The Area Learning Center in Thief River Falls with satellite centers at Roseau and Warroad is an outgrowth of an alternative education program which began here several years ago. Area Learning Centers provide year-around, nontraditional education toward a high school diploma for students 12 years of age through adult on a full time or part time basis. Together with an instructor, students develop learning plans which best fit their course needs and learning style.

Public and Private Alternative Programs personalize the education of learners at risk of not completing high school. Classes are taught using nontraditional methods and allow for flexible scheduling. These programs operate during the school day and year.

Education Programs for Minor Parents and Pregnant Minors are designed to ensure teens who are parents or pregnant complete their high school education. When requested, educational programs which fit the needs of the individual must be made available by the school district along with any necessary supportive services.

"There is no single school or educational approach that is best suited to all learners," states Gene Mammenga, Minnesota Commissioner of Education. "Every family can benefit from exploring the education options available to them.

"As we enter the 1990s, the schools are being challenged to provide real choices for learners," he continued. "As parents and learners become more active in selecting schools that will best meet their criteria for a good education, the state's education programs and services will improve. Even choosing the

Snowmobiling major sport in Fourtown area

The Fourtown area hosts a variety of outdoorsman sports, among them snowmobiling.

The Fourtown Grygla Sportsman's Club is the chief instigator of snowmobiling activities in the Grygla Fourtown area. The club, 350 members strong, sponsors the creation of new snowmobile trails.

The sportsman's club started in 1972 under the leadership of Douglas Thomas and Wallace Holthusen. At that time the club had 11 members.

Jack Nelson is currently club president and Hilary Stoltman is vice president. Stoltman said what really got the club moving was the grant-in-aid programs and club-sponsored gambling.

The state sponsored grant-in-aid programs pay for 65 per cent of new snowmobile trails creation. The club pays 50 per cent of this money to the workers and uses the extra 15 per cent for expenses.

The grant-in-aid programs also sponsor 90 per cent of the grooming (upkeep) of the trails. The groomers level and pack the snow to help eliminate ruts.

The Fourtown Grygla Sportsman's club sponsors pull tabs at the Fourtown Store. Using the funds, Stoltman said the club has donated well over $100,000 to charity.

Around 80 per cent of this money is donated to Grygla and Thief River Falls school scholarships, Stoltman said. The remaining money is donated to charities such as meals on wheels, food shelves and firearms safety training.

Because of the diverse club participation, the charities are distributed between Grygla and Thief River Falls.

The club dues are $25 per family. Through these dues and other fundraisers, the club maintains three shelters and a lean-to along the trails. The club also stocks a four-acre gravel pit in the Fourtown area with trout and pan fish.

The club also sponsors the creation of four-wheeler trails. Because of increased erosion possible from tracks off all-terrain vehicles, state restrictions are tougher on ATV trails than on snowmobile trails.

Stoltman said there are tough rules on ATV trails crossing wetlands and hills.

Most of the trails cross public lands. In order for the trails to cross private land the owner must sign an easement. Once an owner signs, he or she is not liable for injuries on the trail. The club must maintain insurance.

New trails are in the works, and the club is issuing a new map to outline the trails.

Stoltman said area snowmobiling popularity is increasing, especially with people coming from eastern Minnesota and Canada.

Snowmobile trails in Canada are also improving. "They were a little behind us, but they've come a long way. They're catching up fast," Stoltman said.

Another activity increasing in popularity, Stoltman said, is cruising. Snowmobilers who cruise plan a long trip with prearranged destinations as opposed to continuously riding the same trails.

The club sponsors rides, where snowmobilers usually stay over night at one point. In February the club is sponsoring a trip for fifty snowmobilers to Orr.

The club also holds picnics in the summer and issues newsletters every one or two months.

Changes made in filing for unemployment

Thefts, burglaries in reports to local LEC

A former North Dakota man [illegible] faces a charge [illegible] following [illegible] the theft of lottery tickets from the Eagles.

On December 7 at 8:21 a.m. police received a report that someone had taken about $2[illegible] in lottery tickets from the Eagles club. Upon investigation, James Donald Einarson, formerly of Edmore, ND, now Thief River Falls, was arrested and faces charges of theft under $250. Einarson, 23, was a local delivery man. Lottery tickets were found in his possession, according to a law enforcement spokesperson.

Burglary. On December 4 at 8:03 a.m. an employee of Holtan Iron reported to the sheriff's department that a southeast door of a building was pushed open. Police discovered that someone had broken into Vidcom and had taken equipment valued at $182.55, $30 in cash. They also broke into Town and County and took miscellaneous items valued at $36.95.

On December 4 at 2:51 p.m. a burglary at The Queen, formerly Nintendo Queen, on Highway 59 south was reported. Entry was possibly gained through a window. Four decks and 21 Super Nintendo games were missing. The total loss has not been estimated.

On December 7 at 4:03 p.m. a local resident reported that items had been stolen from his home sometime on November 29 or 30. During that time someone took items from a cupboard. Now missing are 14 Nintendo games, a head jammer for a guitar and a head set, numerous electrical cords including an electric blanket cord with control, and one microphone input mixer. The total loss was estimated at $685. It is under investigation.

Accidents. On December 3 at 3:33 p.m. police received a report of a snowmobile and car accident. According to the report, a snowmobile driven by John Strub, Roseville, was going south on North Oak and crossing Highway 1 east at the time a car driven by Melissa Lampe, route 4, was going west on Highway 1. The vehicles collided. Damages were estimated at $200 to the snowmobile and $250 to the vehicle driven by Lampe. Strub was cited for failure to yield to a vehicle on a highway.

On December 3 at 8:05 p.m. police received a report of an accident near Main and Sixth street. According to the report, a Blazer driven by Bruce Seaverson, route 1, Middle River, was going north on Main and was just south of Sixth street and attempting to turn into a gas station without using a signal. A car driven by Shane Zutz, St. Hilaire, was also going north and attempted to pass the vehicle driven by Seaverson on the right. The vehicles collided. Damages were estimated at $400 to the Seaverson vehicle and $500 to the vehicle driven by Zutz.

On December 2 at 5:23 p.m. police received a report of an accident at Greenwood and Highway 32. According to the report, a pickup driven by Raymond Kuznia, Thief River Falls, was eastbound on Greenwood and crossing Highway 32, and a pickup driven by Daniel Audette, route 3, Thief River Falls, was going south on Highway 32, when the vehicles collided. Damages were estimated at $600 to the Kuznia vehicle and $2,000 to the Audette vehicle.

On December 1 at 1:04 p.m. police received a report of an accident on Dewey avenue. According to the report, a pickup driven by Jeffrey Halvorson, route 8, Thief River Falls, which was going south on Dewey, collided with the rear of a [illegible] driven by [illegible], route 2, Thief River Falls [illegible] driven by [illegible] was stopped at a stop sign. Damages were estimated at $[illegible] to the [illegible] vehicle and $[illegible] to the [illegible] vehicle.

On December 5 at 3:15 p.m. police received a report of an accident at Third and Kendall. According to the accident report, a car driven by Samantha [illegible], Thief River Falls, was going east on Third street when a pickup driven by David Klapp, route 1, Thief River Falls, going south on Kendall pulled out into the intersection after stopping at a stop sign. Damages were estimated at over $1,500 to each vehicle. Klapp was cited for failure to yield the right of way.

On December 5 at 1:05 p.m. police received a report of an accident at Highway 59 and Greenwood. According to the accident report, a car driven by Richard Bjerken, Thief River Falls, was traveling south on Highway 59 when a car pulled out from Greenwood. A car driven by Doris Stromberg, Thief River Falls, pulled out into the intersection after stopping at a stop sign. Damages were estimated at $650 to the Bjerken vehicle and $175 to the Stromberg vehicle. Stromberg was cited for failure to yield the right of way.

On December 5 at 1:03 a.m. a police officer noted damage to a garage on South Markley. The damage is believed to have been done by a pickup and was estimated at $300. It is under investigation. The garage belonged to Doug Harbott.

On December 7 at 11:52 a.m. police received a report of a three car accident in the 300 block of North LaBree. According to the report, a car driven by Kim Janelle Carlson, Karlstad, was backing north in the 300 block of North LaBree into a parking space when she backed into a pickup owned by Kermit Knutson, route 2, Mentor. The Knutson vehicle slid into a pickup owned by Michael Fanfulik, St. Hilaire. Damages were estimated at $900 to the Carlson vehicle, no damage to the Knutson vehicle, and $50 damage to the Fanfulik vehicle.

On December 7 at 6:58 p.m. police received a report of an accident at Kendall and Anne. According to the report, a car driven by Dora Watson, Thief River Falls, was going south on Kendall and a pickup driven by Jeffrey Lannoye Jr., route 6, Thief River Falls, was going east on Anne. The vehicles collided. Damages were estimated at $1,500 to Watson and $300 to Lannoye. Dora Watson was cited for failure to yield the right of way.

Assault. On December 2 at 11:04 p.m. police received a report of an assault at a local bar. Upon investigation police found a man with a swollen right eye and cut lip. The cut required stitches at the hospital. Police believe a fight started at a club and continued to another bar. The suspect had been asked to leave and as he was leaving he ran into the man he had argued with at a club. The suspect allegedly struck the man three times, knocking him to the ground. James Goulden Disse, 32, Thief River Falls, was cited for fifth degree assault.

NW Initiative Fund receives loan and grant

Northwest Minnesota Initiative Fund, with headquarters in Bemidji, has been selected to receive a $200,000 loan and $40,000 grant from the Small Business Administration under the SBA's new Microloan Demonstration Project program.

The program allows non-profit intermediaries to make loans of $25,000 or less to start-up or expanding businesses operated by women, low-income or minority entrepreneurs that normally would have great difficulty borrowing money. It aims to help people at the economic margin become self-sufficient and to contribute to the community through their own enterprise.

The $40,000 grant will fund marketing, management and technical assistance for small business borrowers. The loans are repayable by intermediaries at the government's five-year Treasury Bill rate.

In announcing the awards to the Initiative Fund and the Minneapolis Consortium of Nonprofit Developers, Sen. Paul Wellstone said they are the third and fourth organizations in the state to receive funds under the Microloan program.

City Council selects liquor store manager

Thief River Falls city council has named Steven James Olson as the manager of the municipal liquor store.

The city council met Monday night instead of at its regular meeting time on Tuesday because of conflicts on Tuesday. During that meeting the council approved a recommendation to name Olson as liquor store manager, approved recommendations regarding health insurance, approved liquor license renewals and approved a final budget.

When the liquor committee advertised for the position of liquor store manager it received 89 applications. During the past few weeks the liquor committee went through the applications, and decided that 15 should be interviewed. Two candidates declined to be interviewed.

Monday afternoon the liquor committee recommended that Steven James Olson of Marshall, MN, and formerly of Thief River Falls, should be the next manager of the liquor store. Olson is the son of Marv and Candy Olson of Thief River Falls. That recommendation, effective December 14, was approved by the council.

■ After lengthy discussions, the council approved two resolutions that affect health benefits for city employees.

Committees of the city council and the city council have spent hours studying health insurance benefits for city employees. Monday night, the council approved motions regarding the benefit plan.

The first motion approved by the council offers the following: that the city will contribute $325 of $450 per month toward insurance premiums for the family health plan. The cost of the current plan (Triple Gold) recently increased from $375 to $450 per month for family coverage.

The second motion offers employees three different plans to choose from:

A. Base plus, which is $488 per month for families;

B. Triple Gold, which is $450 per month for families;

C. A $300 deductible for Blue Cross and Blue Shield, which is $400 per month for families.

The $325 base applies to any of the three offers.

■ The city council has approved liquor license renewals for private businesses in the city and clubs.

Monday night the council approved liquor license renewals for the five private businesses in the community and the four clubs. The private businesses, which pay $2,800 for their license, include: The Best Western, Family Bowl, Eastern Restaurant and Lounge, Tom's Restaurant and Pub, and the Rusty Nail. The clubs, which pay $[illegible] for their license, include the American Legion, Eagles, Elks and VFW.

■ Thief River Falls has approved its final budget.

The per cent increase in the levy over prior years is 3.9 per cent, according to information provided by City Finance Officer Roger DeLap. The required Truth and Taxation publication and parcel specific notices sent to property owners will show an increase in the local tax levy allocation in 1993 over 1992 of 5.8 per cent. That increase will raise $1,612,310. The actual amount available for general fund purposes is $1,360,638.

Approximately 46.6 per cent of the amount levied to the county for collection in 1993 will be returned in the form of Equalization Aids, Disparity Reduction Aids, and Homestead Ag Credit Aids. The proposed 1993 tax levy works out to be an estimated $860,974 locally, and $751,336 to be reimbursed from the state.

For 1993, DeLap projects a local collection rate of 96 per cent. The estimated HACA, Transition Aids and Disparity Reduction Aids will be reimbursed by the State at 100 per cent.

■ The council will receive a report on the wastewater ponds at a meeting on December 15.

The wastewater pond study by Tom Noyes and Don Burgardt of Bonestroo, Rosene, Anderlik and Associates is complete. The Utilities committee recommended that the city council have an adjourned meeting on December 15 for a report by the engineers. The study contains alternatives for the city with regard to the operation of the ponds and the alternatives will affect large industrial users.

The council has approved a recommendation from the utilities committee to conduct a hydraulic study for the new school area.

In other business, the council: approved the purchase of a patrol vehicle in 1993 at a price of $12,725 plus the cost of a spot light; approved a recommendation to proceed with the American Disabilities Act transition plan proposed by Architect Michael Burns; approved the appointment of Mrs. Norma Spong to the library board; approved a dance permit by Ryan Walseth for December 23 at the armory; approved a request for the consumption of alcoholic beverages in Centennial, LaFave and Red Robe parks during the snowmobile races January 9 and 10; called for an adjourned meeting of the city council on December 15 at 3 p.m.

Say What?!

By Karmen Lee Ortloff

Life would be so much simpler if none of us had hair.

Think about that for a moment. No one would have to worry about that darn cowlick that is always jutting out of the side of your head. You wouldn't have to buy curling irons, shampoo, conditioner or pay for a hair cut every few months. We would save a fortune in hair spray, and I'm not only referring to women either! My brother (who is a boy) uses more hair spray than I, my mother, and the entire free world combined. That said, I would just like to point out the fact that I will not have a column next week but I hope all of you can make it to my funeral, as I expect my brother will be killing me upon reading this.

Nonetheless, I feel compelled to explore what the world would be like without hair. (Isn't it a lovely thought?)

Imagine life at the office: "Say Bob, boy, does you noggin look great today!"

Imagine life at the beach: "Oooh, you better get into the shade. Your head is starting to peel."

Imagine life at your favorite restaurant: "Teresa, I simply LOVE what you've done with that scalp of yours!"

Imagine life at the maternity ward: "She has her mother's nose, but she definitely has your cranium. Do you notice the way she has two divits at the bottom and a vein running through the middle? She's your daughter all right. You must be so proud."

Yes, a whole new set of possibilities would arise if only we were all bald.

I do, of course, realize that there are certain pros and cons to every issue and this is no different. So let's pause and weigh each side of the issue.

On the pro side, we would save money (see above). On the con side, people in the hair industry (again, see above) would lose their jobs. That would not be good at all.

However, all of us would save time not having to mess with our tresses each morning...time we could use to better ourselves by reading the works of Geoffrey Chaucer, Dante Alighieri or Dave Barry...all favorites of mine. Then again, we would probably dye our scalps green or purple or something like that in order to compensate.

Guys would no longer need to wear caps to cover their messy hair and then refuse to take the cap off because they have one of those rings around their heads. But, on the other hand, baseball caps do make a bold fashion statement. This truly is a complex matter.

Because we would all be bald, there would be no neo-nazi skin heads. Wow! Just think, I solved a major problem for the German government. Am I great or what? Who would have thought a simple act like hair loss would promote world peace?

Without a doubt, the positive aspects of shaving our heads far outweighs any negative consequences. Therefore, I say we should go out and shave our heads today to save money, to allow time to better ourselves, to make a bold fashion statement, and most importantly, to promote world peace. In fact, why don't you go first and I'll just wait until you're finished.

Viking . . . .

Friday morning Leonard Larson was a coffee guest at the Lloyd and Elaine Ranum home.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Grandstrand, Chelsey, Erin and Allis of Fridley came Wednesday and spent until Saturday at the Alvin and Bernyce Grandstrand home, also joining them for dinner on Thanksgiving day was Clifford Sustad.

Guests for Thanksgiving Day dinner at the Danny and Kathy Olson home were Gordon and Adelle Skjerven. Coming later and for the evening were Tricia and Darin Lee of Grand Forks, Corey and Julie Skjerven, Courtney, Casey, Justin and Melissa of Thief River Falls, Arnold and Mary Weleski, Tony, Beth, Megan and Kelsey.

Prowlers shut out Lumberjacks

Jason Svir and Jeff Twomey scored two goals apiece and goalie Eric Dowers posted a shut out in his varsity debut Saturday afternoon as Thief River Falls beat Bemidji 5-0 in a Section 8 high school hockey match-up at the John Glas Fieldhouse on the campus of Bemidji State University.

It was the second outing of the year for both teams, and the results gave them each a 1-1 first-week finish. In Thursday night openers, Thief River Falls lost a 4-2 game to Grand Forks Central, while Bemidji knocked off International Falls 5-1 behind a 49-save effort by goaltender Toby Kvalevog.

The Lumberjacks' senior netminder had another busy game Saturday with a 41-save effort. But the Prowlers scored in the first and final minute of the opening period en route to a 3-0 lead that was never challenged.

Dowers faced just 16 shots in watching his teammates dominate play.

"It was a nice win," said Thief River Falls coach Glenn Chiodo. "We weren't real sharp, but we got the job done. We got a lot of people involved."

Thief River Falls put early pressure on the Bemidji defense and Svir, after stickhandling his way in front of the net, gave the Prowlers a 1-0 lead just 49 seconds into the matinee contest.

It stayed that way until Svir scored again at 13:27 on a scramble in front of Kvalevog. Then 60 seconds later Twomey knocked in a centering pass Ryan Kraemer for a 3-0 cushion.

"Any time you get get up early against a quality goaltender like that, it's a real bonus," noted Chiodo. "He's an outstanding goalie, but we kept the pressure on them the whole game. The goals we scored on him were all scrambles, or shots from right in front."

Marc Seaverson bounced one off the inside of the goalie's pads at 3:58 of the second period and Twomey picked up his second goal on a point blank tip at 8:42 to complete the scoring.

High school basketball Thursday...

TRF boys open against Pirates

Thief River Falls boys high school basketball team will open its 1992-93 season Thursday at Crookston. The Prowlers' home opener will be a Tuesday, Dec. 15, match-up with Kittson Central.

Scott Brekke, who watched his team struggle through a 2-21 season a year ago, looks for an improved product this winter, but the second-year Thief River Falls head coach knows that the turnaround won't happen overnight.

"It's going to take time," said Brekke, "but things have been going real well. We've got some kids who are working hard and put some time in during the off-season to improve themselves. I think our defense will be improved, and offensively we're going to try to get up and down the court a little more than we did last year."

First-game starters will be 5-11 Wade Evenson and 6-0 Tony Greene at the guards, 6-0 Josh Balmer and 6-3 John Gunstad at the forwards and 6-8 Kyle Sanden at center. Sanden is a freshmen; the others are all seniors.

Brekke expects to use his bench extensively, calling on 6-1 seniors Corey Thorson and Shane Zutz, 6-7 senior Jason Lambert, plus 5-11 juniors Lee Lund and Preston Treat.

"I think we'll have more of an inside scoring threat this year," noted Brekke. "That should open up things on the outside for us, too, and we've got some kids who can hit from out there."

Gators lose to Rams

Roseau used its speed to run past Badger/Greenbush-Middle River 71-59 Monday in a girls high school basketball game played at Roseau.

The Rams jumped out to a 23-10 first quarter lead and were never headed. They maintained a 39-26 halftime spread and had a 54-44 third quarter advantage.

"They beat us up and down the court," pointed out Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Tom Neibauer. "They run faster then we do."

Turnovers also hurt the Gators, who watched the Rams convert those mistakes into numerous fast break baskets.

A strong 1-2 Roseau scoring punch featured Teresa Gotziaman with 28 points and Megan Taylor with 23. Krissi Super had a 28-point, 16-rebound effort for the

Concordia women top NCC 79-60

Concordia College junior varsity out-scored Northland Community College 44-28 in the second half Friday en route to a 79-60 women's basketball win in Thief River Falls.

The Cobbers led just 35-32 at halftime, but pulled away down the stretch to spoil the 1992-93 home opener for the Pioneers, who dropped a season-opening 83-50 game to North Dakota State College of Science three days earlier in Wahpeton.

"I saw a lot of improvement from our first game," said Northland coach Rick Nikunen. "I was generally pleased with our performance. We made a lot of mistakes that hurt us in the second half – mistakes that a young team will make. Hopefully those things will take care of themselves as we go along in the season."

Four Concordia scorers hit double figures, led by Ginger Walsh with 22 points and Laurie Baldwin with 21. The Pioneers were led by a 26-point, 9-rebound game by Jill Brantl.

Northland was 28-for-68 from the field (41 percent) and 4-for-8 at the free throw line. Concordia went 32-for-64 from the field (50 per cent) and 9-for-17 at the line. The Pioneers out-rebounded the Cobbers 38-29, but also topped the turnover charts, 26-25.

Varsity award winners at the Thief River Falls girls high school swimming banquet included, left to right, Senna Torgerson, most spirited, Theresa Giauque, hardest worker; Jannifer Olin, most improved; and Amy Adams, most valuable and Coaches Award.

Adams named top swimmer

Amy Adams was named most valuable member of the Thief River Falls girls high school swim team as the Prowlers put the finishing touches to their 1992 fall season with a Thursday night awards banquet.

Adams also received the Coaches Award, while Theresa Giauque was named hardest worker, Jennifer Olin was selected most improved, and Sanna Torgerson was recognized for most sprit.

Lisa Ulrich and Jane Bentson were picked to succeed Torgerson and Adams as co-captains of the 1993 Prowlers.

Junior varsity awards went to Nicole Kopari, most valuable; Alicia Bakken, most improved; and Laura Follett, Coaches Award.

Athletic letters went to seniors Ingrid Morken, Adams and Torgerson; Bentson and Ulrich from the junior class, sophomores Sarah Harger, Mandy Johnson, Mandy Sjaaheim, Maja Turenne, and Giauque; freshmen Robin Oollesen, Becky Mattson, Kelly Newton, Myndy Olson, Cami Sorenson, and Olin; eighth graders Becky Harger and Melanie Johnson; seventh grader Sunny Carlson, and student manager Ann Alger.

Participation certificates were presented to freshmen Jenny Flynn, Lauren Lavalier, and Tara Nesland; eighth graders Gretchen Bataldén, Elizabeth Blazek, Kristin Chrzanowski, Kelsy Stalboerger, and Bakken; seventh graders Amanda Clark, Rachel Dahlen, Wendy Lindquist, Beth Mattson, and Tanya Nesland; sixth graders Marisa Holmstrom, Krista Phillips, Katrina Phillips, Katrina Holtan, Jessica Russell, Kopari, and Follett; fifth grader Beth Knapp, and student manager Guy Drevlow.

"We had an excellent year," said Thief River Falls head coach Ryan Lokken, pointing to nine records established this fall – four school marks, four pool standards and a Section 8 best. "It might have been the most powerful team Thief River Falls has every had," he added. "We had a tremendous team and we had some tremendous times."

Graduation will take only the three seniors, but all three have played key roles for the Prowlers for a number of years. "We lose three incredibly valuable seniors," noted Lokken. "We've built our teams around those three kids for a number of years. It's really going to be hard to replace them."

TRF girls lose to Rams 53-46

Roseau combined a 23-point game by Teresa Gotziaman with 25 Thief River Falls turnovers Saturday as the Rams beat the host Prowlers 53-46 in girls high school basketball.

"We have to do a better job protecting the basketball," said Thief River Falls coach Sally Wiltse. "We had too many turnovers – too many un-forced errors."

Roseau led at the quarter stops 13-8, 27-19 and 43-36.

Thief River Falls pulled within 45-44 with 4 1/2 minutes left, but couldn't handle a Roseau delay game down the stretch that not only took time off the clock, but also led to a game-ending 8-2 scoring edge for the Rams.

Julie Kindzerski also hit double figures for the winners with 14 points. Toni Chiodo scored 16 points and Amy Adams had 15 for the Prowlers.

Thief River Falls was 21-for-57 from the field (37 percent) and 4-for-8 at the free throw line. Roseau went 22-for-52 from the field (42 percent) and 7-for-13 at the line. The Prowlers finished with a 26-21 rebound edge, but those 25 turnovers were nine more than the Rams had.

The 1-1 Prowlers play Dilworth-Glyndon-Felton Saturday in Glyndon.

Thief River Falls coaching staff announced that the first Prowler Player of the Week honors for the 1992-93 season went to Adams, varsity; Carrie Lawrence, junior varsity; and Sarah Hoefer, freshmen.

Veterans lead swimmers

Thirteen returning lettermen, including a half-dozen seniors, head the 1992-93 Thief River Falls boys high school swim team, scheduled to open its winter season Thursday with a 6 p.m. dual meet at Detroit Lakes.

"We're very positive about the season," said Thief River Falls coach Ryan Lokken, who did not have a senior on his 1991-92 squad. "We have an outstanding group of seniors who are really fired up about the season. These guys really want to succeed."

The seniors on hand include Matt Carlson, Adam Jacobson, Daryl Kiesow, Brad Kragness, Tony McEnelly, and Tony Sculthorp.

Other lettermen reporting for the start of practice were juniors Ryan Browning, Brad Cota, and Guy Drevlow; sophomores Simon Krystosek and Steve Lyman; plus freshmen Chris Hagman and Justin Stevenson.

Others on the team include freshman Chris Efta; eighth graders Jason Curfman, Jarahmia Efta, Josh Engevik, Charley Follett, Matt Gustafson, Alex Morken, Chris Pribula, Aaron Sjaaheim, Mickey McEnelly, and Eric Hagen; seventh graders Josh Curfman, Nate Keller, William Kramer, and Nick Tveitbukk; along with sixth graders Eddie Swuntek, Colin Browning, and Kevin Shetler.

"We've got quality, but we don't have the numbers that a lot of the teams we face have," pointed out Lokken. "We'll do well individually in the larger meets, but we may not do as well in duals where our depth will hurt us."

Schedule

Mustangs tip Nordics 66-64

Red Lake County Central turned free throws opportunities into points Friday in knocking off host Marshall County Central 66-64 in season-opening boys high school basketball action.

The Mustangs went to the line 40 times, and hit 28 of them. The Nordics were 7-for-11 in the free throw department.

"We didn't play well on defense at all," said Marshall County Central coach Ron Uelund. "We were out of position, which meant we were reaching and grabbing, and that's where we got into foul trouble. You can't give a team 40 free throws and expect to win. It was a real disappointment. We're a long ways from being a good basketball team if we're going to be playing like that."

Red Lake County Central had quarter leads of 14-13, 29-27 and 44-43. The Mustangs, who led by as many as 10 points in the third quarter, fell behind briefly midway through the final period before rebuilding seven-point edge that shrank again at the end.

Ryan Melby of Red Lake County Central led all scorers with 23 points.

Marshall County Central was 26-for-54 from the field (48 percent), while Red Lake County Central went 17-for-45 (38 percent). The Nordics had a 34-24 rebound advantage, but they also had 21 turnovers. The Mustangs lost the ball 20 times.

Boosters will meet

Lincoln High School head hockey coach Glenn Chiodo will be the guest speaker Thursday during the 12 noon Thief River Falls Sports Boosters Club luncheon meeting in the basement of Lon's Restaurant & Pub.

The club began the 1992-93 season with Monday night dinner meetings, but made the switch to Thursday noon in hopes of attracting a bigger audience. The public is invited.

Hockey JV wins 7-4

Thief River Falls grabbed a 2-0 lead, fell behind 4-2, but came back to beat Bemidji 7-4 Saturday in junior varsity high school hockey.

Ben Engelstad scored three times for the winners, including an empty-net goal in the final seconds. Tim Barry scored twice, while Jared Lee and Jason Breiland had single goals.

Thief River Falls goalie Jeff Lundgren had 14 saves; the Bemidji goalies stopped 32 shots.

Regular monthly meeting of the Thief River Falls Blue Line Club hockey boosters will be held tonight (Wednesday) at 7 p.m. in the basement meeting room of the Eagles Club.

The group will also sponsor a Hockey Social Friday in the basement of the Eagles Club following the Prowlers' 7:30 p.m. high school hockey game against St. Paul Johnson.

All Thief River Falls hockey fans are invited.

Girls win JV game

Lisa Rendulich scored 16 points and Carrie Lawrence had 10 as the Thief River Falls girls junior varsity high school basketball team beat Roseau 40-17 Saturday.

The winners had quarter leads of 10-5, 22-7 and 27-11.

Mustangs host RLCC Invitational this week

Four-team Red Lake County Central Invitational girls high school basketball tournament will be played Friday and Saturday in Plummer.

First round semifinals Friday will find Valley North playing Goodridge/Grygla at 7 p.m., followed by Red Lake County Central vs. Kittson County North.

Finals Saturday start with the third place game at 7 p.m., followed by the championship game.

Red Lake County Central went to 2-1 Monday with a 59-30 win over Clearbrook/Gonvick at Oklee.

The Mustangs led only 26-14 at halftime, but they out-scored the Bears 16-2 in the third quarter to take command.

"They played a real nice third quarter," noted Red Lake County Central coach Rick Koivisto.

A balanced Red Lake County Central attack was headed by a 14-point, 8-rebound game by Dawn Bachand. Clearbrook/Gonvick did not have a double-figure scorer.

The winners were 25-for-54 from the field (46 percent), but had just an 8-for-25 night at the free throw line. Clearbrook/Gonvick went 12-for-34 from the field (35 percent) and 6-for-15 at the line. Red Lake County Central had a sizeable 37-16 rebound advantage, and Clearbrook/Gonvick topped the turnover charts 26-18.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River...

Gators win debut

First-year Badger/Greenbush-Middle River boys high school basketball combination made a successful debut Friday with a 95-53 win over Lake of the Woods at Badger.

The Bears stayed with the Gators at the start, playing to a 21-21 first quarter tie. But Badger/Greenbush-Middle River had a 45-36 halftime lead and out-scored the visitors 50-17 in the second half.

"Offensively we were playing well on offense at the start, but we weren't doing a very good job on defense," pointed out Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Eldon Sparby.

Ten Gators put their names in the scoring column, including double figure production from Ryan Rislov with 21 points, Matt Kuznia 17, David Nelson 10, and Billy Holum 10. Rick Ness had a game-high 24 points and Brody Willis finished with 14 for the Bears, with that tandem doing most of their damage in the first half.

"We had some balanced scoring. That was nice to see," noted Sparby. "The kids were generous with their passing. They did a nice job giving up the ball. The potential is there to play some good basketball."

Grandstrand heads Blue Devils' figures

Jason Grandstrand scored 13 touchdowns and rushed for 1,024 yards to lead the offensive figures for Goodridge/Grygla during the 1992 high school football season.

Eldon Quam edged Aaron Ostby 71-70 for the team lead in tackles to head the Blue Devils' defensive charts.

Goodridge/Grygla went 4-4 this year. The defending Section 8 Nine-Man champion Blue Devils started 2-0 with win over Valley North 36-6 and Tri-County 6-0, but lost close games to Argyle 21-20 and East Grand Forks Sacred Heart 23-20 before beating Kittson County North 28-14.

Eventual state champion Stephen stopped Goodridge/ Grygla 37-24 in Week 6. The Blue Devils bounced back to beat Marshall County Central 42-20, but missed out on the four-team Section 8 playoffs when they lost a regular season-ending 30-22 decision to Kittson Central.

Wolverines win 38-37 game

[illegible] back to coach Mike Gast. "We [illegible] freshmen, sophomore [illegible] But we [illegible] it was important for [illegible] game, and it was [illegible] important to win a close game."

[illegible] The Wolverines [illegible] at the quarter stops 12-8, 22-[illegible] and 32-31. Two Brandi Stratton free throws provided the winners with a 38-35 lead with 40 seconds left. But a Lake of the Woods basket and a Goodridge/Grygla turnover in the final seconds kept the outcome in doubt until the buzzer.

Stratton led all scorers with 14 points. Erika Bailey led Lake of the Woods with 12 points.

Goodridge/Grygla was 16 for 54 from the field (33 percent) and 2-for-4 at the free throw line. Lake of the Woods went 15 for 50 from the field (30 percent) and 7 for 10 at the line. The Wolverines finished with a 43-30 rebound advantage thanks to a team effort on the boards that included eight rebounds apiece for Amber Wilkens, Kristy Johnson, Jamie Berndt and Stratton.

Berndt, a 5-3 freshman point guard, also had four steals and five assists in a solid, all around performance, pointed out Gast.

Goodridge/Grygla, 1-2, will take part in the Red Lake County Central Invitational Friday and Saturday at Plummer.

NCC women lose 105-39

Perennial-power UND-Lake Region crushed Northland Community College 105-39 Monday in a one-sided women's basketball game played in Devils Lake.

It was the third straight loss for the Pioneers and first-year Northland coach Rick Nikunen. "I didn't expect it to be that bad," he said. "It was a combination of them being a very, very good team, and us not showing up at all."

The Royals led 47-17 at halftime.

Four UND-Lake Region scorers hit double figures, led by Rhonda Leinius with 21 points. Susie Bengston led Northland with 10 points.

Northland was 16-for-51 from the field (31 percent) and 9-for-20 at the free throw line. UND-Lake Region went 42-for-65 from the field (65 percent) and 14-for-17 at the line. The Royals out-rebounded the Pioneers 42-22 and Northland topped the turnover charts 35-22.

Northland will compete in the Hibbing Invitational Friday and Saturday.

Bantam A

Thief River Falls' [illegible] Bantam A team will face Osseo Friday at 12 noon to open the 1992 Moorhead Invitational [illegible] tournament.

East Grand Forks, Cloquet, Moorhead, Roseville, Apple Valley, and Grand Forks South round out the eight-team field.

After going 0-7 in overtime games during the 1991-92 season, the Jeff Tunberg-coached Bantam A team has started the 1992-93 season with four overtime wins, including a 5-4 decision over Warroad Saturday and an 8-7 victory over East Grand Forks Sunday.

Adam Fulton got the game winner against Warroad. Aaron Ehrenstrom, Tanner Martell, Chad Hanson and Chad Nordhagen also scored for the winners. Thief River Falls goalie Chanc Keefe stopped 32 shots. Warroad wound up with 26 saves.

Nick Chiodo scored the game-winning goal against East Grand Forks. Ehrenstrom scored twice and had two assists, Chiodo had two goals, Steve Rambeck scored a goal and collected three assists, Keith Anderson finished with a goal and two assists, while Bryan Cleven and Martell both scored once, and Andy Furuseth had two assists. Shane Duffy and Keefe combined on 19 saves; the East Grand Forks goalie stopped 18 shots.

Thief River Falls started the week with an 11-1 Tuesday win at Red Lake Falls. Ehrenstrom, Anderson and Sam Adams had two goals apiece, while Rambeck, Martell, Hanson, Fulton, and Cleven all had one goal. Chiodo wound up with five assists. Duffy and Keefe faced just 13 shots; the Red Lake Falls goalie had 37 saves.

Bantam B Gold

A 6-1 Saturday loss to Moorhead was followed by a 3-1 Sunday victory over East Grand Forks for a Thief River Falls Bantam B Gold weekend split.

Warroad upsets MCC girls 40-38

Warroad scored on an offensive rebound with just six seconds left Monday to edge Marshall County Central 40-38 in a girls high school basketball game played at Warroad.

After trailing 22-17 at the half, Marshall County Central appeared to take command in grabbing a 32-26 third quarter lead, only to have the Warriors out-score the Nordics 14-6 over the final eight minutes.

Twenty-seven turnovers and an 8-for-20 night at the free throw line – including an 0-for-6 fourth quarter – cost the Nordics big time, pointed out Marshall County Central coach Tom Mjelde. "We made a lot of dumb passes – unforced errors," he said. "And we couldn't make a free throw."

Tied at 38-38, the Nordics lost the ball on a turnover with 1:30 remaining, and the Warriors then worked the clock for the final shot. The last shot, with eight seconds left, was well-defended, but Marshall County Central watched Warroad grab the rebound and score the game-winner.

"We played good defense at the end to take away the shot," pointed out Mjelde, "but then we gave up the weak-side rebound."

Lone double-figure scorer in the game was Sara Lokstad of Marshall County Central, who finished with 15 points.

The Nordics were 15-for-43 from the field (34 percent), while the Nordics lose on final shot

Warroad went 16-for-50 (32 percent). The Warriors had just as much trouble as the Nordics at the free throw line with a 5-for-15 showing. Marshall County Central had a 27-25 rebound edge, but Mjelde was unhappy that the Nordics gave the Warriors 10 offensive rebounds. The winners had 18 turnovers.

Marshall County Central, 1-1, will host Roseau Thursday.

Minnesota cross country skiers blazed a new trail a decade ago when they asked the Legislature to implement a ski pass system. Revenue from ski pass sales now generate about one third of the funds needed to maintain the public trail system, according to Paul Nordell of the Department of Natural Resources.

Ski passes are required for people ages 16 to 64 while using most of the 2,600 miles of public trails available to cross country skiers in Minnesota. Included in this total are all state facilities and most county and municipal trails. Ski passes are not transferable between skiers, but can be purchased as gifts for friends and relatives.

Although the price has not changed since the ski pass was implemented 10 years ago, the look of the ski pass has, according to Nordell, the DNR's ski pass marketing specialist. "Originally it was a tag fastened to the skier's jacket. Then it was designed to be attached to ski poles," Nordell said. "Now it is simply a card carried by skiers."

Cost is $5 for an individual season ski pass, $7.50 for a husband/wife combination pass, $14 for an individual three-year pass, and $21 for a husband/wife combination pass.

Although ski pass sales generate only about one-third of the funds needed for cross country trails, this money is an essential, continuous source of revenue that cannot be diverted.

Passes can be obtained at 300 locations statewide, including state parks, the DNR License Bureau in St. Paul, at all county auditors offices, at many sporting goods outlets, and at some regional parks.

Nation's population projected to grow by 50 per cent

Although the Commerce Department's Census Bureau typically measures current trends, the bureau also projects future trends from time to time.

In a current publication, the bureau projects in the middle series that during the next 60 years, the nation's population will increase 128 million from 255 million this year to 383 million in 2050, a 50 per cent increase. By the year 2000, the population is projected to grow by 20 million to 275 million, a 7.8 per cent increase. This assumes that fertility, mortality, and net immigration would remain near current levels. According to the report, only during the 1950s were more people added to the nation's population than are projected to be added during the 1990s.

According to the report's author, Jennifer Day, "People who follow our projections series will note that these projections are significantly higher than our last set of projections. That's because there projections reflect significant changes in the assumptions of fertility and immigration resulting in increases in population growth. In addition, these figures are consistent with the 1990 census (as enumerated, but with modified age and race distributions)."

The number of babies born is projected to decline slightly from 4 million in 1992 to less than 3.9 million in 2000. Births would then begin to increase steadily to a level of about 5 million in 2050.

The age group with the largest increase in the last decade of the 20th century will be 45 to 54-year-olds. This is no great mystery according to Day, who says, "About 30 per cent of the resident population in 1992 was born during the 1946-64 baby boom. The size of the population born during the first 10 years of the baby boom was much larger than the size of the population born in the preceding 10 years, so whichever age group the baby boom moves into has always shown a large increase. For instance, we saw this happen during the 1980s when the 35 to 44 year olds recorded the largest increase. Now 10 years later, we see it happen in the age group 10 years older. So the 45 to 54-year-old age group would grow from its current 25.7 million to 37.1 million people by the turn of the century."

However, middle agers won't be the only group to grow. Through the 1990s, the resident population under 18 years old will increase by 5 million, reaching 70.7 million. Most of this increase, 4 million, will be among children 5 to 13 years old. Teenagers, 14 to 17, will add 2 million to their number, reversing the decline this age group experienced during the 1980s.

Young adults, 18 to 21, the primary group entering the labor force, college, and the military, will increase to 15.7 million by 2000. This follows a decline from a peak of 17.4 million in 1980 to a low of 13.8 in 1994.

The 25 to 44 age group will scarcely change size by 2000. The 25 to 34-year-old group will decrease by 5.5 million and the 35 to 44-year-old group will increase by 5.4 million.

The number of persons aged 55 to 64 is projected to grow from 21 million in 1992 to 24 million in 2000. The population aged 65 and over is expected to rise from 32 million to 35 million.

This set of projections is the first to present data for four race groups (White, Black, American Indian, Eskimo, and Aleut, and Asian and Pacific Islander) integrated with data for the population of hispanic origin. A few of the projected

Fire safety tips for holidays

The year-end holiday season — Thanksgiving, Christmas, Hanukkah, Kwanza, New Year's — is a prime time for residential fires. Decorative lights, candles, parties where people drink and smoke, and especially the onset of the heating season all increase the likelihood of fire.

The National Fire Protection Association offers the following fire safety tips.

Watch children. Keep matches and lighters out of children's reach — up high and preferably in a locked cabinet. Teach young children to stay away from candles, fireplaces, and space heaters. Older children should be taught how to light candles or fireplace fires safely, and they should do so only under direct supervision.

Choose toys wisely. When buying presents for children, avoid those that could be highly flammable. Make sure all electric toys bear a fire safety label from an independent testing laboratory. Keep electric toys away from Christmas trees and paper decorations.

Give Space heaters space. Keep space heaters at least three feet (approximately 1 meter) away from furniture, bedding, clothing, walls and other things that can burn. Always use the proper fuel for liquid-fuel space heaters, vent them and refill them only in ventilated areas when they are cool. Make sure the type of heater you are using is legal in your area and has a label from a safety laboratory.

Party Safety. Use only flame-retardant or non-combustible materials for costumes and decorations. Provide smokers with large, deep, non-tip ashtrays and, keep an eye on anyone who is drinking and smoking. Empty ashtrays often — and wet their contents before dumping them. Check cushions and furniture for smoldering butts.

Holiday lights. Be sure all decorative lights, indoor and outdoor, bear the label of an independent testing laboratory. Replace any light sets that have cracked or frayed cords or have loose connections. Do not overload outlets or run extension cords under carpets, across doorways, on or under heaters, or pinched behind furniture. Unplug all decorative lights before leaving home or going to Stir Up Some Holiday Memories With The Old-Fashioned Flavor Of Real Butter.

CREAM CHEESE SPRITZ

1 cup (2 sticks) butter
1 package (3 ounces) cream cheese, softened
1 cup sugar
1 egg yolk
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
2 cups all purpose flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon baking powder

Preheat oven to 350°F. Cream butter and cream cheese in large mixer bowl. Gradually add sugar and beat until blended. Beat in egg yolk and vanilla. Combine flour, salt and baking powder. Gradually add to cream cheese mixture. Fill cookie press. Use attachments to form cookie designs on unbuttered cookie sheets. Bake 12 to 15 minutes. Cool completely on wire racks.

NOTE: Before baking, dough may be tinted, sprinkled with colored sugar or a cinnamon-sugar mixture, or decorate cookies with a tinted frosting after baking.

Yield: 7 dozen cookies.

WHOLE WHEAT BIBLE STUDY

How to abide in Christ

After you read through this Bible study, go back and look up the Scriptures and highlight them in your Bible.

Many people, when they hear an expression in the Bible like, "Abide in Christ," don't readily understand what it means. If a person abides in his house, he stays there. If one abides by the decision of the judge, he obeys the judge. In John 15:7, the phrase would mean to "remain stable" or "fixed in one's state."

In John 15:7, Jesus is saying, if we live as He does by keeping His words, then our prayers will certainly be answered. If we say we abide in Him, we also ought to live in the same manner as Jesus lived or walked (1 John 2:6). Jesus was constantly doing things that were pleasing in the Father's sight (John 8:29). When we live this Way, we are assured of having our prayers answered (1 John 3:22).

Living to please the Father daily is easy and pleasant (Matt. 11:30). It does not take a great deal of intelligence, but we must have the attitude of a child to live God's Way of life (Matt. 18:4; Mark 10:15, Luke 18:17; 1 Cor. 1:26-28).

God-fearing parents would train their children not to swear, lie, steal or cheat. Instead, they would train their children to get involved in doing good things and to continue to do good, overcoming evil by doing good. God wants the same (Rom. 12:21). Our heavenly Father wants us to do the same so He can bless us instead of send curses on us daily (Heb. 12:5-11; Acts 3:26).

We are, by nature, children of wrath (Eph. 2:3). But we come out from under the wrath of God when we become obedient to Christ (John 3:36). Unless we are abiding in Christ daily by practicing righteousness for God, we are all being held captive to do Satan's will (2 Tim. 2:26). If we are not abiding in Christ, we are doing Satan's will. But if we are overcoming evil by doing God's Will daily on earth as it is constantly being done in heaven, we are abiding in Christ (Matt. 6:10). God's Will is doing good works and it is how we abide in Christ (John 9:31, 1 John 2:17).

Fire safety tips offered during holiday season

but. Never use electric lights on a metal Christmas tree.

Fireplaces. Have your chimney inspected by a professional at least once a year and cleaned if necessary. Always use a fire screen and burn only materials appropriate for a fireplace. Never burn trash or paper in a fireplace; burning paper can float up a chimney and onto your roof or into your yard. Remove ashes in a metal container and never store them in your home.

Candles. Always put candles in non-tip candleholders before you light them, and do not burn candles near combustible decorations or displays. Keep candles well away from curtains and other combustible articles, and never put candles in windows or near exits. Never leave candles burning unattended or within the reach of small children. Extinguish candles — wetting the wicks — before you leave a room or go to bed.

Christmas trees. Choose a fresh Christmas tree. If you are not cutting your tree yourself, buy one that is not shedding its needles. Cut your Christmas tree trunk at an angle, and put it securely in a large, deep, non-tip stand. Set up your tree away from exits, fireplaces, and heat sources. Be sure your tree has water constantly. If you use an artificial tree, be sure that it is labeled as being flame-retardant.

Christmas gift. A good Christmas gift idea is always a smoke detector. About 86 per cent of American homes have smoke detectors today, but that still leaves one home in seven unprotected. Another alarming fact is that one-third of the smoke detectors in American homes aren't working. Be sure to test your smoke detector and replace the batteries if needed.

Nation's population projected to grow by 50 per cent

trends for these groups are:

- The non-Hispanic White population will slowly grow in number from 191 million in 1992 to 202 million in 2050, but decrease in percentage of the total population (75 per cent in 1992 to 53 per cent in 2050).
- The Asian and Pacific Islander population will continue as the fastest growing race group, rising from 9 million in 1992 (3 per cent of the population), to 41 million in 2050 (11 per cent of the population).
- The Hispanic population, who may be of any race, will increase from 24 million in 1992 (9 per cent of the population), to 81 million in 2050 (21 per cent of the population).
- The Black population is projected to grow from 32 million in 1992 (12 per cent of the population) to 62 million in 2050 (16 per cent of the population).
- The American Indian, Eskimo, and Aleut population is expected to grow steadily, from 2.2 million in 1992 (0.8 per cent of the population) to 4.6 million in 2050 (1.2 per cent of the population).

Coping With Grief During the Holidays

While [illegible] eagerly anticipate the holiday season as a time of togetherness and renewal, those who have lost a family member may face an almost unbearable period as the holidays seem to accentuate what others have and they are missing. The holiday season becomes one of enduring rather than enjoying.

"The expectations put on the bereaved, both socially and emotionally, can feel overwhelming," writes Elizabeth Levang, Ph.D., co-author of a book on dealing with grief during the first year after the death of a loved one. "We are expected to get in the spirit and join in the festivities just like everyone else. Yet in the hollow of our heart is a gnawing pain and the constant fear that we won't make it. The stressors are everywhere.

"Comparing ourselves to others, isolating ourselves, feeling jealous, lonely, depressed or angry are some of the reactions that we may experience during the holiday season. Many of us also feel guilt from time to time or are totally overwhelmed with sorrow. The holidays often take a serious toll on our self-esteem.

"Still, there are ways to survive the holidays, and with a change in attitude and a bit of planning, they can become tolerable and even enjoyable."

Dr. Levang said that people in such circumstances need to acknowledge their pain, take charge of their lives and not leave things to chance and think more realistically and positively. Recognizing the difficulties of making the changes than can help, she offers the following 12 specific coping strategies:

(1) Be honest. Your feelings are legitimate. We can trust that we know what's best for ourselves. If a gathering of family or friends is too painful, we can make our apologies and leave.

(2) Accept and seek support. We can let our family and friends know how they can be of assistance. If hanging ornaments on the tree feels overwhelming, we can ask a friend to lend a hand. If neighbors offer to bake cookies or wrap gifts, we can graciously accept their help and good intentions;

(3) Be kind to yourself. We can look for ways to nurture and care for ourselves throughout the holidays. Perhaps we will buy ourselves a special gift, sign up for a massage, or do that something we've always wanted to do. And at the very least, we can treat ourselves to an occasional smile.

(4) Have a plan. Talking with friends and family about what we want and don't want to do during the holidays can be very helpful. Being prepared lessens the anxieties.

(5) Alter traditions. Since circumstances have changed, old traditions may need replacing. Even simple changes, like serving another dish instead of turkey or opening gifts later in the day, may be comfortable to us.

(6) Start a new tradition. We can start afresh by adding one new tradition each year. Attending a seasonal play, decorating a special tree outdoors or reciting a favorite poem before opening gifts are some examples.

(7) Shop early. Avoid the holiday atmosphere by completing shopping early. We can rely on the telephone or enlist the aid of a supportive friend.

(8) Decrease your commitments. Grief saps energy, so we may need to pare down our commitments. We might consider buying instead of baking cookies, cutting down on the number of cards we send or possibly having an artificial rather than fresh tree.

(9) Cherish your memories. Religious services, Christmas concerts or other holiday events can trigger memories of our loved one. While some may be painful, memories need to be cherished, for they are an enduring and intimate connection to our loved one.

(10) Give tribute. The holidays may be a special time to honor our loved one. Donating money to a special cause, offering to help someone in need or volunteering our time and talents to a local charity are some ways to do this.

(11) Be hopeful. The pain and stress of the holidays is very real. Still, with some trial an error, things will get better. In time we will add new traditions and new memories to accommodate our changed situation.

(12) Remember their lives. More than anything else at this time of year, we may feel a strong need to know that our loved ones have not been forgotten. Setting a plate at the table for them, hanging their stockings on the mantle or retelling stories of them are just a few ways to reassure ourselves that the spirit of these special persons lives on.

A Study In Contrasts

Just two headline stories in the daily newspapers Saturday provided a graphic study in contrasts. One reviewed the sending of military troops to Somalia to assure that relief supplies reach starving Somalians. The other noted the Minnesota Twins signing of Kirby Puckett to a five-year, $30 million contract.

Perhaps there is no relevance in the two stories, but perhaps there is—not so much in the events themselves but in the perceptions and human emotions that surround them.

It seems incredible that outside military forces must invade a country to assure that citizens of that country do not prevent food supplies from getting to their fellow countrymen. It seems equally incredible, given the existing situation, that anyone can believe order can be restored and the problem resolved in two to three months.

The Puckett signing stories were not so notable because of the $30 million salary report as they were the fixation by the writers on emphasizing that he could have gone elsewhere for probably $5 million more. His agent Ron Shapiro was quoted as saying, "It's an amazing thing when a man turns down millions for family values." Puckett had said his family might not be as safe going to the ballpark in other cities as they would be going to the Metrodome in Minneapolis.

What would another million dollars a year be to Puckett? About a 15 per cent salary hike. There are a lot of people who work for a lot less who make larger percentage pay sacrifices than that to keep their families in generally safer environments. Even with the low value of today's dollar, a person should be able to provide for himself and his family comfortably on $6 million a year. Apparently that's what Puckett believes, as much as it amazes his agent and the writers.

Somalia—a country where people allow a fourth of their countrymen to starve. The United States—a country where people are amazed that one person would be satisfied to earn $6 million a year and expect to keep his family safe. A study in contrasts indeed.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

The purpose of this letter is to help educate the public about Christmas parties, alcohol and planning.

I am 22 years of age and am an employee of Northwest Medical Center. Every Christmas our hospital sees to it that we have a Christmas banquet. It is a time for togetherness, where family and friends gather for an evening of food, fun and, in this case, sometimes alcohol.

We all know what happens when someone has a little too much to drink at a party, and with weather conditions the way they are during the winter we really need to be responsible adults in our actions when consuming alcohol.

Which brings me to the questions, "Why does alcohol have to be such a big factor in Christmas at all? Because it makes things more fun, right?" Wrong!

For the past three years I've gone to our annual Christmas banquet. This year I'm not going. Why? Because alcohol will be served. Yes, I am 22 but my date is 19 so she can't go....and she is also an employee of Northwest Medical Center. Does this mean she's not welcome to a party that should be for all employees? After all, aren't we all a family that works together? I am not going because this ruins it for me, too.

Solutions to this problem could be:

(1) No serving of alcohol during the meal and entertainment. There will be plenty of time for drinking later.

(2) A no drinking section.

(3) A stamp on hands of underaged adults;

(4) A person to monitor alcohol distribution to assure that underaged adults abide by regulations and policies.

I hope that by this public letter people will be led to make wise and adult decisions to plan and drink safely.

If you wish to respond, write to me at 120 LaBree Avenue South, Thief River Falls, MN 56701.

Sincerely,
Kurt Dupree

To The Editor:

I, too, read with interest and a great amount of concern the "Say What?" column written by Karmen Ortloff about deer hunting.

One does not need to read much of that column to realize that Ms. Ortloff is completely ignorant of any facts concerning the deer population or hunting.

Although Ms. Ortloff probably meant the column to provide humorous reading, she did it in very bad taste. Columns such as hers only provide to darken the opinions of more people about hunting. If only Ms. Ortloff could actually go hunting with a real hunter perhaps her opinion could change. Also, she should make a point of spending some time in an area where hunting has been curtailed to see all the dead deer carcasses from starvation and disease.

And now to Mr. Matthew O. Kaushagen and Mr. Michael A. Cole who wrote in response to Ms. Ortloff's column.....touche'. For anybody who still doubts the benefits of hunting, read the letters of these two individuals. They present the facts as they exist.

Sincerely,
Ken Hovet

To The Editor:

Another Thanksgiving Day has come and gone, and what a beautiful day it was. I wonder how many people looked up and gave thanks for the countless blessings that have been bestowed upon us this past year.

I also wonder how many people were watching their television sets and seeing all the destruction going on in this world every day. In the Latin American countries there are wars and hardships. In Mexico you work for a dollar an hour. In South Africa there is killing every day and in many other broken countries there are wars and starvation. People are dying by the thousands from no food and disease.

Then we go to all the Arab countries; they are killing each other every day and have done so for hundreds of years. The people of Ireland have killed and bombed each other for years with no sign of peace.

In Czechoslovakia and parts of Russia, all those small countries are at war, bombing those small towns and killing people by the thousands. Germany is not so bad, but they are having trouble with young people who have banded themselves together by the tens of thousands, calling their party neo-Nazi and burning buildings and killing people. The government of Germany doesn't know how to put this movement down.

In the world around us half of the people go to bed hungry and many may be killed.

Weather has also caused destruction in storms like Hurricane Andrew and tornadoes in the Southern states last week. There are fires and earthquakes in California and it goes on and on.

Living in northern Minnesota, the best state, we thank God for our home here, where we don't even lock our doors.

Sincerely,
Melvin Joppru

—The seventh annual Christmas Eve dinner for those who would otherwise be alone will be held in the commons area of Northland community college.

From The Times Files of Fifty Years Ago

This Area Set For Blackout

"Residents of Thief River Falls and Pennington county are preparing to join with other Minnesota citizens in the first statewide blackout scheduled for next Monday evening, December 14, from 10 o'clock to 10:20. As was the case in the test blackout successfully staged in Thief River Falls the evening of December 2, the coming blackout will be heralded in the city by repeated blasts of the fire siren. Residents elsewhere in the county should extinguish their lights for the 20-minute period promptly on the stroke of 10, it was announced by Major O. Schilbred, chairman of the county civilian defense committee."

Bomb & War Gas School Dec. 17

"Reflecting wartime conditions and the possibility of enemy attacks on this country, a bomb and war gas school of instruction will be held in the municipal auditorium next Thursday evening under the sponsorship of the state fire marshal's office with the cooperation of the Thief River Falls fire department. Deputy State Fire Marshal Himsl will give lectures dealing with the tactics of aerial bombing, bomb removal and rescue squad instruction, incendiary bombs, effects of war gases, first aid for gases, gas shelters and decontamination. He also may give an outside bomb demonstration, it was indicated."

Council Votes an Extra 30% Discount on Light Bills

"The city council entered wholeheartedly into the spirit of Christmas giving when at its session Tuesday evening it voted a special thirty per cent discount on December billings of the electric light department payable January 1, this being in addition to the regular ten per cent discount for prompt payment. The city fathers thus carried out a custom established last year, when an extra twenty per cent discount was allowed on December bills. City Clerk P. O. Pederson estimated that the extra discount this year would aggregate approximately $4,000."

Recruiting Party for Naval Cadets Cancels Visit to TRF

"The naval flying cadet recruiting mission, which was to have come to Thief River Falls December 17 was cancelled following the order issued Saturday by President Roosevelt calling a halt to voluntary enlistments, it was announced today by Walter Jung, chairman of the local committee. He added, however, that young men over the age of 18 and high school graduates, who filed their names before the deadline may go to Minneapolis for examination at their own expense."

700 Youngsters Greet Santa Claus

"On the occasion of his annual pre-holiday visit to Thief River Falls, jolly old Santa Claus was greeted at the Auditorium Saturday afternoon by approximately 700 happy children of this community, who were rewarded with gifts of candy and popcorn. After proceeding through the business district on a truck, Santa was assisted at the Auditorium by a group of members of the Civic and Commerce association."

Share-Your-Car Club is Formed Here

"At a meeting in the Evelyn hotel Sunday afternoon, with Tom Mahegan as host, a group of thirty traveling salesmen organized a 'Share Your Car' club designed to relieve the hardships occasioned by gasoline rationing. It was announced that all commercial travelers of this community are eligible to membership. The next meeting of the group will be held Sunday afternoon, at which time members will submit trip sheets detailing the routes they plan to cover during the coming two weeks."

—It seems that the automobile manufacturers are slow in announcing the new 1943 models.

—In view of the traffic congestion, there doesn't seem to be much point in planning a trip during the Christmas holidays this year.

—Thief River Falls citizens greet with a yawn the order limiting earned incomes to $25,000 a year net.

—If you are beset with the problem of selecting a suitable gift for the man in the armed forces, may we modestly suggest a subscription to the Great Family Journal.

—It is easy to believe the repeated charge that there is more idle manpower in Washington, D. C. than any other place in the country.

—The niftiest thing in men's clothing these days, they tell us, is women.

—Radio listeners should agree that Governor Stassen handled himself well last Thursday evening when he appeared on the Town Meeting of the Air program.

—To be expected at the coming session of the legislature is a loud holler for a reduction in the state income tax.

—Better empty baby's bank. An acute shortage of pennies is developing.

—Most inane advertising blurb: Lucky Strike Green has gone to war.

—A new kind of cooperative movement is that Share-Your-Car club being organized by local travelling salesmen.

—Sign of the times: Down at Alexandria a garage has a woman mechanic.

—In case any of our readers is planning on giving us a new tire for Christmas, the size is 16 by 6:00.

Planning for a Christmas Tree

"At the Christmas tree meeting last Friday evening at the school house it was resolved to have a tree and entertainment on Christmas Eve. Mrs. C. G. Rapp, Mrs. S. Harris, Mrs. Daniel Patterson, Miss Carrie Stranahan, W. A. Arthur, E. H. Stranahan, J. L. Johnson and J. M. Hanson were chosen as a committee on arrangements and decorations. Cora Harris, Minnie Olson and Katie Berglsnd were chosen as a committee on finance for subscriptions. Every one should contribute liberally and make it a success."

Telegraph Lines

"A crew of about a dozen men arrived last Friday and at once commenced work digging holes and putting in the telegraph poles to Red Lake Falls. As soon as the line is completed, they will begin work on the Thief River Falls line."

INSURANCE Update

by Dee Schmidtgall

LOSS DETERMINATION FOR BUSINESS INCOME

Business Income Loss is based on the following:

1) Net Income of the business before the loss occurred

2) The likely net income of the business had no loss occurred

3) Operating expenses (including payroll) necessary to resume operations with the same quality of service that existed just prior to the loss

4) Other relevent sources of information including financial and accounting records & procedures, bills, invoices, vouchers, deeds, liens & contracts

Extra expense Loss is based on the following:

1) All expenses that exceed normal expenses, had no loss occurred

2) All necessary expenses that reduce the business income loss that would otherwise have been incurred

Co-insurance applies to most Business's Income forms, but not to Extra Expense. Most companies can provide protection for either Business Income or Extra Expense, or both. Extra Expense coverage is for a business that cannot discontinue operations for even a very short period.

Insurance is a complicated business requiring first hand knowledge to be able to function successfully within its framework. NORTHERN STATE AGENCY can assist you with your insurance requirements. Our office is located in the Northern State Bank building. Office hours are from 8:30-4:30 Mon. - Fri.; 8:30-6:00 Thurs.

THANK YOU

A special thank you to all our good friends for the supper and gifts given for us Wednesday night at the hall.

Thank you to the ladies that had the party for me on Friday afternoon and the lovely bed ensemble. Also the other gifts and thank you to the Hollyhock Homemakers for the gift. We will miss you all. Come and see us in our new home in Dickenson.

Thank You All
Gert and Bob

THANKS

Our deepest gratitude to friends and family for the numerous acts of kindness, love and concern during the illness and death of Baryth.

Special thanks to Pastor Amundson, Lois Anderson, Lois Peterson, Dahls and Orpens for their part in the memorial service. To the U.L.C.W. for lunch served and to Gordon Peterson for his guidance.

We appreciate memorial gifts and cards, floral tributes, food brought to our homes, visits and phone calls, but most of all your love and your prayers as we live these lonely days.

God bless you all
The family of Baryth Abrahamson Anderson

Hello...

We at All Seasons Realty are constantly expanding our marketing programs in order to reach a maximum number of buyers and sellers. This is one way we have built our successful business.

We spend thousands of dollars on professional advertising and marketing, the majority of our business continues to be from either your referrals (you calling us about your friends and neighbors wanting to buy or sell) or direct calls from your neighbors that have heard about how satisfied you were!

Senior Citizens appreciate the Senior Citizen Discount!!!

Many appreciate our "Privacy Listings" property with no signs!! We only use signs if you want!!!

Still others appreciate seeing properties listed with no other office...

May I ask you to do us a favor??? If you know of someone wanting to buy or sell or perhaps someone with a question they need answered about real estate do two things:

#1. Tell them about our office.
#2. Pick up the phone and tell us about them!

We are greatly in need of houses, farms, hobby farms and commercial properties!!! We thank you for your consideration and cooperation!!

Sincerely,

June Steiger GRI Broker

BE IT RESOLVED, by the School Board of Independent School District No. 564, as follows:

1. It is hereby found, determined and declared that the general election of the voters of the district held on November 3, 1992, was in all respects duly and legally called and held.

2. As specified in the attached Abstract and Return of Votes Cast, a total of 6,308 voters of the district voted at said election on the election of three school board members for three year term vacancies on the board caused by expiration of term of January 1 next following the general election as follows:

Dennis O. Klesow - 3,959
Darla Twomey - 3,802
Carl A. Clark - 3,357
Janice Davis - 3,281

3. Dennis O. Klesow, Darle Twomey and Carl A. Clark, having received the highest number of votes, are elected to three year terms beginning January 1, 1993.

4. The school district clerk is hereby authorized to certify the results of the election to the county auditor of each county in which the school district is located in whole or in part.

Motion carried unanimously.

A motion was made by M. Anderson, seconded by H. Hallstrom and carried unanimously approving the following RESOLUTION AUTHORIZING ISSUANCE OF CERTIFICATES OF ELECTION AND DIRECTING SCHOOL DISTRICT CLERK TO PERFORM OTHER ELECTION RELATED DUTIES.

WHEREAS, the Board has canvassed the election for school board members held November 3, 1992,

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED by the School Board of Independent School District No. 564 as follows:

1. The chair and clerk are hereby authorized to execute certificates of election on behalf of the School Board of Independent School District No. 564 to the following candidates:
   a. Dennis O. Klesow
   b. Darla Twomey
   c. Carl A. Clark

who have received a sufficiently large number of votes to be elected to fill vacancies on the Board caused by expiration of term on January 1 next following the election, based on the results of the canvass.

2. The certificate of election shall be in substantially the form attached hereto.

3. After the time for contesting the election has passed (7 days after canvassing), and the candidate has filed all campaign financial reports required by Minnesota Statutes, Chapter 211A, the Clerk of the School Board is hereby directed to deliver the certificates to the persons entitled thereto personally or by certified mail.

4. The Clerk is hereby directed to enclose with the certificate a form of acceptance of office and oath of office in substantially the form attached hereto.

Policy JHCC-1 HIV Policy/Procedure was presented for review and will be brought back for approval at the next meeting.

Discussion was held concerning the MSBA's collective bargaining position statement and the "Reinvest in America" campaign for new priorities endorsed by a number of education organizations. Discussion was also held concerning establishing a process to name the new elementary building.

The next Regular Board Meeting is scheduled for Monday, November 23, 1992, at 7:00 p.m. in the District Service Center.

Meeting adjourned at 8:50 p.m.

[illegible] Anderson [illegible] Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. George [illegible] Mr. and Mrs. [illegible] Milligan, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Sorenson, Mr. and Mrs. Art Froiland [illegible] were among the many [illegible] Saturday.

Laura [illegible] Hesse [illegible] spending a few days here [illegible].

Lee Vigstol of Minot [illegible] visited his mother, Effie, on Saturday and was an overnight guest [illegible] the home [illegible] driving distance [illegible].

Laura [illegible], student at UND, was a Saturday overnight guest at the home of her aunt and uncle, Mike and Sandy Greenwald.

Lloyd and Wavell Sorenson attended the reception of Jason Malwitz and Lisa Weir who were married on Sunday at the City Hall.

Eldon, Karen and Kari Vigstol were guests of Dorothy Larson of Thief River Falls on Sunday evening for supper at the Pizza Hut and later a visit in her home.

Lorena Westerlund, Willie Gallant and Clara Hesse visited on Monday afternoon with Myrtle Patnode and Pat Larson.

Gert and Bob Marty spent a few days in Dickinson, ND, where they found a home and will be moving soon. Their farm has been sold to Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Comstock of Plummer.

On Monday Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Sorenson attended the funeral for Elmer Johnson at Goodridge, and later visited at the home of Eugene and Willa Prestegaard of Thief River Falls.

Earl Wilkens of Crookston visited Thursday morning with his sister-in-law, Ruth Wilkens.

Ruth Wilkens and Idella Rewerts spent Wednesday at Sheryl Wilkens home of St. Hilaire making lefse.

Birthday for Cheryl

Cheryl Greenwald, student at Jamestown College, spent the Thanksgiving break at her parents, Mike and Sandy Greenwald. For her birthday on Monday, Dixie Koskela and Jennie Walter accompanied her to Thief River Falls for Pizza, and later they drove to Mahnomen with Sandy and Reinette Walter, where they had cake and goodies.

Baby Shower

A baby shower was held on Tuesday evening at Zion Lutheran church of Oklee, for Virginia Berns, and infant daughter, Mcaulli. Attending from here were Wavell Sorenson, Rebecca and Tricia Willett, Avis Froiland, Erica and Lindsay Vettleson.

A potluck supper was held at the Plummer Hall on Wednesday evening with Bob and Gerty Marty as honored guests. The community gathered to wish them good fortune in their new home in Dickenson.

One of the pleasures I have found in moving to town is the availability of the libraries that serve us. The school welcomes us to use and check out books from its library, and the Senior Center has many books to be enjoyed. The Northwest Regional Library is also a good source of reading material, and its Bookmobile stops at the school regularly on Tuesdays about twice a month. With the advent of winter, perhaps you will have more time for reading and you're invited to pick up a schedule and use the facilities of the Bookmobile, as well as the other libraries mentioned.

Happy Holidays!

Walk For Health

Plummer school has kindly offered to the Senior Citizens the opportunity to walk the halls of our school, if you wish to promote good health by walking. The time has been set for 7 a.m. - 8 a.m. I hope to see you there sometime.

Diane, Amanda and Ericka Grinde of Elk River came on Saturday the 22nd, to attend the wedding reception of Jason Malwitz and Lisa Weir. Ericka remained here with her grandparents, Floyd and Fern Hesse until Thursday when she met her mother in Moorhead and returned home.

Dedicate Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center

Dedication of the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center took place between periods of the Thief River Falls Prowlers and Warroad Warriors high school hockey game Tuesday evening, December 8.

The former Sports Arena was renamed for Russell "Huck" Olson, long time sports editor of the Thief River Falls Times, in recognition of his service to young athletes. Olson died Sept. 28, 1968, after more than 30 years of sports writing and editing for the Times.

Special guests at the dedication and a banquet held prior to the hockey game were members of the Lincoln high school hockey team of 1945. This was the first Lincoln team to compete in the state high school hockey tournament and it finished second to Eveleth, losing its only game of the season by a 4-3 score in the state championship game.

Members of the 1945 team on hand for the event were Ralph Engelstad, Las Vegas, NV; Wes Hovie, West Linn, OR; Lloyd "Sonny" Johnson, Newbern, NC; Durwood "Swede" Lund, Effie; Les Vigness, Thief River Falls; and Jim Welch, South St. Paul.

Other team members were Jim Doyle, Bob Baker, Don Brossoit, Alan Thompson, Donald Hage and Jerry Hylden.

The 1945 team, at a reunion held at the state hockey tournament several years ago, is credited with suggesting that the Sports Arena be named in honor of Huck Olson, considered for a number of years prior to his death to be the dean of northwestern Minnesota sports writers.

Olson's involvement with athletics and athletes went well beyond his writing and coverage of local and area sporting events.

"If a youngster didn't have a good pair of baseball shoes, and could not afford to buy them, Huck would give them as a gift," states the civic center dedication program. "When a rural athlete needed a ride home, Huck was there to provide transportation. When city league teams played away from home, Huck went to the games and took players with him.

"Huck was quick to praise and give encouragement," the program further states. "He was never one to be critical of a youngster and he strongly disapproved of coaches who tried to build records at the expense of their players."

Ralph Engelstad, who donated $20,000 to the city of Thief River Falls for naming of the civic center for Olson, stated that "Huck did more to inspire the young athletes in Thief River Falls than any one person."

Olson was born to Jacob and Emma Olson in Ross, ND, Oct. 12, 1905. He moved to Thief River Falls with his parents as a boy and graduated from Lincoln high school and St. Olaf College in Northfield. He was active in athletics until he punctured his lung while playing football.

Olson began writing sports for Six members of the Lincoln high school hockey team which finished as runners-up to Eveleth in the 1945 state high school hockey tournament attended a dinner prior to dedication of the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center last Tuesday evening at Lon's Restaurant. They are posed with the photograph of Olson, long-time sports editor of the Thief River Falls Times, who died in September of 1968. The photo will hang in the civic center, formerly known as the sports arena. Team members (left to right) include Wes Hovie, West Linn, OR; Ralph Engelstad, Las Vegas, NV; Lloyd "Sonny" Johnson, Newbern, NC; Durwood "Swede" Lund, Effie; Les Vigness, Thief River Falls; and Jim Welch, South St. Paul.

Deadlines set for anhydrous plants

by David Hill
Associate Editor

Thief River Falls public safety committee will recommend to the city council that anhydrous distributors in the city provide concrete plans for the re-location of anhydrous plants from the city by June of 1994, and that the removal process be completed by October of 1996.

At a public safety meeting Tuesday morning, Thief River Falls Mayor Robert Reeve described the problem as a "nagging, on-going concern". He noted, as did Alderman Dale Wennberg, that discussion over removing anhydrous distribution plants from the city has been taking place since 1984. Wennberg added that had a deadline been set in 1984, it wouldn't be a problem anymore.

Mayor Reeve noted that by October of 1996 it will have been 18 years since the problem was first discussed. He added that he believes that's enough.

Jean Heinrichs called the task of calling for the motion "unpleasant". Heinrichs, who noted earlier in the discussion that she was disappointed that the issue had been at a standstill for so long, encouraged distributors and the city to work together.

Distributors appeared concerned about the financial burden this might impose. Previous to the meeting Tuesday, a search for grants or other assistance proved unsuccessful.

Restructuring at Hartz Foods involves salary, benefit cuts

Employees of Hartz Foods in Thief River Falls have been assigned a 10 per cent cut in salary and reduction of several other fringe benefits effective Jan. 1, 1993. They were informed of the changes at a series of three meetings for different employee groups Thursday, December 10.

The announcement of a cut in salary and fringe benefits was accompanied by a letter from Dave Johnson, who will become acting president of Hartz Foods January 1 following the announced retirement of Everett Kompelien from that position.

In announcing his retirement, Kompelien said that he regrets that he cannot be a part of the continued realignment in the business community that Hartz Foods is in the midst of conducting.

"After 36 1/2 years of employment with Hartz, my doctor has advised me to back away from the daily pressures involved in my position and retire as of Jan. 1, 1993," he said. "This has been a most difficult decision for me, leaving behind so many dedicated employees and friends I have made over the years.

"In preparing for the future," he added, "I feel a foundation has been built with a group of excellent young employees that will work hard in keeping Hartz Foods strong for the future."

The letter from Johnson distributed to employees he stated that "...1992 was a year of restructuring and preparing....for 1993. It is imperative to continue on with our restructuring plans (as) we react to keeping Hartz profitable.

"We regret that after all expense cuts that can be made it will be necessary for management to make cuts on fringe benefits and a ten per cent (10%) salary cut to protect the future plans that have been implemented."

Attached to the letter was a list of changes regarding vacation and sick pay which will also reduce benefits for Hartz employees. Compensated sick leave was eliminated and vacation time was limited to a maximum of two weeks per year after two years of employment.

According to Johnson's letter to employees, the board of directors of Hartz Foods authorized management to implement restructuring after numerous meetings. He said zone meetings were held to inform the cooperative's retailers of that arrangement and a vote was taken directing management to pursue restructuring and implementation of an affiliation with Gateway Foods.

In the October 20 issue of The Times, Hartz Foods announced its affiliation with Scrivner Foods, Inc. of Oklahoma City, OK, a major wholesaler which has 17 distributors, including Gateway Foods of Superior, WI. Hartz management said the affiliation was being made to increase the company's ability to compete and to position itself for future growth.

"One of the advantages," board president Kompelien stated in the October 20 article, "will be a better supply of high quality produce and more timely delivery of all perishable items." Part of the restructuring at the local warehouse is the closing of the produce department. Reassignment of personnel from that department and from other areas of the warehouse is taking place. No lay-offs of full-time employees were announced at the meeting Thursday.

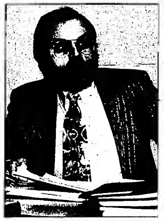
Johnson told The Times today that the decision to reduce salaries and benefits was reluctantly made and followed many meetings by the management team of the cooperative in preparing the restructuring plan. He praised the dedication of Hartz employees.

"Through the various concessions made," he said, "the employees of Hartz Foods have made a financial commitment to the future success of the company. We look forward to sales growth in 1993 in new programs and services and added profits internally by becoming more efficient due to the changes we have made."

Company management emphasized that the reductions announced December 10 are one phase of the restructuring and that a number of changes have been made previously involving economies in warehouse operations and additional programs, services and products for member stores. Efforts will continue toward future goals as the restructuring continues.

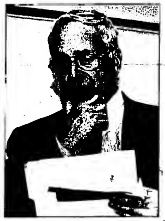
For the past 19 years Hartz Foods has operated as a cooperative owned by its member stores. It has been in business in the Thief River Falls community for 67 years.

Wetland hearings provide variety of testimony



Greg Larson

John Jaschke



Bill Clapp

Testimony presented at the hearings on the rule implementing the Minnesota Wetlands Conservation Act in Thief River Falls Wednesday, December 9, was varied but centered primarily on its affect on agricultural land, farming operations and drainage, including previously established ditches.

Judge Allan Klein presided at the hearings held in the aviation training center at the Thief River Falls regional airport at 1 p.m. and 7 p.m. Written testimony may be submitted to him at the Office of Administrative Hearings, Suite 1700, 100 Washington Square, Minneapolis, MN 55401-2138 prior to 4:30 p.m. Thursday, December 31.

Agency representatives present at the hearings were Greg Larson, administrator of the water and land management section of the state Board of Water and Soil Resources (BWSR); John Jaschke, wetland specialist with BWSR; and Bill Clapp, special assistant Attorney General. All are from St. Paul.

First person to testify at the afternoon hearing was Milton Alm, Norman county engineer, who complained of the lack of copies of the

Holiday Recipes

Cranberry Pumpkin Roll

5 eggs, separated
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup pumpkin
1/2 cup flour
1/4 cup cornstarch
1 1/2 teaspoons cinnamon
1 teaspoon nutmeg
1/2 teaspoon allspice
2 teaspoons baking powder
3 cups non-dairy whipped topping
1 12-ounce package Cran Fruit
Powdered sugar
Paper doily

Preheat oven to 375 degrees F. Using an electric mixer, beat egg whites in a medium mixing bowl until stiff peaks form. Set aside. Combine egg yolks, sugar and pumpkin in a separate mixing bowl. Add remaining dry ingredients, mixing well. Gently mix egg whites into batter using a rubber scraper, until no streaks remain.

Line a jellyroll pan with foil and spray with non-stick vegetable spray. Spread batter evenly in pan. Bake for 12 minutes or until a toothpick inserted into the center of the cake comes out clean.

Liberally sprinkle powdered sugar over a clean kitchen towel. Turn the jellyroll out onto the towel and carefully remove foil. Trim off any crisp edges. Roll the cake up in the towel, jellyroll style. Cool completely.

Unroll the cake. Spread non-dairy whipped topping over cake. Drop tablespoons of crushed fruit over whipped topping. Gently spread with a rubber scraper. Reroll cake without towel. Lay doily on roll and sprinkle with powdered sugar. Transfer to serving plate. Makes 10 to 12 servings.

Pumpkin Muffins

2 tablespoons margarine
1/2 cup brown sugar
1 egg
1 egg white
1 cup buttermilk
1/2 cup canned pumpkin
1 cup unbleached white flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg (optional)
1/8 teaspoon cloves (optional)

Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Prepare muffin tins with paper liners or coat with non-stick vegetable oil spray. In medium bowl, cream margarine, brown sugar, egg and egg white. Add buttermilk and pumpkin and mix well. In large bowl, combine dry ingredients and spices. Mix will to ensure adequate distribution of the leavening agents and spices. Add wet ingredients to dry ingredients. Mix until combined, but do not overmix. Fill muffin tins three-quarters full and bake for about 25 minutes.

Caramel Cookies

1 cup soft butter
2 cups brown sugar
2 eggs, beaten
1 tsp vanilla, if desired
1 tsp soda (in flour)
3 cups flour
1 cup chopped nuts
about 1/2 tsp salt

Mix in order given, then shape into a roll and chill in refrigerator over night. Slice thin and bake in moderate over. About 355 degrees for 12 minutes. Watch carefully. (Dough may be frozen, too.)

Orange Balls

1 lb. vanilla wafers, crushed
1/2 lb. butter, softened
1 cup frozen or juice concentrate
1 lb. powdered sugar
flaked coconut

Mix well, form into balls, roll in flaked coconut. Place on cookie sheet. Set.

Holiday Recipes

Almond Bark Fruit Loops Cookies

2 lbs white almond bark
2 cups rice krispies
2 cups fruit loops cereal
2 cups colored mini-marshmallows
2 cups salted nuts

Melt almond bark in a double boiler. Mix dry ingredients and pour the melted bark over all. Stir until coated and drop on waxed paper. Work fast as it hardens fast.

Angel Crisps

1 cup butter or margarine
1 cup sugar
1 cup powdered sugar
1 cup vegetable oil
2 eggs
1 tsp vanilla
1 tsp salt
1 tsp soda
1 tsp cream of tartar
4 1/3 cups flour

Form into balls, roll in granulated sugar and flatten. Bake at 350 degrees until cookies are crisp.

Christmas Cherry Candle Cake

1 pkg cherry angel cake mix
1 No. 2 can (2 1/2 cups) crushed pineapple
1 pkg lime flavored gelatin
1 cup heavy cream
a few drops red & green food coloring gum drop bows
1 10-inch red candle

Prepare batter and bake in 10 inch tube pan. Cool. Meanwhile prepare pineapple filling: drain pineapple, add enough water to syrup to make 1 3/4 cups; heat mixture to boiling; add gelatin and stir until dissolved. chill until partially set; beat till light and fluffy; fold in drained pineapple; whip 1 cup heavy cream, fold into gelatin mixture; tint pale green; chill, stirring occasionally until mixture mounds when spooned. To assemble cake: cut crosswise in three equal layers, spread bottom layer with half gelatin mixture, add second layer and spread in remaining gelatin, top with third layer. Chill until firm, 2-3 hours. Just before serving, whip 1 1/2 cups heavy cream and tint pale pink with red food coloring, spread on top and sides of cake. Trim cake with gum drop bows. Secure candle in center with holly leaves around it. Makes 12-16 servings.

Noel Eggnog Pie

1 pkg lemon flavored gelatin
1 cup hot water
1 pint vanilla ice cream
1/4 tsp nutmeg
3/4 tsp rum flavoring
2 stiff beaten egg whites
2 well beaten egg yolks
coconut pie shell

(To make pie shell: combine 3 tbsp soft butter with two 3 1/2 oz. cans flaked coconut. Press into buttered pie plate, building sides. Bake in slow over, 300 degrees for 20-25 minutes.)

Dissolve gelatin in hot water. Cut ice cream in 6 chunks; add to gelatin, stir until melted. Chill until partially set. Add nutmeg and flavoring; stir in egg yolks; fold in egg whites. Pour in cooled coconut pie shell and chill until set. Top with fluffs of whipped cream; dust with nutmeg.

Training for Great Books leaders set

Registrations are now being accepted by Carol Ihle, coordinator of the School District 564 school volunteer program, for a two-day Great Books Foundation basic leader training course to be held Monday and Tuesday, January 11 and 12, 1993, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. each day.

Sponsored by the Great Books Foundation, the course is open to all teachers and volunteers committed to starting a Great Books reading and discussion group for students in kindergarten through high school. It is required training for any user of the Junior Great Books program and recommended for individuals who will be leading adult Great Books groups in their communities.

One of more than 500 that the Great Books Foundation will offer this year, the Thief River Falls training course will be conducted by an instructor from the Foundation, based in Chicago, IL. The training gives leaders—including teachers, resource personnel and parent volunteers—an introduction to the "shared inquiry" method of learning.

Leaders will learn how to develop open-ended interpretive questions that stimulate students' thinking and how to lead focused, productive discussions.

Registrations must be placed in advance by contacting Carol Ihle, registrar, at 681-8358.

Established in 1947, the Great Books Foundation is an independent, non-profit educational corporation whose mission is to provide people of all ages with the opportunity to read, discuss and learn from outstanding works of literature. It derives its income from the sale of its books, fees for leader training and educational grants.

INSURANCE Update

by Dee Schmidtgall

COVERAGE OPTIONS FOR BUSINESS INCOME

1. Maximum Period of Indemnity:
   A) Co-insurance does not apply
   B) Business income is limited to the smaller of the limit of insurance shown on the declarations, or, the amount of loss sustained during the 120 days immediately following the date of the physical loss to property at the insured premises
2. Monthly limit of Indemnity:
   A) Co-insurance does not apply.
   B) Recovery of business income is limited in each 30 day period to the fraction of the limit of insurance shown on the declaration page (1/3 would be 33-1/3%; 1/4 is 25%, 1/6 is 16-2/3%)
3. Agreed Value: this option carries a co-insurance requirement.
4. Extended Period of Indemnity: Covers for 30 days after business has re-opened. Mainly for a business involved in sales or manufacturing. This extra 30 days would compensate for time it takes for business to pick up to normal.

THERE ARE COUNTLESS CASES WHERE THE FINANCIAL LOSS STEMMING FROM THE SUSPENSION OF BUSINESS HAS BEEN GREATER THAN THE RESULTING PHYSICAL LOSS TO COVERED PROPERTY. YET THIS IMPORTANT COVERAGE IS MANY TIMES DISREGARDED.

Your best protection against unforeseen mishaps is insurance. Policies should be checked on a periodic basis to be certain you have the coverage you require. Cleman Teal, 84

Thief River Falls — Cleman Teal, 84, died December 12 at the home of his daughter near Ottertail.

Funeral services will be held December 16 at 11 a.m. at the Trinity Lutheran church in Thief River Falls with Rev. D. Josh Nelson officiating. Special music will be provided by Earl Guenin, soloist, and Dorothy Larson, organist. Casketbearers will be grandchildren, Matthew Teal, Anthony Teal, Jeffrey Teal, Michael Marquette, Steven Marquette, Kenneth Marquette, Sharon Marquette and Judy Teal. Interment will be in the Elm Park cemetery at Baudette. The Green Funeral Home is in charge of arrangements.

Visitation will be held Tuesday from 3 to 9 p.m. at the Green Funeral Home with an 8 p.m. prayer service and on Wednesday at the church for one hour prior to the service.

Cleman Allen Teal was born Sept. 8, 1908 at Atlanta, IN, the son of Jesse and Cleona (Dunn) Teal. As a young child, he moved with his family to the Baudette area and attended a rural school and grew up there. On Apr. 15, 1936 he was united in marriage to Verna Olson at Baudette. The couple lived in Baudette and he worked for the Lake of the Woods Transfer company and later for the Lake of the Woods county maintenance. In 1949 they moved to Thief River Falls and he was employed by the Rosholt Equipment company as the area service man. The couple also lived for some years in the Minneapolis area before he retired from the Hall Equipment company in Savage after several years of employment. His wife died on Apr. 1, 1990. He was a member of Trinity Lutheran church.

He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Merle (Barbara) Sophy of Ottertail; two sons, Bradley (Patricia) Teal of Sun City West, AZ, and Tom (Barbara) Teal of Rochester; one daughter-in-law, Margaret Teal of Hastings; eight grandchildren; two great-grandchildren; and one brother, Richard (Meriam) Teal of Goldendale, WA.

He was preceded in death by his wife; one son, Tim in 1987; a sister, Vonda Boeckers; and a brother, Joseph Teal.

Milton Sandsmark, 79

Grygla — Milton Sandsmark, 79, died December 10 at Northwest Medical center in Thief River Falls.

Funeral services were held December 14 at the Grace Lutheran church in Grygla with Rev. Percy Smerek officiating. Special music was provided by Marie Anderson and Joy Nordby. Casketbearers were Rick Harbott, Rick Olson, David Saurdiff, Brian Stanley, Todd Stanley and David Brateng. Interment was in the Valle cemetery. The Green Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Milton Sandsmark was born July 30, 1913 in Benville township, Beltrami county, the son of Martin and Mathilda (Swenson) Sandsmark. He was baptized and confirmed at the Valle church and attended rural school at the Benville school district 101. He farmed in Benville township and was a mechanic for many years at the Farmers Union Oil company. He was also an electrician. He was united in marriage to Amber Halverson on Oct. 26, 1952 at Ecklund Lutheran church. His wife died on Aug. 22, 1975.

He is survived by one son, Wesley (Kathy) Sandsmark of Grygla; three grandchildren; one sister, Mrs. Alfred (Sylvia) Sorenson of Thief River Falls; two brothers: Roy and Palmer, both of Grygla; an aunt, Christine Swenson of Shelley; and special friend, Carl Dalos.

He was preceded in death by his wife; his parents; two brothers: Clifford and Archie; and a sister, Sharlotte Baasen.

Dear Readers,
Many bereaved people become impatient because they feel they are not adjusting to their loss as quickly as anticipated. Never put a time limit on your grief. Take each day as it comes and remind yourself that intense grief is not forever. It is impossible to forget someone you have loved so deeply. Recovery has come to many others – it will come to you.
Respectfully,
Belmont Funeral Home

Josie Engen, 88

Thief River Falls — Josie Engen, 88, a former resident of Holt, died December 14 at the Northwest Medical center in Thief River Falls.

Funeral services will be held December 17 at 2 p.m. at the Nazareth Lutheran church in Holt with Rev. Eugene Floistad officiating. Special music will be provided by Jeanette Murphy, soloist, and Sheila Aubey, organist. Honorary casketbearers will be members of the Nazareth Church Women. Active casketbearers will be Harley Engen, Vernon Engen, David Smith, Lyle Olson, Aaron Critchley and Leslie Borduth. Interment will be in the Holt cemetery. The Green Funeral Home is in charge of arrangements.

Visitation will be held Wednesday from 1 to 9 p.m. at the Green Funeral Home with a 7:30 p.m. prayer service.

Josie Lunke was born November 29 in East Valley township, Marshall county, the daughter of Gle and Clara (Knutson) Lunke. She was baptized and confirmed in the Lutheran faith and grew up in rural Holt. She attended the Sunnyside rural school. On Apr. 14, 1926 she was united in marriage to Harry J. Engen at the Holt parsonage. Following their marriage the couple farmed in the Ringho area for a few years. They moved to Holt where they operated a garage until 1942 and later owned and operated the Engen cafe in Holt. She taught Sunday school at the church for many years. She lived in Holt until July 1991 when she moved to Thief River Falls. She was a member of the Nazareth Lutheran church in Holt, the ladies aid and the Sons of Norway.

She is survived by two daughters, Janice Critchley of Roseau and Mrs. Lyle (Rebecca) Olson of Newfolden; two sons, Harley (Lillian) Engen of Seattle, WA and Vernon Engen of Warner Robins, GA; 16 grandchildren, 15 great-grandchildren; two sisters, Carrie Ness of Thief River Falls and Hazel Jorland of Middle River; one brother, Arthur Lunke; and son-in-law, Walter Smith of Moorhead.

She was preceded in death by her husband; two daughters, Delores Smith and Harriet Engen; one granddaughter, Halley Critchley; daughter-in-law, Gladys Engen; her parents; and three brothers: Jens, Hilmer and Oscar.

TIMES FOR TODDLERS

ACTIVITIES

Indoor Sand Play

Christmas gets to be a very busy time of year, with gift buying and baking and many young children get over-stimulated and do things that they would not normally do. This is a good time to do some quiet and soothing activities with your child.

Playing with sand or water could be one of these activities. But most of the outdoor sand areas are covered with snow at this time of year. Simply get a large container, such as a tub, and fill it about one fourth full with rice or dry beans.

Then supply the child with small cups, spoons and cars and trucks and let them play.

SCAVENGER HUNT

For next week's Activities feature, you will need ingredients for baking cookies.

RECORDS OF THE WEEK

The Thief River Falls public library invites you to peruse its Christmas record collection as well as other collections. Two great Christmas records that are available for children at the library are:

Santa's Sack of Christmas Songs. Such songs are included as "Santa Claus in Coming to Town," "Frosty, the Snowman," "Jingle Bells," "Jingle Bell Rock," "Rudolph, the Red-Nosed Reindeer" and many more.

Raffi's Christmas Album. Raffi is, of course, a children's favorite and in this collection he sings 15 wonderful Christmas tunes including "the First Noel," "Silent Night," "Up on the Housetop" and "We Wish You a Merry Christmas."

VIDEO VARIETY

For a fun Christmas video, the Thief River Falls public library has a number of videos to choose from, including this one:

Christmas Eve on Sesame Street. Everyone is getting ready for Christmas on Sesame Street when Oscar the Grouch asks Big Bird how Santa can fit down the chimney. With the aid of his Sesame Street pals, Big Bird attempts to solve this riddle, and in the process, discovers the true miracle of Christmas is the spirit of loving and sharing.

PARENTING TIPS

Holiday Traditions

What is a tradition? How do they start? Most of us don't think too much about holiday traditions until we have children of our own or until we are not able to go home for the holidays. Then they seem to take on new meaning. Traditions are the things we think of and remember from our childhood days. They give holidays special meaning and can create family closeness.

The funny thing is that anything can become a tradition. For instance, maybe you just happened to have a pizza delivered last year on the evening you decorated your tree, and now your children are saying, "But we always order a pizza when we decorate our tree." Now you have a tradition, something that just started with no thought or planning. Or your tradition can be something you have carefully planned. The nice thing is that you can start a new tradition at any time or end one whenever you wish.

This year think about the traditions you have in your family. Maybe this is the time to start some new one.

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

Talk about the holidays: what will happen, where you will be, who else will be there, what you will see. Besides sharing information with your child, this will help to prepare him/her for relatives and situations they are not familiar with.

DWI charge could be very expensive

With the season of giving and celebration in full swing, the Department of Public Safety is reminding people that a DWI charge could strain families' holiday budgets.

A new brochure produced by the department informs people that a DWI could cost as much as $15,105 by the time an individual adds up fines, driver's license reinstatement fees, lawyer's fees and the high risk car insurance that is associated with a DWI. In addition, the brochure estimates the affect of alcohol on an individual and the consequences of driving while intoxicated.

"This educational tool addresses the social, emotional and financial costs that accompany a DWI charge," said Tom Frost, commissioner of the Department of Public Safety. "Choosing to not drink and drive is a decision that could save a life, a reputation and a great deal of time and money."

December has been declared National Drunk and Drugged Driving Prevention month. The month-long campaign emphasizes the consequences of impaired driving, encourages people to not let others drink and drive, uses sobriety checkpoints to deter drunken driving and emphasizes important law changes that go into effect January 1, 1993.

Invite forming coalition on senior needs

Funds will be available in 1993 to assist one additional senior citizen coalition in the seven-county Region 1 of northwestern Minnesota, according to Jane Crocker of the Northwest Regional Development Commission's Area Agency on Aging.

Communities interested in receiving support to form a coalition to address a senior citizen need are invited to contact Crocker or Faith Rud of the agency on aging at 525 Brooks Avenue South, Thief River Falls, MN 56701 or by calling 681-2637.

Three area groups were recently awarded assistance through Project Care, sponsored by the Minnesota Board on Aging through an Older Americans Act grant.

Project Care participants form a community coalition, which is a blend of area groups including business, church, civic and government to take a look at local senior issues and needs.

"Coalitions have been compared to hot dish," states agency director Rud. "You mix various ingredients together to achieve a delightful result. Project Care encourages diverse local interests to combine efforts to achieve common goals for the benefit of the community."

Through the grants already approved, Argyle is recruiting volunteers to perform errands, chores and visits; Warroad is working to address caregiver concerns; and Polk county is distributing a directory of senior services.

"The overall purpose of these coalitions is to help seniors obtain the support they need to remain independent as long as possible, thus avoiding costly nursing home placement," Crocker said.

Mmmmm ... it's beginning to smell a lot like Christmas!" In homes across our town and country and world there is that particular smell of Christmas goodies being prepared in the kitchens of our homes.

What are the necessities of your Christmas meal? Do you cook the same delicacies each Christmas? Or, do you try to change your menu? Is the food of Christmas an integral part of your Christmas traditions? It is in our home.

Sometime during the month before Christmas I find that it is now the time to bake my Christmas cookies. I have a list of the cookies I have traditionally baked most Christmases. Each of the males in my family have a particular kind of cookie they want baked. This year I have only baked 2 of the varieties—so far!! Time will tell if my family gets spritz as well as pepparkakor. The pepparkakor were the first cookies I made this year. They last forever! For those of you who do not know what pepparkakor are—they are very very thin ginger cookies. They are a tradition at our home each Christmas. The Christmas baking season begins when I bake that first batch of special Christmas cookies.

The cookies are special to the men in my family. But, I find that Christmas doesn't quite arrive until I smell that delicious aroma of Swedish Fruit Soup cooking. For those of you unenlightened as to the composition of Fruit Soup it is simply dried fruit of a mixed variety which is put into a pot, covered with water and simmered until tender. Adding a stick of cinnamon and a bit of tapioca to thicken makes it just right. I made a batch of Fruit Soup this past weekend. My home smelled delicious!! Adding a dollop of whipped cream to it makes this a delicious part of our Christmas meal.

We celebrate Christmas on Christmas Eve. Traditionally, we have a Swedish supper, followed by the opening of gifts. All day we wait for that supper. From my childhood I remember the aroma of the potato sausage and meatballs cooking during the day of Christmas Eve. I could hardly wait for that Christmas supper when finally we could taste the things that had so enticed us all day. Even now as I am the cook, I am still enticed by the aromas coming from my kitchen. But, maybe because I snitch during the day, the Christmas Eve supper is not as excitedly awaited by me as it was when I was a child.

Lutefisk is surely a blessing of the Scandinavian heritage!!! Those of us so blessed with preparing it can only be thankful that we no longer have to also dry it and soak it in lye, as that is done for us in this modern day. Yet we are still accosted with the smell and slime and fine bones of this delicacy. I do my wifely duty each year and prepare lutefisk for my beloved each Christmas. Truly it is an act of love—as only one person eats it in our home—and that person is not the cook!!

Your family's traditional Christmas foods may not be anything like my family's. They become unique to each family as each family adds the dishes they particularly like and discards those they don't.

One Christmas a few years ago we were invited to share a Christmas meal with some friends. They shared with us their traditional Czechoslovakian Christmas meal. What touched me by their meal was how different it was from ours yet it was Christmas to them. I was also impressed by the religious significance of some of the dishes they served. Even as our Christmas supper reflected our Swedish heritage and not our religion, theirs reflected their Czech heritage mingled with their religion.

Around the world this Christmas there will be countless ways in which we celebrate this season. But isn't that part of the beauty of Christmas—it is a time that can touch people everywhere—whether or not they find lutefisk a delicacy!

Adding instrumental accompaniment to the Christmas pageant at Valley Home are Eldor Erickson (left) and Howard R. Miller. The program will be presented Friday at 7:30 p.m.

Plan Nativity Pageant at Rupprecht's

"Isaiah's Surprise," written by Nancy Steltz, will be presented as the annual "Come To The Star—Christmas Live" pageant Wednesday, December 23, at 7 p.m. at the Donald and Margaret Rupprecht farm.

The farm is located three miles east of Thief River Falls on highway 1, five miles north on Pennington County 20 and one mile east on Marshall County 2. A large lighted star will mark the Rupprecht farmstead.

The half-hour program will include music and narration and involve livestock and costumed characters. The pageant is held in an unheated pole building with straw bales for seating and those attending are advised to dress for warmth and comfort.

Rev. Ron Calvert, associate pastor at Trinity Lutheran church in Thief River Falls, will portray Joseph with Penni Nelson of the Silver Creek Lutheran church as Mary. Rev. Eugene Floistad of the Holt Lutheran parish will have the role of Isaiah. Many others from Thief River Falls and surrounding communities will be included in the evening program.

There is no admission to the Nativity pageant, but for those wishing to make a contribution, an offering will be received for world hunger through Church World Services.

St. Bernard's plans Christmas program Dec. 17

The students of St. Bernard's School will present their Christmas Program on Thursday, December 17. There will be an afternoon performance at 1:30 and an evening performance at 7:00.

Grades 1,2, and 3 will perform the children's cantata, "It's Christmas", composed and arranged by Terry Kirkland. "If I'd Been Around When Jesus was Born" another Christmas cantata, will be performed by students in grades 4, 5, and 6. This cantata is arranged by Charlton D. Bozard. The Kindergarten will provide special music between the cantatas and will lead the closing song, "We Wish You A Merry Christmas". The St. Bernard's Singers will open the evening performance with a candlelight processional and leading the audience in the singing of traditional Christmas Carols.

The public is invited to attend both performances which will be held in the church.

SWCD board, staff attend convention

Board members, office staff and award winners from the Pennington Soil and Water Conservation District attended the 56th annual convention of the Minnesota Association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts recently in Bloomington.

Attending from Pennington county were board members Daniel Johnson, Leonard Skaar and Harry Harlson, Hanson's wife Nora, staff member Maggie Leach and Conservation Cooperator award winners Richard and Donna Parnow of Goodridge.

Keynote address was given by Dr. Jimmie Richardson of the department of soil science at North Dakota State University in Fargo, ND. He spoke on conservation efforts in other countries and the importance of maintaining our natural resources. "Air, water and soil are the fundamental things we want to keep around to keep living," Richardson said.

In addition to Richardson's speech, the convention featured workshops on topics such as forestry, landscaping and wildlife, and volunteerism.

About 800 people attended the convention which was held under the theme, "Land Use—Stewardship: The SWCD's Challenge."

The Minnesota Association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts represents Minnesota's 91 soil and water conservation districts, which are local units of government responsible for working with landowners to manage soil and water resources. Each SWCD is governed by a five-member board of locally-elected supervisors.

. . . Christmas Reminiscing

This year I find I am reminiscing about Christmases past. Oh, not the Christmases from five or ten years ago, but the ones long past, the ones when I was a child.

As I wrap gifts, while baking cookies, or even as I trim the tree, I think of the Christmases celebrated at Grandpa and Grandma's house when I was a little girl, with all the uncles, aunts and cousins.

Perhaps I am reminiscing like this because my mother died this year, joining so many of my uncles. Nonetheless, the memories I have are not sad, but happy, and I shall continue to reminisce through this holiday season. It makes me feel good to remember the wonderful, magical times we had when I was a little girl.

This little Christmas column is dedicated to all of my uncles, aunts and cousins who read it this year and remember Christmas at Grandpa and Grandma's house many years ago. It is especially dedicated to "Uncle Santa," who made my Christmas, and that of all of my cousins who are old enough to remember, very, very special and magical.

Magical Christmas Eve at Grandpa and Grandma's House

I remember Christmas Eve at Grandpa and Grandma's house. Christmas Eve night was the time we had our biggest Christmas celebration and all the aunts, uncles and cousins would come to Grandpa and Grandma's house. Christmas Day was nice, but Christmas Eve was the best time, because it was magical.

Christmas Eve was magical because it was the night when we would eat our Christmas Feast. Christmas Evening dinner was made up of all sorts of Scandinavian treats with strange names. These treats magically appeared at the Christmas Feast and were rarely tasted outside of holiday times. I'm sure many of you know what I am talking about.

All of the aunts, uncles and cousins would come to Grandpa and Grandma's house for the Christmas Eve feast. It didn't matter that Grandpa and Grandma's house wasn't very big. It was always just big enough. Perhaps it, too, would magically stretch to accommodate everyone on Christmas Eve.

All of the extra boards would be put into the dining table and extra small tables would be tacked on to each end to seat as many people as possible. Sometimes, if there were too many people to seat all of them at the extended table, only the adults sat there, and we cousins were lucky enough to be allowed to take our plates and eat in the stairway.

That was just what we wanted to do! We could sit on one step and put our plate on the next one up, and, scattered over the long stairs, have our own little Christmas party. Best of all, there were no parents there to make us mind our manners or make sure we ate everything on our plate, and we could giggle and laugh and talk and do silly things while we ate Christmas dinner.

Sometimes Christmas Eve dinner would consist of turkey as the main course, and sometimes there would be ham. Sometimes we would have both. Very often we would also have lutefisk with cream gravy and butter for Christmas Evening dinner, but always with Swedish meatballs for those who did not like the aromatic fish.

We would have all of those other strange-sounding goodies, like homemade lefse, rommegrot that Grandma made with a special wooden stirring utensil that she got from her mother, fruit soup containing tapioca the size of marbles, flat brod, yulekaka, homemade egg nog, and sometimes things like rulapuisa, head cheese, limburger cheese, and some other brown kind of cheese that Grandma cooked for a long time several days before Christmas.

After Christmas Eve dinner, we would finally get to sample the Christmas cookies and cakes that had been hidden away in unlikely places so we wouldn't snitch at them. They were tasty morsels that melted in the mouth, many with more strange names, like spritz, Dutchmen's britches, krumkaka, rosettes, sandbakels.

I remember the chocolate drops that always appeared at Christmas time, white filling covered with a thin chocolate coating I think Grandpa provided them every year because they were his favorites.

There were hard Christmas candies that boggled the mind: ribbons, pillows, circles, balls, candy canes, Santa-Shapes, and the tasty peanut-shaped ones. Because it was Christmas Eve, no one seemed to care how fast all of these goodies disappeared into the cousins' tummies and no one seemed to notice or care how many treats the cousins ate.

Christmas Eve night was magical because that was when we opened our gifts. After what seemed like months of waiting, we would finally get to see what was in those mysterious packages we had gazed at and wondered about for so long. Maybe one of the packages would contain that special thing we had hoped and wished for all year. Maybe, just maybe, if we had been good enough, one of the packages would be that toy we had hoped and wished for.

Christmas Eve night was also magical because it was the night that Santa came. Santa not only came Christmas Eve night when we were sleeping, but Santa came to our house, in person, on Christmas Eve.

After eating our fill of Christmas cookies and candy, we cousins would gather together around the glittering Christmas tree, which was near the front windows. It was very magical the way we would sit together quietly, not laughing or chattering. Sometimes we would hum Christmas carols, or sing softly. We were waiting, you see.

The rest of the house rang with laughter and conversation. The adults scarcely noticed that the children were missing from underfoot as they cleaned up after the meal, stirred egg nog and prepared to open gifts.

Then one of the sharp-eared cousins would hear the sound of sleigh bells, far away, in the distance. "I hear Santa! I hear him coming!" The bells became louder and louder, closer and closer, and the eyes of the cousins would grow bigger and bigger. Some of the smaller cousins were afraid, their faces would crumple and their eyes fill with tears. The older cousins would hold the younger cousins' hands and pat them, because they weren't afraid, you know. No one spoke a word as the bells came closer and closer.

Suddenly the front door crashed open and Santa was here!

Some of the cousins would rush to the door to greet Santa, leaving behind the more timid cousins, who by now had tears rolling down their cheeks and were crying in earnest. I can hear the bells right now, and the jolly "Ho, ho, ho!" I can year the laughter and shouting as the uncles and aunts finally noticed that Santa was here and clustered around, catching up the crying cousins and leaning over the shoulders of the others. I can see the huge pack Santa carried.

Santa always came in and stayed a while at Grandpa and Grandma's house. He would shake hands with the uncles and get kisses from the aunts. Someone would inevitably give him a large mug of egg nog (I don't know for sure, but perhaps laced with something to keep him warm, because Christmas Eve was always a very cold night) and he would sit down in the kitchen to drink it.

Then he would come into the living room to sit on a chair in front of the Christmas tree, and each cousin would have a chance to sit on his lap and tell him what he or she wanted for Christmas. After each of us talked to him for a while, after the tears and the laughter, he would reach into his pack and pull out—a present for each of us.

I knew then that Grandpa and Grandma's house was a magical house at Christmas. None of my friends got a visit from Santa at their home on Christmas Eve night. None of my friends got a gift from Santa and sat on his lap right in their living rooms with so many uncles, aunts and cousins clustered around.

This was surely Christmas magic.

I wish I could have a magic Christmas Eve at Grandpa and Grandma's house again.

One killed in accident Fri.

A Viking resident died in an accident Friday morning in Marshall county.

Marshall county sheriff's department received a report of a one-vehicle accident Friday, December 11 at 7:50 a.m. According to the accident report, a vehicle driven by Kermit Arlis Strandberg, 64, Viking, was driving east on a township road when the vehicle apparently went off the road and rolled. The accident was located three miles north on county road 11 and one-half mile east of Viking on a township road. Strandberg was taken to Warren hospital by EMS of Detroit Lakes, an ambulance service temporarily working out of Thief River Falls. Strandberg was pronounced dead at the hospital.

Lincoln high school hockey co-captains and coach Glenn Chiodo presented hockey sticks autographed by the 1992-93 Prowler hockey team to members of the 1945 state tournament team attending dedication of the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center last Tuesday evening, December 8. The 1945 team was the first Lincoln high school team to compete in the state tournament. At a reunion of the team at the state tournament, the suggestion was made that the Thief River Falls sports arena be named for Huck Olson, the long-time sports editor of the Thief River Falls Times who died in 1968.

Senior Citizens Met!

The Senior Citizens met at the Center, December 3, with eleven members and four guests present. Guests were Anne Gmeby, Alice Holm, Marian Pederson of Karlstad, and Joyce Bjodin of Grafton, ND. We played games until all of the prizes were won. Anna Rud, Mary Renstrom and Alice Holm won the black out game. This will be the last game for this year. There will be a blood pressure test next Thursday at the Center. We worked on a quilt, and Marian Pederson won the door prize. Elphie Adis was the hostess.

Wayne, Pat and Abbie Larson, Terry, Betty, Michael and Kevin Pietruszewski brought belated birthday wishes to Frank Kleinvachter Saturday evening.

Home at Morris and Marcelyn Lindstrom's the past two weeks were Dr. Paul and Diane Ottmanson and sons of Bemidji, Bob and Pat Lindstrom and children, and Ted and Lori Johnson and children.

Andy and Alissa Johnson spent the past weekend with Grandpa and Grandma Lindstrom, while their parents were in Orlando, FL, for a few days.

Jim Wetterlund spent Tuesday at Keith Britten's and Morris Anderson's.

Say What?!

By Karmen Lee Ortloff

I've put off writing about Christmas for as long as I could.

I have found that when writing about Christmas, one tends to over use such phrases as "'twas the night" and "'tis the season." I don't like that, so I just avoid the temptation by not writing about Christmas, duh!

This week, however my mom told me," people want to read about Christmas" so, I'm going to write about Christmas, sort of.

All right, some people reading the following might think that I wrote this a while back for the Prowler Press, and that I am reprinting it. Well, I am. Besides, most people don't remember it and if you do, well, I refer you to the fourteen score section below. So without further adieu, here is my recycled article (I'm helping the environment by recycling you know!)

Okay, so you think that you are a hot shot, know-it-all when it comes to Christmas songs. Let's see just how good you are. In keeping with the season, let's all be nice girls and boys and not peek at the answers. Good Luck!

Questions

1) How many times is the word "reindeer" mentioned in "Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer?"

2) What is Frosty's hat made out of?

3) What is the name of the horse in "Jingle Bells?"

4) How many "la's" are there in "Deck the Halls?"

5) What did your true love give you on the eleventh day of Christmas?

6) What are you supposed to do in "Santa Clause is Coming to Town?" (Hint: three things.)

7) What food was brought along in "Let it Snow, Let it Snow, Let it Snow!?"

8) Which two reindeer are mentioned in "Here Comes Santa Clause?"

9) What are the flocks like in "Go Tell it on the Mountain?"

10) What does the snowman ask in "Winter Wonderland?"

11) Besides kissing Santa, what else does mommy do?

12) What are the people going to do after "Rockin' Around the Christmas Tree?"

13) How big was the tail of the star seen in "Do You Hear What I Hear?"

14) What are the harps made of in "It Come Upon A Midnight Clear?"

14) What are the harps made of in "It Came Upon A Midnight Clear?"

Answers

1) Five Times
2) Silk
3) Bobtail
4) thirty-two times
5) eleven pipers piping
6) better watch out, better not cry, better not pout
7) corn for popping
8) Vixen and Blitzen
9) silent
10) are you married?
11) tickle Santa
12) have some pumpkin pie and do some caroling
13) as big as a kite
14) gold

0-6 Instead of wishing Merry Christmas to each and every stranger you meet, you prefer a much more subtle approach. For instance, instead of partaking in the usual Yule-tide ceremonies, you retreat to that little nest affectionately known as your room. C'mon, join the crowd, this is not a time to show off your independence. Grab your fur hand warmer (imitation fur, of course), muffler (that's a scarf—baffling, huh?), and some sheet music and become a caroling fool! This will acquaint you with Christmas songs and you'll do better on this darn quiz. After all, even Scrooge sings at the end of "A Christmas Carol."

7-13 So you knew the horse's name. You still need to expand your horizons! You need to learn more songs—songs other than those you remember from grade school. After all, you want your holiday song collection to include songs that don't repeat and repeat and repeat (...jingle bells, jingle bells, jingle..., or la la la la la la la la). Ask where the Christmas music is and spend the night with Bing Crosby and the classics. If 'ol Bing just doesn't cut it for ya, the Jackson 5 put out "I Saw Mommy Kissing Santa Claus" way back in the pre-public, pre-leather, pre-nose job years of Michael. Check it out. Either way, your holiday song knowledge will increase at least five points. Hey, if it doesn't, well at least you can die with the knowledge that you heard a Bing Crosby/David Bowie duet. Scary though, isn't it?

14 You cheated. There is no way the average human being should be able to answer the question: What are the harps made of in "It Came Upon A Midnight Clear?" However, it could be that you are a genetic freak of nature. It could be that you have a computer-like mind that remembers the lyrics to every Santa Season song you hear. It could be that you know the lyrics to songs and nothing else. It could be that you know the lyrics to songs that you've never even heard before—aliens from the planet Yule come and implanted a device to your left index finger. It could be you accumulated this knowledge throughout your past lives and subconsciously remember the lyrics. It could be...nah, you cheated.

There you have it! A Christmas column without even one "'twas the night" or "'tis the season." I'm so proud of myself.

Diverse group performs SDA Christmas concert

Seventh day Adventist church will conduct its annual Christmas concert 7 p.m. Friday, Saturday and Sunday, December 18-20 at the church located at 1024 South Randolph in Thief River Falls. There is no admission charge but a free-will offering will be collected.

The dramatic Christmas musical, "The Gift: God Himself is with Us" by Dennis and Nan Allen, with orchestration by Dave Williamson, will be performed at the concert. A musical prelude will include congregational singing, a junior orchestra, a handbell choir, a marimba/flute/piano trio and vocal selections. A nursery will be available for children under four years of age and refreshments will be served following the program. Public attendance is invited.

"We have been working to overcome two obvious shortfalls of last year's program — space to seat everyone and space for parking. We don't want anyone to be discouraged from coming because of these problems," said Dr. Ben Sayler, program director. "Increasing the number of performance nights will, we hope, provide adequate seating so that families, especially, can sit together. As far as parking goes, we don't want people, particularly the elderly, to have to park several blocks away necessitating a long walk to the church," Sayler said. "We are pleased that arrangements have been made for ample directed off-street parking close to the church. We advise people to watch for volunteers and officers stationed at parking entrances close to the church who will then guide them to a parking spot," he said.

The master of ceremonies will be Dr. and Mrs. Jerome Bray of Thief River Falls. A junior orchestra, under the direction of Mrs. Kari Lindemoen will perform a medley of Christmas carols entitled, "Christmas Celebration". Participants in the junior orchestra include the following members: Anne Marhen, Danny and Benji Sayler, Kim Schneider, Jessica Stollman, Jim Solsten and Jim Grindley of Thief River Falls on violin; Melanie Wawryzniak and Alex and Joshua Efta of Argyle; T.J. Super, Keli Chaplinski and Ingrid Dyrud of Middle River; Amber Efte of Argyle and Darlene Nelson of Newfolden on flute; John Marben of Thief River Falls on guitar; and Sylvio Grindley of Thief River Falls on piano.

A handbell choir under the direction of Mrs. Margi Stevenson will play "Christmas Medley". Members of the handbell choir are Lois Bray, Diane Meekma and Sarah Erickson of Thief River Falls; Helen Juhl, Amy Pervis and Eloine Juhl of Middle River; Jolayne Simpson of Plummer and Corey Zimmerman of Mankato.

Dr. Tim Riltenour will sing a vocal solo "O Holy Night". A vocal trio including Dr. Jim Grindley, Margi Stevenson and Marilyne Soyler will sing "Rejoice with Exceeding Great Joy".

"A Child is Born" will be performed by Sylvia Grindley on marimba, Ida Nordvall on piano and Marie Hvidsten on flute.

Intermission music will be provided by Dawn Glass of Red Lake Falls and Sylvia Orindley. They will play a piano-organ duet, "Oh Come All Ye Faithful".

Following intermission, "The Gift" will be performed by choir, orchestra and actors. The adult choir includes: Jon Nyflot, Sarah Erickson, Deb Meekma, Diane Meekma, Morgi Stevenson, Dr. Jerome and Lois Bray, Arlene Walseth, Dr. Jim Grindley, Marilyne Sayler and Dr. Tim Riltenour of Thief River Falls; Grace Juhl of Lake Bronson; Pam Juhl of Drayton, ND; Coreen Erickson, Helen Juhl, Twila Brandon, Elaine Juhl, Lisa and Aaron Pervis of Middle River; Candy Kroll of Argyle; John and Gloria Umber of Viking; Eddie Hanson and Vi McKeever of Greenbush; Becka Lund and Sara Kraulick of Karlstad; Chuck and Joloyne Simpson of Plummer; Penny and Darcy Nordvick of Gryglo and Corey Zimmerman of Monkato.

The Shepherd Boy Choir includes Steven Umber, Viking; James Pervis of Middle River; Kyle Gloss of Red Lake Falls; Danny and Benji Soyler, Code Fame, Nathan Riltenour, Peter and Phillip Hoks of Thief River Falls. The director for both choirs is Dr. Ben Sayler. The accompanist will be Mrs. Ida Nordvoll of Thief River Falls.

The orchestra, conducted by Dr. Ben Sayler includes: violin — Kari Lindemoen of Newfolden, concertmistress; Jim Solsten, Bonnie Swontek and Melonie Krepp of Thief River Falls; viola — Ingrid Morken of Thief River Falls, and Dr. John Gaull of Grand Forks; cello — Down Klopp of Thief River Falls; bass — Tom Swanlek of Thief River Falls; bassoon — Jan Klopp of Thief River Falls; trumpet — Ron Adams of Thief River Falls; flute — Marie Hvidsten, Christie Halsa of Thief River Falls and Jolie Gaull of Grand Forks; synthesizer — Sylvia Grindley of Thief River Falls.

The cast includes Alan Rogalla of Thief River Falls as Marcus, a Roman tax collector; Glen Meekma of Newfolden as an innkeeper; Jim Hoks as Joseph; Jennifer Ornquist of Middle River as Mary; Desiree Umber of Viking as baby Jesus; Heidi Hoks of Thief River Falls as a midwife; Leonard Rondorf of Thief River Falls as a taxpayer; Eugene Meyer of Red Lake Falls and Nathan Hammond of Thief River Falls as shepherds; George Herber of Thief River Falls as a Roman soldier; Larry Juhl of Lake Bronson and Key Teeters Asp of Thief River Falls as narrators.

The stage manager is Joyce Meekma of Newfolden. Costumes were provided by Barb Holt and Deb Meekma of Thief River Falls. Decorations were provided by Sylvia Gindley and Tara Cross of Thief River Falls, and Helen Juhl. Props were provided by Rod Glass of Red Lake Falls, Jim Hoks and Marilyne Sayler. Dave Stevenson will be in charge of lighting, and Ron Meekma of Thief River Falls, in charge of sound.

"What a diverse group we are!" notes director Dr. Ben Sayler. "Our singers, musicians and cast come from a wide range of ages, denominations and localities. We are very pleased to have such positive community participation as we attempt to portray the story of Christ's birth in a unique way. The evening itself will include almost as much diversity as the participants. We want to provide a program that will be interesting and inspirational for the whole family. We believe that little ones as well as parents and grandparents will find some part of the program that will capture not only their attention but their hearts as well. We look forward to sharing this program with the community."

Mrs. Marvin Englund of Grygla visited with Lana Nelson last week. Sympathy to the families of Olaf Lange and Alice ("Overwold") Larson, who recently passed away and formerly lived in the area a few years ago.

The Holiday Tour of Homes in Thief River Falls were very much enjoyed by Helen Chervestad and Lois Swenson of Goodridge on Saturday. Tour homes were Senator LeRoy and Carol Stumpf, Don and Gari Sollom, Dr. Jim and Sylvia Grindley and Dr. Donald and Ruth Goodrich. Helen Chervestad also attended the open house at the Erskine Telephone Company and Kory's Warehouse Foods. It was a full house at all the special events, and loads of good food.

Sunday evening Theresa Radniecki, Elmer and Laura Rustan were among many to attend the Christmas program and potluck dinner at the Catholic church in Oklee.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Olson were married Saturday. A reception was held at her mother's home, the Joe Jagols of rural Highlanding. Attending from here were Verner and Mildred Arveson, and mother, Mable Olson. Best wishes and welcome to the community!

Mr. and Mrs. Verner Arveson attended the Watershed Christmas supper at the Grygla Steakhouse, along with other directors and manager on Saturday evening.

Verner and Mildred Arveson visited with her sister, Alma and Art Brown of Thief River Falls on Thursday afternoon.

Arlan Hofstad of Babbitt spent the weekend with his parents, Glen and Linda. They all were supper guests at the Grandma Pearl Poppenhagen home in Thief River Falls, along with grandmom Mable Hofstad.

Mable Hofstad was among the many that came to Ella Mostrom's 87th birthday celebration at Gonvick.

The Arlen Marquis family traveled to Princeton for Thanksgiving at the Phil and Donna Larson home. Others there to celebrate were Alvin and Bonnie Jensen, Alan and Eric, Guy and Ludeen Rice and family of Fond du Lac, WI. Guy Rice sang and played his guitar on Wednesday evening for special music during church services at First Love Fellowship. On Friday the Marquis family visited at the Les Strandberg home in Ogilvie, and Gary [illegible] home in Brook Park before returning home. Les and Gary are co-workers of Arlen's.

Shandiea Marquis celebrated her eighth birthday with friends, Larissa Chervestad and Bobbie Lundeen, after school on Friday, December 4. Others coming to the Marquis home to wish her a happy birthday were grandparents, Alvin and Bonnie Jensen, and Dick and Marian Marquis. Shandrae's birthday is December 6. Happy eighth birthday Shandrae!

Sunday December 6, Arlen and Joani Marquis, Averre, Shandrae, Britanne and Preston, and Lillian Nelson were dinner guests at the Alvin Jensen home. Tere was an afternoon guest with friend, Kim Juve of Fosston, and Garett visited with friends Nathan Buchanan, Matt and Tom Bernard at the Bernard home in McIntosh. That evening they all traveled to Fosston for Christmas open house celebration at Bethel Assembly. Tere was a vocalist with Bethel's choir for their presentation of "Canticle of Christmas."

Randy and Lori Radniecki arrived Thursday morning from Seattle, WA, to spend a few days with his parents, Virgil and Theresa. That evening they met with some of their friends at the Kim Chervestad home. Friday they had lunch at the Marvin and Joan Bronken home in Oklee. Afternoon they visited with uncle Cab and Wylma Radniecki. Friday evening in Crookston they visited at the Corky Hanson home where many of Randy's friends came to visit him.

Naturalist gives tips on winter bird feeding

A pleasurable winter activity that can be enjoyed by all ages is bird feeding. Winter bird feeding tips were provided by Joe Gartner at a recent program in Fertile cosponsored by the Agassiz Audubon Chapter and the Agassiz Environmental Learning Center. Gartner, a naturalist at the Wetlands, Pines and Prairie Audubon Sanctuary near Warren, shared his years of experience of feeding and observing winter birds.

Gartner first noted some of the natural foods that birds like. Wild ragweed may cause hay fever suffering to some during its growing season but in the winter its seed is considered the number one source of wild food for song birds. The second most popular wild food source comes from a variety of sunflowers that grow in the wild.

Other wild food sources include seed and berries from a variety of shrubs and trees including maple and ash which are preferred by grosbeaks, sumac is a favorite of chickadees and cedar waxwings prefer chokecherries. Pine is considered more versatile than spruce with birds often eating insects found in the pine cones. Spruce trees are an important food for crossbills. Other good natural food sources that you may consider planting in your yard or shelterbelt include mountain ash, buffaloberries and cotoneasters.

Supplementing natural food sources with a winter bird feeding program may help increase the diversity of birds that you see in your backyard. Gartner noted that there are 304 bird species regularly seen in Minnesota with about 100 of these being present in the winter. Winter feeding helps expand the range of some birds. In this area winter feeding may help to attract birds such as cardinals, red bellied woodpeckers and gray jays.

Black oil sunflower seeds are perhaps the most versatile, best accepted and inexpensive food source to use to begin your winter feeding program. Sticking to only sunflower seeds may also help keep house sparrows from your feeders. On the other hand, millet is a favorite of house sparrows, so don't feed it if sparrows are a problem.

Beef suet is a favorite supplement of birds, especially insect eaters such as woodpeckers. Starlings also like suet, so you may try feeding suet in a hanging feeder that has a mesh opening on the bottom. Starlings don't generally like to hang upside down from such feeders while chickadees, nuthatches and woodpeckers can easily access the suet from such feeders.

Offering a variety of food from a variety of locations will aid your bird attraction efforts. Some birds prefer feeding from the ground or low platform feeders while others go for hopper or tube feeders mounted on a pole or suspended by wires at a height of about five to eight feet. Window feeders are fun to get close-up views of bird diners. Have fun trying to keep the squirrels from your food—they can be quite entertaining to watch. Having shrubs for shelter or cover near your feeder also helps make the birds feel more comfortable about coming to your feeder. Piling up some brush near your feeder also works.

Wayne Goeken of the Agassiz Environmental Learning Center concluded the program by noting that the Agassiz ELC will be coordinating the first official Christmas bird count in the Fertile area on Friday, December 18. This will be an all day count of bird sightings in a 15 mile diameter circle which encompasses Fertile, the Fertile Sandhills and the area extending northeast toward Maple and Union Lake. Participants can drive and hike through this area to record bird sightings or help by watching their bird feeders throughout the day. Participants will meet back at the Fertile community center at the end of the day where their lists will be compiled. Feeder watchers can call in their reports.

More information about this event will be released as the day draws nearer. If interested in participating in the Christmas bird count or for answers to questions about winter bird feeding contact Wayne Goeken at 945-3129.

Alert buyers to mail order fraud schemes

The holidays are quickly approaching, and many Minnesotans may decide to do some shopping by mail. Shopping by catalog has certain advantages but mail order shopping also has drawbacks. Items may be disappointing, sizing may be different than you're used to, and mail order fraud is not uncommon. To protect yourself, remember a few simple guidelines before placing your next order, suggests the Minnesota Attorney General's office.

If the company is new to you, check it out. Contact the Better Business Bureau or the Attorney General in the state where the company is located. Find out the kinds of complaints they get about the mail order company you are considering.

Know what the company's return policy is before you place an order. Most companies promise cash refunds or credit when goods are returned in a timely fashion, but this can vary.

If you place an order through a toll-free number, get the operator's name and an order verification number. If you fill out and send in an order form, keep a copy for your records. This will be a handy reference if your order is not delivered when promised, or if you have questions about your bill.

Be leery of companies that list only a post office box for an address and require that purchases be made through a toll-free number. They may have something to hide.

And, as always, if an offer in a catalog seems too good to be true, it probably is.

If you shop by mail, the law protects you from fraud. For instance, a mail order purchase must be shipped when the company promises, or you may cancel for a full refund. Second, you have the right to see an item's warranty before you place an order. Third, you may refuse delivery of items that are damaged or spoiled. Fourth, you may temporarily stop making payments to a charge card—without being sued—while your dispute with a mail order company is being reviewed, if the seller is refusing to resolve the problem.

And if you receive merchandise that you didn't order, consider it a gift. You are under no obligation to return it or pay for it.

If you suspect mail order fraud, contact the U.S. Postal Inspection Service, Room 3517, Washington, D.C. 20260.

If you would like to file a consumer complaint, contact the Attorney General Consumer Division: NCL Tower, Suite 1400, 445 Minnesota Street, St. Paul, MN 55101 or call toll-free 1-800-657-3787.

Second graders compete in FmHA coloring contest

Twelve second grades at elementary schools in Thief River Falls, Middle River, Goodridge, Grygla and Viking competed November 2-13 in a coloring contest sponsored by the Farmers Home Administration in Thief River Falls.

Each of the second graders colored a farm safety poster depicting an accident on the farm. One winner selected from each class received a $10 cash award.

Winners in the contest were the following: Lisa Basher, Washington, Cindy Vennes, teacher; Chelsey Helgeland, Washington, Betty Carlson, teacher; Elliot McMahon, Mark Twain, Dianne Newton, teacher; Tami Molskness, Mark Twain, Lois Benson, teacher; and Ashley Halbasch, Mark Twain, Edith Etter, teacher;

Also Chris Kramer, Northrop, Rod Johnson, teacher; Jared Daley, Northrop, Sue LeMoine, teacher; and Stefan Rundell, St. Bernard's, Pat Krystosek, teacher;

Also Sarah Zak, Viking, Laurie Beth Sczepanski, teacher; Trevor Berg, Middle River, Gail Holmes, teacher; Tony Nordby, Grygla, Janet Lian, teacher; and Scott Grabowska, Goodridge, Lois Anderson, teacher.

All students received balloons and suckers from FmHA. Area banks contributing to the program were Marshall County State Bank, Newfolden; Norwest Bank, First National Bank and Northern State Bank, Thief River Falls; and American State Bank, Grygla.

"Farm safety is always important," states a spokesperson for the FmHA office. "There are too many accidents on farms, many during the busiest seasons of spring and fall. We urge everyone to be alert to hazards and especially cautious during the busy seasons and throughout the year."

The spokesperson also said that the poster contest was very difficult to judge since many students did an excellent job is coloring their posters.

Persons interested in using farm safety as a project may contact the FmHA office which has a video, tape and puppet show cassette available for use.

This is the time of the year when we get some extra letters and Christmas cards, so please remember to cut out the stamps. We can help those hospitalized Veteran's. They have done much for us, so why shouldn't we try to do something for them. You can leave the stamps with me or Cheryl Nybo. Commemorative stamps, duck stamps, Christmas stamps bring extra money, but regular stamps are good too.

Marilyn Schmit of St. Peter, and Mrs. Ed Miller (Jenice) McGrath stayed at the Floyd and Florence Berg home Saturday until Monday. Saturday evening four of Marilyn's family from St. Peter and their spouses visited at the Bergs too.

Bob and Ardis Fillipi from east Grand Forks were Saturday visitors at the Henry and Henrietta Knutson home.

Mrs. Larry Hinden of St. Peter visited Saturday morning at the Floyd Berg home and also Sunday afternoon after the Sorby funeral, also Ronald and Paul Sorby of Duluth called at the Bergs after the funeral.

Sunday forenoon Richard and Steve Berg of Elk River came to the Floyd Berg home and to attend the Selmer Berg funeral on Sunday. Dick took part in the State Trooper procession at the funeral. Dick and Steve went back home on Monday.

Russell and Mavis Ringstad of Fosston called on Floyd and Florence Berg on Sunday. They just moved to Fosston from Columbia Heights.

Natalie Haugen went with Diane and Andor Ness of Detroit Lakes over to the Boyd and Alice Ness home Thanksgiving Day for dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Emerson of Wolverton, and Kenneth Emerson of Moorhead spent Wednesday to Friday with Ellie Handy. They attended the prayer service and funeral for Vina Scott on Thursday at Fosston.

Thanksgiving dinner guests at Bud Watne's were Gunda Syrtvelt of McIntosh, Orlo Syrtvelt of Wesby, MT, and Mr. and Mrs. Warren Solheim and Jerry of Clearbrook.

Harvey Aas and a friend from Crookston were in Gully on Thursday at the cafe, and Harvey stopped at the Cora Henson home and I was there too, so we had a nice visit with Harvey.

Evelyn Myers of Warroad came over to the church at Gully Sunday morning and brought a poinsettia, and she attended the Sunday school Christmas program in the evening.

Harvey Aas, Jack Beck, Winston Johnson and Darrell Raymond went on a trip to Montana, Boise, ID, Seattle, WA, and Yellow Stone National Park. Harvey said a big bear stopped in front of their car. They traveled 4000 miles in the 11 days they were gone. Harvey really enjoyed the trip.

Grace Nyland of Clearbrook came over to the Lund church on Sunday. Grace and her sister, Natalie Haugen, had dinner at the cafe, and she was also here for the Sunday school program in the evening, and overnight guest of Natalie.

Sunday afternoon callers at the Kenneth Forsberg home were Carol Bussie and Elaine Bergman of McIntosh. Evening visitors were Jerry and Kathy Forsberg of Crookston.

Mrs. Peggy Walton, Anna, Grace, Charley and Sierra were Thanksgiving dinner guests at the home of her parents, the Richard Hansons of Clearbrook.

Friday Dennis and Darlene picked up Natalie Haugen and they went to Roseau and visited with the John Engels family over the weekend.

"Project Strive" attracts 180 from LHS, Plummer

The academic incentive program "Project Strive" is underway.

Project Strive is an incentive program for Pershing High School in Plummer and Lincoln High School in Thief River Falls. Students receive benefits from area businesses after meeting academic and extracurricular requirements.

One hundred and eighty Pershing and Lincoln students are participating in the program during its first quarter.

Brian Walter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Walter of Plummer and Jared Goldesberry, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Goldesberry of Thief River Falls, are co-founders of Project Strive.

Walter and Goldesberry attended a Governor's Scholars leadership workshop last summer. The scholars are asked to spearhead a service project in their home communities. Walter and Goldesberry organized Project Strive. They will attend a winter Scholars session to report their progress.

There are three awards in Project Strive: The Gold Award, the Blue Award, and the White Award.

The Gold Award is for students who are on the "A" Honor Roll (3.5 or above in Thief River Falls, 3.66 in Plummer): have no unexcused absences, detentions or suspensions; and are involved in at least one school-sponsored extracurricular activity or community service.

The other awards follow the same requirements as the Gold Award, except the Blue Award is for "B" Honor Roll students and the White Award is for students who increased their GPA by .6 over the previous grading period. This will be changed to 3 next quarter.

The award benefits include discounts and free merchandise at participating local businesses (ranging from bowling to 10 per cent discount on meals), free athletic passes, and discounts at fine arts events and school dances.

All components of the project are done locally, from the printing of the cards to the discounts. Thief River Falls businesses involved include Arctco, Family Bowl, T-59, Styles by Amy, Budget Electronics, Wanda's Flower and Gift Shoppe, Domino's Pizza, Hardee's, Kezar Music, and Lori's Hallmark.

Plummer businesses involved include East Side Service, Bob and Jan's and Hanson's Cafe.

Arctco is a chief sponsor of the project and covers the operational costs, including the printing of discount cards.

Lincoln Gold Card recipients for the first quarter include Leslie Ammerman, Lisa DeLap, Jenny Nicholson, Andrea Campbell, Chris Tisdale, Carter Rogalla, Matthew Johnson, Paula Zutz, Cristi Cota, Toni Benson, Becky Jensen, Erika Jensen, Amanda Kennedy, Derek Dahlstrom, Carly Dee, Justin Phillips, Kelsie Sterger, Lisa Hovet, Maren Dyrud, Vicki Bitzegaio, Heather Shafland, Jill Dekkers, Keri Holthusen, Ryan Browning, Jenny Altendorf, Wendy Craig, Kent Larson, Kelly Laden, Ryan Dupree, Travis Torblaa, Odelle Blomker, Nichole Torblaa, Jennifer Olin, Sarah Huschel, Kim Hoefer, Kyle Egenes, Bobbi Dahlstrom, Tony Greene, Keri Krankkala, Brian Fogarty, Kiki Goddard, Laura Williams, Jenny Saustad, Dawn Peterson, Scott Stanins, Alison Peterson, Mandy Johnson, Ami Herbert, Philip Nelson, Alissa Berger, Dan Bjerkness, Rachel Stuchetski, Mandy Sjaaheim, Britt Peterson, Brenda Lutovsky, Sara Olson, Sara Leach, Anne Padilla, Jon Hendrickson, Heather Thompson, Tara Netland, Sarah Hoefer, Leah Helgeson, Myndy Olson, Sara Tyler, Traci Rendulich, Alison Wellbeck, Dana McGeary, Cami Sorenson, Darla Ayers, Jason Fagen, Stacie Kontrzewski, Alyssa Johnson, Misty Nelson, Joni Larson, Becky Phillips, Kassie Westerman, Karen Halsa, Corey Thorson, Wendy Stokke, ReAnn Dargus, Nicole Armstrong, Kristi Boughten, John Gunstad, Jeanne Nelson, Traci Lindberg, Brad Kragness, Melanie Kashian, Angie Tese, Mark Olson, Adam Jacobson, Kermen Ottlolf, Brian Schoon, Jason Homme, Lisa Ulrich, Daniel Spielman, Kelly Gould, Lori Golightly, Dana Dekkers, Melissa Lampe, Lydia Merkens, Robbie Sacck, Carson Quesnell, Ryan Bendickson, Keith Anderson, Becky Mattson, Sarah Holmstrom, Jaynae Stanina, Sarah Maggas, Theresa Giangue, Chris Tvrdbakk, Ben Sjoberg, Corey Olson, Jennifer Duncan, Michelle Stevenson, David Johnson, Kassie Twomey, Steve Rambeck, Tom Kochmann, Sam Adams and Trevor Knutson.

County Crop Improvement unit to meet

Annual meeting of the Pennington County Crop Improvement Association has been scheduled for Tuesday, December 22, at 11 a.m. at the Best Western Inn of Thief River Falls.

Speakers will include Jerry Kruger, area representative for the Minnesota Crop Improvement Association and Carlyle Holen, area crop-pest management agent. Their topics will center on the cost of developing new varieties through the University of Minnesota and recent research of interest to small grain producers.

Anyone interested in joining the Pennington County Crop Improvement Association is encouraged to attend the annual meting. For more information call the Pennington county extension office at 681-2116.

Benefit set at Oklee for Sam Rustan

Benefit pancake feed for the family of Sam Rustan, who is recovering from brain tumor surgery, will be held Sunday, December 20, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Oklee community hall.

Free-will donations will be received and matching funds will be provided by Branches 7093 and 7492 of Aid Association for Lutherans.

Sam is the 13-year-old son of Errol and Jeri Rustan of Oklee. The surgery was performed at Fargo and the family has no medical insurance. Contributions may also be sent to the Sam Rustan Fund at the Security State Bank, Oklee, MN 56742.

From The Times Files of Fifty Years Ago

Open Campaign for Used Nylon, Silk Stockings

"Acting on instructions from the state salvage board, Mrs. J. Arthur Johnson, chairman of women's activities on the Pennington county salvage committee, today appealed to local women to contribute for the use of the War and Navy departments all discarded washed stockings containing silk or nylon. She added that the stockings may be deposited in special boxes in dry goods stores in the city, and that collections will continue for the duration. It was explained that silk and nylon are critically needed for the production of powder bags and for other war materials."

Finding Cream Hard to Whip? Here's the Reason

"Local dairymen this week reminded their patrons that if they find it impossible to whip the cream they are now obtaining, they shouldn't blame the suppliers, who have been ordered by federal authorities not to furnish cream that tests more than 21 per cent butterfat."

Fuel Oil Panel to Meet Wednesday Afternoons

"Having disposed of the first rush of applications, the fuel oil and kerosene panel of the local ration board will pass on ont applications and issue coupons only on Wednesday afternoons at its office in the Central Lumber company, W. W. Prichard, member of the panel, announced today."

Penny Milk Plan Inaugurated

"Effective Monday of this week a penny milk program was inaugurated in the Thief River Falls public and parochial schools, it was announced by John X. Lynskey, executive secretary of the Pennington county welfare board, co-sponsor of the project with Supt. Morris Bye and Rev. A. I. Merth. Under the plan, a child may purchase a half-pint of milk for one cent, there being no limit to the number of bottles which may be consumed. Mr. Lynskey explained that the agricultural marketing administration supplies the subsidy necessary to cover the difference in cost of the milk."

Surgical Dressing Room to Close until January 4

"Due to the arrival of the busy holiday season, the Red Cross surgical dressing workroom in the auditorium will remain closed from Friday of this week until January 4, it was announced today by Mrs. L. W. Raten and Mrs. George W. Werstlein, supervisors of the project. At the same time they expressed thanks to the women who have cooperated thus far, and voiced the hope that many more would render assistance after the holidays."

Tindolph Park Toboggan Slide to Open

"Young people of the community will be interested in the announcement by the city recreation board that the toboggan slide in Tindolph park will be open to use this afternoon. The slide will be supervised by the street department staff under the direction of John Jaranson with the assistance of two WPA workers. It will be available for use on school days from 4 to 6 and from 7 to 10; Saturday 10 to 12, 2 to 6 and 7 to 10 and Sundays 2 to 6 and 7 to 10."

Topics of the Times

—The supply of newsprint is to be reduced in 1943, they tell us. Well, we are prepared to cooperate by eliminating this column for the duration.

—In Egypt a plate over the door means there is a marriageable daughter in the house. In the U.S., says the Baudette Region, honking a horn in front of the house means the same thing.

—The small city of Eveleth recently made up for the coffee shortage by issuing 27 liquor licenses.

—Some of the bureaucrats in Washington may expect to be told where to head in when the new congress convenes.

—The government announces farmers may pay their help up to $200 a month, but it doesn't take any steps to supply the wherewithal.

—Believe it or not: The census bureau tells us there are more Germans in Minnesota than Swedes and Norwegians.

—We join with the Red Lake Falls Gazette in welcoming the respite from a bombardment of free publicity the papers received from the various recruiting agencies until a halt was called on voluntary enlistments.

—The fellow who was dreaming of a white Christmas must have had northern Minnesota in mind.

—Despite the handicap of his cognomen, a man named Hickenlooper recently was elected governor of Iowa.

—A survey conducted by the Baltimore Sun reveals that in these days of fuel rationing an average temperature of 76 degrees is being maintained in federal building in Washington. Someone should make it really hot for those boys.

—To be expected following gas rationing are the numerous reports of gasoline being siphoned out of automobile tanks throughout the state.

—Parents harassed by the Christmas demands of their youngsters might note that the letters in the name Santa make Satan if transposed.

—Another war casualty: Men's shirt tails are now being made several inches shorter.

—You have six more shopping days to regret that you didn't do it earlier.

—War certainly is terrible. Now they're starting to ration liquor in some states.

At the Debating Club

"At the debating club meeting last Friday evening the question 'Is Marriage a Failure?' attracted quite a crowd and was ably argued on both sides. The young men got the worst of it, however as the decision was given in favor of the negative. Next Friday evening the question for the debate will be 'Resolved: that there is more pleasure in pursuit than in possession.' In addition to the debate there is being prepared an interesting program consisting of declamations and music. All are cordially invited to attend."

And Now a Dance Club?

"About a dozen of the boys in the village have started a dancing club. O. F. Post was elected president, W. A. Arthur, secretary; and H. E. Ives, treasurer. The club will give a dance every two weeks during the winter. S. M. Dalaard has contracted with the club to build and have ready before February 1st a hall 24 by 44 which he is to keep for exclusive use of dances and other entertaining."

Happy Birthday, Mabel!

Wednesday Mr. and Mrs. Cheslie Ruud took dinner and birthday cake to Vivian Ruud, at her apartment in Thief River Falls.

Visitors on Tuesday evening at the Alan Severts home were Milton Johnson of Fergus Falls, Doug and Shane Torgerson of Grygla, and Harvey Mugaas.

Karyl Larson and Mrs. Vianna Grondahl of Holt spent the weekend in Fargo. They were overnight guests on Friday at the Clara and Mavis Nymon home, and Saturday overnight guests at the Clifford and Esther Montlath home, and enroute home on Sunday visited at the Susan Kanaar home at Grand Forks.

Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Engevik attended the Gideon Christmas dinner at Karlstad on Monday evening.

Wetland hearings provide variety of testimony

proposed rule sent to county government units and the short period of time allowed for review and comment on the proposed rule. He said that Norman county supports the Association of Minnesota Counties definition of agricultural lands and also supports several other positions taken by that association.

Eugene Hanson, Mahnomen county engineer, added that December is an especially busy month for county commissioners due to budget planning and negotiations and that his commissioners were unable to attend the hearings due to such prior commitments.

Hanson said he was concerned about transportation projects and that "the cost to meet environmental issues is horrendous." He said he would like to see highway projects exempt from the mitigation section of the law, noting that one project in his county had an extra $60,000 in cost due to environmental issues.

He said he felt northwestern Minnesota was being singled out in the rule and complained that few people were allowed to be at meetings while the rule was being formed.

Steven Taylor, who introduced himself as "a full-time farmer—always have been and always hope to be," said he was a member of the Minnesota Conservation Federation, sportsmen groups and several agricultural organizations. He said he believes the agricultural land designation should be applied only to tilled or improved acres and that only historic wetlands should be permitted to be used for mitigation.

Taylor said he supported the idea of a local technical panel to resolve questions on designation of wetlands and predicted that the law will be more greatly appreciated in years to come.

Merle Lundeen, livestock and grain farmer, expressed concern about how wetland designation would be determined. He said aerial photos taken during wet years showed cropland with standing water for seven days or more.

He also questioned conflict between federal and state regulations as they regard wetlands and the federal farm program. He was informed by Greg Larson of the BWSR staff that persons participating in the federal farm program are exempt under the Minnesota law for as long as they participate in the federal program.

A total of 23 persons presented testimony at the afternoon session.

At the evening session, Paul Brutlag and Norma Hanson were introduced as members of the Wetlands Heritage Advisory Committee in attendance. Don Ogaard of Ada, past chairman of the BWSR board, was also introduced.

Ogaard said it was his belief that the wetland act should be "farmer friendly" and that it had caused more discussion than any other issue faced by the board.

Delray Larson, Marshall county commissioner, expressed concerns about ditch maintenance on established ditches which had not been repaired for many years. He said the law may provide that farmers may not be allowed to drain while drainage is a benefit they are already paying for through ditch assessments.

He said the definition of ag land in the law is different in the sections dealing with determination and exemption, and expressed the opinion that legislative intent pointed to a broad definition of the ag land term.

Del Determan, a local resident, questioned whether anyone had fully checked the constitutionality of the wetland law since it appears the restriction of use constitutes a taking of private property.

Gary Huschle, presenting a paper for the Minnesota Chapter of the Wildlife Society, called passage of the wetland law "a courageous break-through." He said the rule under consideration at the hearings must assure no net loss of wetlands and said the society believes that ag land must mean land which has been plowed or tilled. He said loss of wetlands could provide private gain at public expense.

Norma Hanson said it was a very frustrating experience to serve on the Wetlands Heritage Advisory Committee (WHAC) in trying to establish a satisfactory rule. She said she believed hayland and pasture should be included in ag land definition and noted that there is no tax exemption granted for privately owned wetlands. She was concerned with the costs of implementing the act and also feels it could involve a taking of land without compensation.

Daniel Johnson, a member of the Pennington county soil and water conservation district board for 14 years, said he didn't believe the law takes into consideration the diversity of wetlands in Minnesota. He also cited the difference in conservation and preservation, saying that preservation is contrary to nature since things in nature constantly change.

Arnold Stanley, Grygla area farmer, said his concern is with what happens after the law is made from the standpoint of administration. He said past experience shows there are likely to be fights with individuals who interpret the law.

Stanley said he is not against wildlife and that he has 53 acres on his farm that should be entirely wetland but that the first determination was for slightly more than three acres.

"I can live with the 1985 federal law," he said, "but I can't live with the people who administer it."

Gordon Foss of Grygla, a member of the Marshall-Beltrami soil and water conservation district board, said he was speaking personally. He said he knew that problems with wetland determination "are a real headache."

Foss compared the federal program to a carrot on a stick, where there was a benefit if a farmer complied. "With the state program I can't see any benefit," he said.

Paul Brutlag, also a member of the WHAC board, also expressed frustration with the process and said perhaps the best that can be hoped for is for everyone to be mutually unhappy. He said the state legislature which adopted the law "took the easy way out" and left the WHAC to determine the intent of the law.

Regarding ag land definition, it ranges all the way from the contention that everything outside the seven county metro area is ag land to the suggestion that it must be cropped for six out of the past 10 years to qualify.

Under the act a farmer's yard is not ag land, he said, and if there is a Class 1 wetland in the yard it can't be filled to build a machine shed there without mitigation.

Brutlag said determining a wetland is like a person determining pornography—he can't describe it but he knows it when he sees it. He said farmers know what wetlands are and he said a local technical panel should be involved in approval of created wetlands.

Neil McEwen, attorney for the Red Lake Watershed District, said there are conflicts in the laws when ditches not cleaned for 40 years have created wetlands existing for over 20 years. Law provides that ditches can be repaired to their original level, which would drain the created wetlands.

He also said that while the law limits use of no more than five acres out of the wetland bank for replacement he believes there should be no limit on number of acres to be replaced.

Craig Swanson, who farms eight miles west of St. Hilaire, said he believes the only losers in the wetlands act are the farmers. He said dealing with the federal bureaucracy has been a burden and having to deal with the state bureaucracy would be an additional burden. He said that during an appeal process on his farm the wetlands in question "changed dramatically in size, location and type."

Both afternoon and evening hearings concluded with comments from individuals who had not registered to present testimony or who wished to present additional information.

Deadline set for anhydrous plants opment director, said that private businesses and industry are expected to pay their own way. The Revolving loan fund might be one pot of cash which can be tapped, but it wasn't designed for this type of problem. He said he will discuss the issue as a concept with the Community Development Advisory Board.

Dave Kirkeby of Cenex, asked whether the city would be willing to accept any responsibility for the cost of relocation. He also asked if the companies were unable to complete a feasibility plan whether the city would put them out of business.

Heinrichs said she did not envision putting anyone out of business. But, she added, that they had to set a deadline or nothing would get done.

No one was willing to answer whether the city would accept any financial responsibility for the move. That question will be left to the city's attorney.
